Her mother died when Amanda was nine years old and she was left with the responsibility of raising her brothers and sister. She attended the Methodist Church and the school near her home.

Amanda married James Robert Ludwig and the couple lived in West Virginia where Mr. Ludwig worked as a coal miner. They later moved to Sunnyside. They were the parents of seven children, four sons and three daughters. Those still living are Lee Ludwig, Winchester, Va.; Vernard Ludwig, Oakland, and Mary Murphy, Oakland. All events are open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Valentine's Day Signals Beginning Of Tax Assistance

"Valentine's Day will be arriving soon and it also signals the beginning of extended local taxpayer services," Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced recently.

Personnel from the Maryland Income Tax Division will visit locations throughout Maryland beginning on Valentine's Day, February 14, and they will provide a variety of local taxpayer assistance up to the deadline for filing tax returns, April 16.

"Individuals wishing to have their Maryland income tax returns completed free of charge should bring with them a completed copy of their Federal return and all necessary W-2 statements," Mr. Goldstein said.

During the week of February 12-16, the traveling auditors will visit the following locations: Wednesday, February 14 — Denton (Courthouse); Oakland (Courthouse); Elkton (Courthouse); Thursday, February 15 — Denton (Courthouse); Leonardtown (Courthouse); Elkton (Courthouse); and Westernport (City Building).

In addition, all of the permanent offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division will be open Saturday, February 10, 1979 from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and Monday, February 12, 1979, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Most State offices are closed February 12 for Lincoln's birthday.

The addresses and telephone numbers of these offices located throughout Maryland are listed on the back of the Maryland tax packets.

MVA Sets Dates For Tag Renewal

The Motor Vehicle Administration will begin mailing 1979 license tag renewal applications to Maryland's 1.9 million passenger car and motorcycle owners Friday, February 9. Validation stickers will be available at all MVA offices beginning Tuesday, February 13.

The MVA reported, however, that about 80,000 motorists will not receive their tag renewal applications because they either failed to pay parking tickets or comply with safety equipment repair orders by December 1.

Instead, motorists holding outstanding parking tickets will receive a "flagging" letter, similar to a warning letter they previously received, informing them that their tag applications have been withheld, or "flagged," and spelling out the procedure for making payment. Motorists with unsatisfied repair orders already have been notified.

Only after a motorist has cleared up all outstanding parking tickets and repair orders will the MVA issue him a tag application.

MVA also wishes to remind Maryland motorists that under the state's compulsory insurance law, every motor vehicle registered in the state must be insured in the minimum amounts of $20,000/$40,000 for bodily injury, $5,000 for property damage, uninsured motorist coverage in the same amounts, and $2,500 for economic loss. For motorcycles, however, economic loss coverage is not compulsory.

Motorists who have had their policies cancelled or whose insurance applications have been rejected by at least two private companies may apply to the Maryland Automobile Insurance Fund (MAIF), but in any case, they must have the necessary insurance coverage before they can receive their validation stickers.

Noting that the vast majority of Maryland motorists return their tag renewal applications and receive their validation stickers by mail, William T. S. Bricker, Acting Administrator, pointed out that many others fail to heed this advice and find themselves standing in line at an MVA office as the tag expiration deadline approaches.

"Motorists," he said, "need only complete the application form and return it by mail with the required fee and insurance information to receive their stickers within a week or two, and without inconvenience."

But he cautioned that applications received later than March 20 may not be processed in time to meet the March 31 deadline.

"This year March 31 falls on Saturday," Bricker continued, "but that fact in no way affects the deadline for displaying 1979 renewal stickers. In other words, the last day that Marylanders will be able to obtain stickers in person — if they fail to do so by mail — is Friday, March 30; the deadline for displaying the stickers remains midnight, March 31."

Vehicle owners who do not receive their tag applications by the end of February should contact the MVA immediately, giving their present tag number, the vehicle title and vehicle identification number (serial number), full name, and present address.

This information is necessary to enable the computer-printer to print correct applications. For further information motorists should contact the MVA branch office in their vicinity or call the Glen Burnie tag renewal information number . . . 768-1800.

Validation stickers may be purchased from MVA Headquarters in Glen Burnie or at any MVA branch office from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. weekdays. Motorists are reminded, however, that most state offices, including the MVA, will be closed in observance of Lincoln's Birthday, Monday, February 12; Washington's Birthday, Monday, February 19; and Maryland Day, Monday, March 26.

MVA branch offices are located at: Baltimore City, Metro Plaza Building, Mondawmin Shopping Center; Chesapeake City, Route 213, South Chesapeake City; College Park, 5112 Berwyn Road; Cumberland, Route 53, Winchester Road; Forestville, 7801 Parston Drive; Hagerstown, 237 E. Franklin Street; Rockville, 601 Southlawn Lane; Salisbury, Route 50 and Cypress Street; and Waldorf, Route 301 and Garner Road.

For the convenience of Maryland motorists, validation stickers may also be purchased from County Treasurers in Anne Arundel, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot and Worcester County.

Motorists are cautioned against displaying validation stickers before March 1 and reminded that the stickers must be displayed in the upper right-hand corner of all passenger vehicle tags and the lower right-hand corner of all motorcycle tags by midnight, March 31.

You can learn more than spelling while playing with blocks. You can also learn how good and evil are the results of the choices we make.

HAT could have been HATE. And LOVE would then have been incomplete. It all depends on where you put one block.

People who realize the tremendous importance of seemingly small choices want their children to acquire a sense of spiritual responsibility. The churches serving our community respect and fulfill that vital need through religious education and moral training.

When we grow up and put away our blocks, those same churches provide the spiritual foundation on which we build a life of decision-making.

DIVINE MADNESS

Lesson for February 11, 1979

Background Scripture: Acts 26
Devotional Reading: 2 Timothy 2:8-13

Festus, the Roman governor, called it "madness." Paul the Apostle for Jesus Christ called it "the sober truth." You must decide for yourselves which man was correct.

Rev. Althouse

The result of the uproar in Jerusalem and Paul's arrest there is a familiar series of legal delays and confusion. Paul is a prisoner whom no one seems to want in his jail. In Acts 26 we see him appearing before both King Agrippa, the Jewish puppet ruler, and Festus, the representitive of Rome. The purpose of the hearing is probably to decide whose prisoner he is going to be.

Not Disobedient

Paul is glad to appear before Agrippa because, although the king was hardly a good, law-keeping Jew, he had considerable knowledge of orthodox Jewish background. Thus, reasoned Paul, he would be more likely to understand his gospel than the Romans who didn't understand the Jewish faith and the Messianic hope.

Simply, but comprehensively, Paul tells his story, particularly speaking about the great vision he experienced on the road to Damascus. He is quite specific about this experience because it changed the whole course of his life. Surely, Agrippa could understand the importance of visions if Festus, the Roman, didn't!

Furthermore, Paul states that the vision dominated his life from that moment onwards. "Wherefore, O King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision..." (26:20). That statement might very well be the epitaph for his life and ministry. He was not disobedient to the vision! It is what drove him through riots, shipwreck, imprisonment, stoning, beating, etc. His whole life from that point onward was governed by his vision of the Christ on the Damascus Road.

Such As I Am

If Festus — and perhaps Agrippa — found that hard to understand, they were even more astounded when Paul finished by saying he wished that the king and the governor "would become such as I am — except for these chains." Was the man crazy to suggest that these two men of wealth, power and culture would be better off if they were to become like him? Did this crazy man think that with a few words he could convert them to his Christ? No wonder Festus exclaimed: "Paul you are mad; your great learning is turning you mad."

In calling Paul "mad," Festus was really saying: Because I don't understand you, you must be crazy, not me. It is still very much the same today, isn't it? We assume that it we don't understand, it must be the other guy who is mixed-up.

Yes, Paul's words did seem quite absurd, it not mad, but today we realize that it is only because of Paul that we even know of Agrippa and Festus. His vision and his obedience to it have stood the test of time. His divine madness has proven to be the world's only sanity.

WE'VE COME A LONG WAY SINCE GEORGE'S WOODEN TEETH

It seems to be a well documented fact that the Father of the United States, George Washington, had to make do with an uncomfortable set of wooden teeth. But, in those bygone days, most all dentistry was a hit and miss proposition and a trip to the dentist was truly an unwelcome experience.

Modern dentistry is something else, and during the month of February the public spotlight is on the maintenance of good dental health. Schedule an appointment today and you might not have to worry about false teeth (of any material) in the future.

VENUS' SHAPE

Part of the surface of this planet has been mapped from earth by means of radar. The terrain was smoother than earth's terrain, but had craters, a very large volcano, a very large chasm and possibly a rocky desert. Soviet lander spacecraft have confirmed a dry, rocky surface. On a larger scale, the planet's equator is almost a circle. Lack of an irregular shape and a satellite present difficulties to the astronomer's efforts to determine the internal features of this planet.

MOON

Sunday the moon will be at its Full Moon phase. Moonrise will be at 2:12 p.m. today. Tuesday moonrise will be at 7:31 p.m. Most of the week the moon will be waxing.

Saturday at 10:00 p.m. the moon will be 406,410 kilometers (252,580 miles) from earth. This apogee is the greatest separation of earth and moon this month.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn are the visible planets this week. Venus rises about 2½ hours prior to sunrise. Jupiter is among the stars of Cancer rising before sunset and visible most of the night. Saturn rises shortly after sunset. It is among the stars of Leo.

INCREASING DAYLIGHT

Fourteen minutes more daylight will be available next Tuesday. Sunrise was at 7:20 this morning. Sunset will be 10 hours 24 minutes later at 5:44 p.m. At the end of the week, Tuesday, sunrise will be at 7:13 a.m. and sunset will be at 5:51 p.m.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

There is probably no companion animal today with a wider variety of prepared food at its disposal than the cat. Cans and packages of moist, dry, single ingredient and combination style pet foods line the shelves of the supermarket. Theoretically, these should fill the nutritional needs and food preferences of any fickle feline.

However, these needs and preferences change when the cat becomes ill, and a special diet can often help combat the effects of a disease. In managing a disease through diet control, the cat owner should try to provide enough nutrients for good health while reducing strain on the weakened portion of the cat's body.

Certain conditions, such as bladder or heart disease, may require that the pet eat a modified diet for the rest of its life. Other problems such as occasional diarrhea or vomiting need a special diet for a short time. Your veterinarian can explain in detail why your cat's eating habits should change during illness.

Diarrhea is often a sign of a major intestinal disorder in pets. Even after the cause of the disease is removed, the irritated portion of the digestive tract may take some time to heal. Foods high in protein, low in fat and containing little fiber are appropriate, like lean beef or poultry, small quantities of milk or bland cheese, even a good quality single ingredient cat food. Only small amounts of food and water should be fed for the first few days of convalescence.

A surprising number of cats have food allergies, which cause rashes, scabbiness and other skin eruptions. Fish, certain meats and cereal products are the most common causes. Generally, the cat needs a very bland diet—perhaps only cooked rice and a single type of meat—until the source of the allergy is identified. A bland diet usually includes a good vitamin and mineral supplement.

Heart disease is occasionally seen in older cats. Excess fluid around the heart and in the legs forces the heart to work harder and faster. Immediate relief comes from the use of veterinary prescription drugs followed by a salt-free diet. Lean beef, chicken, egg yolks, oatmeal and rice are acceptable foods; processed meats, organ meat, cereals and bread should be avoided.

Cats love to nibble at their food, eating several times a day. Pets on special diets benefit by repeated feedings throughout the day as compared to once-a-day feedings. Moist, soft cat food tends to dry out and become less palatable.

Several diet modifications are known to help the male cat which concentrates mineral deposits in the urethra (the channel draining the urinary bladder). If your veterinarian diagnoses this as a problem, you may be directed to stop feeding the cat foods containing whole fish or ground bone. The magnesium and phosphorus in these foods contribute to the sandy deposits which block the flow of urine. Second, because highly concentrated urine promotes stone formation, increase the cat's water consumption. Your veterinarian may wish to add salt to your cat's diet to promote thirst. Third, if your cat will accept the change, you may be directed to switch to a moist canned food, as these contain much more water than the dry or semi-moist varieties. Your veterinarian may suggest vitamin A and B-complex supplements also.

Each of these diets gives the cat energy and nutrients, aids its quick recovery, and does not add further strain to weakened body systems. Don't be shy about talking with your veterinarian about your convalescing pet's needs. The better you understand the purpose and need for a special diet, the better you can help your cat.

Man Sentenced To Six Years

Two hearings took place in Circuit Court last Wednesday before Judge Fred A. Thayer.

Gary Jenkins, of Markleysburg, Pa., was committed to the Commissioner of Correction for six years. At the hearing last week the commitment was changed so that he is to serve the balance of the term at the Allegany County jail and then in the Garrett County jail when it is completed. He was involved in a charge of armed robbery.

Lydia J. Friend and Doris Friend, both of Friendsville, failed to make full restitution as ordered at a trial last March. At the hearing last week both were ordered to pay fines and make restitution as of that date. They were involved in charges of larceny.

Alcohol/Highway Safety Program Now Underway

In last week's addition of The Republican, a news release from the Maryland Alcohol Control Administration reported a new highway safety education program that will provide information on alcohol abuse to every junior high school in the state.

The article requested that persons who are concerned about a child they think may have an alcohol problem should call the Alcohol Control ..... iinistration.

Mary Love, administrative director, Mental Health & Addictions Services, Garrett County Health Department, suggests that all inquiries be directed to the Health Department at 334-8111. Contacting the local department will facilitate a response and save toll charges.

RESA Begins Effort To Increase College Enrollment

George Allen, executive director of the Regional Education Service Agency, and the RESA Advisory Council will be directing efforts toward initiating a carefully planned joint effort by five colleges and three boards of education to increase the number and percentage of western Maryland people who participate in higher education.

The five RESA-member higher education institutions are Garrett Community College, Allegany Community College, Frostburg State College, Hagerstown Junior College and the University of Maryland.

Admissions, financial aid, public relations personnel and others from these educational institutions will join forces with directors of guidance in the three county Boards of Education to organize the effort to increase enrollments. This effort will require publication and dissemination of information concerning the four colleges, as well as other activities, and funding will be necessary from the colleges involved.

Action to initiate the effort was decided upon at the February RESA meeting. Dr. Donald Alexander is chairman of RESA and dean of Academic Programs at Allegany Community College.

Impetus for the cooperative effort came from papers presented by Dr. Thomas M. Edwards, Director of Institutional Research and Planning at Frostburg State College. His work revealed that the participation rate from western Maryland in Maryland colleges was about half the statewide average.

Dr. Edwards had presented papers on Static and Declining Enrollments at a RESA workshop conducted in December of last year. His analysis and that of the state plan for higher education reveals a rather low undergraduate enrollment, which showed that two to three thousand potentially eligible students in the three counties are not enrolled.

Dr. Edwards concluded that this low participation rate could be the result of insufficient information by high school students and their parents. He indicated the actual cost of college with financial aid could be considerably lower than the price of college in the college catalogs. He feels the knowledge of career opportunities needs to be enhanced and the advantages of going to public colleges in Maryland should be publicized.

These concerns were reiterated at the workshop by Dr. Eric Brown from the New Hampshire Consortium on Colleges. They instituted a program such as proposed for this region, and their program dramatically affected their declining enrollments by increasing local as well as out-of-state participation. This area proposes to utilize some of their techniques in its cooperative effort. Cooperative admissions and the promotion of the attainment of financial aid seem particularly suitable for application in this region, according to Dr. Edwards.

A preliminary meeting of the joint group or task force of admission directors, financial aid administrators and others will be held in March. Dr. Edwards will stress his analysis with this group in order for the group to plan its cooperative thrust, and Dr. Brown may be invited to subsequent meetings so the group may benefit from his group's knowledge and successes.

Farmers Spend $100 Billion To Produce Crops

U. S. farmers spent almost $100 billion in 1977 to produce crops, livestock, and poultry, topping the previous year's $89 billion level. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service, this averages over $35,000 per farm, nationally.

Feed, accounting for over $14.5 billion, was the major expenditure, followed by livestock and poultry purchases at $10.2 billion; rent at $8.1 billion; wages at $7.9 billion; and fertilizer, lime, and soil conditioners at $6.9 billion. During February and March, enumerators from the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service will interview a cross section of Maryland and Delaware farmers as part of a nationwide program to determine 1978 production costs.

John Witzig, State Statistician, notes that along with questions concerning outlays for equipment, services, and other production needs, some farmers will be asked about the kinds of places where they buy feed, fuel, fertilizer, pesticides, feeder animals, and other major production inputs. Witzig points out that information about farm production outlays is important in comparing the farmer's well-being with that of other groups in the nation's economy. He adds that all responses will be confidential and only state and national summaries will be published.

Mathias Proposes Bill To Protect Newsmen, Citizens From Searches

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has introduced legislation to protect newsmen and other private citizens not suspected of criminal activity from surprise searches of their homes and offices.

In the Zurcher v. Stanford Daily case, in May, 1978, the Supreme Court upheld the police search of the Stanford University student newspaper offices for evidence relevant to a crime. None of the staff of the newspaper had been implicated in the crime under investigation.

The Zurcher decision "came as a shock," Senator Mathias said. "Congress must enact legislation that responds fully to Zurcher. It must establish procedures restricting searches of all non-suspects by federal, state and local officials."

Senator Mathias explained that the legislative proposals of the Carter Administration are not broad enough in their protections, and the bills introduced in the 95th Congress would not effectively deter illegal searches in the future and provide compensation for victims of searches.

The Maryland Senator emphasized that "the ramifications of Zurcher do not stop with the press. Zurcher raises the specter of police entering a non-suspect's home or office in search of evidence of a crime committed by someone else.

"It also provides the means for government agents to breach the confidential relations between doctor and patient, lawyer and client, and priest and penitent."

The Maryland Senator's bill would bar non-suspect searches except in extraordinary circumstances—such as where there is reason to believe the evidence sought by police would be destroyed.

In the absence of such special circumstances, an individual would, under the Mathias bill, be able to go to court and raise any objections he has to a police request, including a claim that the material in question is privileged.

Newsmen have argued that if their ability to collect news and protect news sources — which they have felt is necessary for them to fulfill their responsibilities under the First Amendment to the Constitution—is destroyed, much corruption and wrongdoing would remain unknown to the public.

"The American people have every right to believe that, barring extraordinary circumstances, warrants cannot be used to search the homes and offices of non-suspects," the Senator said.

"They have a right to expect that surprise searches of non-suspects are the exception, not the norm; and that ordinarily third parties would have an opportunity to press their objections to the government's request in court."

Senator Mathias, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, believes the proposals of the Carter administration to offset the Supreme Court's decision do not go far enough, though he has commended the administration for proposing protection not only for the establishment press but the street corner pamphleteer as well.

But the Maryland Senator insists that protection against searches must not be only for the press. He rejects the argument of the Department of Justice that such an approach would frustrate legitimate law enforcement activities.

"I have reviewed the recommendations of the Department of Justice meticulously and I have taken great pains to draft a proposal which strikes an appropriate balance between law enforcement needs and press interests," he explained.

Senator Mathias stated that his bill would be more likely to deter searches and to insure adequate compensation than proposals introduced in the last Congress.

Unlike earlier proposals, under which only the offending officer could be sued, the Mathias bill provides that both the officer and the government entity which employes him could be brought into court and sued for damages.

Senator Mathias pointed out that this change would have two positive effects. First, with the threat of financial liability hanging over their heads, federal, state and local governments would have greater incentive to instruct their officers on the limitations imposed by law on non-suspect searches.

Second, it would also insure that a person victimized by a police officer who is unable to pay for damages awarded by a court, could turn to the government entities for compensation.

Senate hearings on remedial legislation were held last year by the Sub-committee on Constitution of the Judiciary Committee chaired by Senator Birch Bayh (D-Ind.). More than a dozen bills were introduced in the last Congress. Further hearings are expected to be held by the Bayh Committee and in the House.

Straight Talk About Aging

Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging

THOUGHTS ON RETIREMENT

There's an unfortunate stereotype of retirement. It develops something like this: retirement equals old age; old age equals physical infirmity, mental confusion, and loneliness; therefore, retirement must itself be a condition of misery.

Today, that stereotype no longer reflects reality — if, in fact, it ever did. Gerontologists (those scientists who study the aging process) have made it clear that ideas about aging must be separated from ideas about disease. Aging is an entirely separate phenomenon and must be viewed as a lifelong process over which we now have a great deal of control.

A danger is that we allow the old, largely discredited stereotype to linger in our minds. A greater danger, however, is that we allow the stereotype to become a prototype for our own retirements. That must never happen.

Instead, we must look upon our retirement years in the same way we looked at our years of education or our years of work. We must realize the opportunities these years can hold for us, and we must plan to make the most of them. Life, after all, is a continuum, and one's post-working years are an important part of it. They are years that are substantial in number; an average of 16 for those who retire at 65, and full of potential in terms of meaning and satisfaction. They are years that can be extraordinarily fulfilling.

Activity is the key to that fulfillment.

An exhaustive series of studies conducted by University of Chicago gerontologists indicated without doubt that, other things being equal, people who are most satisfied with themselves are those who remain involved and engaged in close personal relationships throughout their lives. They found that happiness generally (but not always, of course) goes hand in hand with higher levels of activity. Boredom, it seems, is the real enemy of the retiree — and boredom can be combatted in so many ways!

The first thing to do is clear one's mind of that old stereotype — the notion that retirement, because it heralds the onslaught of "old age," must automatically result in inactivity.

The truth is, as a recent Gallup poll has shown, 80 per cent of all people over 60 are physically able to do anything they wish.

Deciding upon what you want to do, therefore, should occupy a good deal of your thought in the years immediately prior to your retirement.

What you do, naturally, will depend in large part on your own personality. After all, you're not going to become some sort of "new person" just because you're leaving a job. If you've always been a loner, the first morning of your retirement isn't likely to see you wake up as a gregarious joiner. If you've always been competitive, that urge won't vanish either.

First, then, evaluate yourself; carefully assess your likes and dislikes.

Next, evaluate your financial situation. You might, for instance, begin to make plans for a part-time job, or set up a consulting arrangement in order to continue to live comfortably.

Whatever you decide to do, though, remember that experts in this area recommend that your retirement activities bring you some of the same satisfactions you got in work.

The same experts suggest that those activities display continuity, so you can return to them again and again; that they also be varied enough so you won't get bored; and that they make you feel that you're still growing and developing, which, of course, is precisely what you will be doing.

It is also important to realize that the quality of the time your retirement activities occupy should be as important a consideration as the quantity of time they consume.

One's retirement program is in large part a psychological and emotional replacement for time previously spent in service to family and job. It should be just as rewarding, and it can be if you approach it creatively, with a sense of excitement and an expectation of good things yet to come.

Weather Is Wet, Cold In January

There were 28 days of precipitation, rain or snow. The heaviest rain day was the day of the ice storm, the 21st, which knocked out many power lines. Most of the precipitation fell on 24 days as snow which added up to 39 inches or 23.8 inches above normal. The heaviest snow day was the 6th with 7.0 inches. The next heaviest was the 28th with 6.0 inches. The 1978-79 snowfall to January 31 stands at 48 inches.

Temperatures averaged 6.5 degrees below normal. Highs averaged 31.9 degrees or 7.1 below normal. The high was 46 degrees on the 8th. The mercury stood at a high of 33 degrees the 21st and 22nd, the days of the ice storm. The coldest day was the 11th when the mercury got up to only 19 degrees.

Lows averaged 13.6 degrees or 5.8 degrees below normal. The low for the month was minus seven degrees on the 3rd. It was minus one degree, each, on the 4th and 9th. Only on the 1st did the mercury stay above the freezing mark.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

USEFUL DRUGS MAY CAUSE REACTIONS

Illness caused by drugs is sometimes reported in press. When such reports appear, many individuals become concerned about the safety of their medicines.

It is true that an occasional person does have an adverse reaction to some drug, the American Medical Association points out. It is also true that some drugs tend to produce more adverse reactions than others. Penicillin, the life-saving wonder drug that quickly halts pneumonia and many other serious illnesses and infections, produces adverse reactions in possibly one person of every twenty. But penicillin still saves thousands of lives every year.

The pharmaceutical manufacturers are constantly studying drugs, determining their safe and effective doses, learning of their side effects, and advising physicians and pharmacists about their safe use, as well as their potential dangers.

Patients should feel free to take the drug the doctor prescribes. But they should let their doctors know about any adverse reactions. If the patient believes the reaction is not usual, he should report to the physician immediately and stop taking the medicine until the doctor can advise him.

Modern drugs are a far cry from the herbs and incantations of the tribal medicine man. They are much more potent and effective in halting disease and relieving discomfort. And for that reason they must be used with care and respect. Used properly, under a physician's direction, modern drugs can truly perform modern miracles.

Allegany-Garrett Firemen Planning June Convention

The annual convention of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association was the major item of business discussed Sunday at its monthly meeting held at Potomac Fire Company No. 2 in Westernport. A total of 26 fire departments and 15 past presidents were present.

The annual convention will be held June 2 in Westernport. Potomac firemen had previously requested that the convention be held Friday night and Saturday, June 1 and 2, but it will only be held one day.

The convention will include a memorial service at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport. Meetings will be held at the Westernport School and meals will be served at the Potomac Fire Department.

In additional business, announcements were made of several coming events. The Spring Dance will be held March 31 at the Clarysville Inn. Music will be provided by the Chinese Bandits and reservations are being accepted by Donald Broome, 729-1046. Door prizes are being requested from each department.

The Communications Committee will meet March 21 at Barton and channel guards will be placed on radios at Civil Defense. Allegany and Garrett County fire departments will need the same equipment on their radios, so all companies are asked to report the number of channel guards they need. A bid will then be requested so a fairer price might be obtained.

The committee is also arranging to take all firemen's blood pressure in the near future.

The legislative committee will meet at the Goodwill Fire Company, Lonaconing, on February 28 at 7:30 p.m.

The annual fire department smoker will be held Saturday, April 21, at Barton. Barton Fire Department was awarded the bid Sunday. David E. Kirk and Francis Fatkin will be in charge of tickets and invitations; Mike Walters and Dennis Hamilton, entertainment; and Donald Ware, ways and means.

An invitation was extended by the Tri-State Claimsmen Association to attend a dinner on March 6 at Geatz's Restaurant. At the time, Carl J. Natole, president of United Builders' Association, will speak. Those interested in attending should call Jerry Willison or John Robeson by February 22. Natole is an arsonist expert.

Dennis Hamilton, present treasurer of the association, announced he will seek the office of vice president during the convention in June.

It was announced participation in various classes is open and any interested fireman is asked to call Joseph McDaniel of the University of Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute at 724-4970. A tactics class will open in Midland in March and another tactics class will start February 26 in Oakland. A special fires class is presently being organized in LaVale.

License applications are being distributed by the Department of Motor Vehicles on February 10, and all fire departments interested in obtaining fire department tags should bring their applications and checks to the Bowling Green Fire Department on or before February 7.

Robert Stevenson, president of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, was in charge of the meeting. Following the meeting, dinner was served by the Potomac firemen. The next meeting will be March 4 at Bloomington.

Ten of Mrs. Buckel's eleven children, along with the grandchildren, were present. David Buckel and family of Richmond, Va., were the only members of the family unable to attend. The family bought her a tape recorder with tapes of her favorite songs. Refreshments were served to the guests present.

Western Maryland Seeking Bayard Station Reduction

The Western Maryland Railway last week petitioned the West Virginia Public Service Commission for authority to discontinue several agency stations, including one at Bayard, W. Va., thus reducing them to non-agency stations.

Bayard, presently an agency freight station, would be served out of the rail's only station to remain an agency station in West Virginia under the proposed set-up-Grafton, 48.5 miles west of Bayard.

The company stated that if the application is approved "There will be no change in the train service and no facilities will be removed. Further, the railroad will pay the costs of any telephone calls necessary for the new alignment of stations."

There will continue to be a trainmaster located at the Bayard station for the handling of train operations.

Other stations affected by the application are Wilson, Thomas, Gatzmer, Henry, Pierce, and Stony River, W. Va., and Standard and Wilson in Maryland.

The Railway proposes to place the Chafee, Harrison, Blaine, and Potomac Manor stations in West Virginia and the Steyer, Md. station under the jurisdiction of the Luke agency station.

Proper petitions for the transaction will be filed with the Public Service Commission of Maryland. Persons desiring to protest the request of the railroad may do so by contacting the PSC in Charleston. If no protests are received, the PSC may grant the application without a hearing.

The Newt Reams Story

One Hundred Years Of Hard Work And Happiness

NEWT AND DUKE relax near the pot belly stove that heats the one-room country store on the Oakland-Sang Run Road. Newt Reams, owner of Reams Store, will be 100 years old tomorrow, February 8. He loves animals and people and has never been without either all his life. He is especially fond of his pet dog, Duke, who was his companion on many long hikes in his younger days. Customers very often will catch Newt in the act of sneaking a piece of candy to his dog, that is, when he isn't sneaking a "Newt sucker" to children who visit his store.

By Beverly J. Sincell

The wind is whipping the snow outside and forcing temperatures to below zero, but inside Reams' Store, ninety-nine year old Newt Reams has stoked the pot belly stove and is sitting nearby enjoying the warmth. Tomorrow is an important day for him, he will be one hundred years old.

His birthday party will be held right in his store on the Oakland-Sang Run Road, which is just the way Newt will enjoy it, that way he can keep the store open. He likes the store to be open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, says his daughter, Adra Hinebaugh, who works with him in the store. "Can't serve people if you've got the door locked," Newt has been heard to say.

And during the festivities, Newt will probably wait on a few of his regular customers who seem to enjoy the old-time hominess of the little country store. Who wouldn't enjoy coming into Newt's store when it is almost like walking into his home? As they enter his store, his customers are greeted with the aroma of fresh baked bread, the friendliness of Newt's people, and the invitation to sit for a spell around the pot belly stove and chat.

No, Newt probably won't neglect his regular activities on his birthday, which include helping to fill the soft drink coolers, stoking the fire, waiting on people behind the counter and counting the day's profits.

Newt's customers have to speak a little louder these days to be heard and they have to catch him in just the right mood if they want to sit and let him reminisce about his younger days, but they will all say they think Newt is remarkably healthy for his age. He has been to the hospital only once in his life when he went in for an x-ray one afternoon.

Over all these years, Newt has remained a married man. He was married in 1905 and has lived with the same woman ever since. Daisy, his wife, is 96 years old and is just as healthy and clear-minded as her husband. She is quick to tell the secret to their longevity. She emphatically says it was "hard work" which has kept them alive and in good health.

Newt and Daisy have seven children, sons Harland and Hugh, and daughters Holice Sanders, Una George, Audra Hinebaugh, Adra Hinebaugh and Nina Reams, all still living and in the Oakland area, who give different reasons for the long life and good health of their parents. Adra says she takes good care of them. Sister Nina mentioned that they eat oatmeal every morning. Still others say, "You've got to give the Lord a lot of credit."

Whatever the reasons, Newt doesn't seem to worry about them, he is still enjoying his life. Actually, he has never let many things trouble him. "He was always jolly," said Nina. "He still is."

Nor does Newt seem to worry whether he has accomplished all he wanted in his life. "He has always done what he wanted to do," Nina said.

He has done a lot in his lifetime. At age fourteen he began construction work and has worked at various jobs over the years. Before he opened up his store, Newt had been in the logging business, run a saw mill, cut shingles and served, along with Daisy, as postmaster. "I did a little of everything," Newt said.

Some of Newt's fondest memories include the days he spent talking with men such as Thomas Edison, former president Warren G. Harding, and Henry Ford during their frequent camping trips to Swallow Falls. Adra says a recording of Newt's account of his acquaintance with Henry Ford is supposed to be on exhibit at the Ford Museum in Detroit, Michigan, but no one in the family has had the opportunity to hear it.

Newt likes to tell of the time he sold a couple of steam engines to Henry Ford. "There were no hard roads back when he was here," Newt explained. "They were all mud roads. They loaded those engines in a boxcar drawn by horses. They got in the mud and they had to get the boy (not identified) to pull them out." Newt paused a moment to chuckle as he remembered what the boy had to say to Mr. Ford. "The boy told Ford he ought to have a car like his Dad had. He said, he can make it go through there a Hell'n."

Newt can remember when the first road was built in Garrett County, in fact, he helped to build it. "The first main road we built," said Newt, "was from Oakland to Kings Run—about four mile."

He also was involved in the construction of Deep Creek Lake. He had horses which he either traded or leased for work. "I had four teams on it (lake construction) for awhile," he said.

Now, Newt fills his days with teasing his wife ("You don't know where I could get another woman do you?" he'll ask when she is within hearing distance), keeping track of his family (besides his seven children, he has 42 grandchildren, 59 great grandchildren, and five great-great grandchildren), minding the store and, from time to time, imparting a bit of his wisdom. Except Newt doesn't like to give too much advice to others, because "They wouldn't take it if I gave it to them."

If he were to give advice on how to vote, he would probably advise to vote Republican. "I'm a strong Republican," he admitted. His favorite president was Eisenhower, but he also liked Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford.

He believes that life is too easy today, "They've got machinery to do your work now, you don't have to work as hard." Overall, he thinks people today are "all right" but he thinks they eat too much junk food. "Why don't they cook up some cabbage, taters and beans?" he asks.

Newt and Daisy celebrated their seventy-third wedding anniversary this past fall. Daisy says that is a long time to live with one person. The kids will report that "Mom was the real pusher in the family."

Daisy agrees and says "I've done a lot of his work." And, since she had seven years of school, she was the one who taught Newt to multiply, divide and subtract. Yet, the kids say, "When it came to figurin', no one was better than Dad."

The years have been good to Newt and Daisy Reams and so have their many friends. Even many young people who have moved away call up to say hello. The couple has received letters from President Jimmy Carter, and former presidents Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon, congratulating them on their wedding anniversaries. Former Maryland Governor Marvin Mandel came to the mountaintop to have his picture taken with the couple on their seventieth wedding anniversary. Another honor the couple has received was the recent recognition by the Pepsi-Cola Company for being the oldest living Pepsi-Cola customers in the nation.

Newt has lived during a period of great change for the United States, yet to him the most important thing was the well-being of his family. As he told his daughters, "It kept me busy tryin' to get something to eat for you fellers."

Newt and Daisy still show a lot of concern for their children and welcome their frequent visits. Of course, they welcome the visits of all who come to their store—friends and strangers. They have received visits from people from many places, some drawn by the warmth of the Reams, some drawn by the fame of the Longhorn cheese the Reams keep in stock. They say many tourists who visit the area stop in to buy some of their famous cheese. Even children have a special reason for visiting the Reams—they call it the Newt sucker. Any sucker Newt gives is a Newt sucker, it's a tradition.

People go to Reams' store for many reasons, but mainly to visit. Tomorrow, the store will probably be crowded—Newt will be one hundred years old and he may be in the mood to tell stories.

IN BUSINESS SINCE 1924 — Newt Reams has operated a grocery store in the Swallow Falls area since 1924. Newt worked in a variety of occupations before settling in the grocery business. He was recently recognized by the Pepsi-Cola Company as the oldest living customer of Pepsi-Cola in the nation.

"Single Again" Group To Begin On February 15

A group for those who are separated, divorced, or widowed will be sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department. The group will begin on February 15, at 5:00 p.m. and will run for five consecutive weeks. Ms. Kathy Wright, psychologist, will be the instructor.

Ms. Wright stated that the group is being established because "the process of separation from or loss of a loved one is very difficult for most people. Many people experience depression, guilt, anger, loneliness and loss of a sense of direction. It has been found that mutual sharing of these feelings is beneficial in the separation process."

A person wishing to join this group should contact the Health Department at 334-8111 before February 14. The group will be limited to a maximum of 12 people. If there are more than 12 people interested in attending the "Single Again" group, a second group will be formed at a later date. It is expected that each participant will attend all five sessions.

Some of the topics which may be discussed in the group will involve such issues as: in-laws, parents, children, economics, new identity, new relationships and relating to the ex-spouse or companion.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. I have Nationwide homeowners' insurance on my property which increases in coverage each year as replacement costs increase. Last year, the actual replacement cost, as determined by my insurance company, went up $1,900. Yet, the assessment on my property, and on a fifty percent basis, increased $2,440. Why?

A. You can, with caution, use your insurance coverage as a gauge in determining the validity of your assessment provided you understand the distinction between the two and the limits of each.

Your insurance is based on the replacement value of your home. Replacement value means the cost of rebuilding your home on its existing foundation. To be fully protected, your insurance must be tied to the replacement value, and your homeowner's policy agrees to repay you fully in case of a loss only after the amount of insurance clearly reflects the replacement value. If it does not, payment to you could be on a depreciated or prorated basis, and it would be up to you to provide the difference to rebuild your home. For example, if you have your home insured for only fifty percent of its value and your loss is $20,000, your insurance will only cover one-half of the loss, or $10,000.

There are numerous kinds of insurance policies offered by many different companies. Many policies cover not only the dwelling but personal property as well. Some include an amount for additional living expenses. Many of them include some kind of liability coverage that has no relationship to value. The insurance will not cover the land because, even in total loss, the land remains and the foundation usually still exists. Insurance is designed to protect against possible future losses. People have different concepts of the coverage that they should take, and they arrive at their separate estimates of the value of their property. They learn quickly, after a loss, whether or not the decision was correct.

The assessment, on the other hand, is based upon market value, that is, what you might expect to receive if you sold your home today. The estimate is made by a disinterested party — an assessor — who has no ownership interest in your property. The assessment is based upon historical sales data which automatically induce at least a one-year lag in absorbing the effect of inflation, and it includes a value on the land.

In making your comparison, for your own protection, pull out that portion in the insurance package that specifically relates to the dwelling only and compare this with the assessment on the improvements, which means the dwelling and other structures. Do not compare it with the total assessment which includes the land.

Generally, you will find that insurance costs are rising more rapidly than the assessment because the fact is, the cost of replacing your home (basis of insurance) could be substantially greater than the cost of buying another one just like it (basis of assessment). According to one large insurance company, construction costs alone have risen thirty percent in the last three years.

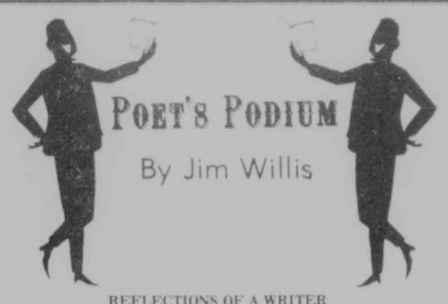
Do not insure your home on the basis of your assessment. The risks are too great.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to Assessment Answers — James Burley in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd G. Broadwater, Jr., Swanton, became the parents of a son Monday, January 29, in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.



REFLECTIONS OF A WRITER

To capture the elusive
(so I thought)
With trembling hands to own it,
if only for a restless moment;
To boast possession, even fleetingly,
of sparkling fantasy distilled to words;
To parent and protect my tiny scraps of ingenuity
Would surely justify my being
(so I thought).
And I haven't captured.
And even less distilled.
For the brilliance of the moment binds me, and I sit a captivated prisoner
craving the expression —
But mutely awed instead.

Asbestos Problem Being Investigated In State Schools

The problem of asbestos coatings on ceilings and mechanical installations in Maryland schools and the potential health risks to students is being investigated by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Environmental Health Administration (EHA), according to Dr. Benjamin D. White, Assistant Secretary of Health.

Dr. White said that, Dr. Max Eisenberg, EHA Acting Director and Dr. David Fouts, of the EHA's Division of Environmental and Industrial Disease Control, have met with the representatives of the Maryland Department of Education and Montgomery and Prince George's counties to discuss potential health hazards, identification and suggestions for abatement of asbestos problems. This meeting, Dr. White said, has drawn up draft guidelines for addressing these questions.

Dr. White further reported that Dr. Fouts will be attending a February 6 meeting at the Atlanta (Ga.) office of the federal Environmental Protection Agency, which will deal with specific areas of this problem. Out of that meeting will come a final version of the State's guidelines for dealing with the asbestos problems in schools.

Dr. Fouts said these guidelines will then be distributed to all schools through the Department of Education, and will result in the holding of regional seminars for school maintenance personnel on how to identify asbestos presence, how to collect samples and methods of asbestos-presence abatement.

Dr. White emphasized that the State's Council on Toxic and Carcinogenic Substances is a functioning body already dealing with such matters, and "is a proper forum for further investigation and abatement of asbestos health hazards wherever they may occur."

St. Peter's Catholic Church was the setting for the marriage of Rhonda Lewis, to Timothy Shaffer on November 25, 1978. Father Martin Feild officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, and escorted to the altar by her father. She was attired in a full-length gown with chapel hemline. Seed pearls and sequins decorated the full cuffed sleeves and the scalloped neckline. Lace appliques trimmed the Juliette cap and full-length veil of illusion. She carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations and miniature burgundy roses with baby's breath. Her only jewelry was an Austrian crystalline cross given to her by her parents.

Bridal attendants were matron of honor Cynthia Evans, sister of the groom, and Angela Lewis, sister of the bride. They wore identical dusty rose floor-length gowns with matching lace on the tiered skirts and satin ribbon shoulder ties, and carried bouquets of pink spider mums and white carnations and baby's breath. The flower girl was Jennifer Evans, niece of the groom. She was attired in a floor-length burgundy velvet dress with white eyelet pinafore and carried a basket of burgundy rose petals. Sean Foley was ring bearer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Foley.

Judy Custer sang "If" accompanied on the organ by Rebecca Bowman. Serving as best man was Hugh B. Shaffer, brother of the groom. Ushers were George Lazuski and Richard Strayer II.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Oakland fire hall. June Rosage served the four-tiered cake, decorated with rose buds and carnations between layers, and Alice and Debbie Reeves presided at the punch bowls.

For travel the bride wore a burgundy wrap-around dress with her corsage lifted from the cake. The couple now resides at McLean, Virginia where Mrs. Shaffer is employed at European Health Spa and Mr. Shaffer is attending Data Processing Institute.

Rhonda is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lewis and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lewis, Oakland, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fickes, Bloomington. Timothy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Shaffer, Oakland and the grandson of Mrs. Joseph E. Boden, Cumberland.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 102 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1979 | PER COPY 20c | NUMBER 51

This Is Not An Editorial

This space is normally reserved for an editorial. In fact, this is probably the first time in the 105-year history of The Republican that an editorial has not filled this slot. The reason there is not an editorial is two-fold.

First of all, the Editor didn't come to work yesterday. The Editor usually writes the editorial . . . no one else wants to do it. Our Editor was prevented from doing his usual 12-hour Tuesday stint, by a very small child. Matthew Robert Sincell began clamoring to be born yesterday morning and arrived at around 1 p.m. There went our whole routine!

Secondly, there is nothing to editorialize on. One glance at today's "Letters to the Editor" will document that. In addition, no one will cooperate around here. There is a bevy of flustered aunts and uncles, grandmothers and grandfathers running around.

A birth is a joyous occasion, and generally much nicer to discuss than any other type of news. Besides, it's Valentine's Day, and we're all too busy walking around starry-eyed to read an editorial.

In closing, let me say Happy Valentine's Day and Happy Birthday, Matthew — oh, and I'm sorry about the editorial.

Amidst Growing Bypass Opposition Stanton Proposes Alternate Route

by Jim Willis

For several weeks now a controversy has raged over the proposed Route 219 Bypass. Despite the fact that a Bypass has been in the active planning stages for at least six years, it is just now coming to the forefront.

Proponents of the Bypass project cite improved traffic movement and "system continuity" among their supportive reasoning. Opponents name devaluation of property, destruction of farmland, and the wasting of federal tax dollars among their arguments.

Perhaps of particular concern is the several year span of apathy that accompanied the proposition. Often accepted as mute public approval of the project, it is just recently that widespread opposition to the Bypass has become adamant.

Partially due to that outspokeness, several factions have reconsidered their original positions. The Oakland Mayor and Town Council recently withdrew their support of the project and amended it to oppose the present alignment of the proposed bypass.

Even such high-ranking supporters as Senator Edward J. Mason seem to be wavering from their original positions. Mason recently wrote a constituent, "In the past, my position has been in support of the Bypass. However, the points discussed in your letter, and in other letters I have recently received in connection with the Bypass, not only merit consideration but, also, show growing opposition to the Bypass."

The Garrett County Planning Commission is scheduled to meet on February 20 to make a decision on whether or not to reverse its original support of the Bypass.

Subsequently, the Garrett County Commissioners will reach a decision sometime after the February 20 meeting.

While both sides may have merit in their arguments, they generally fall into a "build" or "don't build" category. In these final days, at least one other alternative is being offered.

Authored by Oakland Town Council president, James R. Stanton, it is a proposal for a new Bypass or "bell-line" to be constructed to the west of Oakland.

The following interview was conducted Tuesday with Stanton, concerning the presently proposed Bypass and his western alternative.

WILLIS — Although I don't believe that the proposed Bypass was ever very actively supported, except by a few individuals, it was never publicly opposed until now. Why this radical change in public sentiment?

STANTON — The Bypass has been in the planning stage for about 20 years, but the real work has been done on it in the last six to eight years. The plan was a good one then, but the "impact" area has changed during this period. During the past couple of years, the area around the Bypass has become a very nice residential area with churches, schools, apartments, and homes. We know right now how this area is developing; we don't have to guess. If the Bypass goes in this area now, it will be a case of the "tail wagging the dog," with the result being a changed development pattern.

WILLIS—What is the purpose of this proposed Bypass... what was the reasoning used by its original proponents?

STANTON — The present (proposed) Bypass is a good answer to one question — how can we relieve the congestion in Oakland and allow easier access through the southern part of Garrett County. It looks like the best engineering answer to the problem, in that the Bypass is the shortest distance between two points. However, the easiest way is not always the best way. The original study looked at only one corridor — the area bet-

STANDING TRUE TO TRADITION — The Republican's annual pictorial of Muddy Creek Falls reveals that long, icy fingers have once again prevailed to silence the usually noisy stream. The babbling brook will remain a tiny trickle until warmer weather arrives, bringing the usual complement of tourists and sightseers. Now only the hardy venture out to test the splendor, and only the foolhardy venture beyond and behind the falls for a once-a-year trip into the frozen fantasy world.

Firemen Lose Four-Alarm Battle To Save House Near Gorman

Numerous fire alarms kept county volunteer fire fighters on the battle lines this past weekend. On Saturday evening, fire totally destroyed a home on Route 50 west of Gorman despite efforts of four fire companies.

Gorman firemen were notified about 7:15 p.m. of a fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenvil (Susie) Moreland, and were assisted by Bayard, Oakland, and Mt. Storm. Deer Park went on standby at their stations for Oakland.

Robert Shimer, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, reported that Mrs. Moreland, who was home alone, spotted the fire in the living room ceiling above a wood-burning stove. She alerted authorities, but was unable to save any of the house contents.

Shimer noted that efforts to save the house were hindered by a limited water supply. The Morelands reportedly maintained some insurance on the building, but carried no insurance on the contents.

Firemen were at the scene until approximately 11:25 p.m.

Earlier on Saturday, firemen were called to a house on the corner of Third and Pennington in Oakland. Shimer said the blaze, which is under investigation, may have been caused by an overheated furnace which ignited partitions and the floor joists. Fire then spread up to the second floor.

Oakland and Deer Park responded to the alarm at 8:42 a.m. with three pieces of equipment and 35 men. Kitzmiller fire department was on standby. The fire cascade truck from Shaft was also called to the scene.

The house, owned by Dr. Andrew Manos and occupied by Mrs. Gladys Piter and her son, sustained about $2,000 damage. According to Oakland fire chief Allen Murray, firemen were on the scene about an hour and five minutes. Fire fighting was made difficult by zero temperatures and 15 miles an hour winds.

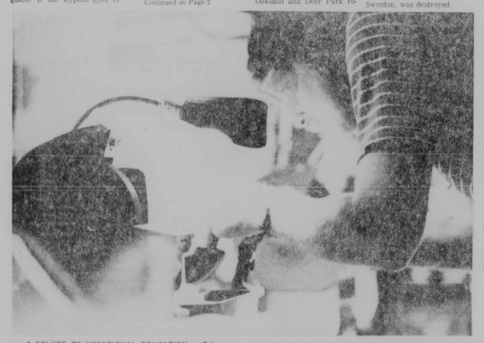
Firemen from Kitzmiller responded to a trailer fire in Elk Garden Sunday about 11:20 a.m. to assist Elk Garden. The trailer, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Maata, was extensively damaged by the blaze, which originated in the dryer area of the structure.

Elk Garden Chief Danny Burdock reported that one of the fire trucks became buried in snow enroute to the fire.

The Maata were not at home when the blaze started, and the fire was reported by a neighbor, Mrs. Joe Sayers. She called in the alarm after she saw the door of the trailer blown open by the intense heat.

The blaze damaged the trailer's utility area, a bedroom and the bathroom.

Oakland firemen were called at 10:52 a.m. Monday to a truck fire on Route 960 east of Oakland. The cab of the truck, owned by Robert Savage, Swanton, was destroyed.



A SALUTE TO VOCATIONAL EDUCATION — February 11-17 has been designated as Vocational Education Week across the nation. The aim of vocational educators is to provide students with the necessary skills to obtain a job upon graduation, and therefore much time is spent in the laboratories established for the students to apply techniques learned in the classroom. Above, a Garrett Community College student works on a project as part of his welding class. GCC along with Northern and Southern High Schools have extended an open invitation to all to become acquainted with the Garrett County Vocational Education Program. (See feature on page 14.)

Garrett Has Less Than One Percent Hospital Inpatient Cost Increase

Garrett County Memorial Hospital had one of the very lowest inpatient cost increases in the state during the past year, according to the annual disclosure statement from the Maryland Health Services Cost Review Commission.

Although the national estimated rate of increase in cost per equivalent inpatient day (EIPD) was 12.73 percent and the state average was 8.75 percent, Garrett Memorial had only a .63 of one percent EIPD boost.

Frostburg Community Hospital had the second best rating among state hospitals for EIPD figures, finishing the fiscal year with a 17.87 percent reduction in inpatient costs.

Sacred Heart Hospital, according to the commission, had the highest EIPD percentage increase in western Maryland for the period ending December 31, 1978, showing its inpatient costs increased by 7.49 percent.

The Maryland hospital figures would seem to indicate that hospitals could live within the nine percent rate rise limitation suggested in the Carter administration's health cost control program.

Frostburg's good EIPD showing apparently reflects the increased usage of the hospital. The statistics reveal that the hospital had 1,673 equivalent admissions last year, better than the 973 equivalent admissions from the previous year.

Equivalent admissions for the other three hospitals were: Garrett Memorial, 3,943 as compared to 3,902 for the previous year; Sacred Heart, 11,024, up from 10,759 for 1977; Memorial Hospital, 12,153, a decrease from 12,233 in 1977.

Garrett Memorial's occupancy for the year ending June 30, 1978 was 69.8 percent and the projected occupancy for the present year is 70 percent. Memorial's occupancy for the year ending June 30, 1978 was 75.1 percent and the projected occupancy for this year is 75.9 percent. Sacred Heart, which operates on a calendar year rather than the fiscal year used by the other three hospitals, had an actual occupancy rate for the year ending December 31, 1977 of 82.3 percent and a projected occupancy rate for the year ending December 31, 1978 of 82.2 percent.

Garrett Memorial finished 1978 with a $1,654 profit and is projected to have a $4,300 profit this year. Memorial

Commissioners Discuss County Airport Problems

Members of the county airport commission and a representative of Michael Baker and Associates briefed the Garrett County commissioners on airport problems during Tuesday's commissioner meeting in Oakland.

The commissioners, who are taking part in an 89-percent federally funded airport study and modernization project, were aware that serious problems plague the airport. Chief concerns are the runway, which is too short, and the lack of a cross-wind runway.

The firm of Michael Baker and Associates was selected to study alternatives and remedy the facility's problems. Bruce Ahern, firm representative, advised the Board that he would be investigating the feasibility of using the existing site and expanding the runway, or possibly exploring alternative or additional sites.

Bob Bailey is chairman of the Airport planning commission. Others attending Tuesday were Paul Beitzel, Charles (Buzz) Gounell, Ken Metheny and Tom Jones. John Spencer was also present. Not at the meeting was commission member Eddie Michael.

Dr. William Buser, superintendent of schools, and Eugene Flinn, director of transportation, discussed school closing procedures in inclement weather with the three commissioners and advised the board of the method of coordinating school closings with the roads department.

The school representatives also advised that if any more days are missed due to bad weather, the school year must be extended.

In other business, the Commissioners met with representatives of the Sanitary commission and the county health department to be briefed on the status of sewer system projects in the Oakland, Kitzmiller and Bloomington areas. The county officials discussed preparation of the status report to be sent to the state health department.

The commissioners awarded a bid for seven dump trucks to Grantsville Ford, the only bidder. Gross unit cost was $20,740. The purchase is part of the county roads department's plan of replacing seven of its 35 trucks annually. This is the third year Grantsville Ford was awarded the bid.

Board Discusses Budget, Lunches, Kindergarten Day

Members of the Garrett County Board of Education discussed each widely varied topics at the public hearing on the superintendent's budget request, an increase in the price of school lunches and the full day program for kindergarten students at last Thursday's meeting in Oakland.

The Board particularly stressed the importance of the public meeting February 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College to hear the superintendent's budget request. Following a presentation of the budget, individuals will have the opportunity to comment on the request. The Board of Education then plans to finalize the request to the County Commissioners during early March.

The board approved a price increase in elementary school lunches from 55 to 60 cents, middle and high school lunches from 55 to 45 cents, and the price of breakfasts from 20 to 25 cents. The new prices will go into effect March 1, 1979. Richard Buckingham, county cafeteria manager, informed the board that these prices were still lower than those in most of the other counties in Maryland.

Parents Question Kindergarten Day

A group of parents, who feel that Garrett County's full-day kindergarten program coupled with long bus rides to and from school is too long and rigorous for many five year-old children, met with the Garrett

State's Attorney Seeking Proof Of Deputy's Killer

It may be difficult to pinpoint the triggerman who shot and killed Deputy David Livengood in January, but establishing the fact "beyond a scientific doubt" is the job faced by the Garrett County State's Attorney's office.

Investigators have been probing details of the slaying through investigation and laboratory reports, but not all findings have been returned to the office as yet, according to William Ferry, special investigator for the State's Attorney.

It is of critical importance that investigators prove just which of the two arrested in connection with the slaying is responsible for the actual shooting. State's Attorney James Sherbin has announced his intention of seeking the death penalty for the slayer when guilt is proven beyond doubt.

The two suspects are Roberts Reeck, 36, who is in Allegany County jail, and Richard Tichnell, 31, who is being held in the Washington County Jail, Hagerstown. Reeck will be defended by Cumberland Public Defender Paul Stakem, while Tichnell has retained Morgantown attorney Clark Frame as his counsel.

Only one of the guns carried by the two suspects was fired during the shooting January 18, but fingerprint evidence so far has not proven conclusively which of the two was holding the gun at the time. Admissions of guilt by the men are being scrutinized for discrepancies by the State's Attorney and his staff, and the police.

Paul Ammann Considered As 1979 Scholar

Paul Ammann, a senior at Southern High School, is one of 1,000 high school seniors being considered for selection as a 1979 Presidential Scholar.

The Presidential Scholars Program, established by executive order in 1964, annually honors the nation's most intellectually distinguished and accomplished graduating high school seniors. One hundred and twenty-one scholars are selected from public and private high schools to receive personal recognition from the U. S. Commissioner of Education and the Commission on Presidential Scholars.

One girl and one boy are chosen from each state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Two students are chosen from families of U. S. citizens living abroad, and 15 additional students are selected at large. Scholarship is the primary consideration for selection, with consideration given to achievement in such areas as science, creative writing, mathematics, and the visual and performing arts.

Students chosen traditionally are invited to Washington, D. C. where they are honored by their elected representatives, by educators and others in public life. They visit memorials and museums in the nation's capital and attend seminars.

Paul is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric M. Ammann, Deer Park.

Jobless Rate Increases By 2% In Garrett County

Garrett County's unemployment rate increased from 11.1 percent in November to 13.1 percent in December, according to the most recent employment report of the Employment Security Administration of the Maryland Department of Human Resources.

The unemployment trend around the state has been rising over the past three months. Jumping from 5.0 percent in November to 5.6 percent in December, the rate reached its highest level since April and, for the first time since March 1978, equaled the rate nationwide. The 5.6 percent figure is the same rate as December 1977.

Employment in Maryland expanded by only 1969 persons, and employment in the Baltimore Metropolitan area increased by 3983 persons. The state's employment level is being affected by decreases in jobs in the non-metropolitan counties, such as Garrett County. The 13.1 percent rate in Garrett County is the third highest in the state. Allegany County showed a 10.9 percent rate, sixth highest in the state. Unemployment actually declined in those counties surrounding Washington, D. C.

Antiques Removed From Haynes Home

Several hundred dollars worth of antiques disappeared from a home in Mt. Lake Park between 5 and 7 p.m. January 25, Garrett County deputies are investigating.

According to their report, someone broke into the home of Christine Haynes, E Street, Mt. Lake Park, and removed numerous pieces of antique furniture and other items. Missing were brass lamps, quilts, a Victorian bureau, marble-topped chests, tables and desk.

No monetary estimate has been given for the stolen items.

WESTERN-ALTERNATE ROUTE — This alternative to the proposed Rt. 219 Bypass route would run to the west of Oakland, rather than to the east. Essentially, this new route, suggested by Oakland Town Council president, James R. Stanton, would utilize state-owned land in Garrett County.

Recently the presently proposed Bypass route has been drawing fire from all ends of the County and Councilman Stanton considers his westerly route a better alternative. See the accompanying interview.

Stanton Proposes

ween Oakland and Mt. Lake Park.

WILLIS — How do we determine that a Bypass is what is actually needed to solve our problems?

STANTON — The solution to any problem depends on the questions that are asked. The apparent single question that was asked several years ago was how can we get traffic through the southern part of the county at the cheapest cost. The answer was a new road going directly through a relatively undeveloped area. But, a major road can do much more for a community. It can help provide jobs; it can open up new development; it can build on what is available; and it can relieve congestion in crowded towns. Remember that this road will be directed toward the year 2000. A road has to be an investment, since it will be around for a long, long time.

WILLIS —But even in these planning stages, it is apparent that the town of Oakland might be detrimentally affected by the construction of a Bypass. Loss of business — and because of economic factors, relocation of business and residential property. Therefore, shouldn't the public consensus of Oakland bear more weight in this decision than the voice of any other faction?

STANTON — Oakland is both a town and a part of the county. Both are neighbors and we have good neighbors to our north, east, west, and south -- West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. We are all in this together, because of the job market and the regional services we all need. Oakland cannot just stand in the way when we are not sure of something. We have to find alternatives that work, and work right.

WILLIS — Assuming that a Bypass is built, what can be expected of a limited-access highway?

STANTON — It should provide, because it costs so much: economic development and industry; easier access around a crowded part of our county; job development for the entire county and neighboring area; relieve traffic congestion in Oakland; assist in balancing our economy — tourism, lumber, coal, retail trade and clean industry. These things are much greater than just a road, and reflect a true investment in the future.

WILLIS — What about retail development around the Oakland Merchants? If the Bypass attracts national chain stores and big-name hotels, it is a certainty that our small, local merchants will be unable to compete.

STANTON — As concerns business and shopping centers — we all need more business and competition. The Mid-Towns plaza serves real needs, and allows for competition. As Garrett County grows, more businesses will be needed. Shopping centers provide jobs, attract people, and give variety. A Bypass will not, and should not, stop shopping centers or encourage shopping centers. It is up to the individual businessman to win customers through quality merchandise, good prices, and good service. Any business that doesn't have these things will be in a defensive postion, no matter what happens.

WILLIS — What are the advantages of your new Bypass proposal?

STANTON — Up to this point, we have been talking about what a road-building program shoud be and should not be. If we look west of Oakland, rather than east, there is an excellent alternative. By the way, I am assuming that we indeed really need a road to accomplish the many things listed above.

By beginning north of Oakland and proceeding west, we avoid residential areas and developed areas. We encounter state-owned land until hitting the Oakland-Sang Run Road, proceed just to the southeast of the Youghiogheny River Corridor to protect it, cross the Herrington Manor Road, cross the railroad and come close to Sterling Processing Co. From here we cross Rt. 39, cross Third Street Extended in such a way as to not dislocate people or farms, and rejoin Rt. 219 near Webers railroad bridge. If this route was followed, there would be access for those wishing it; a bypass for those not wanting to go through Oakland; and both highway and railroad facilities for industry areas around this "beltline" could develop into industrial parks and residential areas that will help our whole area.

WILLIS — Do you expect the state of Maryland to amiably relinquish the required land to construct your proposed westerly-routed Bypass? And even if it does relinquish that portion of the land, is it going to give up enough land, over and above that amount, to make way for industrial parks and residential communities?

STANTON — We know right now that approximately 20% of all the land in Garrett County is government owned. This 20% is land that produces no taxes, and in most cases is being used by towns, the county, or the state. Many people believe that this is too much government land. I believe a case can be made for the state to use some of its already-owned land for a road instead of drawing off still more for government use.

We have to face an unfortunate fact; Garrett County is relatively unknown in the rest of the state, and we don't have many voters. We have only one delegate and we share a senator. In other words, we don't have a very loud voice. If the state is to cooperate, locally we will have to work together to accomplish what we want. This is as true for roads as it is for other things that affect us and our county.

WILLIS — Surely your proposal will cost more than even the presently proposed Bypass.

STANTON — Please recognize that I am not an engineer, and this alternative will probably cost more. The professional engineers will have the answers concerning our western alternative. This alternative will be an investment in Garrett County, with returns for many years to come. It would involve small bridges, but so will the present (proposed) Bypass. It also permits us to use our resources to the best advantage of all.

WILLIS — Some will still argue that building a Bypass will be "putting the cart before the horse." How are we going to prepare for this additional business and industrial development, other than by improving access conditions?

STANTON — during the next several years, while the road is being developed, the needs of industry will be brought to completion: sewer and water systems, railway spurs, and the like. We would also have to work to attract clean industry to our area. At the same time, we can maintain the appearance of our county which makes it attractive to visitors. If we're going to build a road, let's not do it halfway. Let's do it right.

WILLIS — At your best estimate, providing that a Bypass route is approved, when will construction begin?

STANTON — The schedule for the proposed Oakland Bypass calls for construction to begin in 1981. With the weather conditions in Garrett County and the short construction season, the completion of the road will probably take at least three years, or 1984-85. That is the rub. It supposedly takes five years to study and design a highway. If the study and design work is begun this year for the western alternative, construction could begin in 1984, with completion in 1987. We are talking about a net delay of only three years. Of course, the schedule assumes that money is available for either the Bypass or a western alternative.

WILLIS — What happens now? Will you make a formal proposal to the Garrett County Commissioners and the Planning Commission?

STANTON — One of the reasons for proposing this alternative is to cause long-range thinking about where we as a county are going. Economic conditions around us are going to continue to change, and town officials, county government and state government all have an interest in serving the people of the county. The Planning Commission is one of the advisory groups that assists in making decisions. With that in mind, as a citizen and as an elected official, I will be submitting a letter to the Planning Commission and to the Garrett County Commissioners for their consideration.

Week's Weather Variable Cloudy And Quite Frigid

Variable cloudiness has persisted the past week. There has been more snow and also some periods of sunshine. Temperatures have been on the frigid side. Schools remained open in spite of the snows.

State and County road crews were busy Monday and yesterday clearing and treating roads. The situation was kept under control due to the absence of high winds. All roads have been kept open to two-way traffic.

There was some snow last Wednesday. From Thursday through Sunday skies were variably cloudy with some periods of sunshine, especially Friday. Monday through most of yesterday snow was falling. Skies cleared somewhat after sundown and were the same this morning. Snowfall last Wednesday added 9 inches and six inches Monday. This gives a total of 15 inches for the week. This brings the seasons total to 69 inches.

Temperatures for the week averaged 19.2 degrees below normal. Highs averaged 21 degrees or 19.4 below normal. The high was 26 degrees, occurring on two days, last Thursday and Monday. Saturday the high was a quite cold 12 degrees. Lows averaged a minus seven degrees or 18.9 below normal. The low was a frigid 19 degrees below zero Sunday morning. It was a minus 8 degrees yesterday morning and below zero on two other days.

Letters to Editor

REMINDER — Unsigned letters to the editor will NOT be printed under any circumstances. Letters exceeding 300 words will also not be printed.

Dear Mr. Sincell:

As business people, we are opposed to the present proposed bypass because we feel further study should be done to determine what is actually thru traffic and what is traffic with Oakland as the destination. With Oakland being the county seat and the present business area the traffic count to and away from Oakland will naturally be large, and can not be considered thru traffic.

We feel that the thru traffic which the bypass is supposed to eliminate will be extremely small, as some informal surveys taken by some businesses have indicated.

We also feel that with the construction of the bypass the development of business areas along the bypass will be accelerated, thereby creating hardships upon businesses that have a large investment in property in Oakland.

As taxpayers, we feel the final cost-benefit ratio to be extremely high. When Rt. 219 is upgraded to the standards of the proposed bypass, cost-benefit ratio of the bypass included in the construction of Rt. 219 will then be within reason.

Signed,
Worried Merchants

Dear Sir:

It is my opinion that the proposed Oakland bypass will have a very detrimental effect on businesses in Oakland. It is my understanding that the merchants and businessmen in Oakland pay approximately $25,000 annually in town personal property taxes (inventory taxes). This does not even include property taxes on buildings. I oppose the construction of the bypass because as Oakland merchants are adversely affected taxes will have to be raised for homeowners in Oakland to make up the deficit and there will be a loss of town services.

Sincerely,
Ann E. Hetrick

Dear Editor:

The more I read your "Letters to the Editor" each week the more I am amazed. You state that unsigned letters will not be published. Why not refuse to publish such garbage as the letter published on February 7th and signed by "Citizen of Oakland"?

I believe you have a responsibility to the public and to your subscribers to sift out the junk from the truly meaningful concern and intelligent complaints or appraisals of a situation.

Again, I wish to direct my comments to the "Citizen of Oakland". Hopefully this represents only one citizen's view!

It is absolutely ludicrous to think that criminals will not carry or use guns because they know police officers do not carry guns.

Please, "Citizen of Oakland", make a substantial contribution to the David Livengood Trust Fund. Mail your check payable to Ralph Burnett, Esq. Thayer Center, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

Sincerely,
Donald H. Carstens

Mr. Carstens,

One person's opinion is neither "garbage" nor "junk," simply because another person happens to disagree with that opinion.

I will state again — anonymous letters are not printed. However, some persons do not want their names published due to a possibility of retaliation from individuals who might disagree with their opinions.

Editor

Dear Editor:

I write to state a counterpoint to opinions recently expressed in the "Letters to the Editor" section of your paper. Those opinions lamented the amount of community attention and support given to the high school wrestling team. The low level of support they decried may be factual, but concerns expressed seem questionable to me. We seem to be accused of "gross negligence!" The wrestlers work so hard and we seem to have our minds on other things!

My concern has to do with the motivation we nurture in our youth — sports in particular, life in general. Should the motive for participation and achievement in sports — in life — be public acclaim and adulation? Is this kind of recognition what makes a good effort worthwhile?

I have nothing against appreciative crowds . . . . I love them on Sunday mornings! But let this letter promote the value of training and performance, athletic or otherwise, as standing on their own merits. The recognition of others would then be "icing on the cake" and we would not be nurturing a generation of people to be dependent on the approval of others for their self-worth.

Sincerely,
Richard A. Seaks

Dear Editor,

First let me say, "It Finally Happened" was indeed one of the best editorials we ever read. Every word was true.

Now to that citizen of Oakland. Why don't they go to England where they don't need guns? Did those school children and teachers have guns in California when that 15 year old wanted to have some fun and shot into the school killing a principal, a custodian and wounding several others? Let me hear you answer that one.

Your suggestion was ridiculous. Do you think those two gave a ——— whether Dave had a gun or not? You better wake up, this is 1979.

We need more policemen, better pay and more powerful guns. We are not in England.

Citizen,
Deer Park, Md.

To the Editor:

A letter which appeared in your fine newspaper signed "Citizen of Oakland" should be used by all in the "Ole two seater" out back.

I am a new resident of Garrett County. I do not know the Sheriff's department or the deputies personally, but to heap such illogical thinking, false facts and false conclusions on the recent murder of a man who served the "Citizen of Oakland" with his life, is really sad.

Sad, that we must pay men to "live by the sword" so we may live and enjoy life. One wonders if the "Citizen of Oakland" would make the supreme sacrifice to give one's life for a friend. That is what a police officer chances every time he stops a car, knocks on a door or answers a call.

Perhaps the "Citizen" would volunteer to take the place of the slain deputy and, instead of answering a silent alarm with a gun, he could carry a copy of "Roberts Rules" or maybe a coconut cream pie.

The crime rate in England is getting out of hand and more and more police there are in fact carrying loaded firearms. Check your facts, please!

In any trade or profession, whether it be mason, carpenter, doctor or law enforcement, the proper tools are necessary to get the job done. A firearm is nothing more than a tool in this case, as inanimate as a hammer, a trowel or a scalpel. All are capable of being a helpful servant or a fearful master.

To suggest we ignore technology in hopes that the criminal will do likewise is poppycock.

Law enforcement personnel have a responsibility to protect persons on all sides of the law. They risk their lives so we don't have to. Do we not have an obligation to give them our support?

I Remain
Resident of Swanton
Laddie Gaster

Dear Editor:

I wish to comment on a letter to the editor in last week's Republican concerning the "evils" of law enforcement officers carrying guns.

I also wish to state that I do realize that the world would be a better place to live in if no one carried guns. However, the religious fanatics who believe that love and understanding alone will rid the world of all its crimes are not in truth living in our present day society.

David Livengood had been on the police force in some degree or another for the past 10 years. He had been shot at before. He had at no time shot anyone until the day of his death. He had justifiable reasons to fire his weapon that morning or he would have not done so. There is no excuse to justify the reason he was killed.

Would you "Citizen of Oakland" like to contemplate these few facts?

(1) Children have been raped and/or murdered. What defense does a child have against this? Is the person responsible for this "panicked" by a defenseless child?

(2) Old folks have been murdered for a few dollars. One even in our own community several years ago. Is the murderer "panicked" by a defenseless old person?

There are several openings available at this time for the deputy sheriff position. Perhaps you, "Citizen of Oakland" or your loved one would like to volunteer to work the night shift. Alone. Unarmed.

Until the time that you can "practice what you preach" do not criticize my husband or any other law enforcement officer for trying to protect his own life.

Geni Livengood

To the "Citizen of Oakland",

The timing of your letter was as asinine as your philosophy. What happens all over the country has finally happened here. A widow and children are trying to adjust to the loss of a husband and father.

I wonder how your letter would have read if it had been your husband or if at 5:30 a.m. two armed men appeared at your door.

You said these men were armed only because they knew the police would be. In case the facts eluded you, Dave Livengood was shot in the back, not once, not to wound but to kill. These men, that you seem to feel are the victims of circumstances were stealing approximately $1500.00 worth of guns. What do you suppose they were going to use them for? Decorations?!

The quote about those who live by the sword, etc., was taken out of context. Do you really believe an officer could have told them they shouldn't steal, put everything back and be good little boys that they would have reacted with kindness? The mayor's wife from Davis wasn't armed or a threat to anyone. Was she treated with kindness? Have you never heard of Charles Manson?

A suggestion: If you're male, apply for his job and of course, perform your duties with kindness; if you're female, have your husband, father, son or whoever apply and use your ludicrous ideas.

It would be interesting to note how soon your philosophy would change.

There aren't any deterrents to crime, not even the death penalty. Anything can be a weapon for someone who wants to kill. As long as there are people without morals and compassion, people who want something for nothing and lack the qualities that make us human beings, there will be evil, violence and crime.

Dear Editor:

In reference to the letter in your paper last week concerning Solar Energy and Weatherization Projects, the Energy Conservation Office at Community Action has on file the signatures of the following persons who have expressed their appreciation for the weatherization work performed on their homes:

Ray O. Lewis, Frances Paugh, Wilma J. Michaels, Martha V. Meyers, Izetta Spear, Jean Deem, Carrie Cuppett, C. J. Criss, James R. Wilt, Lucy A. Stottlemeyer, Becky Unger, Florence W. Casteel, Leonard Dillsworth.

Mary Grubb, Wilma L. Fazenbaker, John Hockman, Marjorie White, Linda Patton, John R. Thrasher, Webster Teets, Albina Burgess, Sarah V. Yost, Ruth Markley, Harry J. Tusing, Delwood Freeland, Pauline Skipper.

We are deeply sorry that the person who wrote this letter has not found weatherization beneficial, but we are very pleased that there are many persons who feel differently.

I am certain that no one in the Energy Conservation Office informed this person that this program is being "scrubbed out", but I can assure you that this is not so. The weatherization program is funded through September of this year, and will certainly continue for years to come.

Dear Sir:

As a resident and a businessman of Oakland, Maryland, I am opposed to the Oakland Bypass.

It would be too late to worry about the bypass after it was constructed, so that is why I am writing to you now.

Moved to the town of Oakland in 1964. Worked very hard in a couple of different business places in the downtown area. Spent a lot of time and money building up the Oakland area. Employ a dozen people or so at my business place. Suppor most all schools and organizations in and around town. Was chairman of the merchants' association for about 6 years. Tried hard in always making this Oakland area the best place to shop in. And now someone thinks we need a 4-lane bypass on the outside of Oakland.

The town of Oakland doesn't need a bypass. We need all the traffic we can get. We don't need another highway to take away the little we now have. Traffic through this town means business, taxes, and jobs.

I again say that the town of Oakland will exist much better without a bypass, than with one. Smaller means can be taken to control the traffic which only exists in the morning and evening. And it gets that way in any other small, or big, town.

Sincerely,
John Kurilla, owner
Ben Franklin Store
Oakland, Md.

To Whom It May Concern,

We are writing this letter in opposition to the proposed Oakland Bypass of Route 219 because it will ruin the existing farms and valuable homes and property in that area. Also it will take business away from the downtown district.

If a vote was put up to the people we would certainly vote against it.

Sincerely,
Eugene Nordeck
Helen M. Nordeck

Dear Citizen of Oakland,

Do you remember Mrs. Scott Paugh and how she was murdered? A lady of her years, I doubt that she would have had much protection, even if she would have had a gun strapped to her side.

Criminals will have guns, even if they have to make a crude one from a piece of pipe.

David Livengood and my son, Larry Iden, had a little league baseball team together, I think we feel Dave's loss as much as any other person in this county.

You stated in your letter that the police in England do not carry guns. I recently read that in the past couple of years England's crime rate has risen over 300%, I can't think America's has risen that much in the same amount of time.

You write as though guns are the only lethal weapons people can use to murder others. How about ice picks, clubs, knives, axes, picks, pipes, stones just to mention a few.

Our own United States Constitution in the Bill of Rights Amendment number 2 states I quote: a well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed.

The right to keep and bear arms, was precious to men who faced dangers of many kinds in their daily lives, the same as men do today.

How would the Revolutionary War have been won without the aid of muskets (guns)? If not for their help YOUR country, county, town, and home life would not be what it is today.

On a bumper sticker I saw this motto, "I will give up my gun(s) when they pry my cold dead fingers from around it." That is just how I feel. A firm believer in guns.

Freda Iden
Deer Park, Maryland

Dear Sir:

I wholly disagree with the citizen who advocated disarming our police officers. In reality such people are asking to deprive themselves of the privilege to be defended in dire need, against armed offenders. I'm sure that if they were being robbed or in a similar situation against an armed offender, they would not want an unarmed officer to the rescue.

I wish that these people would make known their names because I am sure they do not have any sort of guns in their households, so they have very little defense against armed offenders. If we could give the criminals in the area a list of all the people who do not have guns in their homes, and all the people who do have guns, we would soon find out if guns are a deterrent to crime.

Are you willing to announce to all criminals that you have no protection?

Sincerely,
Eric Brobst

Dear Sir:

As an English teacher at Kukje High School in Seoul, Korea, I take this pleasure of writing to you on behalf of my students. Well, my school has some 3,300 students. Korean students learn the English language from the first grade of junior high school and they practice it through their English Conversation Club to improve their English. So I have realized that so many students are very eager to have their friends in your country. I surely believe that their friendly correspondence between students of our two countries will contribute to international fraternity and better understanding.

Furthermore, Korean students would like to learn more about students' life, traditional customs and various other topics in mutual interest. They will have fun in exchanging items in their hobby collections, too. So I eagerly hope you will let the American students inform us of their names, addresses, sexes, ages and hobbies in their first letter for the best result. All Korean students will be great and good friends to any boy or girl student who want to share friendship with Korean students.

I hope you could accept this ardent appeal of Korean students by reflecting in your esteemed newspaper, if possible, at your earliest convenience. Your consideration will mean so much to the young hearts.

With all the best wishes and regards to you all from Korea.

Yours Sincerely,
Miss Kim Younga

Editor:

During the two years President Carter has been in office the cost of groceries in a local market have increased 38.8%. Every American is adversely affected by such a burden. There isn't any indication that the price of food will decline and President Carter certainly should take positive action to prevent further increases.

The President's anti-inflation program is not only ineffective but it actually fuels the fires of inflation. Now, better late than never, is the time for him to cease playing politics and do what is necessary to stop inflation before it destroys our economy and takes us into the worst depression in our history.

Citizens Backing Bloomington Water System Update

Bloomington's antiquated water system that has given this Garrett County community problems for decades may be rehabilitated if a citizen group backed by the Garrett County Commissioners can make their plan work.

The water system has been operated by a private company which will cede the works to the Bloomington Improvement Association, a non-profit citizen group headed by Claude Lipscomb.

At the February 5 Garrett County commissioners meeting, the association, which is made up of current users, was granted $5,000 which will be used to finance a study by a consulting engineer aimed at rehabilitating the old water system. The county is now contacting several consultants.

According to Tom Jones, director of the county Development Corporation, the Bloomington group intends to execute a three-year agreement with Maryland Environmental Services which will operate and maintain the system, collect bills, read meters and repair minor damage. Major rehabilitation, however, will not be a part of the agreement.

The feasibility study being financed by the county will be sent with an application for assistance to the Farmer's Home Administration in the hope of receiving a grant for rehabilitation work.

Jones is developing a pre-application to FHA and expects both the application and the feasibility study to be completed in about four months.

The Casselman Inn, Grantsville, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan J. Miller, is a 19th century hostelry, built in 1824 by Solomon Sterner to serve travelers on the National Road. The place was known at various times as Sterner's Tavern, Drover's Inn, Farmer's Hotel, Dorsey Hotel and the Casselman. The last name derives from the river just east of town.

Bricks for the structure were handmade on the land nearby. Much of the woodwork is hand hewn timbers and hand planed boards. Each room in the original structure had a fireplace. The fireplaces were the only source of heat and the only means of cooking. The winding stairway with its cherry handrail is located in the great hall and mounts to the third floor.

The original tract of land contained about 1200 acres and was patented to an English engineer by the name of Daniel Grant soon after the Revolutionary War. He called his land "Cornucopia," a name that still identifies a section of the land. Grantsville was named for Daniel Grant.

Among the early pioneers to settle the Community were the plain, peace-loving Amish Mennonites. They developed their farms and businesses and helped to make the community a prosperous farming center in the midst of mountains and forests. Among these thrifty agriculturalists were builders of houses and barns, millwrights and first class craftsmen who made furniture, spinning wheels and all kinds of household and farm equipment. The present owners of the Casselman are direct descendants of these enterprising and hard-working settlers.

The Millers acquired the Casselman in 1964, and in 1973 they added a new dining room, capable of seating 120. With two other dining rooms and a bake shop, the restaurant offers the best in country atmosphere and cooking. Rooms are also available. The antique shop adds interest to the old hotel and restaurant.

Among the entrees on the Casselman menu are chopped sirloin steak, beef tenderloin, breaded beef brain, honey-dipped chicken, grilled ham, assorted seafood, breaded haddock, and breaded oysters. Homemade bread, pies, and apple butter are also served.

The Casselman Inn and Restaurant is a delightful dining experience.

HOMEMADE DELICACIES — The delicious aroma of baking pies and breads drifts through the antique Casselman Inn, Grantsville. The inn was once a major hostelry on the National Road.

Southern Rams Finish Season With Impressive 8-1-1 Tally

The Southern Rams wrestling team ended their regular season last Wednesday evening by defeating Tucker County, 45-21 on the Mountain Lions' mats.

Tucker County jumped ahead, 15-6 after four matches. The early advantage came on the strength of a forfeit in the 98 lb. class, a pin in the 112 lb. class, and a decision at 119 lbs.

DYNAMIC DUO — Two Southern Rams wrestling standouts are John Toston, left, and John Hayhurst, right. Each are undefeated—Toston with a 16-0 record, and Hayhurst with a 15-0 record. Both are state tournament hopefuls. Last year Jim Clark became the first Ram to make it to the state competition in several years.

The Rams six points came via a pin by Mark Grimm, 105 lbs., with one second left in the match.

Starting at 126 lbs., Southern reeled off six straight wins, five by pins. Stan McRobie, John Hayhurst, John Toston, Ted Wolfe, and Jim Barnes floored their opponents, while Dave Browning decisioned his man, 5-2.

Tucker County's Carl Plumley added another pin in the 185 lb. division. Plumley was voted the outstanding wrestler during Southern's New Year's Tournament.

Jeff Hinebaugh completed the match with a second period pin.

Southern finished off the season with an impressive record, identical to last year's, 8-1-1. The Rams swing into District Tournament action this Friday and Saturday at Allegany High School.

STARTING TEAM — The starting team of the Southern High wrestlers boosted their team to a season tally of 8-1-1. Coach Mike Huddleston praised his warriors for their outstanding season. "Man for man, we didn't have as much talent as last year," he said, "but we made up for it with guts and determination. At the first of the season we were down a bit, but once we convinced ourselves we could win, we got very tough." Pictured above, left to right, are the starting teammembers: Front row, Rex McRobie, Mark Grimm, Jeff Paolucci, Stan McRobie, John Hayhurst, and Dave Browning; Back row, John Toston, Jim Barnes, Mike Klier, Gregg Skiles, and Jeff Hinebaugh.

Lakers Bow To Trojans, 83-74

Keith Hill led five Lakers in double figures with 20 points on seven baskets and six of six from the line as Garrett Community College battled bravely against Allegany Community College last evening on the ACC Court, only to drop a share of the American Division JUCO title to ACC, 83-74.

The victory was the eighth in a row for ACC who assumed a 46-26 halftime lead. Anthony Martin sparked ACC with a game high 21 points on eight baskets and five of eight from the charity stripe. Martin pulled in 15 missed shots to share the honors with teammates Lewis Lattimore and Keith Creighton.

Creighton took runner-up honors on the scoreboard with 15 on six buckets and a three-for-four effort from the stripe. Lattimore and Billy Hipp shared 28 for the winners.

Garrett's star-studded five included Hill with 20 points, Ric Phillips, 17; Steve Liller, 14; Ken Niner and Bill Bloodsworth with ten each.

The win, coupled with an earlier 80-70 verdict on the Lakers' court, gave ACC a clean sweep of the series.

The Lakers, now 14-8 for the season, will challenge hosts, Community College of Baltimore this evening. A Laker win would give ACC the regular season title in the JUCO.

Bittinger Saves The Game As Rams Topple Elk Garden, 36-35

Brad Bittinger's five-foot jump shot with one second remaining in the game proved to be the decisive factor that boosted the Southern High Rams to a Potomac Valley Conference win, 36-35, over Elk Garden last night in Garrett County.

The Rams, tallying the fourth PVC win in five outings, fell behind by a 35-34 margin with 12 seconds on the clock. Two mis-fired shots were made before Bittinger connected with a well-aimed shot.

Elk Garden called a time out, and, with one second remaining tried a futile full-court shot.

Southern assumed a 10-4 lead following the first quarter, and during the second stanza both teams battled defensively until the Rams scored twice and went into intermission with a 12-10 lead.

The score was tied at 22 going into the final eight minutes.

Todd Liller and Gene Hershman led Southern in the scoring column with 12 points each, and Mike Ray netted a matching 12 for Elk Garden.

The Rams, now 6-13 overall, play again Saturday afternoon in a makeup game at home against Musselman. Elk Garden now stands at 7-5 overall, and 4-4 for the conference. They toppled Southern in another match earlier this season, 45-44.

During the preliminary, Southern's freshman team defeated its Elk Garden counterpart, 39-33.

Vocational Education

GARRETT COUNTY STUDENTS TRAIN FOR THEIR FUTURE

By Beverly J. Stacell

John is learning the trade of bricklaying at Northern High School and another John is learning the same trade at Southern High School while yet another John is learning not only the trade of bricklaying, but also the career of construction at Garrett Community College.

All three are among the thousands known nationally as the vocational student. All three are among the thousands recognized this week as part of the National Vocational Educational Week. The week, aimed at increasing the awareness and understanding of the general public of vocational programs, is being observed throughout the country by educational institutions, teachers, and students.

Garrett County schools are also participating in the observance and are extending an invitation to Garrett Countians to visit the schools to learn about the programs.

Ron Kuhn, vocational counselor at Southern High School, announced that an open house will be held Thursday and Friday, February 15-16, for the general public to visit the school facilities and meet with the teachers in the programs. Jack Lear, vocational counselor at Northern High School, stated that although no specific date has been set for an open house, all are welcome to visit the school anytime. Likewise, Administrators at Garrett Community College extend an open invitation to all to visit their facilities.

Those who take advantage of these invitations will no doubt walk away impressed with the commitment of those involved. For those persons involved are the real life of the program, they have shaped it and are continuing to develop and expand it to better serve the youth of Garrett County.

These persons are attempting to develop a vocational education program which provides students with entry level skills to obtain a job. More and more, adults and youth are realizing that jobs requiring a bachelor's degree are limited while many jobs in the skilled trades are as desirable, higher paying and available.

James Trickett, Vocational Supervisor in Garrett County, stated, "Approximately 66 percent of students in the upper three grades are being served by the vocational education program."

Ron Kuhn noted that more students are attracted to the program and because of this, he commented, "We are getting a higher quality student in our programs. They are developing a greater degree of pride in themselves because they realize they are as much a professional as a doctor or lawyer."

The self-pride gained is a benefit of the program, but the main advantage of the program is that upon graduation, the student has marketable skills. As Tom Earley, co-chairman of the Garrett County Vocational Advisory Council, pointed out, "We are giving our youth skills which will help them wherever they go." He also acknowledged that the program makes Garrett County marketable in bringing industry to the county. "Industry," he stated, "will look at the resources (especially the extent of a trained work force) before moving into an area."

Tom Earley, who is assistant administrator of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, is one of the 23 members of the Garrett County Vocational Advisory Council which is a group of concerned and active community members appointed by the local board of education. As part of the community work force and coming from a variety of occupations, the council members act as both advisors to the board of education and advocates for the program on the county, state and federal levels.

As adviser, the council informs the board of education of the distribution of vocational-technical education funds, local vocational-technical program accountability reports, local job need and adequacy of vocational-technical programs being offered.

As advocate, the council strives to build good relations between school and community as well as to cooperate with the Maryland State Advisory Council in the support efforts at the state and national level to obtain appropriate legislation and funding for vocational education.

The council regularly meets with teachers and administrators in the program throughout the year to determine areas to be strengthened in the future. As a result of these meetings, the council submits an annual report to the board of education. In 1978, chairperson Phyllis Trickett, an area cosmetologist, included these recommendations in the 1978 annual report: to explore the possibility of pre-vocational experience in a specific trade area to assisted student in program selection and to establish a study program in the Health Careers area.

Currently, the two high schools offer training in Agriculture Science, Auto Mechanics, Business, Drafting, Electronics, Food Science, Machine Tool, Home Economics, Carpentry, and Trowel Trades. According to Tom Early, skills learned in these programs qualify graduates to enter jobs at the apprenticeship level.

Students in these various programs learn the basic skills necessary to obtain a job in a particular field. For example, students in the Foods program learn care and preparation of food for 25-50 people, short-order cooking, and equipment usage. In the Carpentry program students learn to read and design blueprints, as well as learn basic home wiring and plumbing.

Another opportunity for seniors at the high schools to apply learned skills is the Diversified Cooperative Education Program. According to Ron Kuhn, "The program gives students an opportunity to 'test' the work world and to provide the reality confrontation that gives relevance to all education, and to expand their education beyond the 'school building.'"

Kuhn and Jack Lear work with the students in planning their careers. "In effecting such a program," explained Kuhn, "we must use all available resources to assist students in self-awareness, self-understanding, skill development, career exploration and work experience."

Ron Kuhn is also an advisor for the Vocational Industrial Club of America, active at Southern. The club members not only aim to gain further experience in the various trades, but also gain leadership and citizenship qualities to better function in the community. Other organizations which provide opportunities for involvement in extra-curricular activities in both schools is the Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America.

The FFA members are active in the Baby Beef Program, Garrett County Business Association, Purebred Holstein Association, and the Garrett County Fair. During the school year, club members participate in various activities and field trips, such as the Christmas Citrus Fruit Sale conducted by the FFA at Northern and their trip to the Pennsylvania Farm show in Harrisburg, PA January 9.

Another organization to involve students in skills application is the Electronics Club at Northern. The club participates in projects designed to employ their skills in such areas as radio control, electronics, and theory. Last year the club members assembled a radio-controlled model car; this year they are constructing a radio-controlled model airplane.

As the Garrett County Vocational Education program is improved each year, the high school graduates become better prepared to enter the job market. But seeking employment is not the only option open to these students. Garrett Community College offers a student further training in a vocation. Upon graduation from the two year technology programs at GCC a student is qualified to enter a job at middle management levels.

Randall Harman, chairman of the mathematics/science division at GCC, has been involved in the growth of the vocational technical program since the college first opened its doors in 1971.

Then, there was no technical training facility. The only degree programs offered were the Business Occupational and Secretarial Science courses.

In 1973, the Wildlife Management Technology program was established and since that time programs such as Business Management, Banking Options, Coal Mining Technology, Environmental and Renewable Resource Technology, Agricultural Technology, Building Construction Technology, General Technology, Maintenance Technology and Veterinary Science Technology have been added. In addition, with funds provided by the Appalachian Regional Commission, and local matching, two technology buildings have been constructed: the Vocational Technical Center and the Coal Mining Training Center.

The newest of these programs, the Veterinary Science Technology program, was developed "to prepare students for employment and to increase the competencies of persons engaged in the large scale livestock production activities of this region," according to Dr. Jan Janssen, Dean of Students at GCC and a member of the Vocational Advisory Council. "The college," says Dr. Janssen, "formalized an agreement with the county commissioners to use the Animal Shelter for laboratory experience in animal care." Students will attend laboratory courses at the Animal Shelter and will study under area veterinarians.

This type of experience is what Randall Harman means when he says "We offer hands-on experience right here at the college." The technical buildings are equipped with machines and tools to provide laboratory experience in all the courses offered.

To walk in the technical building near the end of a semester, one would see a student-constructed plumbing system for a home and completed masonry, engineering and welding projects while over in the Coal Mining Technical Building, one might find students working on mining equipment.

One of the technical programs which requires little lab work is the Wildlife Management Technology Program. The surrounding landscape and abundance of wildlife in Garrett County provides a natural laboratory for students. Hugh Trimble, Assistant Professor of Wildlife Management, pointed out that no other community college in Maryland has a wildlife program. Students from across the state attend GCC for this program. Classes are conducted in the state forests, at Cranesville swamp, Swallow Falls, Mt. Nebo and other nature reserves throughout the state.

Though a student may enroll in a specific program, he is not trained to be a specialist. The aim of GCC in all its courses is to meet the needs of the citizens of Garrett County. As Randall Harman stated, "our courses are geared for industries in Garrett County. To train a student in a particular speciality would overfill the job market in Garrett County. By training a student in a number of marketable skills, a student is prepared to enter a variety of occupations."

Nor do the programs limit a student to learning vocational skills. "We not only try to enrich the number of skills of a student," explained Randall Harman, "but we also try to enrich the personal goals of a student."

Students are required to take courses in the Humanities and Social Sciences in addition to their vocational curriculum. "They are not going to be on the job 24 hours a day," Harman stated. "They are going to want to recreate and we are trying to expose them to ways to fill their leisure time."

Many of the students are employed while they are attending classes at GCC and are primarily interested in improving their skills for their job or to obtain another job. Therefore, most laboratory and lecture classes are scheduled in the evening, although there are many of the lecture classes offered during the day.

The courses are taught not only by GCC faculty but by qualified persons from the community as well. By utilizing community talent, GCC has been able to expand course offerings in the non-credit programs administered from the Oakland Center.

Dr. Janssen reported that "During 1978 and 1979, some 560 students have enrolled in non-credit programs taught by 14 instructors. The most popularly-attended instruction is that concerning coal mining safety — 360 students have completed this preparatory training."

Some of the other non-credit vocational courses offered include surface mining blasting, real estate, property and casualty insurance, shorthand, electricity, upholstering, food service management and graphic design.

Dr. Janssen noted that "well over 1000 students will have received preparatory or in-service vocational training during 1978 and 1979."

The college also offers students the opportunity to continue their vocational education through transfer programs. Upon completion of these programs, a student would be eligible to transfer to a four-year institution and major in such fields as medicine, physics, biology, chemistry, mathematics, dentistry, agriculture, environmental and earth sciences, business administration or secretarial education.

"A continuing challenge for GCC," stated Dr. Janssen, "is to be able to identify the types of training sought by Garrett Countians, now and in the future, so their employability training needs may be satisfied."

Randall Harman echoed that belief when he said, "I would like to emphasize we're a college that looks to the people of Garrett County to tell us what we need. We are striving to supply the needs for Garrett County residents.

Some areas Harman's division has cited for future development are in Energy and Energy Conservation, Maintenance, Recreational Management Technology and coal mining.

Edward Hayduk, an instructor of coal mining, envisions the construction of a simulated mine at the college. He says his dream may become reality through a federally-funded program called Ameritech. This program has constructed simulated mine-shafts throughout the nation, and Hayduk maintains that Garrett County is the logical site for one. It will be one more area of growth for GCC which must happen, according to Hayduk. "As technology grows, industry grows," he said, "and the college should be ready."

The college, the high schools, the board of education and the vocational advisory are all monitoring the changes in technology and industry and the needs these changes create. They are trying to adapt the county vocational education programs to meet these needs.

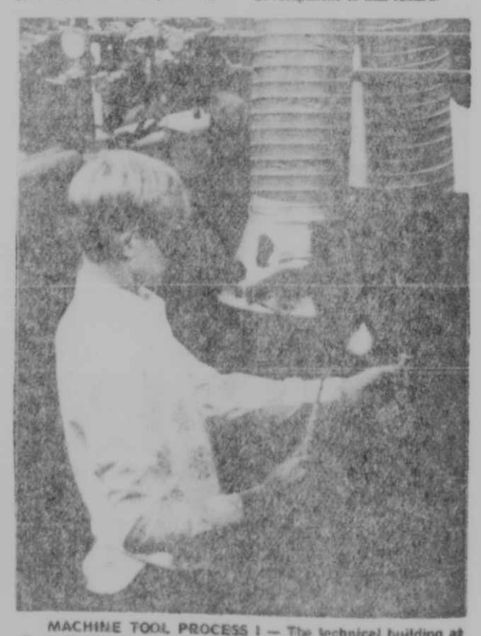
Their invitation to Garrett Countians to visit the schools to become acquainted with the programs has an ulterior motive. Their hope is to create an interest in the future of vocational education in Garrett County and to increase community involvement in the development of this future.

GREAT THINGS COME FROM SMALL PACKAGES is an old adage that rings true as these students participate in the Building Trades course taught by Carroll Forsythe at Northern High School. Students in this class learn valuable skills by building a model house, skills they will take with them when they graduate from school and enter the job market. Building Trades is one of the many courses of the Vocational Education program in Garrett County. All involved in Vocational Education are recognized nationwide this week which has been designated National Vocational Education Week.

DIAGNOSIS ALMOST COMPLETE — Students enrolled in the Auto Mechanics at Northern High School are given the opportunity to run a model working garage in which they maintain, repair and diagnose problems of automobiles. Administered through the vocational education program facilities provided by the Garrett County Board of Education the course is designed to teach students to: become proficient in the use of tools and the necessary skills needed to service and repair the component units of the automobile, acquire an understanding of the design construction and operation of the automotive units in applying proper judgment to perform necessary repair and service operations, and develop an appreciation for fine craftsmanship, safety desirable habits and attitudes in order to achieve a position in our society. Pictured above, left to right, are students Tom VanSickle and David Oester.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE — Students at Southern High School learn care, preparation and service of food in the Foods Lab as part of the Foods curriculum. Besides learning to prepare food for 25-50 people, they take classes in job orientation, short-order cooking, and equipment usage. Foods Hi takes the students into areas of management skills and interior design.

FOR THE MATHEMATICALLY MINDED — These Southern High School students are studying transistor circuits which is part of the Electronics curriculum. Electronics courses are geared for students with a good mathematical background because students deal with atomic structure, electrostatic fields, and vacuum tube amplifiers and oscillators. Besides transistor circuits the students study basic digital computers and integrated circuits.



MACHINE TOOL PROCESS I — The technical building at Garrett Community College provides students with the opportunity to apply skills learned in the classroom. Students are taught why certain methods and materials are used as well as how to use equipment in the vocational-technical courses at GCC. In Machine Tool Process I, a class included in the curriculum of the Maintenance Technology Program, students learn methods and types of equipment used in the welding process with a special emphasis on maintenance.

Board Discusses

County School Board Thursday to discuss the issue. For some kindergartners, the school day can be as long as 9 hours, including bus transportation.

Parents, some who risked Thursday's inclement weather and poor road conditions to attend the meeting, first met with school superintendent Dr. William Buser in November to suggest either half-day kindergarten or at least some "alternative programs." Parents, including one former county kindergarten teacher, are hoping to change or amend the current full-day program so that children could begin their formal education with more positive feelings about school. According to some kindergartner parents, adjustment to school is difficult because children get too tired, lose interest or simply don't need a full day of school.

Proponents of full-day kindergarten, including Dr. Buser and Ms. Charleen Thomas, Early Childhood Instructional Supervisor, observe, however, that "a half-day program does not provide adequate time for the child to follow his interest in the relaxed, unhurried atmosphere of the full-day classes." They also noted that Garrett County is the only system in Maryland receiving state funding to provide full-day programs to all kindergarten children.

"Granted, children do get tired from the full day and bus ride," said Ms. Evans, who presented a written report to the board in support of full-day kindergarten. "But that is why we have a built-in rest time at school." She also noted with more and more working mothers, many mothers would not be home to be with their children.

Mrs. Lynne Elmlinger, spokeswoman for the parents' group, told the board, "We're trying to find the best program for kindergarten and the one most easily applied." She stressed the group is anxious to work with and not against the board in finding a solution. On behalf of the group, Mrs. Elmlinger, an Early Childhood teacher, suggested several alternatives to the current kindergarten program, including alternative days and voluntary parental pickup.

The alternative day program would involve two groups of children, attending school on Monday, Wednesday and Friday or on Tuesday and Thursday, with groups switching days at mid-semester. The voluntary pick-up plan would allow parents to pick up their children around noon-time. Hopefully, this plan would also include a class of just half-day students so these children would not be made to feel different.

The alternate day program would require a change in legislation; however, according to State Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden, all that is necessary for a change is for the Board or Dr. Buser to notify him. If implemented now, the change would have no effect on school funding until the fall of 1979. An alternative such as voluntary pickup would not affect funding at any time, nor require any legislative change at all.

The meeting concluded with school board chairman Herbert Harman suggesting the parents meet with Dr. Buser and Ms. Evans to prepare a written proposal which could be presented to the board as soon as possible. Mr. Harman also pointed out because of excessive transportation costs, it would be nearly impossible to request more state funding to support a half-day kindergarten program. According to Dr. Buser, it would cost Garrett County about $210,000 more to transport all kindergarteners for just half-day sessions. It would amount to $300,000, less $90,000 for staff cuts if half-day sessions were implemented.

No More Snow Days

The Board noted that the school system here has lost eight days in the tentative calendar based on snow and hazardous road conditions. Dr. Buser reported that there were eight days in the current calendar which could be substituted and if no more days are missed, schools will close as scheduled Thursday, June 14.

He indicated that, under a recently-enacted Maryland state by-law, school systems in Maryland would be required to complete approximately five additional days beyond the tentative scheduled closing date if this should be necessary. The Board did not take official action at this time due to the possibility of more inclement weather during February and March.

The Board authorized the staff to move ahead with tentative plans for developing girls' softball at the high schools.

In other curriculum matters, Albert Ringer, Assistant Superintendent in Curriculum and Instruction, presented "Garrett County's Plan for the Implementation of Project Basic" to the Board, as well as a report on the instructional equipment that had been purchased for the schools from the fiscal 1979 budget.

Mr. Ringer also noted some minor changes in the high school program offerings, which were approved by the Board.

Herbert Harman, president of the Board, Clarence Stem, vice president, Robert Diehl and Troy Gnegy indicated that they would attend the February 16 hearing before the Interagency Committee on School Construction to seek additional funds to cover alternates on the bids on the Grantsville and Dennett Road School construction projects.

Hospital's profit for 1978 is listed at $54,544 and the projection for the current year is a profit of $386,400. Sacred Heart finished 1977 with a profit of $85,132 and has a projected profit for 1978 of $273,863.

This is the third year in a row that the commission's disclosure report has demonstrated that the rise in hospital costs in Maryland has been significantly less than the rest of the nation. Maryland hospitals generally had a successful year financially despite the limited rate rise. Maryland hospital rates are above the national average to start with. In 1977, the cost of a patient day averaged $190 in Maryland, according to the commission, and $173.98 nationally. In 1978 the average patient day at a Maryland hospital cost $206.90, 8.75 percent over the previous year.

The commission uses data provided by the hospital to figure the average patient day cost, based on a combination of inpatient days and outpatient visits.

General hospitals in Maryland made a combined net profit of $13.48 million in 1977 and $13.62 million in 1978. The operating profit dropped from $4.91 million in 1977 to $2.70 million last year. But the 48 Maryland general hospitals' projected budget for this year would bring the operating profit back up to $4.28 million.

Fourteen of the total of 58 general and specialty hospitals covered in the commission's report showed net losses for their 1978 fiscal year, while 44 hospitals had profits. Biggest losers were Montgomery General, with a net loss of $869,559, and Greater Laurel-Beltsville, a new hospital that opened in April 1978, whose net loss was $567,763.

Biggest profit-makers were the Johns Hopkins Oncology Center, reporting $2.09 million; South Baltimore General, with $2.03 million, and St. Agnes, with $964,408.

Last year's disclosure report indicated that hospital cost increases in the state were a full six percentage points less than the national average in 1977, and a full three percentage points less than the national average in 1976, leading to an estimated savings to Maryland citizens of $70 million.

The commission put a new system into effect last year that relates hospital charges to type of patient admission. This system, based on diagnosis, gives larger hospitals an incentive to making fewer tests and attempt shorter patient stays, said Harold Cohen, executive director of the commission. "The hospitals have responded very well to the system," he noted.

How to Stretch Your Fertilizer Dollar

• With plant food prices high and supplies on the scarce side, more than ever it pays to pay special attention to the pH level of your soil. As you know, acid soil conditions rob your crops of grow power. Some of the fertilizer you apply is wasted unless lime has been applied previously. To make every dollar of fertilizer expenditure pay off for you, get a soil test from your county agent; then apply the lime you need to neutralize soil acid and insure maximum yields.

Appalachian Coal Boom Not To Reach Anticipated Size

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — A widespread coal boom in eastern Kentucky and other Appalachian states may not materialize as the industry hopes, says Dr. Curt Seltzer of the U.S. Office of Technology and Assessment.

At a recent University of Kentucky seminar on coal and social problems, Seltzer said the regions will likely experience local increases in coal production — but not nearly as great as expected several years ago in the wake of shrinking oil imports and spot energy shortages.

That, Seltzer said, is because people are conserving and other fuel forms are still more popular.

Surface and underground mining in 1977 produced 535 million tons of coal east of the Mississippi River, according to draft projections by his office which does congressional research.

By 1985, up to 590 million tons will be produced, and by 2000, the figure is expected to be between 510 million and 680 million tons.

Eastern state production increases, most likely in underground mining, may lag behind earlier — and higher — predictions because electrical consumption is not growing as fast as once expected. "Conservation is working," Seltzer said.

"Oil and gas will still be around for four to five decades. The outlook is not as bad as we thought for these fuels."

And, Seltzer says, coal is a fuel of last choice for industry. "It's hard to burn, transport and produce." To a lesser extent, nationwide clean air regulations may be affecting output.

Production is largely being limited by demand, not supply, Seltzer said. "We don't need any technological breakthroughs to mine more coal. Health and environmental standards don't need to be relaxed because of unlimited supplies."

Seltzer warned of the social effects of local coal booms on Appalachian communities. "A fast, consumer-oriented growth results from a rapid rise in spendable income."

People spend their money on things like boats or cars since there is little land to buy and few investment opportunities in the community. "The money doesn't go into the development of public services like roads or schools," he said.

Seltzer likened some West Virginia communities to third world countries where more individual or corporate income doesn't result in community development.

"Many West Virginia counties don't need more coal development. They need a broader-based economy. They need other industries to balance the rapid growth."

He also quoted figures predicting between 260 and 371 deaths yearly from coal mining by 2000, and 27,000 to 41,000 disabling injuries. "Are these socially acceptable levels?"

Seltzer urged planned growth in coal-producing communities. He said stepped-up production is usually accomplished at a price "often paid by workers and communities."

U.S. Ambassador To Afghanistan Killed In Kabul

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador to Afghanistan Adolf Dubs was kidnapped in Kabul today and shot to death in a gunbattle between his Moslem extremist captors and police despite urgent U.S. State Department pleas to the pro-Soviet regime not to use force, U.S. spokesmen said.

Dubs, 58, a native of Chicago, was shot in the head in the hotel room where he had been taken by two or three terrorists who ambushed his car as he drove to the embassy in the capital city of Kabul. State Department officials said one terrorist also was killed in the police attack.

The U.S. officials said it was not immediately clear whether Dubs was killed by police or the gunmen, who had demanded the release by the Afghan government of several jailed Shiite Moslem mullahs, or priests.

Scientist Finds Way To Convert Waste Into Fuel

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — A Purdue University scientist says his research team has developed a process to break down cellulose from waste products to make alcohol, which eventually could be used to fuel automobiles.

Dr. Mike Ladish discussed the process during a Senate committee meeting and in an informal meeting with lawmakers and the public Tuesday at the State Capitol.

He said production of the cellulose alcohol could be available within three years to five years.

Ladish said gasohol, a mixture of 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol, can be burned in automobiles now, but some engine modifications will have to be made before automobile engines will be able to burn pure alcohol.

Ladish said most alcohol now being used in gasohol experiments is beverage-grade alcohol. He said the alcohol does not have to be that pure.

"You can use beverage-grade alcohol and take the water out of it and use it for gasohol," he said. "I wouldn't do it. I would rather use it for other purposes."

Ladish said the cellulose alcohol that would be produced under the Purdue project would be made from waste products such as corn stalks, cattails or other residue.

"It is estimated that 50 percent of municipal waste is cellulose," he said.

Chessie, Seaboard Agree To Merge; Will Be Largest National Railroad

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Stockholders of the Chessie System Inc. and Seaboard Coast Line Industries Inc., have voted overwhelmingly to merge their companies to create the largest railroad holding corporation in the nation.

The new parent firm would include six major rail systems with 27,000 miles of track stretching from Michigan to Florida.

The merger must be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and also will be reviewed by the U. S. Justice Department. Final ICC approval of the merger may take up to three years.

The principal rail systems involved in the merger are Chessie's Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio, Western Maryland and their subsidiaries. Seaboard's principal railroads are Seaboard Coast Line, Louisville & Nashville, the Family Lines and their subsidiaries.

Chessie stockholders, voting in person or by proxy, cast 16.4 million shares to 355,000 shares to approve the merger. Shareowners holding about 15 percent Chessie stock did not vote on the merger.

"Now that the shareowners have approved the plan of merger, we are hopeful that the ICC will schedule prompt hearings into the matter so this affiliation can proceed and the public can be the beneficiary of the savings involved a lot sooner," said Chessie Chairman and President Hays T. Watkins.

"This merger will add strength to the railroad industry. The decade of the 1970s has seen perhaps the greatest upheaval in the industry's history. A number of roads in the east and midwest went bankrupt, including the Giant Penn Central."

Under terms of the merger agreement, Seaboard, with 15 million outstanding shares, will exchange stock with the new CSK Corp. on a one-for-1.35 basis per share.

Chessie, however, with 20 million shares outstanding, will exchange stock with the new corporation on only a one-for-one basis. As a result, the new corporation would have 40 million shares outstanding.

"Seaboard has less outstanding shares than Chessie, but each company, in our judgment, will form exactly one-half of the new corporation," Watkins said.

Baltimore Subway Completion Delayed By Defective Beams

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A quarter of the concrete beams made for the elevated section of the Baltimore subway are defective, a state Mass Transit Administration official said Wednesday.

The defects could delay completion of the eight-mile, $721-million subway, said Frank A. Hoppe, the MTA's construction director.

Hoppe said state inspectors found the defects when they tested half-foot thick core samples from the steel and concrete beams. The samples broke when placed under 5,000 pounds of pressure, he said. The beams should withstand 7,000 pounds of pressure.

Of the 17 completed beams, two have holes and "seam lines" were found in others, Hoppe said.

Hoppe said he is "displeased" with the work done by Strescon Industries Inc., the Curtis Bay, Md., company that is manufacturing the 80 to 150 ton beams.

Senate To Vote On D.C. Representation

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The strength of a campaign against giving the District of Columbia full congressional representation will be tested today in the Maryland Senate when the issue comes up for a crucial vote.

Opponents of a resolution calling for ratification of a constitutional amendment that would give the District two senators and at least one representative succeeded Tuesday in delaying a vote on the measure after 2¼ hours of debate.

But the sponsor of the measure said efforts by Sen. Thomas O'Reilly, D-Prince George's, and others to put off $8.9o) the measure this year have not discouraged the majority of supporters backing passage of the resolution.

Sen. Clarence M. Mitchell III, D-Baltimore, said, "We have the votes, it's just a question of holding on to them."

Sen. Edward T. Conroy, D-Prince George's, the measure's floor leader, reluctantly agreed to the postponement Tuesday after Sens. Frederick C. Malkus Jr., D-Dorchester, Howard Denis, R-Montgomery, and others said they needed more time to review an attorney general's opinion regarding the amendment.

The opinion from Attorney General Stephen Sachs concerned whether Maryland could reverse its decision on the amendment during the seven-year period that states have to act on it.

Sachs' opinion said recision was probably not legally permissible, but added that Congress would ultimately be the final arbitor of such a voting switch.

O'Reilly presented the opinion as a last ditch effort to convince his colleagues to put off action on the measure.

"The state of Maryland is rushing headlong into something that it has no business doing," O'Reilly said. "All I'm asking the Maryland General Assembly to do is to wait, to have a little prudence. If we adopt it, the gates are closed. It's all over. It's history."

Conroy vehemently objected to the delay and told O'Reilly that he was well aware that "you want to kill" the resolution and "will use every attempt to delay it."

Sen. John Garrity, D-Prince George's, agreed saying, "I think this body is ready, willing and able to vote this question up or down."

But Sen. John Cade, R-Anne Arundel, said the Senate should not give in to pressure of urban senators pushing for passage of the resolution.

"Whether its poker, business, or war, you know you don't commit everything this early in the game," he said. "It's not something we want to see eased through. Remember the little girls who gave in their freshmen year and those who didn't give in till their senior year. Who was the most sought after later? We shouldn't give in, we shouldn't be rolling over."

Mitchell rose to defend quick action on the measure.

"You can't play cards with human rights," he said. "It hasn't been eased through. It's been on the floor for 10 days."

Justice Department Asks For Review Of Decision In Marvin Mandel Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department Tuesday said it will file a petition asking for a full 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals review of a three-judge panel's decision to overturn the political corruption conviction of former Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel and five co-defendants.

Mandel was convicted in Baltimore's U.S. District Court in August, 1977, of mail fraud and racketeering for promoting race track legislation beneficial to his five co-defendants in return for cash, presents and business investments.

Solicitor General Wade McCree authorized the filing of a petition Feb. 24 asking for a full court review of the Jan. 11 decision by the three-member panel, a Justice Department spokesman said.

Mandel was automatically suspended from office in October, 1977, when he was sentenced to four years in prison. He resumed office for three days in January after the three-judge panel set aside the conviction.

W. Dale Hess, Harry W. Rodgers, and Irvin Kovens were sentenced to four years and fined $40,000 in the case. William Rodgers was sentenced to 20 months and fined $40,000. Ernest N. Cory Jr. received an 18-month sentence.

Mandel, who was getting his shoes shined at the State Capitol in Annapolis when he learned of the Justice Department's decision, said he was not surprised.

"I imagine it's the usual thing that happens," he said. "I guess we'll just have to wait and see."

In its opinion, the three-judge panel said U.S. District Judge Robert Taylor erred in admitting testimony from several Maryland state senators concerning race track consolidation legislation in 1972 that was central to the government's case.

Several senators testified that Mandel, although he vetoed the bill in 1971, actually favored an override in 1972 because several of his friends had secretly obtained an interest in a Maryland track.

Ater the appeals' court decision, federal prosecutors had four choices — they could seek a retrial in Baltimore federal court, take the case to the Supreme Court, drop the charges, or ask the entire appeals court to review the decision.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Daniel Hurson said the filing of the petition does not mean the full seven-member appeals court automatically will review the case.

"The court can say no, they don't have to review it," Hurson said. "It (the approval of the petition) is basically an administrative thing."

Maryland Assistant Attorney General George Nilson said the mere filing of petition for review of the decison does not affect Mandel's back pay. When his conviction was overturned, he became eligible for the pay he lost due to his sentencing.

"In the event the 4th Circuit Court comes out with a different result, then there really are some real questions about the back pay paid to Gov. Mandel and whether he should retain it," Nilson said.

He said he was not surprised the federal government asked for a review of the decision overturning Mandel's conviction.

"I'm, frankly not at all surprised," Nilson said. "I got the clear impression that was what they were going to do. Only if the appeals judges come out with a different result would we have to take a hard look at the back pay, the money, and who ought to pay it to whom."

Army May Reopen Chemical Warfare School in Alabama

ABERDEEN, Md. (UPI) — One-fourth of the Aberdeen Proving Ground's ordinance school would be transferred under an Army proposal to reopen a chemical warfare school at Fort McClellan, Ala. The proposal needs the approval of Defense Secretary Harold Brown.

The Army's recommendation differs from the Pentagon's decision last month to retain the ordinance center and school at Aberdeen.

If implemented, the plan would result in the loss of 3,400 chemical students each year plus the transfer from Aberdeen of 260 military and 32 civilian employees who teach the courses.

An Army spokesman refused to confirm or deny the substance of the recommendation made by Army Secretary Clifford L. Alexander Jr, but acknowledged that a recommendation was sent to Brown.

The Army's chemical school was originally located at Fort McClellan but was closed in 1973 when the courses were dispersed to Aberdeen and the Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala.

Leftist Guerillas Seize American Embassy in Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas captured the American Embassy today in a two-hour gunbattle with 19 U.S. Marines and held Ambassador William Sullivan, 70 Americans and 70 Iranian employes hostage until they were freed by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Moslem marshals.

"It's been an interesting Valentine's Day," Sullivan said after his release. "You win a few, you lose a few."

Two Marines were slightly wounded in the battle and an Iranian employee of the embassy was killed. Two of the attackers were shot to death as they poured into the embassy grounds over the walls by the hundreds, tore down the U.S. flag and wrecked the embassy.

The marauders, described by the Khomeini forces as "Communists," arrived with Molotov cocktails in what witnesses said was an effort to burn down the embassy in a move to "purge" Iran of all American influence.

American officials said all of the attackers were captured or evicted by Khomeini forces and that the Americans were leaving the embassy for their homes. But as dusk fell hundreds of persons still were crouching on nearby rooftops and government marshals said they feared a nighttime attack on the embassy.

"Who knows what's going to happen from here," political officer Miles Green, the first American released from the compound said. "They've wrecked everything."

"An Iranian mess waiter was killed," Green said. He apparently was the only death on the American side.

"We lost communication with Washington about 11 a.m.," Green said. "We've been linking with Washington since through the British."

The pro-Khomeini forces immediately threw an armed cordon around the British embassy nearby to stop any repeat attack on that compound.

Asked if the Americans had destroyed all sensitive documents before the guerrillas seized control, Green said, "We've been burning a lot of stuff lately."

Baltimore Unit Has 66% Success With Head Injury Patients

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Better than a 66 percent success rate in treating severe head injury patients has been achieved at Baltimore's shock-trauma unit if the accident victims have a heartbeat when admitted for emergency treatment.

Dr. Dermot P. Byrnes, chief of the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services, said Tuesday about 80 percent of those surviving patients recover most or all of their faculties, and most are able to return to normal lives.

The shock-treatment unit is located at the institute in the University of Maryland Hospital. State police helicopters transport shock victims to the center within minutes of serious accidents.

The unit's survival rates rank with those at large brain trauma units at the University of Pennsylvania and the Medical College at Virginia, said Byrnes.

Metabolic monitoring, which allows doctors to keep waste products from poisoning injured brain cells, is the secret to the shock unit's success, he said.

"There's a vicious cycle involved and breaking that cycle is what we're about," Byrnes said.

He explained that the cycle begins when reflexes that control breathing are impaired. The lack of oxygen causes waste products to build up, causing the blood to become acidic. But oxygen treatments can keep the blood free of acid, sparing the patient from further brain damage.

Constant metabolic monitoring is then used to make sure that the blood's acidity doesn't increase. The patient is fed intravenously to supply proper nutrients, Byrnes said.

"There's almost nothing we do here that could not be done in a community hospital, but it is simply not done there," Byrnes said. "It's just possible to do it better here because we do it more frequently and we have the facilities."

REACHING TOWARD GOD

People keep teaching their children to say their prayers at bedtime; but how many do it themselves?

Maybe sometimes they pray in the darkness, silently, so that no one will know. But why the secrecy? Because prayer is a very deep, personal kind of expression? Because we reveal ourselves through it?

The truth is that more of us sense the reaching of our souls toward God than have yet openly admitted our religious need.

Why wait? In church you can pray alone or with others . . . in darkness or in light. But always in peace . . . reaching toward God.

The Bible Speaks

By Lawrence W. Althouse

WHAT'S GOD REALLY LIKE?

Lesson for February 18, 1979

Background Scripture: Psalms 22; Matthew 9 through 10; Colossians 1:9-20
Devotional Reading: Psalms 67

On the road between Reading and Lancaster, Pennsylvania there is a pleasant and historic town with the Biblical name of Ephrata. During the Revolutionary War a prominent citizen of that town suffered considerable injury from a fellow townsman of bad reputation. Soon afterward, the offender joined the Continental Army and his military record soon became as disreputable as that of his civilian life. It wasn't long before he was convicted of a serious offense, courtmartialed and sentenced to hanging.

Rev. Althouse

The news soon spread to Ephrata and the gentleman whom the man had wronged set off by foot for Philadelphia to find the army's encampment. When, at last, he found the army he was granted an appointment with General Washington and pleaded for his townsman's life. The General was sympathetic, but he felt that, because of its affect upon discipline in the army, the sentence would have to be carried out. Seeing the disappointment on the man's face, Washington said, "Are you a relative of this man?" "No," he replied. "Then you are his friend?" Washington went on. "No," the man replied again, "that man was my deadly enemy."

My Deadly Enemy

The General found it difficult to understand why a man would so concern himself for the welfare of an enemy, and we probably do too. For a friend, yes — perhaps. But for an enemy! For someone who has tried to injure me in some way or another!

Image Of The Invisible

One of the most persistent questions of humanity has been "What is God really like?" Each religion has offered varying answers to it. Christianity points to a cross and says, "There, that's what God is really like" — a Christ who dies on the cross for those who are his enemies! Writing to the Colossians, Paul said of Christ, "He is the image of the invisible God" (1:15) and "For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell" (1:19). And when the invisible becomes visible and when we behold all the "fullness of God" revealed in Jesus, what do we find? A God whose eternal purpose is "to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven making peace by the blood of his cross" (1:20).

The world in which we live seems constantly on the verge of coming apart. People are estranged from one another. Communities are divided. Nations are split internally and the world community is a warring neighborhood. Northern Ireland is split by warring Protestant and Roman Catholic factions. Lebanon is divided in a civil war by Christians and Moslems, all of them confident that they best know what God is like and what he wants. Whatever these factions represent, however, we know it is not the God who revealed himself in Jesus Christ with a holy passion to reconcile his creatures and unite a broken world.

COLONIAL CUTIES — Several of the girls who participated in the Colonial Living experience at Camp Hickory wore authentic costumes to special functions such as a square dance, complete with fiddler. The children spent last Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, learning how to live without all of our modern conveniences and amenities. Special demonstrations throughout the week included basket weaving, taught by Lynn Richmond, and a demonstration on trapping by State Wildlife biologists. Professional singer, Kathy Eriser, entertained at a Wednesday evening campfire. Tom Parrack demonstrated flintlock rifles, and the entire group travelled to Penn Alps to watch craftsmen create handmade clocks, pottery, and bird carvings.

Protection For Deputies Increased

The Garrett County sheriff's department is ensuring greater protection for its officers in the future, announces Sheriff John Evans, Jr. The action was taken in the wake of the slaying of Deputy David Livengood January 18 in Oakland.

The County Commissioners recently gave permission to increase county police protection, authorizing purchase of new .357 magnum pistols for all deputies to replace the standard .38 police specials.

Each cruiser will be equipped from now on with riot gear, including helmets, shotguns, etc.

"If we are going to put our officers on the front line of fire, then it is our responsibility to equip them accordingly," declared the sheriff.

Various other protective measures undertaken by the department were not divulged by the sheriff for security purposes.

Sheriff Evans has selected Officer David Crossland, presently a patrolman with the Oakland Police Department, to fill the staff vacancy created by the death of Deputy Livengood.

Crossland is an Allegany County native, and has been with the Oakland police force almost two years.

Two Destructions Of Property Noted

The Garrett County sheriff's department is investigating two incidents involving destruction of private property. Incidents occurred in Mt. Lake Park and Green Glade.

Edward Pennington, Naugtuck, W. Va., reported that while his 1977 Chevrolet was parked on Green Glade Road, someone broke the windshield. It appeared that a blunt object had been used to smash the glass. Estimated loss value is $250.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

The dog owner watched in alarm as his two-year-old Cocker Spaniel collapsed on the floor, making frantic, pumping leg motions. Visions of a rabid pet flashed through the man's mind, but quickly passed when he remembered the dog had been immunized during the last visit to the veterinarian's office. A hurried call confirmed the dog's vaccinated status, and suggested another reason for the seizure: epilepsy.

This hypothetical situation describes one of the most alarming experiences a pet owner can have — watching his pet have a seizure, less accurately called a "fit."

A seizure is a series of sudden, involuntary muscular convulsions seen in many animals, but most commonly in the dog. The afflicted animal may run about wildly, bumping into furniture, fall to the ground with its legs thrashing, and temporarily lose control of its bowel functions.

Despite the alarming nature of this activity, a dog having a seizure is not trying to hurt people or other animals. A defect in its brain is simply producing muscle action the pet can't control.

In such situations, attempts at first aid by well-intentioned observers may be dangerous. Even a friendly pet can inflict a serious bite or deep scratches during its uncontrolled movements. The best thing to do is observe the animal from a safe distance and perhaps move chairs or light furniture so the animal won't fall against them. No pet should be tied during a seizure, as the strain of muscle and bone against rope or leash can result in serious injury.

If you realize that your pet is prone to regular attacks, you may be able to identify certain warning signals of an approaching seizure. These signals can include a sudden uneasiness or a frightened or dazed appearance. With some warning, you can escort your pet to a padded open area in a quiet, darkened room to reduce the possibility of injury.

It is important to note that most seizures are very short and end in a few minutes. Any seizure that continues for a longer time may be a symptom of some other condition — poisoning, internal parasites, even a high fever. In any instance of extended convulsions, your veterinarian should be contacted immediately.

A tendency toward epileptic-like seizures does not have to end your pet's relationship with the family. Various prescription drugs effectively control the condition, and permit the pet to live a normal daily existence, although the pet will need medication for the rest of its life. Seizures that result from viral or parasitic infections will obviously need a different type of treatment. In all cases, only a veterinarian can fully diagnose the cause of your pet's convulsions and help you handle them.

YOUR FURNITURE WILL LAST LONGER IF . . .

. . . You remove any liquids spilled on surfaces with a blotting rather than a wiping action.

. . . You use only the right polishes recommended for furniture. A self-polishing floor wax, for instance, can soften the finish of furniture.

. . . You don't try to repair a badly damaged surface yourself. For best results, consult a professional refinisher.

. . . You avoid exposing indoor furniture to strong sunlight. Wood underneath the finish may change in color from prolonged exposure to the sun.

. . . You lift objects to move them, instead of dragging them across the finished furniture surface.

. . . You use pads under hot dishes—even if the finish itself may be highly burn-resistant. The wood underneath the surface can still be hurt.

. . . You use a soft, lint-free absorbent cloth for cleaning and polishing. Don't use cheesecloth since this may contain an abrasive starch.

. . . You always work with the grain of the wood when dusting or waxing.

. . . You shop here, where you can get real furniture values.

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.

DAVY CROCKETT WOULD BE PROUD — As a part of Southern Middle School's Colonial Living Experience conducted at Camp Hickory last week, Larry Steyer, pictured above, and Milton Proudfoot presented a program last Friday on Indian lore and the life of the mountain men. A highlight of the program was a demonstration of muzzle-loading rifles which were hand built by the two modern-day frontiersmen. The three-day camping experience was an enjoyable retreat for approximately 50 children, students of eighth grade teachers, Louie Newcomb and Shirley Spiker.

Deer Park VFD Responds To 111 Calls In 1978

The Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department answered a total of 111 calls in 1978 according to their annual report recently released.

An average of eleven firefighters responded per call giving a total of 1236 man hours logged during the year. The company, which has 44 members, also had a total of 1215 man hours in training given by the University of Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute.

There were 3007 miles logged for the company's five pieces of equipment.

A breakdown of the 111 calls showed that 25 were to a vehicle accident, 21 were mutual aid to other companies in the area, 21—public service, 44—first due calls which included electrical fires, flue fires, trash and brush fires, vehicle fires, lightning fires, gas leak, controlled burning, dryer fire, smoke report, search and rescue, train fire, false alarms, under investigation and miscellaneous.

A spokesman for the department announced that a Special Fires I class began February 7.

Home Births No Longer A Thing Of The Past

By Beverly J. Sincell

Giving birth to a child in the home rather than in the hospital was a necessity in the days of our grandparents; today it has become an increasingly popular practice across the United States.

Young expectant couples are deciding that giving birth in pleasant, familiar surroundings is much more desirable and less expensive than hospital delivery.

As a result, midwives are making a comeback in the medical field. But today's midwife has a few more restrictions than those in the past.

Maryland state law requires that a midwife be a registered nurse and also be certified by the American College of Nurse-Midwives before receiving a license to practice in Maryland.

Currently there is no licensed midwife in Garrett County to assist in home delivery and there is at present little support for the practice.

Dr. William Pope, Deputy State Health Officer and County Health Officer, gave a reason for the lack of support of home delivery. "Safe home birth is possible where certain conditions are present, but these conditions are not fully met in Garrett County at the present time, and home births are therefore discouraged by local physicians and health authorities. Most importantly, there are no licensed midwives in Garrett County, and the physicians do not have the necessary time."

Dr. Pope mentioned that his office "is aware of an unlicensed person who is attending births in Garrett County." He warned that a punishment of an unlicensed person who practices as a midwife is a fine of up to $500, and he hoped to discourage the person from further violation of the law.

American Motors will introduce a line of four-wheel drive passenger cars this year.

John Lefferts Named Friendsville Chairman For Heart Fund Drive

John C. Lefferts, Friendsville, has been appointed business chairman for the 1979 heart fund drive for the Friendsville area, according to Charley B. Miller, general heart chairman, Garrett County-American Heart Association, Western Maryland Chapter.

The annual business collections are underway and will continue through mid-February.

"The percentage of deaths in Garrett County due to heart disease," says Miller, "is higher than the national average (53 percent) which should bring reason to the residents and businesses of the county, that they should support the work of their local Heart Association."

County Resident Involved In Car Accident On I-48

A two vehicle accident involving an Accident man occurred on I-48 near Hazelton, WV, Tuesday, February 6.

Rebecca Walter, 23, of College Park was traveling west in a 1977 Plymouth Arrow when she lost control due to drifted snow and struck a second vehicle, a 1976 Plymouth trail duster, driven by Paul Frank, 42, of Accident.

Damage to the Walter vehicle was estimated at $2,000, while the Frank vehicle sustained $600 damage.

No citations were issued and no injuries were reported.

"No endeavor is in vain; its reward is in the doing."
Longfellow

Food additives are a big topic in the news these days. I recently attended a Nutrition Update seminar at the University of Maryland where "Food Additives" was one of the topics discussed. Much educational information was received at this seminar and I felt that as consumers you would be interested in learning some up-to-date facts about food additives.

The two types of food additives that exist are direct additives and indirect additives. Direct additives are put in the food to perform a function, while indirect additives become a part of the food as a result of the processing. The information here will deal mainly with the first type of additive.

It is important to understand why direct additives are put into food. They are added for the following reasons:

—To enhance flavor
—To improve nutritional value
—To maintain and develop consistency
—To act as a stabilizer
—To thicken
—To control acidity and to make foods taste right
—To act as preservatives
—To prevent microbial growth
—For oxidation
—To give food a more appealing color

You may ask — but are these additives safe? The answer to this is yes. All additives that are presently put in food have been tested by USDA and FDA to prove their safety and many of the additives are continuously being tested and retested. If additives are proven to cause cancer, they are banned.

One of the additives that has been in the news most recently is saccharin. Saccharin is a chemical sugar substitute that was discovered in 1879 and is 300 times sweeter than sugar. Since there is no other approved sugar substitute at the present, two important benefits can be seen in the use of this product: the control of diabetes and weight reduction. Animal feeding studies were done on saccharin to determine its safety and the studies found that when small amounts of saccharin were fed to rats, no cancer occurred and when large amounts were fed to rats, cancer sometimes occurred. Studies have shown that if a person consumes 800 bottles of diet soft drink a day, he could get cancer — that's a lot to drink!

The question of the safety of saccharin comes down to: is it better to be obese by using sugar or to use saccharin and keep your weight down? Until something better comes along, saccharin is an excellent way to help in controlling diabetes and obesity. Evidently, many Americans strongly believe this, because Congress was flooded with consumer letters when they were considering removing saccharin from the market.

Another additive that has been a cause for concern lately is nitrites. Nitrites can be found in bacon, ham, sausage and bologna and are used to prevent botulism, reduce spoilage, add color and add flavor. Interestingly enough, nitrites are found naturally in spinach and beets. Actually, the danger of nitrites was found in only one of the many tests which were performed on nitrites. In this one test only a very small percentage of animals being fed nitrites contracted cancer. Therefore, it once again comes down to — should we leave nitrites in these foods or do we take them out and have a very good chance of getting botulism poisoning? From tests done, a person would have to eat 42,000 pounds of bacon a day to get cancer.

A question that has come into my office in the last two weeks is: what is sodium erythorbate which is found in hot dogs and is it safe? Sodium erythorbate is a chemical which is added to hot dogs, bologna, pre-sliced ham, etc. to brighten the pink color. It is NOT earthworms! It is recognized as safe by USDA and FDA.

With the concern over food additives, one would think that this would be on the top of FDA's list of hazards in food. Actually, it is seventh on the list preceded by microbiological causes, nutritional causes (overeating), environmental contaminants, natural toxicants and pesticide residues. Just remember, all additives are tested and if they rae put in food they are recognized as safe.

FOOD NOTES:

I am pleased that so many of you enjoyed my article on Herman. I hope a lot of you have had fun preparing Herman. The Homemaker Clubs in the county will be having their March foods demonstration on Sourdough Baking and I will be preparing a hand-out with various sourdough recipes, including starters. If you are interested in obtaining these hand-outs, please stop by the Extension Office or call 334-2145. Try using Herman in this recipe:

Sourdough (Herman) Blonde Brownies

½ cup sourdough starter (Herman)
¼ cup melted butter
1 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Measure out sourdough starter. Cream together butter and sugar. Add egg, mix with sourdough starter. Mix together flour, baking soda and salt. Add to sourdough mixture along with vanilla and nuts. Spread in a well-greased 8 inch square pan. Bake at 350°F. about 20 to 25 minutes. Do not overbake. Cut into squares while still warm. Makes 16 brownies.

March 7 Deadline To File Junkyard Variance Permits

March 7 has been announced as the deadline for operators of any existing or non-conforming junkyards to file applications for a junkyard license.

Section 301-A of the new county junkyard ordinance adopted last October provides that the Board of Commissioners for the county may give a variance on standards for existing junkyards, subject to provisions of the ordinance, if operators submit applications to the zoning office on Oak Street before the March 7 deadline.

The zoning office will look over all applications before forwarding them to the Board of Commissioners for final action.

The March deadline applies only to previously existing or non-conforming yards.

In the new ordinance, a junkyard is defined as one which is operated as a business, which means an established property or place of business maintained, operated or used:

For storage or keeping junk for the purpose of buying or selling to someone; or as an automobile junkyard operated or used for storing wrecked, scrapped, ruined or dismantled vehicles or parts for the purpose of buying and selling the same, or used for the purpose of storing more than three wrecked vehicles pending final settlement of insurance matters; or as a garbage dump or sanitary fill (county operated or otherwise); or as a scrap metal processing facility.

The annual license fee beginning with the first license is $75, with a $10 renewal cost each year.

Spelled out in the new ordinance are setback and screening rulings which apply to all junkyards which will be established in the future, as well as for existing operations unless the commissioners grant a variance. After the deadline, junkyards will no longer receive variances but will be required to meet the new standards.

Copies of the ordinance and additional details are available from the zoning office.

The setback ordinance basically states that junkyards must be set 25 feet from right of way lines of public roads, and 500 feet from any recreation or open space areas leased or owned by a government agency. Junkyards must also be at least 200 feet from any residence, school, business, hospital, etc.

Screening requirements stipulate that within nine months the junkyard must be completely screened from view of the public with either fencing (six feet height minimum) or evergreen vegetative screening which must be at least four feet high when planted. The commissioners may indicate which type of screening is required.

The commissioners may waive requirements if setback or screening circumstances warrant such a move. Ordinarily, in making variance decisions, board will hold a public hearing to determine local feelings before making a final decision.

WHY GARRETT COUNTY NEEDS TO OPPOSE THE ROUTE 219 BYPASS

The proposed Rt. 219 Bypass will:

— virtually destroy three beautiful farms. At least two of those farms are productive. The Bypass will threaten the livelihood of these farmers, bisect their property, devalue surrounding residential property and deface the landscape as it destroys nearly 150 acres with a dual-lane highway.

— decrease the assessment base of both Oakland and Mt. Lake Park as retail businesses and housing begin to relocate along the Bypass.

— cause an increase in crime rates by providing easy access and quick "get-aways" for those who make a habit of preying on small, residential, trusting communities.

— increase our community's traffic fatalities by requiring high-speed Bypass traffic to halt at a new major intersection on the Rt. 219 Bypass at Memorial Drive. Presently, Memorial Drive carries a significant amount of local school bus traffic. Therefore, the combination of this traffic and another major intersection would simply be an accident waiting to happen.

The proposed Rt. 219 Bypass will not:

— improve traffic patterns. The Garrett County Planning Commission's own Memorandum 66 stated, "that it is questionable that the Bypass can be justified solely on the basis of accommodating through traffic movements."

— relieve congestion in downtown Oakland. Downtown Oakland has congestion because the people who are creating the congestion need to be in downtown Oakland. A letter from an Oakland merchant to the Planning Commission stated, "The person who drives his car down Second Street wants to be there. It is not as though he had been forced to be there for the lack of a Bypass."

— improve parking in downtown Oakland. In fact, it will hardly solve any of Oakland's problems. The Bypass was intended to expedite Rt. 219 traffic. How many times have you sat through a traffic jam on Rt. 219?

— be progressive. It will merely be progress for progress sake, rather than progress for the good of the community. It will also not be cheap. Even a conservative estimate projected that over 4.5 million of our federal tax dollars would be needed for the proposed Rt. 219 Bypass.

Letters to Editor

Editor:

Please let it be known that I am in opposition to the Maryland State Highway Administration's plans to install the proposed Oakland bypass. My concern is not only as a downtown merchant, but as a resident of Oakland and a taxpayer as well. My reasons for opposition are:

a) I feel the project is a waste of money that is not justifiable based on the studies that have been completed as of the present concerning traffic origin and destination, and, that much of the reasoning regarding the need for the bypass is based on speculation.

b) As it is impossible to predict the effect the bypass will have on the downtown area, I do not wish to jeopardize my livelihood based on assurances that the bypass will be an enhancement to business, when it could in fact be a great detriment to business.

c) I am opposed also to the taking of beautiful farmland for the purpose of installing this bypass. The farms involved add a great deal of natural beauty to the area that simply cannot be replaced and should not be destroyed, particularly for a questionable project.

Thank you for your time in reviewing this letter and please give this project the consideration it demands before a decision is made.

Signed,
An opposing viewpoint

Dear Sir:

As an Oakland Merchant, I would like to go on record in opposition to the proposed Oakland Bypass.

Perhaps of primary consideration is the fact that the Bypass will destroy and devalue acreage of beautiful farmland. I strongly feel that the Bypass is a very questionable endeavor — but even if we were assured that the project would not have a detrumental effect on the downtown Oakland area, we would still have to justify the effect on the farmers for the sake of the masses.

I think the proposed Bypass would be an unfair expenditure of federal tax dollars. It should require much more detailed study than has already been done. Let's spend the estimated 4.5 million dollars on feasibility studies and then build a Bypass if the public consensus agrees.

Sincerely,
A concerned citizen

Dear Editor:

I would like to go on record as being opposed to the present plan to build the Oakland bypass. In addition to destroying some of the most beautiful farmland in the area I do not feel the present plan is based on enough detailed study. I think any decision regarding the installation of this bypass should be delayed until a totally exhaustive study is completed and the facts presented to the citizenry of the city and county. Also, the merchants of downtown Oakland deserve more than just speculation as to the effect the bypass will have on their interests.

Sincerely,
Kathleen M. Eriser
705 E. Alder Street
Oakland, Md. 21550

Dear Editor:

A review of the recent Memorandum 66 issued by the Garrett County Planning Commission concerning the proposed Oakland By-pass makes one wonder exactly what purpose the By-pass will serve. The memo states, "besides improved highway safety, there are two other basic reasons for constructing the Oakland By-pass . . . improving system continuity and relieving traffic congestion."

System continuity is the concept that traffic should be able to move along a major highway with as few interruptions as possible. The interruption in this particular case is Oakland.

The memorandum also states, "There are no studies indicating the exact amount of such 'through' traffic, but it is questionable whether the By-pass could be justified solely on the basis of accommodating 'through' movements" (solely on U.S. 219).

How do the proponents of this project justify its need, even partially based on "system continuity" since they admittedly have no statistics that reveal what portion of the traffic is actually "through traffic?"

Placing a high-speed, four-lane highway between Oakland and two schools, Broad Ford Elementary and Southern Middle (whose combined enrollment is 1,251 students), and then making school buses stop at, and cross an unsignaled intersection, is hardly a boon to public safety.

According to Tim Dugan, the only traffic control device planned for this intersection is stop signs on Memorial Drive where it crosses the By-pass.

The other argument used by proponents is that the By-pass will relieve traffic congestion in the downtown area. Although no conclusive studies have been completed concerning the origin and destination of downtown traffic, they are merely "speculating" it will relieve congestion. There is no room for speculation in a project of this magnitude.

Sincerely,
Douglas R. Railey
Oakland

Dear Editor:

The first time I gave any serious thought to Oakland 219 bypass was about two years ago. I went to Addison, Pa., to check on some family history. There was a lovely sleepy town with a toll-house and hotel. At one time this was a thriving town until Route 40 bypass.

Fact is you don't have to go very far in any direction to find towns or small cities that have been affected by bypasses. Cumberland is a prime example. They have had to build a mall in order to try to reclaim their lost clientele.

I feel that if the flow of traffic isn't destroyed, Oakland can continue to grow. The merchants can continue to keep their merchandise up in quality and their prices competitive. They also will continue to improve their buildings and the town in general.

Some of the traffic congestion will be alleviated when the courthouse building program is completed.

These are just a few reasons I am opposed to the bypass.

Yours truly,
Nancy Helbig

Dear Sirs:

I strongly oppose the proposed Oakland Bypass for the following reasons:

1. I feel that we are rushing headlong into a very questionable construction project that is liable to have a damaging and permanent effect on the downtown Oakland merchants, the Oakland residents, and the employees.

2. Construction of a bypass will ruin three beautiful farms, devalue surrounding property, and from an aesthetic point of view, will deface the scenery that the affected homeowners now enjoy.

3. I feel that insufficient studies were done in the determination that we need a bypass. In these days of proposition 13-type expenditure cuts, I consider the construction of a bypass a needless waste of our Federal tax dollars. Cheaper and more viable solutions are open to us.

4. It is quite possible that the construction of a bypass will insure the economic advantage of the Mt. Lake Park business area over the Oakland business community; in short, Oakland would be destined to become an economic wasteland. Priorities should be considered. The Oakland merchants have been in existence far longer than most of Mt. Lake Park merchants. In addition, Oakland is the county seat and anything that would have a detrimental effect on Oakland could indirectly affect the entire county. With the highest unemployment rate in Maryland,with the exception of one other county, we can't afford to make decisions that could jeopardize the livelihood of our employees.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Michael Hall

Editor:

As a merchant in downtown Oakland, and a resident of Mt. Lake Park, Maryland, I would like to go on record as being opposed to the present plans by the Maryland State Highway Administration to install the Oakland Bypass. I do not feel that the present plan reflects a decision based on enough detailed study of the traffic situation in the downtown area and I also do not feel that we should spend this money just because it is available or out of fear that if we do not take advantage of it someone else will. Perhaps the wise solution would be to experiment with alternative plans in the downtown area in an attempt to alleviate the congestion, before we jump into a project as costly and involved as this is.

Signed,
Anti-Bypass

Dear Editor:

In reference to the proposed Oakland bypass I would like to submit the following figures based on the traffic count between Third Street and Ninth Street in Oakland. According to the State Highway Administration, the average daily total of vehicles traveling on Oak Street between these two points is 11,700. That figure may not sound too astounding until you consider the following. If you assume that the average length of a vehicle is 15 feet, and multiply that figure by the daily number of cars, which is 11,700, that is a total of 175,500 feet, or 33.24 miles. Now assume that the average speed of these vehicles is 25 m.p.h., which is the posted speed limit in that area. If each car were to maintain one car length distance for each ten miles per hour of speed, this would be a distance of 2.5 car lengths, or 37.5 feet. , 37.5 feet multiplied by the average daily total of 11,700 equals 438,750, or 83.10 miles. Add the 83.10 to the previous figure of 33.24 miles and that gives us a grand total of 116.34 miles. That's quite a string of traffic to travel between a six block portion of town. From a standpoint of time, that would be 487 cars per hour, 8 cars per minute, or, 1 car every 7.5 seconds 24 hours per day. Since I think it would be relatively safe to assume that most of the traffic is traveling the street between the hours of 5:00 a.m. and 12:00 a.m., that would increase the above figures even more! Could there be an error in the traffic count? The figures I have just given make me think it is a very definite possibility. I feel that before we begin this bypass project, that there should be a recount of all traffic on each main street, as well as a study of the origin and destination of the traffic.

Sincerely,
Joseph E. Helbig

Editor:

If the proposed Oakland bypass is constructed a terrible waste of farmland will occur. Farming operations will have to cease on the two active farms involved. What makes this project so wasteful is that the State Highway Administration does not know where the traffic in Oakland is coming from, where it is going, and how much of it is actual through traffic on Rt. 219 South of Oakland. With this total lack of knowledge they are still willing to put a dual lane high-speed highway that will bridge over Dennett Road and Oak Street and destroy approximately 100-150 acres of valuable farmland. This is being done without knowledge of how much of downtown traffic does not want to be there and whether that particular traffic would be in a position to use the bypass.

A little foresight on the part of the Highway Administration would show that Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Deer Park area are expanding and growing together. At the discretion of the individual farm owner affected by the Oakland bypass part or all of his land could someday by developed for residential purposes. Once the bypass is built the farmer (and ultimately Oakland, Mt. Lake Park, and Garrett County) will lose very valuable land both for the present and the future.

Terry Helbig

Gentlemen:

While driving through small towns that have had a bypass built around them I notice that there were always quite a few business places that had been forced to close because of this bypass, this included some very expensive motels.

I feel this is what will happen to Oakland should a bypass be built. Oakland does have a traffic problem at Third and Oak Street but this could be relieved considerably by rounding off the north east corner by just 6 or 8 feet.

In view of the fact that we face shortage and increase in price of gasoline that we will have a decrease in the amount of traffic on Route 219 and that this bypass would be a waste of money.

I also feel that if a really accurate traffic count were made it would show nearly all 219 traffic, both north and south, would be people going to and from Oakland to shop and work in Oakland. This being the county seat quite a few people work and do business in Oakland.

I also want to state that the building of this proposed bypass would not affect my property in any way, I just feel that it is not necessary.

Thank you,
Sherman M. White

Dear Editor:

I have 20 years of soil conservation experience working with farmers to improve and protect our natural resources. I wish to voice my opposition to the Oakland Bypass.

The good farmland lost to the bypass will be gone forever. The expense of installing conservation practices such as tile drainage, contour strips, windbreaks, lime applications, etc. will be lost on these farms both to the farmer and the government.

Sincerely,
William F. DeBerry

$100,000 TAX SAVING ON HOME SALE

Prior to the 1978 Tax Reform Law, someone who sold a house and bought a new one within 18 months did not have to pay any tax on his profit unless the new one cost less than he got for his old one.

The new law now permits a one-time exclusion of up to $100,000 of profit on a home sale. To qualify, an individual must be 55 years old and have owned and occupied the house for three out of the previous five years before the sale. Also, profit on the sale is not subject to the minimum tax. These changes are retroactive to July 26, 1978.

The previous tax law limited homeowners to one tax-free "rollover" every 18 months. The 1978 Tax Reform Law now allows more than one tax-free move up to a more expensive home if the homeowner moves for employment reasons. The $100,000-age 55 exemption replaces completely the previous tax break for owners over age 65 who sold their homes and were able to exclude the first $35,000.

ASCS Says Farm Economy Improving

Heading into 1979, the agricultural economy is strong compared to a year ago with the 1978 gross farm income expected to reach $122 billion, Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Crowl said: "The 1978 net farm income jumped 30 percent to $26 billion and it is forecast to reach about $29 billion in fiscal 1979. Crops generally were good, grain supplies excellent in 1978, and demand for farm products was high. Exports of farm commodities moved out at a fast pace in the summer and fall. Even with the large 1978 harvest, prices did not suffer as they normally do. This is primarily due to participation in the voluntary set-aside and reserve programs, along with an increased emphasis in finding markets overseas."

This increase in exports came with large harvests throughout the world in the past several years which rebuilt global grain stocks.

"We are making headway in our battle to improve farm prices. Although we have not achieved as much progress as we would like, we have made improvements and expect further improvements in 1979," Crowl said.

VENUS' TEMPERATURE

Although this planet is closer to the Sun than the Earth is, it should have the same temperature as Earth. This is because the cloudy atmosphere of Venus reflects much of the solar radiation reaching the planet. The combination of high reflectivity and nearness to the Sun should cause Venus to be about the same temperature as Earth. However, the Venusian surface is very hot, 900°F (475°C). Evidently there is some mechanism in the atmosphere of Venus that traps heat and circulates it evenly over the whole planet. Temperature is the same all over Venus, at the poles, equator and on both the day and night sides.

MOON

Monday, the moon passes through its Last Quarter phase at 8:17 p.m. Moonrise will be at 8:28 this evening. Next Tuesday, moonrise will occur early in the morning at 1:24 a.m. A waning moon is visible all week.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn remain the most easily observed planets in the night sky. Venus rises before the sun and is visible about two hours prior to sunrise. Jupiter is visible in the southeast at sunset as are its background stars, Cancer. Saturn, visible against a background of Leo, follows Jupiter by about three hours.

DAYLIGHT INCREASES

Fourteen minutes more daylight will be available at the end of the week. Sunrise was at 7:12 this morning. Sunset will be 10 hours 40 minutes later at 5:52 p.m. Tuesday morning sunrise will be at 7:05. Sunset will be at 5:59 p.m.

The Mystery Of A Solar Eclipse

By Jim Willis

"With hue like that when some great painter dips, His pencil in the gloom of earthquake and eclipse . . ." the poet Shelley wrote. Through the years, artists, poets, writers, and scientists have tried to capture one of our greatest natural wonders — the solar eclipse.

On February 26, Garrett Countians will see 45% of the sun obliterated by the moon. Unlike earlier civilizations, modern man is unlikely to fear such an occurence, but rather view it with excitement as the last visible eclipse of the sun until after the year 2000.

A solar eclipse occurs when the moon, during its normal monthly cycle, passes between the earth and the sun.

What an observer will see during such an occasion depends on his location on the earth. Observers in Bismarck, North Dakota and Portland, Oregon, as well as much of the northwestern United States, will see a much more spectacular sight than observers in the eastern United States. For those in the northwest, a total solar eclipse will take place — the moon will pass directly in front of the sun covering it completely.

Observers in Garrett County, due to their location, will witness a partial solar eclipse. According to James R. Hart, director of the Garrett County Planetarium, the moon will visibly begin to blacken the sun at approximately 10.53 a.m. During the next two hours the sun will continue to be blocked by the moon until 45% of its surface will be covered, peaking at 12:10 p.m. EST. The moon will have completed shielding the sun by 1:26 p.m. EST.

The moon will block out the sun's light in a path originating over the Pacific and across the northwest at 1500 mph. The swath of darkness will cut through Montana and North Dakota, then arc northward through Canada. Totality — the moments when the sun is completely blocked by the moon — will last as long as two minutes in many cities.

At approximately 10:45 a.m., local time, the eclipse will be visible throughout Manitoba, then curve up over Hudson's Bay for its completion in Greenland at sunset. It will be the last total eclipse in North America this century.

The partial eclipse will be visible across North America and the Atlantic, to France.

A portion of the sun, its corona, is normally invisible in the sun's glare. It will appear during moments of totality. A favorite for eclipse photographers, the corona is a fiery halo of gas streaming as much as a quarter million miles from the sun.

Our first records of an eclipse come from engravings on ancient Chinese oracle bones dating back to 1200 B.C. In those days, the mandarins thought that a gigantic dragon was devouring the sun. Entire populations would take to the streets and scream loudly to frighten the predator away. Eventually the dragon turned on his heels and ran.

It is perhaps easier to explain why there is an eclipse, than why there is not an eclipse. An eclipse does not occur everytime the moon travels between the earth and the sun because the lunar orbit is slightly out-of-synch with the earth's. The two points where the moon crosses the ecliptic — the path the sun takes across our sky — are the lunar "nodes," where eclipses are bound to occur.

The nodes, significant in astrology, are known as the "dragon's head" and the "dragon's tail," alluding to the ancient Chinese mythology.

Normally the sun passes through the lunar nodes twice a year, and at least one eclipse, sometimes two, occur. The moon is by necessity "new" during an eclipse, because its source of illumination, the sun, is on the farthest side from the earth.

Lunar eclipses often happen two weeks after a solar eclipse, and one will follow the February 26 solar eclipse. This is caused by the lunar orbit continuing around us into the earth's shadow.

There may be as many as five solar eclipses in a year, or as few as two, although these are relatively rare events. It is estimated that a person living in the same town all their life could expect to see a lunar eclipse less than once a year, and partial eclipses of the sun less than every two years. They would, in all probability, view only one total eclipse — and if they did, there would be no repitition in the same area for another 360 years.

Early astronomers discovered that if in a given year, a particular sequence of eclipses occurred, similar sequence would probably occur after one saros. A saros is the Greek name given to this interval, first discovered by the early Assyrians and Babylonians.

Shorter periodicities, such as 41 and 47 months, also exist but are less accurate for predicting eclipses. Various periodicities were discovered and used by early astronomers to predict eclipses.

February's eclipse is the fourth this century: the first across the eastern states on January 24, 1925; the next through Alaska on February 4, 1943; and the third across Europe on February 15, 1961.

This interval of 18-odd years, caused by the sun, moon, and earth realigning in about the same position, was outlined by the ancient Babylonians around 550 B.C. However, each new occurence is eight hours out of step, projecting each recurring eclipse on a different continent. Many can be viewed only over oceans, polar caps, or uninhabited land. The fact that total eclipses are relatively rare in populated areas increases their value to scientists and observers.

Many have observed a "shadow band" — quickly moving patches of light and shadow — just before and after totality. These are difficult to photograph and there is still no acceptable explanation for them.

Other unusual phenomena include "solar sonic booms" sometimes heard during eclipses. It is theorized that these are caused as our atmosphere suddenly cools with the dimming of the sun's rays. Sudden changes of temperature are often transferred into sound, such as the sound of cracking ice when it is placed in a warmer temperature.

A possible sight in a winter eclipse may be "sundogs," two extra images of the sun, believed to be caused by ice crystals in the earth's atmosphere.

More regular features of every total eclipse include the "diamond ring," and "Bailey's Beads." The diamond ring effect is created as the moon has nearly covered the sun's disk, so that only the slightest portion remains visible. The brilliant, scintillating effect that results is more powerful than the glint from all the diamonds in the world.

Bailey's Beads occur after the diamond ring. The Beads are small pockets or reddish/yellow light shining through valleys and inner craters of the moon's irregular surface once the sun's light is blocked. Each of these features lasts only a few seconds, making them one of the rarest sights to be witnessed.

Of course heavy cloud cover has been known to spoil the whole spectacle and is the deadliest enemy of scientists and other observers. Just before a 1961 eclipse, the Russians seeded a cloud bank near the Crimean peninsula, and succeeded in punching a large enough hole for scientists to watch through. Experts explain that seeding won't be tried in North America, even if February 26 dawns totally overcast. Faster winds, and lower temperatures that freeze clouds into ice particles, will make seeding pointless.

Scientists have an enormous interest in eclipses. They present a fleeting chance to conduct experiments under conditions that can be very revealing about both our atmosphere and the sun itself.

In the past, important discoveries have been made through eclipses. The featherweight gas, Helium, still used to blow up carnival balloons, was first found during an 1868 eclipse. And Einstein's relativity theory was tested during an eclipse in 1925, coming up substantially correct.

Other benefits of past eclipse research include improved radio and TV communications and satellites, and a better all-around understanding of our upper atmosphere.

This eclipse, scientists from several countries will be launching half a dozen research rockets into the path of totality. One experiment will test oxygen bonding in the upper air. It may reveal whether the ozone layer, that shields the earth from excess radiation, had been damaged by aerosol sprays, as some scientists fear.

Other experiments will be aimed at the sun. Study of its surface conditions may unlock the secrets of nuclear fusion, the clean and practically limitless energy source that powers the stars.

Planetarium director, James Hart, stresses that those who observe the phenomena should be cautioned as to the effects which may occur while viewing. No person should look directly at a partial solar eclipse without protection to the eyes. Direct eye contact may result in permanent physical damage to the retina. Shade #14 arc welder's glass can be used to protect the eyes and view the eclipse. Perhaps the safest and most economical method of viewing is the pinhole projection, illustrated on this page.

Those of us in the east who won't be content with just a partial eclipse, will have to be patient. A total eclipse will appear above the St. Lawrence River . . . in the year 2024.

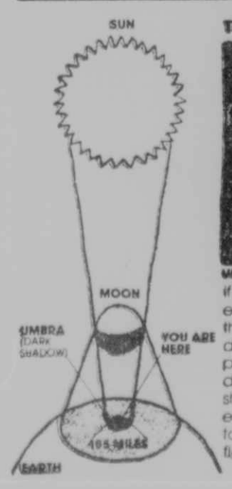
PARTIAL ECLIPSE

VIEW FROM EARTH

If the moon is not in direct line with the sun and your position on earth, you may experience a partial eclipse. Only a fraction of the sun disappears from view during a partial eclipse because the lighter part of the sun's shadow, the penumbra, doesn't block the sun completely.



TOTAL ECLIPSE

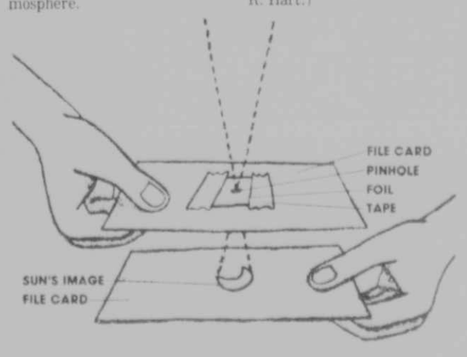
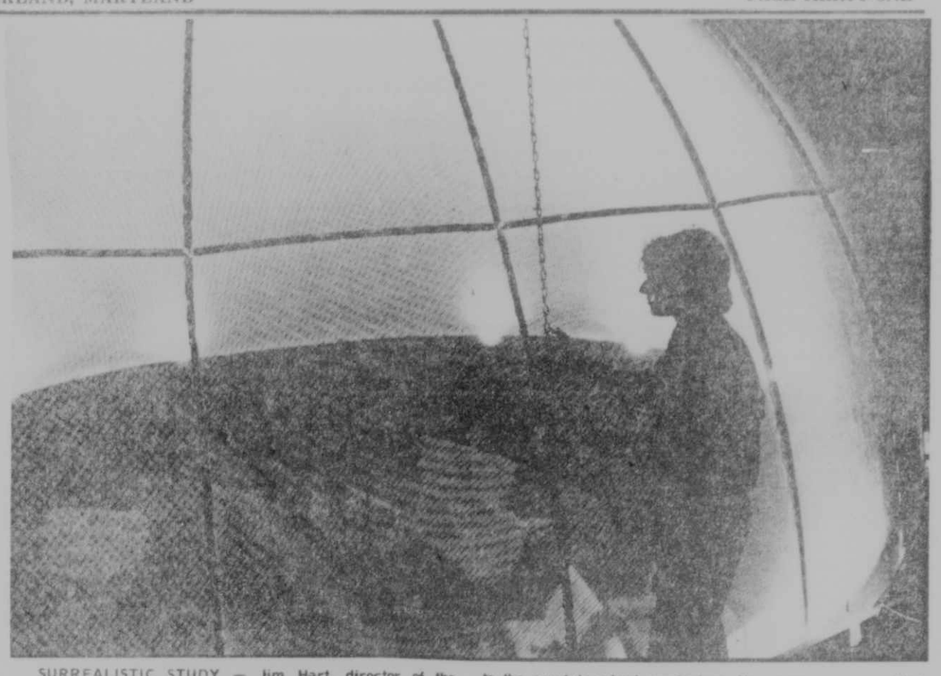
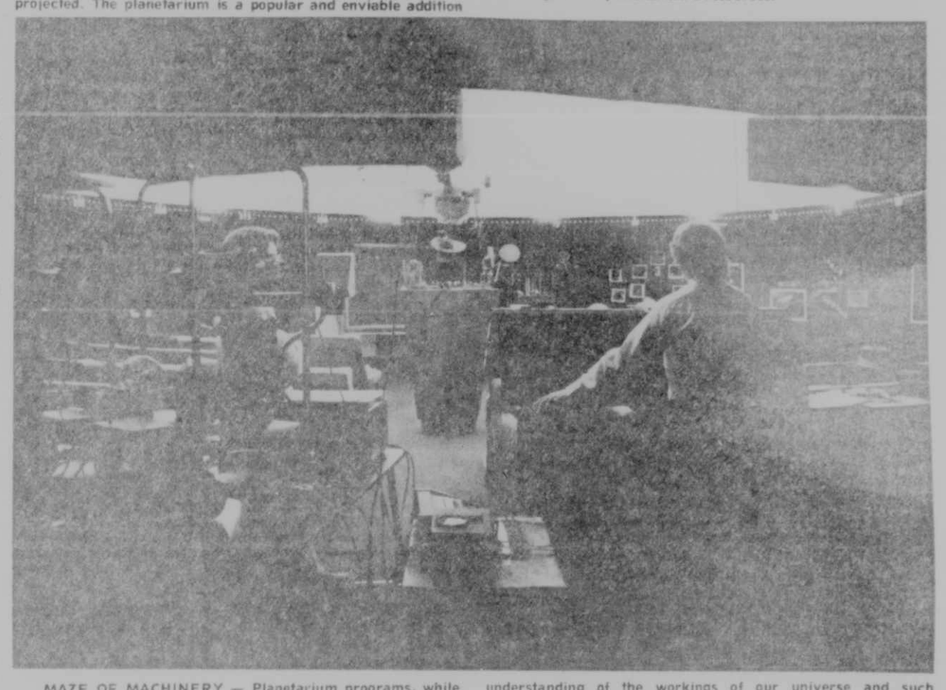
If the moon is close to the earth and in direct line with the sun and earth, the sun appears to be covered completely. Those who are in the darkest part of the sun's shadow, the umbra, experience a total eclipse. During a total eclipse the sun's corona flashes very brightly.



With a pin, poke a hole in a 3-by-5-inch file card. Through the pinhole, focus the image of the sun on a second file card. To make a clearer image, cut a hole about 1 cm in diameter in a file card and tape a piece of foil over it. Then puncture the foil with a pin.



SURREALISTIC STUDY — Jim Hart, director of the Garrett County Planetarium, oversees the seating area with its perforated aluminum dome on which the "sky shows" are projected. The planetarium is a popular and enviable addition to the county's school curriculum. New programs are added whenever possible, so that each grade level may take full advantage of the planetarium's resources.



MAZE OF MACHINERY — Planetarium programs, while entertaining, are even more valuable on an educational level. Sophisticated machinery controls hundreds of slides, film strips, recordings and background music in the presentation of a sky show. The programs give students a clearer understanding of the workings of our universe and such phenomena as the February 26 solar eclipse. Pictured above, Jim Hart, masterfully controls the myriad of switches and knobs that control the intricate machinery.

PARAGON OF PROJECTORS — The sophisticated projector, also called a planetarium, can duplicate the heavens with its revolving starball and special effects. Such realism is essential to teaching students the elements of astronomy, and even scientists turn to a planetarium's capabilities which often provide them with optimum conditions for study.

The Almanac

Today is Wednesday, February 14, the 45th day of 1979 with 320 to follow.

This is Valentine's Day.

The moon is moving from its full phase to its last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Mercury.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

American suffrage leader Anna Howard Shaw was born February 14, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1886, the West Coast citrus industry was born as the first trainload of oranges left Los Angeles for eastern markets.

In 1903, President Theodore Roosevelt signed a law creating a Department of Commerce and Labor.

In 1933, an eight-day bank holiday was declared in Michigan in a Depression-era move to avert a financial panic, and $50 million was rushed to Detroit to bolster bank assets.

In 1977, a gunman with Nazi sympathies killed five people in New Rochelle, N. Y.; then shot himself to death.

A thought for the day: Theodore Roosevelt, the 26th U. S. President, said, "No man is justified in doing evil on the ground of expediency."

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to Assessment Answers — James Burley in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

Q. Recently I had a hearing before the Property Tax Assessment Appeal Board on my assessment increase. A few weeks later I was notified that the assessment was reduced and assumed this was the end of the matter. A few weeks later, I received a notice instructing me as to a date and time to appear before the Maryland Tax Court as the assessor had appealed the reduction granted me by the Property Tax Assessment Appeal Board. This will now mean two days off work, and it seems to me I should not be involved in this hearing since it is between the Property Tax Assessment Appeal Board and the assessor in this hearing before the Maryland Tax Court.

A. The appeal procedure is a two-way street, designed to protect the property owner in his right to an equitable assessment and the taxing authority to uniform assessments so that one property bears no more than his fair share of the tax burden and another no less. A low assessment can be just as damaging to uniformity as one that is too high.

Each supervisor of assessments and all individual assessing officers have taken an oath to uphold the assessment laws and assess property uniformly. If a reduction is made by an appeal board, or other authority, that cuts across uniformity or otherwise impairs the validity of an assessment, then the assessor has no choice but to appeal this action.

Proceedings before the tax court are de novo, meaning that the hearing starts over again, and will not be influenced by the decision of any previous assessing authority.

All of us could be sued or find ourselves defendants in a lawsuit at one time or another. When we are, the court demands our appearance. Courts work this way. While this may seem unjust, remember that you are defending your right to a reduction, and if you do not appear, there will be no rebuttal. Without your presence to defend and uphold the reduction, the odds are that the courts, faced with undisputed evidence presented by the assessor, will have no choice but to reverse the reduction granted to you by the appeal board, raising the assessment to its former level.

Throughout the entire appeal procedure, the case is between the property owner and the initial assessing authority, and the property owner never surrenders this right.

The tax court, as well as the appeal board, are independent bodies to provide for checks and balances. The tax court was established deliberately to separate the powers and functions of assessing from the judgment of these assessments for the protection of the taxpayer.

Your appearance at the tax court may be unfair and is certainly inconvenient but necessary for the protection of your rights as a taxpayer.

Q. I may have made a mistake. Last year, guided by the 15% tax limit, I decided not to contest my new assessment. Now I am wondering if I will get stuck for the full amount of the tax on the new assessment next year, or will I pay just on another 15%.

Also, since I have decided to contest my assessment this year, I made a request for the copy of my worksheet. Do I have to go to the assessments office to pick this up?

A. The 15% limit on the tax increase expires this year unless it is again extended. The indications, at the moment, are that it has a good chance of being extended for another year unless the Legislature passes something better to take its place.

For this year, your tax will be based on the lower of the two: your present assessment plus 15%, or your new assessment. You can determine the amount by multiplying your current assessment by 115%.

If your present assessment is, say, $20,000, then multiply this by 115%. This will you give you $23,000. Your property tax will be figured on this amount. If your new assessment happens to be $30,000, you will pay only on the $23,000, not the $30,000 because it is the smaller of the two. The tax on the $7,000, the difference between the old assessment plus 15% and the new assessment, will be returned to you in the form of an automatic tax credit on your property tax bill.

On the other hand, if your new assessment is only $22,900, your tax will be on the full assessment because the increase is still under the 15%.

Next year, assuming the law is extended, your tax would be computed on the $23,000 plus 15%, or $26,450, or the new assessment, whichever is the lesser amount. Your would not go back and figure the 15% on the $30,000, but on the old assessment figure plus 15%. If the law is not extended, the tax would be based on the $30,000, or the new assessment figure if the property is reassessed in the meantime.

Your worksheet will be mailed to you, and you should have it in your hands before your hearing. If it does not arrive in time, you can have your appeal hearing postponed.

Judge Thayer Hears Six Juveniles

Breaking, entering and larceny were among charges against six juveniles heard last week by Judge Fred A. Thayer.

A 17-year-old male was found to be delinquent by reason of breaking and entering and larceny of a vehicle of an Oakland establishment. The youth was committed to the Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene for placement in the Maryland Training School for Boys.

Two 16-year-old males were found to be delinquent having been charged with larceny of gasoline from a school bus. Both were placed under supervision of the Juvenile Services Administration for an indefinite period. Each was fined $25 and had his driver's license suspended for seven months.

A 13-year-old male was found to be in need of supervision because of misconduct at Northern High School. He was committed to the custody of the Department of Juvenile Services for placement in the Long Stretch Home, Inc.

A male 8 years old and a female 9 years old were found to be in need of assistance and were placed in custody of the Department of Social Services for placement with foster parents.

Fur Trappers Try To Organize Local Chapter

The Maryland Fur Trappers Association has taken its first steps toward forming a chapter in Allegany and Garrett Counties, according to Mark Valentine, a spokesman for the organization.

Valentine, a Cumberland native and presently a graduate student in wildlife management at the Appalachian Environmental Laboratory at Frostburg State College, is organizing the chapter.

"We're hoping to attract as many trappers as possible from Allegany and Garrett," he said. "What with fur prices rising and everybody and his brother getting in on the act, our aim is to inform trappers of legislation affecting them and to offer some education for the newcomers to the trade."

About 35 trappers have paid the five-dollar membership fee and attended the meetings, scheduled the second Tuesday of every month.

According to Valentine, "They're not just kids coming out, either. We have dads and their sons, and even a 90-year-old grandfather who still runs a trapline in Garrett County."

"Of particular importance to all trappers is our emphasis on education. Every trapper has had experience with someone plopping his traps nearly on top of his own. We hope to spell out a few rules of etiquette on the trap line to the newcomers in our educational program," Valentine concluded.

Appeals Court Upholds Leuschner Murder Conviction

ANNAPOLIS — (UPI) The Maryland Court of Special Appeals upheld Thursday the conviction of Ellwood Leuschner for murdering one Salisbury youth and charged with killing another.

In an unanimous decision by a three-judge panel, the state's second highest court dismissed five separate arguments by Leuschner's attorney that evidence had been improperly admitted during his trial.

Leuschner was convicted by a Garrett County Circuit Court jury on June 26, 1978, on the October 1977 stabbing death of William "Rusty" Marine Jr., a 9-year-old neighbor of Leuschner's in the Naylor Mill Mobile Village in Salisbury.

Leuschner is awaiting trial on charges of murdering 10-year-old Troy W. Krause in July 1977. The bodies of both boys were found in shallow graves on an isolated Wicomico County farm.

Tax Offices To Be Open Monday

"On the same day that most State offices close to honor the father of our country, today's working fathers and mothers can still find out more about Maryland's new child care deduction and other State income tax changes," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein has announced. The Comptroller said that all offices of the Maryland State Income Tax Division will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Monday, February 19, the day most State offices will be closed in observance of George Washington's birthday.

"This year, for the first time, about 30,000 Maryland taxpayers can benefit from a new State income tax deduction for child or dependent care costs," Mr. Goldstein said. "Working parents can now deduct actual child or dependent care costs to a maximum of $2,000 for one child or $4,000 for two or more children."

Anyone claiming this deduction — designated as a "subtraction modification" — must include a completed Federal income tax form 2441 with the Maryland income tax form 502.

"Please note that this is a tax deduction and not a tax credit as allowed on the Federal return," Mr. Goldstein noted. "As such, it will save qualified Maryland taxpayers about $8 million this year, with a maximum savings of $150 for one dependent and $300 for two or more."

The Federal form 2441 is available along with all Maryland tax forms at every Maryland State income tax office. "Taxpayers who want to have their 1978 Maryland income tax returns completed free of charge should bring with them a completed copy of their Federal tax form and all W-2 statements. They may also phone in for assistance," Mr. Goldstein said.

The addresses and telephone numbers of State income tax offices are listed on the back of the Maryland income tax packet and in local telephone directories.

At the start of 1979 Americans had about $387 billion invested in 77 million savings accounts, a $51 billion increase in a year.

WISHING FOR AN ELECTRIC RANGE — Barb Reams, an eighth grader at Southern Middle School, stirs a pot of soup over an open hearth fire during last week's Colonial Living Experience at Camp Hickory. In addition to cooking their own meals, the children made their own butter, ice cream and soap. They also trekked a mile and a half to carry water, butchered their own chickens, baked their own bread and chopped their own wood. This was the first time in four years that the worthwhile program was conducted at Camp Hickory. It was sponsored by the camp fund of the Garrett County Board of Education.

Bolden Seeks To Enlarge Committee; Attacks Congress On Energy Question

Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett and Allegany) has introduced legislation, H.B. No. 777, that would increase by two the number of representatives on the Land Reclamation Committee.

One member would be appointed from that part of Allegany County that comprises Legislative District 1-A. Delegate Bolden said, "The George's Creek area, a district where most of the coal is produced in our county, is not represented on this committee. The other member will be appointed from Garrett County. Each of these members will represent the local government of each county. Presently, other members on this committee represent the mining industry and the general public. These new members will be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the House of Delegates."

Delegate Bolden commended the work and effort of the present Land Reclamation Committee and said that he felt these additional members would be of great help to them.

Delegate Bolden also announced that he has introduced a Resolution requesting the Congress of the United States to once again endeavor to initiate an energy policy for this nation.

"Once again," Delegate Bolden said, "we are faced with a gasoline shortage and ensuing economic hardship upon our citizens because of the internal strife in Iran. The loss of oil supplies from this nation could lead to gasoline rationing this summer. Since 1973 when the Arab oil embargo took place up to this time there has been little done to provide for alternative energy sources such as the use of our massive coal reserves.

"President Nixon boasted about making this nation independent of foreign energy supplies by the early 1980's by turning to sources other than oil, especially coal. There are 450 million tons of recoverable coal in Garrett County and the market place is soft for this product, mainly because of the lack of leadership from our federal government by demanding the conversion of oil-fired power plants to coal.

"We have been caught short," Bolden further stated, "two times in the last six years and it is about time our Congress got off of 'dead center' and began to look after the needs of the people."

Bean Supper Slated

There will be a cornbread and bean supper Saturday, February 17, at the Swanton Community Center from 4 to 8 p.m.

Management Film Festival Scheduled March 1 At GCC

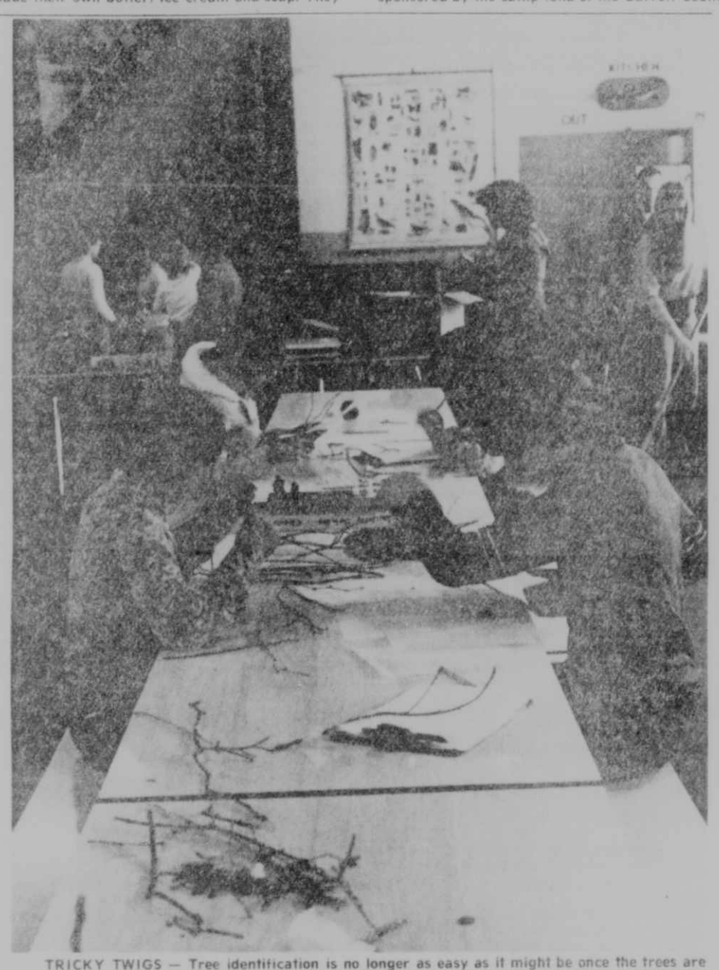
The Institute for Small Business of Frostburg State College, in cooperation with the U. S. Small Business Administration and Garrett Community College — Oakland Center, will present a management film festival Thursday, March 1, in room 207 of GCC's Oakland Center.

Films will be shown throughout the day from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. with a break for lunch from noon until 1 p.m. Management counselors will be available to answer questions, according to Dave Berry, Management Assistance Specialist of the Institute for Small Business.

Berry said the films will deal with the following eight areas of management concern: general management, financial management, personnel management, customer relations, merchandise control, marketing management, site selection, crime prevention, and SBA programs.

The Institute was founded as a community service of Frostburg State College's Center for Management Development in 1973. Since that time, almost 2,000 existing or prospective small businesses have received assistance, with over 100 being from Garrett County.

In August of 1978, ISB established a walk-in counseling service in cooperation with the Garrett Community College's Oakland Center, 104 East Center Street, Oakland. This service offers free and confidential management assistance to the business community each Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. No appointment is necessary during these hours. However, if an appointment is wanted or other information is desired, Mr. Berry can be reached by calling 334-8266. During the week, the Institute's office in Frostburg can be visited any day from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., (no appointment necessary), or call 689-4417.



TRICKY TWIGS — Tree identification is no longer as easy as it might be once the trees are devoid of leaves. The eighth graders were taught tree identification and other naturalist topics by Carl Spiker whose wife, Shirley, was one of the coordinating teachers for the three-day field trip. The students were graded upon completion of their assigned projects. Mrs. Glenda Newcomb, and Camp Hickory staff members, Charles Strauss and Joe Winters, assisted in the program.

Birth Announced

A son was born Monday, February 12, at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Evans, Green Street, Oakland. The mother is the former Rosalee Paugh.

Garrett Officials Attend State PTA Convention

Mrs. Ruth Glotfelty of Garrett County and Mrs. Marlene Weimer of Allegany County have been elected to one-year terms on the executive committee of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The two women, who serve as presidents of the PTA Councils in their counties, were elected at the recent winter board meeting of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers at Cross Keys Inn in Baltimore.

Mrs. Glotfelty also was one of four persons elected to represent MCPT at the national convention in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Glotfelty and Carma White, field representative from Region 1, also attended the Board of Managers meeting prior to the convention. Others attending from this county were Sue Beachy, president of Grantsville Elementary School; Joan Holliday, Amy Harman, president of Route 40 School; Vonda Yunker, president of Northern Middle School; Robert Yunker, president of the GCTA; Dr. William Buser, superintendent of schools and William Goldsborough, member of the State Board of Education; Julia Sines and Connie Higgins, Friendsville Elementary School.

The various county Teachers' Association presidents and the Council presidents were honored at the banquet closing the convention.

The Garrett County Council is sponsoring a TV Action program on March 28. Ardis Bell, state TV Action chairman, will be presenting the program that the state and national PTA has promoted during the past two years and what is being done at the present.

The National PTA is sponsoring an Arts Contest called "Reflections! The Fine Arts and the National PTA." Theme for the contest is "Look Out Your Window." Contest rules will be available through schools and the contest will be open to students in various categories, grades 1-3; grades 4-6; grades 7-9; grades 10-12.

Also contest application forms for visual art, music and literature are available from the Maryland State PTA office, 17 Commerce Street, Baltimore, 21202, or by calling (301) 685-0865.

Glenn Dzaack Is Honored For Summer Rescue

Glenn Dzaack, 19, of Monroeville, Pa., has been presented the Certificate of Merit from the Boy Scouts of America in recognition of his efforts which saved the life of a 12-year-old girl on Deep Creek Lake last summer.

Lynda Hutchinson, of Meyersdale, was boating with her father, William, and other family members last July 8 when the boat overturned and the occupants were thrown into the water. When the family was rescued by a passing craft, they realized Lynda was missing.

Glenn and his sister had come upon the scene and had helped throw floatation devices into the water to rescue occupants of the boat. When Lynda was discovered missing, Glenn began diving into the water to locate the girl. After several tries, he found her trapped against the windshield. An unidentified woman joined him in his efforts and together they managed to bring the girl to the surface.

Lynda was not breathing, so Glenn began mouth to mouth resuscitation before lifting her from the water, and within seconds she began to breathe again.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad took Lynda to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment but it was not necessary for her to be admitted.

Glenn was also recognized by acting Governor of Maryland Blair Lee III, who referred to Glenn's actions as a selfless act of courage and to Glenn as an outstanding example for all.

Waterfowl Photo Contest Is Slated

Rules for The Waterfowl Festival's second waterfowl photography contest were announced recently in Easton.

Mike Hemming, Festival Photography Chairman said, the contest will produce a color photograph for a limited edition print of 50.

Proceeds from the contest are used in The Waterfowl Festival's conservation and conservation education projects, which have benefitted Ducks Unlimited and The Nature Conservancy.

Last year's winner Archie Johnson, of Virginia Beach, Va., will be a judge of this year's contest. Wood ducks, the subject of his winning 1978 entry, will not be eligible this year.

The Festival awards prizes for first, second and third place choices.

All entries must feature wild ducks, geese, swans or waterfowl hunting scenes. Deadline for this year's contest will be Tuesday, May 15, and judging will be conducted on Saturday, June 2, at a site to be announced.

Copies of the rules will be mailed to interested photographers who write to: Photography Contest, The Waterfowl Festival, Tidewater Inn, Easton, Maryland 21601.

Deaf Ears . . .

In a previous editorial we took a rather neutral stand on the proposed U. S. Rt. 219 Bypass, citing that there seemed to be fairly sound arguments on both sides of the issue. However, some of the developments which have proceeded are indeed upsetting.

The Planning Commission announced in a meeting yesterday it had unanimously voted to support the Bypass. This favorable decision was made in spite of considerable public opposition to the project.

The whole concept of a public meeting and public input is in question here. Public meetings are held not only to help inform the public about an impending project or decision, but to allow citizens to state opinions and give input to assist those persons responsible for making the decisions. One must ask why such decision-making entities ask for input from the public, and then apparently not even consider that input in their decision-making process? Whose best interests are being served here?

It is the job of the state to prove the necessity of such a project rather than the people having to prove there is no need. It is somewhat like our court system, where a person remains innocent until the state can prove him guilty. The Planning Commission and Planning Office have seemingly failed to convince the public that this bypass is needed. They have used what seems to be extreme speculation and weak, misleading arguments, such as the traffic count taken on Oak Street, which in fact will decrease only slightly even if the bypass is built.

The implication has been made that this newspaper was guilty of printing slanted news concerning the project and that we printed only those letters to the editor which were in opposition to the bypass. First of all, we feel that all of the news articles concerning the bypass have been totally fair and objective. Quite often it is the reader who slants the news rather than the writer. The insinuation that we printed only those letters in opposition to the bypass is absolute hogwash. We received literally dozens of letters against the project and one or two for the project. All of these letters were printed, with the exception of two or three which were too long, and those two or three were all in opposition. We resent these implications.

Self-centered decision-making by government personnel under the guise of "eagerly listening" to the desires of the public seems to be more and more evident as time goes on. This deaf ears policy must be abolished.

Commissioners Meet New Coordinator

Garrett County Commissioners, Truman Paugh, H. Lester Hunter, and Ernie Gregg, Jr., met Tuesday with Dean Bastianni, new municipal assistant coordinator hired by the Tri-County Council.

Mr Bastianni will be working with seven of the eight incorporated municipalities as a professional staff person, "circuit riding," to the towns to help work with grant applications, administration, and other municipal problems.

He will maintain an office in the Accident municipal center, and will be working temporarily from the Planning Office, E. Oak Street, Oakland.

Mr. Bastianni indicated he will begin his new position by becoming acquainted with local officials and their needs and by determining problems and goals and how best to help the communities.

A native of Carnegie, Pa., he is a graduate of Slippery Rock State College where he received his political science degree, and graduated in May 1977 from Maxwell Graduate School, Syracuse University, with a master's in public administration.

He had been managing the family business in the Pittsburgh suburbs until hired by the Tri-County Council.

In other business Tuesday, the Commissioners renewed the operating agreement for the Garrett County Airport with Garrettair, Inc., for a two-year period, according to a lease agreement negotiated a year ago.

Operators of Garrettair are Robert Bailey and James Gibson.

The application fee for a permit to operate any junk-yard business was reduced from $75 to $10. The fee reduction amendment to the new ordinance approved last fall was suggested by John Nelson, planning and zoning administrator for the county.

Stolen Snowmobile Found By Police

A snowmobile stolen from Sky Valley earlier this year was recovered by Pennsylvania State Police during the past week. The snowmobile, valued at $1,700, has been returned to the owner, Gerald Glowacki.

The snowmobile was discovered near Uniontown, and charges are pending.

BACK TO SCHOOL for one day this week. Tuesday, found children walking pathways between high walls of snow to their buses at Southern Middle School. Children have been out of school nearly as much as in during the past few weeks, and have now missed an official 11 days. New school bylaws require that schools must be in session a full 180 days, and Garrett had allowed nine days off for winter weather conditions. Until the weather abates, the exact number of days to be made up cannot be officially determined, according to Dr. William Buser, superintendent of schools.

Two Hospitalized After Collision On Rt. 219 Sunday

Two persons remain hospitalized at Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland following a two-vehicle accident Sunday, one mile south of Keyser Ridge on Route 219.

Pamela Lee Stutzel, 34, of Rockville, was admitted to Sacred Heart with multiple fractures and lacerations. She has been listed as "under observation" in the intensive care unit at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Frederick William Kolbert, 18, Kensington, was admitted with head injuries and listed in "fair" condition.

State Police in this county reported that a southbound car driven by Dennis Stutzel, Rockville, crossed the center line around 1 p.m., and hit head on into a northbound car driven by Charles Schelble, Landover Road, Hyattsville. The report noted driving conditions were hazardous at the time due to blowing snow.

Mrs. Stutzel and Kolbert, a passenger in the Schelble car, were transported by Northern Rescue Squad vehicles. Two children in the Stutzel car, Shawn, 9, and Kasey, 6, escaped injury as did both car operators.

No charges are pending, according to police.

Mason Has Second Thoughts, Planning Commission Votes Bypass Support

Senator Edward J. Mason, after last Saturday's visit to Garrett County, concluded that the proposed U. S. Route 219 Bypass project may have a better chance of becoming a reality if another alternative were selected.

Mason spent the day reviewing the highway area and discussing the project with local officials and residents. He was accompanied by Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R - Allegany/Garrett.)

Originally a supporter of the Bypass, Mason admittedly has second thoughts. "Whether the alignment that has been selected is the best alternative is the question. The present alignment can be argued either way," Mason said.

Delegate Bolden offered, "Maybe we can go back to the drawing board and move from this alignment." Both Mason and Bolden reported that they had received heavy mail opposition to the project.

Bolden noted, "I've been opposed to the Bypass since April of 1977, but up until this year it didn't matter because the legislators and local officials had no say in road decisions."

State legislators and county commissioners may make decisions and recommendations on highway projects under a new state law. The Garrett County Commissioners have the proposed Bypass under scrutiny, but at present have made no decision on the project.

Members of the Garrett County Planning Commission met yesterday to vote on their recommendation for the project. They voted unanimously to continue their support of the present alignment. Their Resolution 18 with amendments supports the project as a viable solution.

The meeting was opened by chairman, George Bender. County planning officer, Tim Dugan, read correspondence that the Commission had received recently concerning the issue. Letters in support of the Bypass were read from Henry Munima, Jean Jenkins, Dorothy Purbaugh, Wayne B. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Hile, and an anonymous letter signed "one who's interested." Letters in opposition included those from Douglas R. Bailey, Kathleen Erisor, Jim Willis, Martha DeBerry, Mary Bolden Helbig, Walter E. DeBerry, William F. DeBerry, Jack Jones, John Kurilla, Mr. and Mrs. John Maroney, J. W. Dunnire, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Jordan, Mrs. Deborah Deem, Robert E. Anderson, H. D. Swartzentruber, and James R. Stanton.

Mr. Dugan reports that to date, 29 letters in support of the project and 24 letters in opposition have been received by the Planning Commission. Included in that count are at least two petitions. One petition opposing the Bypass carries approximately 149 signatures; another in support of the project, is signed by 24 individuals.

During the Commission's meeting, attended by approximately 26 persons, nearly all the members of the public who spoke, spoke in opposition to the present alignment.

The western alternative, recently proposed by Oakland Town Council president, James R. Stanton, was reviewed. Dugan estimated that this alternative may cost as much as three times more than the present proposition.

Those in attendance were outspoken in their disapproval of the Planning Commission's unanimous decision of support. A member of the audience, Douglas R. Bailey, Oakland, asked the Commission if the Former Oakland Mayor, Russell L. Smith, Dies

Russell Lee Smith, 86, of 214 North Fourth Street, Oakland, former Mayor of Oakland, was dead on arrival last night at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

He had owned and operated the Chimney Corner Restaurant, Red House, since 1938.

A former chairman of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission and the Wilson Run Public Watershed Association, he had served as Mayor of Oakland for twelve years, from 1956 until 1968.

Mr. Smith was born in Buckhannon, W. Va. July 5, 1892, a son of the late Charles and Susan (Fowkes) Smith. His maternal grandfather, the late William Peyton Fowkes, was sheriff of Upshur County. He attended schools in Buckhannon and West Virginia Wesleyan College.

Mr. Smith first came to Oakland in 1912 as an employee of the Columbia Gas Company. He subsequently followed a business career that took him to Pittsburgh, Utica, NY, and Philadelphia, and returned to Oakland in 1938 when he acquired Chimney Corner.

In 1916 he married Jessie Crane Smith, who preceded him in death in February 1974.

He was a 50-year member of Paxton Lodge #697 AF&AM, Utica, NY, achieving that recognition in 1975.

Surviving are two sons, William C. and Robert L. Smith, both of Oakland; one daughter, Mrs. Herman E. Lewis, Wheeling, W. Va.; four grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

The body is at the John O. Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, where friends will be received Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9. There will be a Masonic Service Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Services will be conducted in the funeral home Friday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. L. Curtis Saville, and interment will be in Terra Alta Cemetery.

Truck Collision Claims Life Of Friendsville Man

A two-truck collision on Pennsylvania I-79 in Collier Township claimed the life of a Friendsville man at 4:30 a.m. Monday, February 19.

Mark Bradley Sanner, 26, of Route 1, Friendsville, was dead on arrival at St. Clair Hospital, Mt. Lebanon according to the investigating police.

According to their report, Sanner was killed when the milk tank truck he was driving slammed into the rear of a tractor-trailer on an icy stretch of the highway.

A son of Clyde C. and Mary A. (DeWitt) Sanner, Jr., he was a 1976 graduate of Northern High School. He was employed by the Arsenberger Trucking Company.

He was a member of the Laurel Run Church of God and of Woodmen of the World Camp 45, Friendsville.

Surviving in addition to his parents are his widow, Nancy (Lowdermilk) Sanner; one son, Christopher, at home; one sister, Mrs. Patty Munmert, Yorktown, Va.; paternal grandparents, Clyde and Evelyn Sanner, Friendsville; and maternal grandparents, Milton and Anita DeWitt, Accident.

Friends will be received at the Newman Funeral Home in Friendsville today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Services will be conducted Thursday at 1:30 p.m. from the funeral home with Rev. Philip Geoghan officiating. Interment will be in Blooming Rose Cemetery.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, expressions of sympathy be made to the education fund for Christopher, in care of the family.

County Student Meal Costs Will Increase March 1

Because of the continually increasing rise in the cost of basic food commodities the Garrett County Board of Education stated it will finally have to raise the price of meals to youngsters in the school system.

Effective March 1, 1979, the price of breakfast will increase from $.20 to $.25 for all youngsters. In addition, the price of lunch will increase from $.35 to $.40 for all elementary children and from $.35 to $.45 for all middle school and high school students. The differentiation in price for elementary, middle, and high school students results from the fact that greater portions are served to the older youngsters.

Superintendent of Schools, Dr. William H. Buser, in discussing this price increase noted that this is the first time since 1973 that the price of student meals has been increased and that even with this increase Garrett County's price plan will remain one of the lowest, if not the lowest, in the State of Maryland.

Hughes Names Hamilton To PSC Friday

268 Appointments Include Others From County

Gov. Harry R. Hughes announced the appointment of the first western Marylander to the state Public Service Commission during presentation of 268 "green bag" appointments last Friday.

Wayne B. Hamilton, a cattle farmer from Red House and a former Garrett County Commissioner, was named to the PSC to replace H. Reese Shoemaker, whose record on the commission had seemed consistently in favor of utility rate increases.

The Governor also named Mrs. Dana Thoman McHenry, to the Garrett Community College board of trustees for a term of six years from July 1, 1979.

Named to the Board of Supervisors of Elections for a term of two years from the first Monday in June, 1979 were: William R. Bever, Swanton; George M. Browning, Oakland, and Roscoe H. Swiger, Oakland.

Substitute members of the Board of Supervisors of Elections for twoyear terms beginning the first Monday in June 1979 were Ernest Spoerlein, Oakland, and George R. Shawley, Bittinger.

Mr. Hamilton's term consists of six years, expiring June 30, 1985.

In his statements concerning his appointment, Mr Hamilton said he is especially happy about the appointment since it means "Western Maryland will now be strongly represented on this important commission, and that this region's unique problems will be recognized on the state level."

Mr. Hamilton feels this is in keeping with commitments Gov. Hughes made earlier to western Maryland.

The hundreds of green bag appointments had aroused an unusual amount of speculation this year because of Mr. Hughes's promises to broaden the selection process and place a new emphasis on merit.

Resumes had been solicited from the wide range of non-political sponsors but in many of the most coveted jobs, Mr. Hughes's choices were dictated by the political requirements of the senators who will have to approve them.

The list is annually enclosed in a green felt bag which explains its unusual name. Of the 268 appointments Friday, 70 were women.

Garrett, Allegany Counties To Get Project Funding

A total of $1,267,795 in federal funds has been approved for twelve new projects in Garrett and Allegany counties for the second quarter of fiscal 1979, according to the Maryland Department of State Planning.

Garrett's Head Start program, administered by the Community Action Agency, received continuing HEW grants of $596,856, while the Garrett County Sanitary District had its sewer project funds increased to $22,960 in an Environmental Protection Agency grant.

The Garrett Planning Office's request for $46,038 for the Garrett County Airport was approved by the U. S. Department of Transportation.

Garrett Community College's request for $3,906 of HEW money was approved for the library, and the planning office was granted $29,780 for a market study for the Hutton industrial site.

Allegany county received the largest share of the new money — $1,065,274 — for seven newly-funded projects.

The remainder of new funds were for Appalachia health projects administered by Community Action ($100,240) and Western Maryland Health Care ($22,557).

HSA Chooses 1979-80 Officers

The Governing Board of the Health Systems Agency voted on a slate of officers for 1979-80 at a February 14 meeting at the Algonquin Motor Inn, Cumberland. Commissioner Martin L. Snook, president, presided.

Officers in addition to Mr. Snook, who is from Washington County, are Arthur T. Bond, Allegany County, vice president; Mary G. Williams, Frederick County, treasurer; and Truman E. Paugh, Garrett County, secretary.

During the meeting, most of the discussion concerned the need for the commissioners from the four western Maryland counties to be aware of the projects in their areas which are being funded through grants obtained by the Health Systems Agency.

Although some projects need money to meet an expense which is not likely to recur and some can become self-supportive, there are projects which run out of funds and are considered too important to drop.

At this point, Allegany County Commissioner Bond pointed out that recently the Appalachian Regional Commission funding for health aides in the public school system ran out and the commissioners were asked to provide money to support the project.

During the business session the group ratified action it had taken during the past four meetings. The ratification was delayed because the group has not had a quorum to vote on its action since August.

The board also approved the actions of the governing body. The delay did not have any effect on action taken within the HSA, because once the governing body approves an item, it is sent to the state.

In final action, the Board voted unanimously to give the hiring authority for new personnel to the Board president to expedite the employment of four new staff members during the next six months, and voted on a retirement resolution for the Agency's employees.

Board members were asked to sign up for advisory committee appointments.

All three Garrett Commissioners were present at the meeting, including Ernest J. Gregg, Jr. and H. Lester Hunter.

meeting was not merely a "formality." He outlined his opinion that the Commission had pre-conceived ideas on the issue and had ignored growing public sentiment.

Commission member, Joyce Bishoff, defended the decision which she had seconded. She pointed out that the Commission was composed of volunteer members who do consider the "public interest."

The Garrett County Commissioners will reach a decision on the fate of the Bypass in the near future, based on the recommendations of the voting entities and the expressed viewpoints of the public.

February Weather Sliding Downhill

February has now pulled out every winter weather trick in her bag to bring nearly a foot of snow as well as rain and freezing rain during the past week. There was no school in this county Thursday, Friday or Monday due to road conditions, and today schools were in confusion as many buses could not run or were delayed.

A glance at the temperatures shows that the high for the week was achieved Tuesday, with a balmy 49 degrees. Tuesday also boasted the low, a frigid minus 17.

Highs and lows on other days were: Thursday, high 38, low 17; Friday, high 47, low 11; Saturday, high 15, low minus 11; Sunday, high 8, low minus 13; Monday, high 24, low 2. Overnight low Tuesday was 16 degrees.

One inch of snow fell on Friday to cover Thursday's rain-slicked highways. Snow whipped by high winds fell during most of Sunday, beginning about 10:30, and added an official three inches according to the instruments located at Weber's near Oakland. By Monday afternoon, an additional five inches of snow had been added.

Sunny skies prevailed Saturday, but failed to raise temperatures. Clear skies most of Tuesday were covered early Wednesday morning by clouds which brought rain and freezing rain, turning county roadways, town streets and sidewalks into skidways.

Newspapers east of here were checking local conditions after record-setting snowfall paralyzed the state and points north and south. Garrett County received one-half the amount of snowfall, and conditions here were not felt to be unusually poor. Some hospital personnel were forced to stay overnight because of problems, but Ken Richmond, administrator, noted that this is not an unusual situation here. "We have that going on all the time," Richmond added, that if conditions are especially bad the hospital uses four-wheel drive vehicles to transport employees.

Letters to Editor

REMINDER — Unsigned letters to the editor will NOT be printed under any circumstances. Letters exceeding 300 words will also not be printed.

Dear Editor:

The more I hear about the bypass the sicker I become.

It is making the people of our community selfish, self-centered people as long as you step on my neighbors toes, everything is fine, just don't step on mine! Destroy my neighbors' land and property — not mine! Harm others' business — not mine! Route traffic up their street — not mine! How selfish can we get?

To spend 4 million dollars on something to be needed 4 months out of a year — 4 hours of a day, seems to be a very expensive way to satisfy the summer visitors. Think about the people who live here and make their homes here all year.

As for bringing employment to our county — ask around and see how many of our local people were hired on the construction of the courthouse and jail. If there were a lot, our unemployment figures wouldn't be as high.

I'd like for each person to be honest and ask themselves this question, "If the bypass were to affect my land, business, or property, would I have a different stand on the issue?"

Thank you,
Mrs. Margaret Marucci
733 E. High St.
Oakland, Md. 21550

P.S. — People say it is progress! To me we are going backwards. The white man took land from the Indians — now the State takes land from our neighbors.

Dear Editor:

At the present time, more persons have voiced opposition than support regarding the proposed Oakland Bypass. However, the Garrett County Planning Commission has voted unanimously to recommend that the Garrett County Commissioners approve the project. By attending yesterday's meeting, I learned that the proposed cost estimate of 4.5 million dollars is only for two lanes of the highway, with the other two to be constructed at a future date. I also was somewhat shocked to learn that the Planning Commission has not yet studied the engineering drawings, or the cut-and-fill profiles of this proposed project.

Although I was assured by the Commission's board members that the Commission acted in the public interest, I find it disturbing that the resolutions were prepared in advance, and it was quite obvious that the members had made up their mind prior to the meeting. We listened to 2½ hours of discussion and opposition arguments, obviously to no avail.

Since this Commission operates from our tax dollars, they should have some regard as to the desires of the taxpayers. This is another project that will be shoved down our throats whether we want it or not, unless affirmative action is undertaken to prevent it.

Isn't it a coincidence that the same Planning Commission which supports this unpopular project (the Bypass) was appointed by our last County Commissioners—supporters of another unpopular project (the Courthouse Annex.)?

I urge any person who is in opposition to the proposed Bypass to register his or her opinion with the Garrett County Commissioners as soon as possible.

Sincerely,
Douglas R. Railey
Oakland

Dear Editor:

I am writing concerning the Letter to the Editor where the person stated he thought that our police force should not be doubled and they should be like London's police and not be allowed to carry guns. I think he is totally wrong.

I think the Oakland police should carry more powerful guns and the force should be doubled.

London cops want to carry guns according to Constable Bob Milton who said, "I would hate to carry a gun, but I admit there are times when patroling in the squad car it would be better to have a gun on board." And his partner said, "I think we need a gun in the car." Said Ron Toye, "If the criminals you are dealing with are armed, it is only rational you should have proper protection against them." This information came from the Pittsburgh paper, Sunday edition, Section E, page 6. I totally agreed with it.

I think the Oakland police and members of the Sheriff's Department are very good. I also think the person who wrote that letter should have had the guts to put his name on it. I think it is bad we had to lose a fine deputy to get a point across.

Sincerely,
Eugene Jacks

Sir:

Recent correspondents to the Letters column have rightly criticized the suggestion that our police adopt the British system of not carrying firearms while on patrol, in order to minimize incidents in which firearms are used.

While it is true that in Great Britain and other countries policemen do not routinely arm themselves, your correspondents have ignored the fact that such a system does, in fact, work rather well in a nation with one of the most rigorously enforced firearms control acts in the free world.

Since the debate on the appropriateness of gun control in a free society is still open, those of us who, like myself, have not reached a personal opinion on the subject, might weigh a balanced suggestion of this sort carefully.

To suggest, as did "Citizen," that unarmed police would charm lawbreakers into surrendering is the height of folly. Coercion is a legitimate element of law enforcement, although few of us would object to an effective substitute. The fact that most police work is carried out without extreme force still speaks well of those society calls on to uphold law.

Harry M. Fox
Swallow Falls

Dear Sir:

It gives me great pleasure to be able to find so many citizens in favor of the 2nd amendment of the God inspired Constitution. The right to keep and bear arms is not only necessary to maintain freedom (no country has fallen where the citizens were armed), but also necessary as a deterent. If a criminal knows a specific home has arms he may break in while it's empty but he'll not likely go in chancing getting his head blown off. Protection of lives and property is basic. Congratulations citizens of Garrett County!

Now the ByPass: It is seldom that the majority makes the right decision and this time it is again to their detriment (as usual). Discussion of it is a moot question as it will not go in, but I feel that the businessmen who convinced the final decision making are kidding themselves into thinking this will save their town. No way. To build a mall as did Cumberland and cause a loss of business of 30+% won't do it either. There is a solution but it is doubtful that it will be utilized. Good luck.

Sincerely,
Thomas E. Doyle

VENUS' CLOUDS

The clouds of Venus' atmosphere are somewhat like smog on Earth. About 18 kilometers (11 miles) thick, these clouds are composed of sulfuric acid droplets. Above the clouds there are two layers of haze. The high temperature beneath the clouds vaporizes the components of the clouds to provide a clear atmosphere. Sunlight passes through the thick clouds illuminating the Venusian surface as brightly as an overcast day on Earth.

MOON

New Moon occurs on Monday at 11:45 a.m. Moonrise was at 2:25 this morning. Tuesday moonrise will be at 7:28 a.m.

The last total solar eclipse visible in North America until after the year 2000 occurs Monday. It will be visible in the northwestern states, Canada, and Greenland. A partial eclipse may be visible from Garrett County between noon and 12:30 p.m. on Monday. If one observes this phenomena, be sure to protect the eyes from the bright rays of the Sun, and especially the ultra-violet rays. They can cause permanent blindness.

Sunday the moon will be 357,970 kilometers (222,480 miles) from Earth. This perigee will be the closest Moon and Earth are during this month.

DAYLIGHT INCREASES

By the end of the week, 16 minutes more daylight will be available. Sunrise was at 7:03 this morning. Sunset will be at 6:00 p.m. Tuesday sunrise will be 6:54 a.m. and followed 11 hours 13 minutes later by sunset at 6:07 p.m.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn will be visible this week. Mercury may be seen very low in the west shortly after sunset. Venus rises two hours before the sun. Jupiter is visible most of the night. It sets with the stars of Cancer shortly before sunrise. Saturn and the stars of Leo follow Jupiter across the skies, lagging three hours behind.

Better hurry.

Better call Reuben H. Donnelley and get your ad in the next Yellow Pages. Where thousands of your customers will shop first.

In fact, better call right now. Because the Yellow Pages is closing soon.

And when you call, don't just settle for a small listing. Ask for a full-fledged display ad. It can give you a real edge on your competitors who do settle for smaller listings.

Why? Because nine out of ten Yellow Pages shoppers say they want to know more than just your name, address and phone number. And because three out of four of those customers choose companies with display ads, not just listings.

So don't get left out. Look for The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation listing in the Yellow Pages under "Advertising-Directory & Guide."

Better hurry, though. After all, your customers can't find you if you're not there.

Bolden Introduces Series Of Bills

Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett/Allegany) announced this week that he has introduced a series of bills prior to February 16, the courtesy date for the introduction of bills. "All of these bills," Bolden said, "are important to me and to the people of Garrett County and District 1-A, so the description of each bill does not express priority."

One of the bills introduced would provide for an elected school board in Garrett County. The provisions of this bill would be placed on the 1980 General Election Ballot as a referendum question. If adopted it provides for the election of three members of the school board in 1982 one from each commissioner district in which they reside. Then in 1984 two members would be elected at large from all of Garrett County.

"Every four years thereafter," Delegate Bolden continued, "we would elect three members and then two years later, two members. The compensation for these elected officials will be the same as provided in law for the present appointed members; that is, $200 annually for travel and other expenses. This bill meets those objections that were expressed in the opposition to the elected school board referendum that failed to be approved in the 1976 primary election and that is it phases the members into the appointed board and it provides a continuity of members by having staggered terms." "The other objection," Bolden said, "was the compensation of the elected board and the compensation in this bill is the same as the present board is receiving."

Copies of this bill will be available to the PTA's, the School Board, the League of Women Voters, and the general public of Garrett County for their comments and suggestions.

Another bill that was introduced will provide for a full time State's Attorney and this will also be placed on the ballot of the General Election in 1980 for the people's approval. Delegate Bolden commented, "As our county grows and crime subsequently follows that growth, we can no longer continue the prosecutor's office with a part time State's Attorney. Let me hasten to add that the introduction of this legislation does not in any way reflect any disapproval of the State's Attorney's office or any previous State's Attorney's performance. I think they have done a commendable job and contributed much to the tranquility of our every day life. I've solicited the support of the Garrett County Bar Association, the Judicial Branch of our Government, and if approved by the people on the ballot this full time State's Attorney would become effective on January 1, 1983, following the election process and this would not affect the present State's Attorney's office."

Other legislation that Delegate Bolden introduced would create a special hunting license for disabled veterans at a reduced cost of $2. The normal fee for a hunting license is $8.50.

Bolden has also introduced a bill that would provide for a special muzzle-loading fire arms hunting season for big game from the last Saturday in September through the first Saturday in October. Last year the Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Administration established a two-day season in December following the regular rifle deer season. There was one kill in the entire state during this season. "The nature of hunting with a primitive weapon," Bolden said, "is to be able to wear buckskin clothing, coonskin caps, and for the individual to feel that he is a part of the forest and to accomplish this it should be done in an atmosphere of autumn rather than deep snow drifts. The dates suggested would provide this background and I don't feel there would be any adverse effect upon the herd by allowing these hearty individuals who wish to hunt with the primitive weapon."

A bill to remove unmined coal from the assessment of the state, county, and city ordinary taxation was also introduced by Delegate Bolden. He said, "For years this has been a hazardous guess by the assessors as to the value of the coal under a person's property and the tax on that coal was unfair. Present law provides for a 15 cent a ton state tax and a 35 cent a ton federal tax when the coal is produced, and this is a more equitable and fair manner to tax this natural resource.

Also coming under the February 16 deadline, Bolden introduced House Joint Resolution #100 that provided for a Compensation Study Commission for the elected officials of Garrett County. This committee consisted of members appointed one each from the League of Women Voters, one appointed from the Democrat State Central Committee, one appointed from the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce to represent the business community, and one appointed from the Garrett County Farm Bureau to represent the farm community.

A study was made and Bolden, based on that report, submitted legislation that increased the salaried officials of Garrett County. Delegate Bolden suggested that this should be a reconvening mechanism every four years to review and re-evaluate these salaries, and so he has introduced a bill that provides a salary study committee comprised of the members described above, to convene in 1981 to report their findings to the Garrett County Delegation for consideration in the 1981 General Assembly Session and this committee would meet then every four years henceforth for that purpose.

Median Income For Maryland Is Fourth Highest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The median income in Maryland was the nation's fourth highest in 1977 and continued to increase in 1978 when the state's economy out-performed other states in many categories, according to two studies released Thursday.

The state's median income for a four-member family in 1977 was $21,193, and another study showed Maryland's economy experienced an upward surge in mid-1978.

A study by Chase Econometrics and the Council for Northeast Economic Action showed Maryland's second-quarter economic performance in 1978 "far surpassed the average national gains" as well as those in the Middle Atlantic region.

"All categories of employment showed greater increases in the number of workers than those experienced elsewhere in the region," the Chase study said.

Manufacturing employment in Maryland was up 0.5 percent and non-manufacturing employment rose 1.4 percent, according to the study.

Also, Maryland's 1978 unemployment rate of 5.5 percent was below the national average of 5.9 percent, the study said.

The U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, show the state's 1977 median income was surpassed only by Alaska, Hawaii and New Jersey.

The national median income for a family of four in 1977 was $18,723, the U. S. Census Bureau said.

The Chase study said Maryland's personal income continued to rise in the second quarter of 1978. Total personal income rose 6.3 percent and real disposable income increased 3.4 percent, or $653 million, compared to the early 1978.

However, the study said new housing construction was below national levels.

Housing starts increased 19.6 percent, compared to 22.8 percent nationally.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

Not all pet health problems can be solved by a dose of medicine or a change in diet. Some require diagnostic testing, surgery or extensive therapy. To provide these needed services, veterinarians often maintain a modern animal hospital right at the office.

X-rays, chemical testing of hair or skin samples, and the analysis of blood and urine are some of the modern veterinary services which provide detailed information on the pet's condition. A controlled hospital diet and frequent observation of the animal assist the veterinarian in identifying the exact nature of the illness.

For pets that need surgery, the veterinarian maintains surgical instruments, oxygen and anesthesia equipment very similar to that found in hospitals for humans. Meticulous care and sterile conditions are used to avoid infections, and veterinarians often dress in surgical gown, mask and gloves used in standard operating rooms. Many of the surgical procedures used routinely on man were first developed in animals.

In the case of orthopedic surgery — when a bone is fractured or a hip needs replacing — specially designed pins, plates, screws and other artificial replacements are available to make necessary repairs.

With constant progress in techniques and equipment, many veterinarians have become specialists in one kind of surgery. In such cases, a pet with a special problem can be referred to the specialist, in much the same way a human would be.

Common surgical procedures include spaying or neutering, Caesarian section (for mothers unable to deliver their young normally), and bone and plastic surgery. Root canal work and dental extractions to prevent pain and infection from decayed and broken teeth are also performed by veterinarians.

Generally, pets are sent home soon after surgery, as they recuperate more rapidly in familiar surroundings. An occasional pet must stay a little longer until incisions begin to close or medications take effect.

If your pet is hospitalized, your veterinarian may advise against hospital visits. Pets become excited, and tend to be disappointed when visitors leave. You may be invited to visit, however, if your veterinarian feels the pet's recovery would be aided by a favorite tidbit of food and familiar faces from home.

In recent years, there has been a trend toward group practice in veterinary medicine, so you may see several doctors and assistants at your local animal hospital. In fact, the growing number of these institutions has lead to the formation of the American Animal Hospital Association, a group that identifies standards for well-equipped animal facilities. Some animal hospitals are so up-to-date that Civil Defense officials have designated them as emergency stations for medical treatment of human patients in the time of major disaster.

As a pet owner, you should not expect modern advances in veterinary medicine to be the complete answer to your pet's problems. The combination of excellent professional treatment and modern equipment in the animal hospital must be supplemented by tender loving care and proper supervision when your convalescing pet returns home.

Student Experiments To Ride Shuttle

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — The University of Maryland has reserved room for two student experiments on a space shuttle flight planned for the 1980s.

The school is using the program in its attempts to recruit top high school science students in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. The students whose experiments are accepted for the program will receive full scholarships at the university.

Theodore J. Rosenberg, director of the university's program, said corporations, schools and persons can buy up to five cubic feet of space for shuttle flights planned for 1982 or 1983.

Straight Talk About Aging

Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging

JOB-HUNTING FOR THE OVER-40

Many people between 40 and 65 — and even past 65 — are looking for jobs for many reasons. Aside from financial considerations, a job gives a pattern to daily living. It offers status, independence, social contacts and intellectual stimulation, and satisfies the human need for usefulness and accomplishment.

Regardless of federal law forbidding age discrimination, many over-40 job-seekers face prejudice on the part of potential employers. To give those employers the benefit of the doubt, much of their prejudice is probably unconscious. It is, nonetheless, something that older job-hunters must be prepared to face and overcome.

For some, self-employment is the answer. These are people who can sell their own service or expertise directly to their own clientele, without benefit of an employer-middleman.

The majority, however, wish to work for others. It is to this majority that the following job hunting hints are directed.

At the outset, establish in your own mind a reasonable relationship between your past training and experience and the job category you're interested in. A thorough self-assessment is an important part of this preliminary step. What are you like? What do you do best? What do you do less well? Do you like working with people? Supervising them? Are you more of a loner?

In taking your self-assessment, it might be helpful to sit down and actually write a short autobiography, putting special emphasis on your abilities and aptitudes — and on your limitations.

Once you've drawn a good picture of yourself, once, in other words, you've made a clear blueprint of what you can offer a potential employer, your next step should be the creation of an ideal job, one that would best be filled by someone with your special blueprint. You should then look for the jobs that most closely resemble your ideal.

Look for them everywhere—in the newspapers, through private and governmental employment agencies, through friends. And, since 80 per cent of all jobs that pay $7,000 or more are never advertised, don't hesitate to go directly to the source. Once you've identified places that have jobs which match your blueprint, find out who's responsible for hiring new personnel. Make an appointment directly with him or her.

Before your interview, you should make some preparations. Assemble your personal records — your work history, special skills and training, your Social Security number, and so on. If you are looking for a professional, technical, or managerial job, your personal record is best organized and presented in the form of a resume, which is a brief statement of your work and educational experience beginning with the most recent situations and working back in time. The resume should also list character references. It should be typed, and it should never be more than a page and a half long.

Once you've prepared the facts about yourself, it's important for you to prepare your state of mind. Remember that you're going to be interviewed by a business, not by a charity. You must prove that you can produce. A job is open because something needs to be done, not because you need a job. Keep your potential employer's needs in mind, not yours.

During the interview (for which you have been punctual and for which you are appropriately dressed!), be confident. Don't apologize for your age or beg for consideration because of it.

Be businesslike. Stress your skills, your track record, and your experience without leaping into the danger zone of "oversell." Always maintain an attitude of respectful dignity toward the interviewer. Don't malign previous employers, and, when the interview is obviously over, leave.

Always remember: If you can prove to an employer that you can help him solve his problems and get his job done, he won't care how old you are — and you'll stand a good chance of getting that new job.

IT'S A FACT OF LIFE — Melting snow turns to water, and rivulets along streets must be routed into the towns' storm systems. Above, two workers for the Oakland streets department work to clear gratings so the snow melt can be routed away. Tuesday's high of near 50 brought a hint of spring, but then February's fickle weather sent rain and freezing rain on Wednesday to compound roads and street workers problems, and to frazzle the nerves of drivers everywhere.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

SORE THROAT NATURE'S WARNING OF ILLNESS

Does your throat hurt?

If so, you may console yourself with the knowledge that you have plenty of company.

Sore throat is one of the more common physical discomforts that plague most of us from time to time.

Sore throat is nature's warning system that something in your body is out of order, says the American Medical Association.

Often a sore throat accompanies a common cold, and the soreness passes in a few days. But, sore throat also can be the symptom of any of a wide range of diseases, from diphtheria to leukemia, that require your physician's skill, not your guessing, to diagnose.

Sometimes tonsils and adenoids are involved in causing a sore throat, and when these organs repeatedly cause trouble they frequently are removed. Tonsil-adenoid removals account for half of all surgery performed on children. Sometimes the removal helps prevent sore throat, sometimes it doesn't.

Allergies can cause sore throats. Cold, dry winter air can trigger it. So can extreme thirst, excessive smoking or mouth breathing. Anything that dries out the throat and cuts off secretions that normally wash dust away.

Virus infections of many types also are a cause of sore throat, and everyone who has had flu knows that this particular virus disease often causes the throat to hurt.

"Strep throat" is a serious infection that occasionally leads to rheumatic fever and possible heart damage. It can be knocked out with penicillin, if it is diagnosed in time.

The crucial diagnostic test in sore throat is the swab test, through which the germs causing the trouble can be identified.

There is little or nothing you can do to cure a sore throat at home. There are medications which bring temporary easing of the discomfort. Most sore throats will clear up in a few days without treatment. If the sore throat persists, the cure must be launched by your physician.

GIVE YOUR ROOMS A MOOD OR A FEELING

You can make any room in your home more cheerful, or more dignified, or you can create any other mood or feeling you want in a room.

Here are some ways you can do it.

Let's say you want a more cheerful living room. You can consider using more lively patterns, lighter-looking furniture, brighter colors.

Let's suppose you want a living room that looks more dignified. You can use taller pieces, larger furniture, darker colors.

Actually, there are a variety of effects you can create and it can all be done through your choice of furniture, accessories, colors, arrangement and textures.

You can make a room seem more masculine or more feminine; more restful, or more formal. And best of all, you can turn a room into something different than it is now if you want a change, or you can give different rooms in your house different moods—for example, you can make your living room have one mood and your family room have a different feeling.

You can make all of your rooms "say something." You can give them the atmosphere you want. All it takes is the right furnishings, and we are here to help you pick out the right things for you.

Real Estate

By DON CARSTENS
Deep Creek Realty

SOME BENEFITS OF AGE

If you want more house for your dollar, you have good cause to look over older houses. But there are other good reasons for shopping the old ones too.

For one thing, there are simply more old houses than new ones. For every new house that will go up this year there are some 45 existing homes already on the market.

Many older homes, especially those built before World War II, offer more abundant space than new homes do—a special attraction if you have a large and growing family, but a limited budget.

Most old homes are in well-established, well-developed neighborhoods. There will be no waiting for streets to be paved, sewers to be connected or schools to be built. All that is going to grace the neighborhood is probably already there, so that worrying about the future will have been done for you already.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

Southern Rams Top Bruce For Seventh Win

Todd Liller's two free throws in the final four seconds assured the Southern High Rams of a victory over visiting Bruce High, 63-60, last night. The win revenged an earlier loss this season to the Bulldogs.

The Rams netted their last six points of the contest from the line with Jeff Ryscavage and Dave Hershman each hitting one on ones in the final minute.

Southern jumped to a 17-12 lead in the first period but was out in front by only one point at the half, 29-28. The Bulldogs rallied in the third stanza and led at the end of that period, 44-43.

Brad Bittinger led the way for Southern with 18 points on nine fielders. Liller finished with 14 and Ryscavage netted 13 for the winners who were outgunned from the floor 26-24 but converted 15 of 16 foul shots to eight of ten for Bruce.

Kevin Trezise with seven baskets and seven of eight from the line led Bruce with 21. Mike Welch added 16 and Chris Metcalfe hit ten.

Southern fell to the Bulldogs 62-61 earlier this season. The Rams record now stands at 7-13 while the Bulldogs fell to 6-14.

The Ram Jayvees were also victorious on the evening, stopping the little Bulldogs, 40-39.

Huskies Record Two Wins, One Loss

The Northern High Huskies came off this week's action with two wins and a heart-breaking loss. The first victory occurred as Billy Bender pumped in 24 points and Tony Doerr added 14, boosting Northern to an easy 72-53 win over Bruceton Mills last Wednesday evening on the Huskies' hardwoods.

Northern assumed a 20-14 lead following the first period and held the West Virginians at bay. The Huskies lead 38-22 at intermission and 55-38, heading into the last stanza.

Northern outgunned Bruceton from the field by a 34-25 margin.

Still hot from the previous evening's win, Tony Doerr bucketed 11 field goals and turned in a 24-point performance last Thursday evening as the Huskies coasted to a 70-41 decision over Flintstone on the Aggies' court. The win was the fourth in a row for Northern, and the twelfth for the campaign.

Billy Bender contributed 13 points to the Huskies' total as Northern outgunned the home team by a 32-17 margin.

Northern nurtured a slender 14-13 lead after the first quarter and shot past their opponents to take a 33-22 half-time advantage. The score was 48-34 heading into the final stanza.

FAMILY CORNER

By Jane Rentchler

Home Economics

"Where we love is home, Home that our feet may leave, but not our hearts." O. W. Homes.

Children are naturally curious and enjoy exploring. Often, they explore in places where household cleaners and medicines are kept and end up sampling the contents of the different containers. In order to prevent this from happening, parents need to child-proof these storage areas.

The Soap and Detergent Association found that 90% of accidental ingestion cases involve children in the age group of 5 years or under. Their studies also showed that the majority of the incidents occur inside the home; mainly in the bathroom and kitchen; and nearly half the time when the product is in use. If the product is carelessly placed while being used or if it is improperly stored, the inquisitiveness of a tot might tempt him or her to taste the contents.

The following safety measures should be followed in handling and storing potentially harmful substances in order to reduce incidents of ingestion and other related accidents.

—Carefully read directions, special instructions and warnings on packages and containers of household cleaning products.

—Keep household cleaning products in original containers.

—Keep the product in view while in use.

—Arrange drawers and cabinets for safe storage.

—Store prescription drugs and other medications, including aspirin and vitamins well out of reach. Never call medicine candy.

—When discarding "empty" household cleaners make sure they are empty and placed in a tightly sealed receptacle.

—Check with a physician or the poison center about plant varieties you own to make sure they are not potentially toxic.

—Have your doctor's number and the number of the local poison control center on hand in case of emergency.

As long as there are young children around, it is an adult's responsibility to protect them and make sure the home is as safe as possible. Follow the above suggestions to make your home a safer place for children.

FOOD NOTES

As prices continue to influence choice in the market, it might be a good idea to take a lesson from our Oriental friends. Try stir-fry cooking to stretch the meat a bit further. A small, tender steak, sliced in thin strips will go a long way when preparing your favorite dish. Using less tender meats and cooking slowly in liquid is another method for stretching the meat dollar. Try this oriental dish and serve it over rice for that special addition to the meal.

ORIENTAL PEPPER STEAK

Round steak—2 pounds, cut ⅝ to 3/4 inch thick
Cooking fat — 2 tablespoons
Salt — 1 teaspoon
Beef bouillon cube — 1
Hot water — ½ cup
Soy sauce — 2 tablespoons
Bead molasses — 1 teaspoon
Ginger — ½ teaspoon
Garlic, crushed — 1 clove
Onion — sliced crosswise — 1 medium
Green peppers, cut in strips — 2 medium
Water Chestnuts, drained and halved — 1 can (6 oz.)
Cornstarch — 1 tablespoon
Cold Water — 3 tablespoons
Cherry tomatoes, halved — 8 to 10

Cut steak into 5 to 6 serving-size pieces and lightly brown in cooking fat. Pour off drippings and sprinkle salt on both sides of meat. Crush bouillon cube and dissolve in hot water; stir in soy sauce, bead molasses, ginger and garlic and pour over meat. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour and 15 minutes. Add onion slices and continue cooking 15 minutes longer or until meat is tender. Add green pepper and water chestnuts, cover and cook slowly 5 to 10 minutes. Remove meat to warm platter. Blend cornstarch with 3 tablespoons cold water and combine with pan liquid and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Cook 1 minute, fold in cherry tomatoes. Serve vegetables and gravy over meat. 5 to 6 servings.

Brenda Butscher Named To Liquor Control Board

Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett/Allegany) announced that the Maryland House of Delegates recently confirmed the appointment of Mrs. Brenda Butscher as a member of the Garrett County Liquor Control Board.

Mrs. Butscher was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Lewis Cornish who died in August, 1978. She was nominated by the Republican State Central Committee.

Mrs. Butscher resides with her husband Thomas Butscher and two children on Herrington Manor Road, Oakland.

Mrs. Hesen Gets Congratulations For Red Cross Efforts

Mrs. Sharon L. Skolnik, director of donor resources development for the Johnstown Region of the American Red Cross Blood Services, has written a congratulatory letter to Mrs. Norma Hesen, Blood Service chairman for Oakland.

The letter thanked Mrs. Hesen for her outstanding recruitment job for the January 12 bloodmobile, and for coordinating "the enormous contribution to that success and the well being of patients throughout our region."

The letter also praised the people of the county for helping support bloodmobile efforts.

Thymidine Showing Positive Results In Cancer Treatment

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A rare substance being tested at the Baltimore Cancer Research Center has helped three of 13 patients treated with the drug, federal scientists said.

Nine of the 13 patients who have received intravenous doses of the rare drug thymidine are still alive and three have actually experienced positive results from the drug, said center director Dr. Peter Wiernik.

Wiernik said the improvements were "minimal but scientifically significant." They include a 25 percent tumor shrinkage on a skin cancer patient, and a dramatic drop in cancer cells circulating in the bloodstreams of two leukemia patients, Wiernik said Thursday.

He said cancerous blood cell counts on a woman leukemia patient fell from 66,000 to less than 1,000 after thymidine treatments, but she did not significantly improve because her bone marrow remains cancerous.

A child with leukemia experienced a 49,000 drop in the number of recorded cancer cells after receiving thymidine. The cancer count in the child's bone marrow also decreased and doctors are waiting to see if normal cells will replace the cancer cells, Wiernik said.

A man with cancer of the colon poses a mystery to doctors, because thymidine stopped tumor growth but did not shrink them, Wiernik said.

Thymidine testing has been slow because the drug is very scarce. It is a basic unit of the genetic code that has been used in laboratories for years. But thymidine was not tested for its anti-cancer properties until last year in Texas where scientists found it effective against cancer in mice.

The small supply of thymidine has been divided between the Baltimore center and the Stehlin Foundation for Cancer Research in Houston, where the experiments on mice were done.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. I have just received my new assessment notice. The assessment on the land has been increased by another $1,420, which brings it now to $5,960. The land assessment has increased over one hundred percent in the last four years. I appealed an increase of $1,745 a year ago, but was told that nothing could be done about the assessment of my land.

I have been retired for more than two years, and I feel the county should be more lenient with elderly citizens. I file an income tax return every year, but since I have retired, I have not had to pay anything.

Is there any way you could help me, or is there someone I could go to see who would have some authority to help me regarding my property tax?

A. Your letter sounds as though you may be eligible for the benefits and protection afforded by the Homeowners' Property Tax Credit Program.

This program was originally established to help the elderly and the disabled, but last year it was extended to protect all persons on limited or fixed incomes.

If you are already in this program, you can rest at ease because, despite the fact that the assessment on your land — and possibly your home as well — has risen substantially, the odds are in your favor that you will not pay any more property tax this year than you did last year.

The credit system is based on a schedule pegged to your income, and if your income remains constant, any increase in your property tax caused by a higher assessment will be offset by a larger credit. In other words, the credit absorbs the increase. The current maximum allowable credit is $900.

You are further protected by the fifteen percent Homestead Tax Credit, which limits any additional tax to the first fifteen percent of the increased assessment.

Between these two credit programs, it is highly unlikely that your tax will increase this year.

Your Maryland Legislature is currently reviewing the entire assessment and property tax area. Changes and improvements to provide additional property tax relief are bound to ensue. This column will report on them as they occur.

Q. Is it possible to appeal my assessment after the thirty-day period of the assessment notice arrival and if not, and I miss the first step, can I go directly to the appeal board?

A. Each step between the steps of the appeal procedure has thirty-day period after issuance of the assessment notice in which to appeal.

When you get your first notice of assessment, you must appeal within thirty days of the date of that notice. Likewise, if you proceed to the next step, you must do so within thirty days of the date of the final assessment notice. The thirty-day limit also applies to the notice from the appeal board if you decide to take your appeal to the tax court. You must comply with the time provisions of each step. The law is clear on this point.

The appeal procedure exists to guarantee equitable assessments. It is a system of progressive refinement, designed to protect the worthy claims and weed out those that are invalid or frivolous. Without the limitation, customary in all judicial proceedings, the docket would become cluttered and the system clogged and unable to function.

Also, you cannot skip a step. The appeal procedure works successively, and one proceeds through each step in sequence. The court refers to this as, "exhausting all remedies." This is legal terminology, telling us we must seek justice at the closest opportunity and pursue the quest to the higher plane only if disappointed at the preceding level.

You do not, however, have to be present at your hearing — even if you initially intended to do so — and you can have it postponed, at least once, simply by informing your assessments office before the time of the hearing. Your personal appearance is not mandatory, and your appeal should be given the same consideration as is given to those who are able to attend.

Moreover, if you, unfortunately, miss appealing within the thirty days, all may not be lost. The assessor has the obligation to explain anything at any time. This is only fair.

If, through your own knowledge, or from information on your property description card, which is available to you at no cost, or in other ways, you discover that discrepancies exist, you can request a meeting to go over these findings or you can write a letter giving the facts. Your letter will not lead to a formal hearing, but it may achieve the same end by causing a review of your property assessment to occur which will take into consideration, in the process, the additional knowledge you have supplied.

Any knowledge that assures a more accurate assessment is valuable and should be prized by the assessor.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to ASSESSMENT ANSWERS — JAMES BURLEY in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. I have just received my new assessment notice. The assessment on the land has been increased by another $1,420, which brings it now to $5,960. The land assessment has increased over one hundred percent in the last four years. I appealed an increase of $1,745 a year ago, but was told that nothing could be done about the assessment of my land.

I have been retired for more than two years, and I feel the county should be more lenient with elderly citizens. I file an income tax return every year, but since I have retired, I have not had to pay anything.

Is there any way you could help me, or is there someone I could go to see who would have some authority to help me regarding my property tax?

A. Your letter sounds as though you may be eligible for the benefits and protection afforded by the Homeowners' Property Tax Credit Program.

This program was originally established to help the elderly and the disabled, but last year it was extended to protect all persons on limited or fixed incomes.

If you are already in this program, you can rest at ease because, despite the fact that the assessment on your land — and possibly your home as well — has risen substantially, the odds are in your favor that you will not pay any more property tax this year than you did last year.

The credit system is based on a schedule pegged to your income, and if your income remains constant, any increase in your property tax caused by a higher assessment will be offset by a larger credit. In other words, the credit absorbs the increase. The current maximum allowable credit is $900.

You are further protected by the fifteen percent Homestead Tax Credit, which limits any additional tax to the first fifteen percent of the increased assessment.

Between these two credit programs, it is highly unlikely that your tax will increase this year.

Your Maryland Legislature is currently reviewing the entire assessment and property tax area. Changes and improvements to provide additional property tax relief are bound to ensue. This column will report on them as they occur.

Q. Is it possible to appeal my assessment after the thirty-day period of the assessment notice arrival and if not, and I miss the first step, can I go directly to the appeal board?

A. Each step between the steps of the appeal procedure has thirty-day period after issuance of the assessment notice in which to appeal.

When you get your first notice of assessment, you must appeal within thirty days of the date of that notice. Likewise, if you proceed to the next step, you must do so within thirty days of the date of the final assessment notice. The thirty-day limit also applies to the notice from the appeal board if you decide to take your appeal to the tax court. You must comply with the time provisions of each step. The law is clear on this point.

The appeal procedure exists to guarantee equitable assessments. It is a system of progressive refinement, designed to protect the worthy claims and weed out those that are invalid or frivolous. Without the limitation, customary in all judicial proceedings, the docket would become cluttered and the system clogged and unable to function.

Also, you cannot skip a step. The appeal procedure works successively, and one proceeds through each step in sequence. The court refers to this as, "exhausting all remedies." This is legal terminology, telling us we must seek justice at the closest opportunity and pursue the quest to the higher plane only if disappointed at the preceding level.

You do not, however, have to be present at your hearing — even if you initially intended to do so — and you can have it postponed, at least once, simply by informing your assessments office before the time of the hearing. Your personal appearance is not mandatory, and your appeal should be given the same consideration as is given to those who are able to attend.

Moreover, if you, unfortunately, miss appealing within the thirty days, all may not be lost. The assessor has the obligation to explain anything at any time. This is only fair.

If, through your own knowledge, or from information on your property description card, which is available to you at no cost, or in other ways, you discover that discrepancies exist, you can request a meeting to go over these findings or you can write a letter giving the facts. Your letter will not lead to a formal hearing, but it may achieve the same end by causing a review of your property assessment to occur which will take into consideration, in the process, the additional knowledge you have supplied.

Any knowledge that assures a more accurate assessment is valuable and should be prized by the assessor.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to ASSESSMENT ANSWERS — JAMES BURLEY in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Carter Warns of Serious Consequences Of Soviet Involvement in Iran, Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Taking a new and tougher stance, President Carter says Soviet actions in Iran and Asia could lead to "serious consequences" and affect the whole relationship between the superpowers, including the arms pact.

In a major foreign policy statement in Atlanta Tuesday, Carter said publicly what he had recently passed on privately to the Kremlin, State Department officials said.

"Just as we respect Iran's independence and integrity, other nations must do so as well," he said. "If others interfere, directly or indirectly, they are on notice that this will have serious consequences and will affect our broader relationship with them."

But there appeared to be some confusion among Carter's advisers on whether he intended to link the nearly completed strategic arms limitation treaty as one of the areas where relations could be affected.

State Department officials note Carter said for the first time: "The question is not whether SALT can be divorced from this context. It cannot."

However, a White House official said "there is no link with SALT and the turbulence" of the recent crises.

"SALT should be pursued on its own merits," the official said. He insisted the "broader relationship" Carter says would be jeopardized between Washington and Moscow does not include the arms pact.

"SALT II stands on its own feet," he said.

Linkage or not, Carter said he will continue to seek agreement on SALT while at the same time "responding to any Soviet behavior which adversely affects our interests."

The president unveiled the key elements of the SALT agreement, saying for the first time it establishes equal numbers of strategic arms for both sides; permits limits on qualitative improvements, and provides for independent verification for cheating.

"Let me put this agreement in the context of our overall relations with the Soviet Union and the turbulence that exists in many parts of the world," he said.

"As I have often said, our relationship with the Soviet Union is a mixture of cooperation and competition and as president of the United States, I have no more difficult and delicate task than to balance the two.

"I cannot and I will not let the pressures of inevitable competition overwhelm possibilities for cooperation — any more than I will let cooperation blind us to the realities of competition," he said.

Speaking at a time when he is under severe domestic criticism for his administration's policies in Iran, China and the Middle East, Carter also warned the Soviets any action they might take to counter the Chinese incursion into Vietnam could have profound global implications.

He reminded the Soviets and the Chinese the continued stability and prosperity of U.S. allies in Asia "are of great importance to us."

He also rejected criticism of his recognition of the Peoples Republic of China, saying it was the simple recognition of reality "and will not be reversed."

On Iran, Carter pledged a non-intervention policy and said those who claim the United States should have intervened "are wrong about the realities of Iran."

Allison Brothers Ready To Fight NASCAR Ruling

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The Allison brothers say they will fight a NASCAR ruling blaming Donnie Allison for a last lap wreck when he ran Cale Yarborough off the track to protect his lead in the Daytona 500.

Richard Petty took the checkered flag Sunday although he was a half-mile behind the leaders when their cars tangled. NASCAR officials who reviewed videotape of the race Tuesday placed Donnie on probation, meaning he may race but will be watched closely for six months.

NASCAR fined Yarborough and the Allisons $6,000 each for a fist fight that followed the crash. They said $1,000 of the fines would be refunded for each of the next five NASCAR races in which the drivers compete, providing they show "sportsmanlike conduct."

"Donnie and Bobby are shocked over the amount of the fine and shocked at the unfairness of the whole thing," said Bobby Allison's secretary. "We have requested a full-scale hearing and legal counsel is considering further action."

She said neither of the Allisons would comment until a hearing was held.

Yarborough, three-time Grand National champion, was more philosophical.

"It was a little stiff," he said. "But that's what they ruled and you've got to accept it. He (Donnie) cost me the race. He got a pretty good scolding."

Donnie Allison was in front by less than a half car-length when Yarborough tried to get by him on the inside.

"In reviewing the tapes, Donnie Allison went down onto the apron resulting in Yarborough's car going into the grass," said Bill Gazaway, NASCAR competition director. "Again, a race leader cannot run anywhere he pleases on a race track. We cannot let it get to the point that every time two cars take the white flag together that one or both of them doesn't finish."

Yarborough refused to give ground and forced Allison to the wall. Both drivers lost control of their Oldsmobiles and spun into the infield at almost 190 mph. Yarborough, a Golden Gloves boxer, jumped from his damaged car and ran cursing at Donnie. Bobby Allison, who had parked his car in the infield, was hit in the head with a helmet after he punched Yarborough.

Yarborough said the Allisons "double-teamed" him, claiming Bobby was trying to slow him down on the back stretch. NASCAR officials said there was no evidence that Bobby was running interference for his brother.

"In a race that close, things like that are bound to happen," said Yarborough, reached at his Timmonsville, S.C., home. "But that race track's mine, too. He (Donnie) just ran me off the road. I've been in racing a long time and I've never seen anything like it."

Iran Guerillas Abduct Marine From Hospital

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Marine Sgt. Kenneth Kraus, 22, of Lansdale, Pa., who was wounded during the attack on the American Embassy a week ago was abducted by urban guerrillas from his hospital room where he was recovering. Deputy Prime Minister Amir Entezzam told reporters Kraus now is "in the hands of Ayatollah Khomeini's revolutionary committee.

The reporters were told Kraus was being "investigated for an unspecified crime, and after they are completed certain action will be taken." He did not say what Kraus's alleged crime was, but earlier reports said some of the revolutionaries who had abducted him wanted to charge the Marine with killing three of their comrades who attacked the embassy.

New Orleans Residents Will Still Celebrate On Mardis Gras Day

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Although the news that 18 organizations comprising the heart of the Mardi Gras celebration had canceled their parades because of a strike by 1,300 city police, Buddy Stall said it will still go on. "If we had an atomic bomb drop on New Orleans on Mardi Gras Day and there were only two survivors, one would be beating on a drum and marching around; the other would be holding a sign and saying 'Throw me something, mister,'" said Stall, a New Orleans gear salesman.

The faithful predicted a citywide party as usual next Tuesday, Mardi Gras Day. "As far as local people are concerned, you can never cancel Mardi Gras," said Carol Monaghan, a bar owner.

Senate Committee Seeks Compromise Legislation On Taiwan By March 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Struggling to meet a March 1 deadline, the foreign relations committees of the Senate and House are seeking compromise legislation to protect Taiwan's security and continue ties on an unofficial basis.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee hoped to complete the writing of its version of the legislation today, and speed it to the Senate for rapid action.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee postponed a meeting set for today because of the transportation hazards remaining from the weekend's monstrous snowstorm, but will reschedule it soon to consider a comprehensive compromise proposed by chairman Clement Zablocki, D-Wis.

Once out of committee, the legislation would normally lay over three days before being taken up by the House.

March 1 is the date set by President Carter and the Chinese leadership for the exchange of ambassadors and completion of the "normalization" process.

Chinese Ambassador Chai Tse-min is already here. Leonard Woodock, U.S. ambassador-nominee, is awaiting Senate confirmation.

The formal exchange has been threatened by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who has put a "hold" on Woodcock's confirmation until he sees how the Taiwan legislation shapes up.

Key point at issue is how strongly to write into the legislation U.S. concerns about an attack against Taiwan — a delicate matter because of Peking's possible objections.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., wants tough language to make clear Taiwan's security is vital to the United States. Both the administration and Peking have let it be known this approach is unacceptable.

Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Alan Cranston, D-Calif., want milder language stating U.S. "deep concern" over an attack which would cause the United States to act "in accordances with constitutional processes" to meet the danger.

Zablocki suggests a similar tack. His proposal would add language saying an attack on Taiwan would represent "a threat to the peace and stability of the Western Pacific area and of grave concern to the United States." It also warns of U.S. action to meet the danger "in accordance with its constitutional processes."

The administration has signaled willingness to go along with the latter two formulations, congressional sources report.

Other items to be settled include:

—Provisions to create an office to conduct U.S.-Taiwan relations on an unofficial basis.

—Grant of privileges and immunities to Taiwan's unofficial envoys in the United States in return for similar privileges for U.S. representatives in Taiwan.

—Recognition that the government of President Chiang Ching-kuo exercises authority over the affairs of Taiwan.

Seven Murdered In Possible Drug Rip Off In Harlem

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a gruesome scene, the blood-soaked bodies of six men and one woman, either stabbed or shot to death, were found scattered through a dingy Harlem tenement apartment Tuesday night in what police said appeared to be a drug "rip-off."

The slayings were believed to be the largest single mass murder in the city's history, but authorities could not immediately confirm this.

The medical examiner's office said at least five victims had been shot in the head, behind the ear, at least once. Some were repeatedly slashed. Two victims were tied back-to-back with a wire.

"It's a mess, there's blood by all the bodies," said one detective as he left the first-floor apartment on a Harlem block lined with boarded tenements and strewn with garbage.

A bloody knife with a seven-inch blade was found on a bed, on which three of the victims were lying. The woman was found on the floor nearby. Three other men were on the living room floor.

"It looks like narcotics rip-off," said a detective who did not want to be identified. "There were probably one or two people dealing, three to four junkies buying and a couple of other people."

Deputy Chief of Detectives James Duffy said police found "a white powder," "scales and quarter bags" which are used to hold $25 worth of cocaine. Neighbors said they thought marijuana was being sold from the apartment.

One of the victims was identified as Renato Crispan, 40, a native of the Dominican Republic, who lived in the apartment. Police said the woman was Crispan's common-law wife, but her only known name was "La Rubia," Spanish for "the blonde."

The other victims were not immediately identified. Police said all of the dead were believed to be Hispanics, possibly natives of the Dominican Republic, who appeared to be between 25 and 35.

The bodies were discovered Tuesday night by Crispan's brother, Jose, the building's landlord, who called police.

Solomon Says G.S.A. Overhaul May Take Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jay Solomon says he has made some progress in overhauling the scandal-ridden General Services Administration, but completing the job could take years.

"The work I have undertaken in reforming GSA is really only a beginning," Solomon told a House Government Operations subcommittee Tuesday.

The panel members were unanimous in their praise of what Solomon has accomplished during his 22 months as GSA administrator, but were clearly unhappy that he is being ousted before the corruption investigations of the agency are complete.

They said his departure threatens to delay or sidetrack the investigations. So far there have been 69 indictments of GSA employees or contractors doing business with the agency.

Solomon himself said that because of his status as a lame-duck administrator, his authority in running the agency is "weakening every day."

Solomon had expected to remain on the job for another few months, but the White House recently announced he would be replaced soon.

His ouster was reportedly the result of his pressuring the White House to appoint an inspector general for the GSA and because of his comments to the news media.

A new administrator has not yet been named.

Subcommittee Chairman John Burton, D-Calif., said he hopes there will not be any "loss of direction and momentum" when Solomon leaves.

"We do not want to see what he has begun falter in any way," Burton said.

Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa, said, "I am concerned further that the transition period between administrators will serve only to bring the investigations to a virtual standstill, if that has not already occurred."

Solomon said it took him nearly seven months to learn the GSA operation, and Walker predicted the new administrator will have to go through the same time-consuming orientation.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, chairman of the full committee, criticized the administration for ousting Solomon before his work was finished. "You'd almost think they're afraid he's going to get it done," he said.

Solomon declined to blame President Carter for his ouster. He said he still believes Carter is committed to reform of the federal bureaucracy.

"I came here because I believed in him. I leave believing in him," he said.

Egypt, Israel Retreat To Camp David To Try Again For Peace Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The foreign ministers of Egypt and Israel, once again in the seclusion of Camp David, today began the latest attempt to break the deadlock in the Middle East peace negotiations.

Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil, also named foreign minister by his government, and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan arrived separately in Washington Tuesday and immediately were flown by helicopter to the snow-covered mountains of western Maryland where they were in total isolation from newsmen.

They arrived just over five months after the end of the Camp David summit brought hopes for early agreement on an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

Those hopes disappeared in fundamental disagreement over "linkage" — how the treaty should be tied to a wider settlement involving Palestinian self-government on the West Bank and Gaza.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Tuesday the Camp David talks will include discussions about the supply of oil and increasing U.S. aid.

Begin did not give further details, but a State Department spokesman confirmed the Israelis are seeking a firm agreement from Egypt to sell them oil from the Sinai fields at commercial prices.

The issue has taken on new importance since the new Moslem regime in Iran announced it would no longer sell oil to Israel. The Israelis got an estimated 60 percent of their daily supply, about 40,000 barrels, from Iran.

The Israeli Knesset's Foreign Affairs Committee also said Dayan should make every effort to insure the U.S. aid to support the Israeli pullout from the Sinai should be in the form of a grant, and not a loan.

That reverses the earlier Israeli position in which the money — estimated to be $1.4 billion — would be in the form of a long-term, low-interest loan.

The money would finance relocation of Israeli communications, roads and warning systems. The United States has already committed itself to building two airfields in the Negev to replace four which would be given up in the occupied Sinai Peninsula.

President Carter, in a major foreign policy address Tuesday in Atlanta, said he would consider calling another summit meeting if both sides showed "adequate flexibility" in the negotiations.

But a State Department spokesman said the U.S. team hopes the treaty can be settled in the ministerial talks, which were beginning with a breakfast meeting between Khalil and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Vance planned a similar meeting with Dayan to establish procedure before actual negotiations begin.

The talks, to be held in the strictest privacy, are expected to go through the weekend without a break.

China, Vietnam Move Troops Toward Lang Son

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — China and Vietnam today moved troops toward the Vietnamese provincial capital of Lang Son for what appeared to be shaping up as a major battle in their 5-day-old war.

Intelligence sources in Bangkok said China sent another division of troops across the border toward Lang Son, 12 miles into Vietnamese territory.

A French reporter said he saw thousands of regular and provincial Vietnamese troops, accompanied by 105mm howitzers, also heading for Lang Son.

The intelligence sources said the troop movements by both sides indicated a major battle for control of Lang Son, a key northeast border junction of rail, river and road communications, was shaping up.

Soviet reconnaissance planes flew near the area for the second time since the Chinese invasion began Saturday, the Japanese Defense Agency reported, underlining intense Soviet interest in the conflict.

Intelligence sources said fighting continued along much of the 450-mile border but without major movement of the front lines.

Chinese jets were reported striking targets well ahead of ground troops, trying to knock out Vietnamese missile sites, the sources said.

The French reporter quoted the Vietnamese commander of forces at Lang Son as saying, "We think they (the Chinese) have regrouped. They will try to surround us."

Intelligence sources in Bangkok said there were large troop buildups on both sides but could not confirm the infusion of the Vietnamese regulars.

"So far as we know, the regular army divisions have been kept in reserve, well south of the fighting," one source said.

The latest reports from the battle area indicated the Chinese forces were overpowering, one source said.

Earlier Japanese reports from Hanoi quoted Vietnamese officials as saying the Chinese objective was to occupy Lang Son and two other key provincial cities north and northwest of Hanoi — Cai Bang and Lao Cai.

Farmers Help Dig Washington Out From Snow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fred Lundgren, a farmer from Elgin, Texas, took emergency telephone calls and went out on missions of mercy for two straight days to help Washington dig out from the worst snow in 57 years.

Lundgren helped open access to a Capitol Hill building where 50 people had been stranded overnight in the nearly 19 inches of snow and then helped pull their cars out of the snow.

He took women to National Airport to catch a plane. Returning, his pickup truck got stuck near a Greyhound bus filled with children.

He fetched a tractor to pull the bus out and took calls at the farmers' headquarters until 4 a.m. He was back on the job at 8 a.m.

"This is the kind of people we really are," he said Tuesday. "We're not pulling any punches. If we were in our hometowns, we'd be doing the same thing."

At least three tractor drivers worked straight through for 48 hours, with one hour to doze, Lundgren said. American Agriculture Movement farmers manned emergency telephones around the clock after the snow ended Monday morning.

They dispatched about 30 tractors and nearly 500 farm trucks.

Farmers made many trips to hospitals with kidney patients who needed dialysis treatments and women about to deliver babies.

The first night the farmers delivered medication to 28 hospitals and nursing homes and the second night took medication to 29 institutions.

They cleared parking lots at hospitals and the Red Cross blood donation center and helped suburban ambulances plow through snow. Suburban Prince George's County requested as many as 20 tractors to help dig out stranded people.

D.C. police did not allow farmers to plow out streets, hundreds of which were inaccessible, for fear of the city's liability if tractors plowed into parked cars.

Police screened requests for aid and insisted they escort farmers on mercy missions because of their unfamiliarity with the city.

One farmer samaritan paid for his good deed. He had to abandon his truck when he ran out of fuel after taking a patient to a hospital. When he returned to the truck, he found it jacked up and all his tires stolen.

Sixteen Year Old Girl Gives Baby To Truck Driver

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Hillsborough County Juvenile Court Judge Dan Gallagher has released a 16-year-old Macon, Ga., girl who allegedly gave her 2-month-old son away to a truck driver.

Lisa Ogle, charged with desertion and deliquency, was released in her mother's custody after accepting a rehabilitation plan submitted by her attorney.

She had been in custody since Feb. 1 when she arrived at the Polk County sheriff's office in Bartow and tried to reclaim the infant she allegedly gave away near Tampa Jan. 29.

Tuesday, she appeared before Gallagher and was ordered placed on a rehabilitation program that includes supervision by a youth services counselor in Macon for nine months. She either must return to school or get a job.

After the brief hearing she left with her mother, grandmother and aunt, but without the infant, Matthew. He is in the care of an unidentified foster family in Polk County.

Truck driver Howard Morris of Rocky Mount, N.C., surrendered the child to Polk County deputies at Haines City Jan. 29 after telephoning his wife.

He said he had picked up the girl and infant as she hitchhiked near Jacksonville and she repeatedly said she wanted to give the baby away, and once advertised the fact over his citizens' band radio.

He said he found a crowd of truckers waiting when they arrived at a rest area near Tampa and he decided to keep the child. He said the girl climbed into another truck and left.

Council Reviews Coal Development

Coal mining in Western Maryland and the complexities it will bring were the chief topics of discussion last week at the meeting of the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland at the Algonquin Motor Inn, Cumberland.

The discussion was headed by Alan Mallach, from Philadelphia, who is preparing a long-range study to determine the economic and fiscal impact of coal development in Garrett and Allegany counties.

In preparing his study, Mallach said he bases his estimates on three different assumptions. The high level anticipates coal production in the two counties will reach the annual level of about 12 million tons, half from deep mines and half from strip mines. Such a production would result in employment of about 3,100 persons, he estimates.

A medium level of nine million tons projects an employment in mining in the two counties of about 2,000 persons. His third level, the present level, is between five and six million tons per year with 800 to 900 employees.

Most of the anticipated new deep mining can be expected in Garrett County, where the annual income from mining could reach $20 million.

The coal industry in Garrett could reach about 10 percent of the overall receipts from industry and business but in Allegany county it will only amount to about two percent.

Mallach's report, being prepared for the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development, includes an introduction, a section discussing the labor force requirements for coal development, a section dealing with the economic effects of coal development, a section containing a housing market analysis, a section analyzing the fiscal effects of coal development on county finances and a final section dealing with service provisions, particularly coal haul roads, schools, and water and sewage treatment capacity.

The report also points out a number of problem areas anticipated in both western counties. Garrett County is likely to be affected more significantly, both positively and negatively, by coal mining. Mallach anticipates a significant immigration of coal miner households, particularly into the Oakland-Loch Lynn-Mt. Lake Park area.

The report identifies a serious community housing shortage in the county; a serious deficiency in the availability of capital and its by-products will be substantial — over $1.2 million — and demand for scenario as well as escalating coal-haul road maintenance costs could result in a deficit of overall fiscal impact by the late 1980's.

Because of the complex nature of the study and its methodology, representatives of the Tri-County Council and Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development have suggested a meeting be scheduled with the consultant and TCC to review the report and discuss strategies to mitigate some of the adverse effects predicted by the document.

Mallach anticipated that his report will be completed by early summer.

Counselors Needed For Scout Program

The Deep Creek District of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America is looking for merit badge counselors to help in its advancement program.

There are over 100 different merit badges, each related to a career, hobby or scouting skill. They are aimed at helping a boy discover his abilities and interests as he explores the merit badge subjects. They also help a boy become proficient in the areas of service to others and personal fitness.

The Scouting skills of advancement are an integral part of the program — both indoors and out. Advancement is a personal and individual thing. Each boy advances according to his own interests and abilities and through his own initiative.

Merit badge counselors are recruited and a list made available to the troops of Deep Creek District. Interested persons may learn to help a boy towards Eagle, Scouting's highest honor, by contacting Dr. James Fearer at 334-8393 or Potomac Council Service Center in Cresaptown at 729-1300.

State Suds Tax Is Distributed

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said recently that State beer taxes collected during the months of October, November and December 1978 will yield $1,031,219 for Maryland's twenty-three counties and Baltimore City. Checks totaling that amount have been mailed to the subdivisions as their share of beer tax revenues for the second quarter of Fiscal Year 1979.

"This distribution is higher than the $990,056 which was returned to the subdivisions for the same three month period of Fiscal Year 1978," Mr. Goldstein said.

In the current distribution, Baltimore City will receive $220,798, followed by Baltimore County with $180,760; Prince George's County, $164,155; Anne Arundel County, $100,663; and Montgomery County, $92,142. Garrett County will receive $5,408.36.

For the first half of Fiscal Year 1979, Baltimore City and Maryland's twenty-three counties have received $2,303,512 in beer tax revenues. This reflects a 5.96 percent growth over the $2,173,882 distributed for the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year.

Faithful Friend

A true friend is one of life's richest treasures. Sooner or later, we discover who our real friends are . . . and we cherish them.

Many years ago an old shepherd died. His dog was at the train depot when the man's casket was placed aboard the train. For years after the dog lived at the depot. . . he met every train, watching each passenger, always disappointed in not finding his master. Everyone loved the dog and after he died a monument to him was built on a hill above the depot.

We all need to know that we have the kind of friend who really cares about us. The man who walked the dusty roads of Galilee 2,000 years ago wants to be your lifelong friend. Nothing can separate you from His endless love and concern.

Rediscover the warmth of a friendship that never fails. Worship this week.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

JOINING HANDS

Lesson for February 25, 1979

Background Scripture: Ephesians 4:1-16.
Devotional Reading: Luke 10:1-11.

The little daughter of a farmer was lost. Although ill, she had somehow managed to wander away from the farmhouse into the weeds and tall grass of the prairie. The farmer knew that he would need help to find her, so he called together some friends who searched the prairie for several fruitless hours. Daylight was beginning to dim and the temperature was getting very cold. Finally, one of the friends said, "The weeds and grass are very thick and it is easy for us to miss many places. Why don't all of us join hands, therefore, and, marking our starting place, go through the undergrowth like a huge rake? Then we'll be sure not to miss anything."

Rev. Althouse

In God's Name, Why?

All of them agreed that it was something they should have done from the very beginning and so they started once again, this time with joined hands. After a half hour of united search, they found the little girl, but it was too late. She was dead. "In God's name," the farmer cried, "why didn't we join hands before?"

This is a tragic illustration of what happens when we fail to pool our gifts for the common good. It is a cry that we have uttered again and again. Amazed to find what happens when we join hands in war, we wonder why we didn't join hands in peace. Often it is only when it is too late that we realize what we can do together when we share what God has given us.

This is one of the reasons for the church as a fellowship of disciples: to do together what we cannot do as well by ourselves. Sometimes, however, we assume that the purpose of the church is to bring together people of a similar nature. But it is to share our diversities, not our similarities that God calls us together. As the writer of Ephesians saw the church, it was composed of people whose gifts were varied and different.

Given To Each

He began with the conviction that each person is given gifts by God, endowments that can contribute to the welfare of other people: "...grace was given to each of us according to the measure of Christ's gift" (4:7). Everybody has something that is needed by and can be a blessing for others. Too many of us assume that we were behind the door when the gifts were passed out. But the writer to the Ephesians says that everyone has a gift to contribute. So, the diversity of gifts should not separate us, he says, but bring us together, because there is but one common source: "one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all..." (4:5,6).

And as we grow to maturity, we grow, not apart, but together: "...we are to grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ, from whom the whole body, joined and knit together by every joint... makes bodily growth and upbuilds itself in love."

If.... we join hands.

WHAT IS ITCHING?

Itching is often a symptom of an underlying disorder. It is very closely related to the sensation of pain and by following the natural reflex to scratch, it will after a time initiate pain— which is temporarily more comfortable!!

Itching can be caused by many conditions— local infection, allergy, nerves, nutrition, etc. Self-treatment could delay proper therapy. A persistent itching should be checked with a physician. He can find out the cause and advise the proper treatment.

West Virginia Pair Conducting Medical Administrator Workshops

The following is an article received from the West Virginia University News Service concerning Glenn D. Crowe and William S. Victorson. Mr. Crowe is a native of Aurora.

A team of two West Virginians is teaching medical administrators across the nation how to lick the medical billing problem and solve other data puzzles with the help of computers.

They received rave reviews with their presentation at a West Coast meeting. Another session has been scheduled for administrators in the East and the program has been taped and will be available nationwide.

Glenn D. Crowe, assistant to the vice president for health sciences at West Virginia University, heads the team and the other member is William S. Victorson, another WVU alumnus who now works out of Santa Cruz, Calif.

Together they conducted a three-day workshop for administrators under sponsorship of the Medical Group Management Association headquartered at Denver. It was designed for MGMA members in western states and attracted persons from 20 states to Seattle in November.

"It was so successful it's going to be offered a second time for eastern members next April," said Dr. Charles E. Andrews, Crowe's boss. "And the association is making the tape and slides available at its educational center in Denver."

Health care is now the nation's second largest business and billing of patients — especially by medical groups and in conjunction with related hospital care — is a problem of growing complexity.

"Data processing has become an everyday fact of life," Crowe says. "It's the only practical way to handle the mass of information managers have to deal with. I point out in my presentation that just the paperwork involved in designing the 747 super airliner weighs more than the plane itself.

"Problems arise because too many managers aren't familiar enough with data processing, what it can accomplish and what its limitations are. We aimed to show them what computers can do for them, whether it's worth the cost to computerize in a given situation, how to evaluate systems and how to write a computer contract to protect themselves for years to come.

"Managers must know enough that they can't be sold a bill of goods. Either that or they had better find a consultant they can trust," he said.

Crowe learned the inner working of the computer trade during a decade with the data processing systems at Eastern Airlines and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Houston. A native of Aurora, Preston County, he attended Potomac State, WVU, the University of North Carolina and Princeton, and was the first person to complete UNC's program with all As.

At the WVU Medical Center he coordinates data processing and has developed innovative systems for dental patient care and for tracking alumni of the School of Medicine.

Dr. Andrews said MGMA officials wrote him that the Seattle program was a "huge success and far surpassed our greatest expectations" because of the work of Crowe and Victorson—" Many said it was the best workshop they ever attended."

"We're fortunate to have at the Medical Center persons of this caliber," Andrews said, "persons recognized nationally as tops in their field. West Virginians can take pride in their accomplishments and the fact they have been willing to leave fine careers elsewhere to return to their native state."

Local Students Are Graduated At FSC

Frostburg State College has awarded a total of 117 undergraduate degrees to persons who completed graduation requirements upon conclusion of the College's 1978 fall semester, according to Dr. Kenneth Jablon, vice president and dean.

The graduates will be recognized by the College at its Commencement ceremonies on May 13, 1979.

The graduates from Garrett County are as follows:

Bachelor of Science — James A. Deem, P. O. Box 341, Grantsville, Barry R. Domenick, Rt. 1, Box 114B, Cum Laude, Swanton and Maureen R. Sharps, P. O. Box 207, Oakland.

Bender Elected To Chevrolet Dealer Council

Tom Bender, of Grantsville, has been elected to the 1979 Chevrolet Dealer Council for the Pittsburgh zone.

Bender, of Casselman Motor Company in Grantsville, was elected to the zone council by his fellow dealers. Following the zone meetings at the end of January, nine regional dealer meetings will be held in advance of Chevrolet's National Dealer Council which meets in Detroit in March.

The Council, first founded in 1937, is organized for dealers and manufacturers to discuss areas of interests of the approximately 6,000 Chevrolet dealers.

The Pittsburgh zone includes 141 dealers in portions of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland and West Virginia.

Goldstein Lists Tax Rule Changes Affecting Students

Louis L. Goldstein, Comptroller of the Treasury for Maryland, announced this week that there are changes in Maryland income tax forms now being filed that affect about one in five state taxpayers and that will result in a total tax savings of approximately $25 million.

The change benefits students. Following are questions and answers concerning their tax situation.

Q. Hasn't there been a change in the Maryland income tax law affecting the way students file?

A. Yes, until this year, students having $750 or more in income from interest or dividends were required to file both Federal and Maryland State income tax returns. However, the 1978 session of the Maryland General Assembly eliminated the special student filing status under Maryland law, although it still exists under Federal law.

Q. What does this mean for students now filing 1978 Maryland tax returns?

A. Maryland law now treats students as other individual taxpayers. Single students are not required to file a Maryland State income tax return unless they had $2,950 in income during 1978, regardless of its source. However, students who have held jobs and had taxes withheld from their pay must file a State income tax return in order to get a refund of those taxes, even if their income was under $2,950.

Q. Does this change affect many people, and is it beneficial?

A. This change affects approximately 20,000 students, and it should then save up to $69 in each case.

Q. Is it necessary for students with part-time jobs to have Maryland income taxes withheld from their pay?

A. No, students who had no tax obligation in the previous year, and who anticipate none in the current year may file a Maryland Withholding Exemption Certificate (MW507-B) with their employers.

Q. Where can I get an exemption certificate?

A. They are available from any office of the Maryland Income Tax Division, listed in local telephone directories or by writing the division at the Income Tax Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

Q. Where can I get help in understanding this and other changes in the Maryland income tax laws?

A. Help with this and other items is available from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at all eleven permanent offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division. Taxpayers who want their returns filled out free of charge should bring their completed Federal form and all W-2 statements to one of these offices. Questions are answered also by telephone. A list of the offices is on the back of the Maryland tax packet, or in the telephone directory.

Contact: Marvin A. Bond, Public Information Office, State Treasury Building, Annapolis, MD 21404.

CONVERSATIONS ON CARPETING

Brought to you by

Carolyn & Butch Helbig

who say "A floor without a rug is like a kiss without a hug."

HOW TO HANDLE STAINS

If your carpeting is of the newer, synthetic fibers, you'll be able to handle most spills with a damp cloth. Some, however, will be more stubborn. Whenever a spill occurs, wipe it up as quickly as possible. In the case of solids, scrape off with the dull side of a knife, then sponge with cool water. Let's briefly discuss the different kinds of stains and how to remove them.

Remove water soluble stains (alcoholic beverages, soft drinks, fruit juices, urine, sugar starches) with a detergent solution of one quart warm water, one tablespoon neutral detergent, and one tablespoon white vinegar. Use the type of detergent you'd use for very delicate fabrics. Avoid even the mildest soaps.

For oily stains (butter, hand or cold cream, oily lotions, ball point pen ink) use a dry cleaning fluid, such as the type used to remove spots from clothing. Certain stains (coffee, tea, milk, chocolate, ice cream, egg, vomit, peanut butter) require a combination of both methods. Apply the detergent solution first. When dry, apply the cleaning fluid.

Avoid getting your carpet too wet. After cleaning, hasten drying by using an electric fan or vacuum cleaner hose.

Why not clip this column and hang it in your laundry area or other handy place? Be sure to see and read our next column on carpet cleaning. In the meantime, come in and see our fine selection of carpeting.

Each week we will tell you more about carpeting for your home. Watch for these columns.

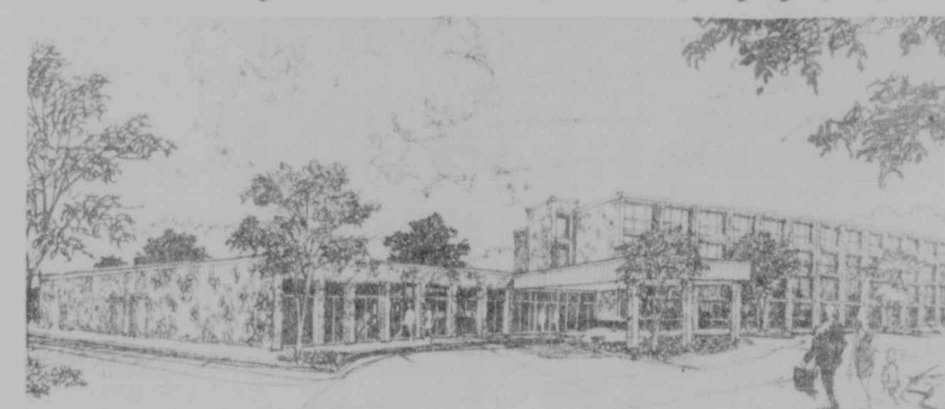
Grantsville Holiday Inn Should Be Ready For Occupancy By Spring



Construction of the Holiday Inn of Grantsville is proceeding on schedule, and should be ready for occupancy by mid-June according to the builder-owner, Thomas E. Schroyer, Grantsville.

The completed unit will have 94 double rooms and seven single rooms. There will be a 125-seat dining room open 16 hours each day, and there will also be banquet facilities for up to 350.

In addition, Mr. Schroyer will include an indoor pool, game room, room service 14 hours a day, color televisions, guest laundry and dry cleaning facilities, air conditioning, and live entertainment.

For sports enthusiasts, the Inn is located within a half-hour drive of Deep Creek Lake, Wisp Ski area, cross country ski areas, and snowmobiling. There will be snowmobile trails from the parking lot to 5,300 acres of state park, and the new Inn will offer snowmobile storage.

The four-story rental complex is located on the south side of Route 48 and on the western side of U. S. Route 219 south of the Grantsville shopping center, at the intersection of Chestnut Ridge Road.

Storehouse Underneath Accident Provides Energy for Philly, N. Y.

Underneath the town of Accident sits 62 billion cubic feet of gas, but no Garrett Countian will ever burn a drop of it.

According to a recent article published in the Cumberland Evening Times, Texas Eastern Gas Transmission Co., headquartered in Houston, stores enough natural gas underground around Accident to supply the entire metropolitan Washington area for a full year, but nobody in Maryland—Garrett County included— nor Washington has access to a single cubic foot.

According to a Texas Eastern spokesman in Houston the gas in lead-proof geological formations underneath Accident is stored for its utility customers in Philadelphia and New York.

But, says the Cumberland newspaper, no one in Garrett utters a complaint, since Texas Eastern is the largest taxpayer in the county, annually pumping about three-quarters of a million dollars into the county tax bill.

How much is 62 billion cubic feet of natural gas?

Since an average well in gas-rich Louisiana could produce two million feet a day, it would take one well 85 years to fill the storage capacity at the Accident location.

By comparison, the largest active gas well in Western Maryland—operated by Columbia Gas Transmission Company—yields only 71,000 cubic feet a day. That well is located on Negro Mountain, near Accident.

The Accident storage location is the largest of three owned by Texas Eastern and is used to stockpile gas collected from its wells in Louisiana and Texas. The pipeline company serves utilities in the northeast through the Accident storage site and smaller ones at Oakford and Leidy, both in Pennsylvania.

Texas Eastern moved into the area about 15 years ago after operators who drilled approximately 25 wells in search of gas and moved out. At one time, the field contained nearly 20 producing gas wells, all of which were exhausted by 1964.

The pipeline company used those abandoned wells and drilled some more of its own to increase storage capacity. Texas Eastern now has 77 storage wells in operation, with another five or six yet to be drilled.

According to the Maryland Geological Survey, there are only a dozen producing wells left in the state. Total yield during 1977, the agency's latest full year reading, was a scant 81.8 million cubic feet.

This is up from 85 million cubic feet in 1976, but far below the 1959 peak of 4.5 billion cubic feet, said Kenneth A. Schwarz, the agency's petroleum geologist. Total production from the state's 12 operating wells is currently running at about 200,000 cubic feet a day.

Mr. Schwarz said gas production in the state has declined steadily since 1959, except for a significant jump from 135 million to 619 million cubic feet between 1966 and 1967. This, he said, was due to the discovery of a sizable pocket of fuel from the well drilled at Negro Mountain.

Whereas the gas stored at Accident is piped out of the state, some of the fuel from these producing wells is used here.

A spokesman for Columbia Gas Transmission said a "small portion (of three wells in the state) makes its way into the pipelines of Columbia Gas of Maryland," which serves approximately 30,000 customers in the Hagerstown and Cumberland region.

Concerning the history of natural gas drilling in Maryland, Mr. Schwarz and Kenneth N. Weaver, director of the state's geological survey, explained that the first drilling took place in the early 1950's.

Natural gas was discovered at Mountain Lake Park, another Garrett County community, and in a short time about 100 wells were started. "It was what they call in the industry 'town lot drilling.' Wells were side-by-side. There were almost overlapping derrick legs," Mr. Schwarz said.

"This was prior to well spacing laws, and they over-drilled. There were too many straws in the soda or wells in the reservoir." This hurt production. "You get maximum production by holding down the number of wells in a field."

The Accident field was opened a couple of years later. About 25 wells were drilled, 19 of them striking natural gas. The field was just about depleted by the middle 1960's, opening the way for its use as a storage area.

The latest producing well was drilled in 1966. Located in the Greenridge State Forest, it was the only one of four drilled in that region to find gas.

By 1984, an estimated 10,000 electric vehicles will be in use.

Cooperation And Conservation

Once again our country must face the real possibility of gasoline rationing. Because the United States is indeed a "land of plenty" we are somewhat unaccustomed to any type of rationing. However the situation in Iran has seemingly forced our government to take at least preliminary steps to prepare to meet such a shortage.

As with the last so-called gasoline shortage, there exists skepticism as to whether or not there truly is a crisis, or if it is simply another move by the all-powerful oil companies to boost their prices.

There is no question that most of us waste gasoline. Even though the cost of it has doubled over the past six years, we still seem to be spending just as much time behind the wheel today as we did six years ago. Once again, the oil companies are certainly not blind to this fact.

There is also no question that the thermostats in many homes and offices are still set well above 65 or 68 degrees. It is also a fact that there is still a tremendous amount of unnecessary lighting being used for advertising and in homes.

Regardless of whether or not a shortage does, or will, exist, cooperation and conservation by all citizens is essential. At least this time the oil companies and the government seem to be better able to justify a shortage, that justification being the Iranian conflict.

As history has shown repeatedly, it is difficult to get human beings to anticipate, prepare for and thus head off a crisis, before it strikes. Usually the crisis must be upon us before we begin to cooperate and take action. We must once again use the over-used cliche, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Why can't we learn that?

Man Charged With First Degree Rape

Ronald Harvey, 38, of Backbone Mountain, has been charged with first degree rape following a complaint by a Garrett County woman Saturday night.

The rape reportedly occurred in Deer Park between 10 p.m. and midnight Saturday, and the young woman was taken by members of the Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Harvey was picked up Sunday at the Deer Park Sportsmen's Club which later furnished $1,000 bond to free him from the Allegany County Jail.

No trial date has been set, but a hearing is expected in April. Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department are investigating.

Large Crowd Attends First Session Of Family Lenten School

Approximately 150 persons attended the first session of the Family Lenten School, an interfaith school sponsored by congregations of the Oakland area at St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

Next Sunday at 7:00 p.m., the school will have the second of five planned sessions. At the Community Concerns course, the subject will be "New Happenings in Oakland" with guests, Dawn Scheffel and Ben Sincell.

The four adult courses and those for children and youth will be open to new participants throughout the school.

Stolen, Damaged Vehicles Reported

Garrett County sheriff's department received several calls during the past week to investigate incidents involving stolen or damaged vehicles.

On February 21, Nancy Michaels reported that her car had disappeared while parked at the Southern Laundramat. The vehicle was recovered the following day on North Hill Road not far from Kitzmiller. The investigation is continuing.

Jack Snyder, Aurora, reported that on February 21, someone had sprayed paint on the wheels of his vehicle while it was parked in Mt. Lake Park. Vandals had also flattened his left front tire.

A rock did an estimated $50 damage to the vehicle of James Sebold, McHenry, while he was driving on Third Street. He reported someone threw a rock which struck the driver's door.

An incident occurring January 12 was not reported to the sheriff's department until February 20. At that time, Brenda Paugh, Mt. Lake Park, reported that someone had forced open a side window of her car. The seats were slashed and the trunk locking mechanism was damaged. A radio was removed from the car, and the antenna broken off. Loss value was estimated at $300. The incident occurred at Point View Inn.

School Budget Presented At Public Meeting

Approximately 30 persons attended a meeting last Tuesday at Garrett Community College to hear a presentation of the Superintendent of School's 1980 budget request. The request is $1,139,439 higher than for the preceding year.

According to Dr. William Buser, superintendent of schools, few of those attending had questions concerning the presentation. The suggested budget will be presented at the March 8 meeting of the Board of Education in Oakland. After the Board makes any revisions deemed necessary, the budget will go to the Board of County Commissioners for action.

Total amount of the superintendent's budget is $8,886,571, compared to $7,519,132 for last year. Sixty percent of the amount would be used for instructional salaries, amounting to $5,369,824. Salaries are up from $4,745,989 last year.

Second highest amount is for pupil transportation, $1,843,792, followed by operations costs, $976,345.

Local funding is expected to account for $4,653,239, including $56,000 federal revenue sharing funds. State sources are expected to account for $4,393,332 of the amount needed.

Administration costs account for only 2.36 percent of the budget or $203,773. The health services estimate rose from $900 last year to $2,400 for the coming year, due to increase in laundry service and supplies and materials costs.

Capital outlay will take a large jump, from $66,000 to a projected $268,500 this year. Increases were principally for professional services, land for school sites, and school site improvements.

Teachers Ratify New Three-Year Contract

Members of the Garrett County Teachers' Association this week ratified a new three-year contract with the Garrett County Board of Education, accepting the budgeted increases as prepared and included in the Superintendent's budget presentation.

According to Robert Yunker, president of the GCTA, 75 percent of the eligible teachers voted to accept the new pact. A total of 92 percent teacher voting participation was recorded.

The salaries teachers receive will be up 7%, excluding regular step increases, in the first year of the agreement and 6% in the remaining two years. Extra duty pay schedules increase each of the years from $50 to $200 more in the first year and $100 increases for all positions in the second and third years.

Other contract improvements cited by Yunker are: 30 minutes per week increased planning time for elementary teachers bringing the minimum planning time to 175 per week; unused sick leave accumulation from the present 180 days to 220 days in the third year of the contract.

Reimbursement for college classes taken by teachers will be raised from $40 per hour to $50 per hour over the three year period; life insurance coverage for teachers has been raised from $12,000 to $15,000; disability income protection presently at $600 per month will be raised to $750 in the third year of the contract; teacher dependent insurance coverage paid by the Board of Education will increase in the next three years to $40 per month; maternity benefits increase to $700.

The contract has a built-in protection clause, a feature unique in the state. Economic terms of the contract are protected against fiscal reduction in the first year with automatic add-ons in the second year.

Yunker explained that if the salary increase negotiated for in the first year would not be totally funded, the amount of money lacking would be added on to the second year's proposal. If at the end of the second year the contract has not been entirely funded for those two years, the contract becomes null and void at that time. There is no third year and negotiations must start over.

The contract now must be funded by the county commissioners.

Oakland To Elect Three Councilmen On March 12

Registration at the Board of Election of Supervisors does not qualify a person to vote in the municipal election. Open registration for the town will continue until 4 p.m. Friday, March 2. Deadline for obtaining an absentee ballot is Monday, March 5.

Town officials whose terms will continue are Mayor H. D. Swartzentruber and council members M. Paul DeWitt, George S. Stewart and Frances C. Riley.

Register judges are Oneda M. Davis and Mary L. Browning. Machine judges are Jean A. Stack and Evelyn M. Hall.

LOOK CAREFULLY — Pictured above are a grandmother, two mothers, a brother, a sister, an uncle, a nephew, a daughter, two sons, and a grandson. Sound confusing? Actually, Mrs. Barbara Stonesifer, Oakland, gave birth to a son February 24, two days before her daughter, Mrs. Eugene (Vicky Stonesifer) Kitzmiller, Jr., gave birth to a son. The family likes to keep birthdays close together, as explained by Mrs. Stonesifer, who noted that Vicky and her brother, Billy, were born two years apart on April 4, and that Billy's daughter, Cindy, was born a year ago on February 26, the same day and month as Vicky's new son.

Commissioners Discuss Crucial Matters With Senator Sarbanes' Coordinator

County Commissioners Truman Paugh, Ernest Gregg, Jr., and H. Lester Hunter met Monday with Doug Mathias, local governments coordinator for Sen. Paul Sarbanes, to discuss county concerns to be relayed to the Senator.

The Commissioners and Mathias conferred on the necessity of completing Route 48 to provide an interstate-quality transportation link between Western Maryland and the rest of the state. The Board pointed out that this project would bring economic benefit to the entire region.

The Senator's assistant promised to do all in his power to expedite obtaining the necessary funding for a timely completion of the project.

Route 48 between Martin's Mountain east of Cumberland and Hancock has never been completed.

The Commissioners also broached the subject of obtaining funding assistance to provide funds so that a visitors' information center could be constructed east of Friendsville at the overlook on Route 48.

The Commissioners stated that they feel such a center would provide excellent first impressions of Maryland for travelers entering from the west on Route 48.

The local board also expressed concern over the tendency of the U.S. Congress to add additional guidelines on federal grant programs, further complicating the grant process.

Other visitors to see the Commissioners were Dr. William Buser, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, assistant superintendent, administrative services.

The two brought the board up to date on the progress of the Dennett Road renovation project and the construction of the Grantsville Elementary School.

Several months ago, the Board of Education had advised the Commissioners that the state had underfunded the two projects by $116,000 by deleting items from the construction and renovation plans. These deletions were felt by the local Board of Education to be essential to the construction of an adequate educational facility, and subsequently the Board met with the state to try to obtain additional funding.

The effort was successful in that all but $53,200 worth of the desired features were restored to the projects. The Commissioners Monday unanimously voted to include the $53,200 in next year's Board of Education capital budget to insure the construction of adequate school facilities.

The $53,200 will go to fund the replacement of incandescent lights at Dennett Road School with energy-efficient fluorescent lights which will also provide a more effective level of lighting.

The funds will also be used for additional site preparation and construction of a children's playground facility as part of the Grantsville Elementary School project.

During the regular roads board meeting, Herb McCrobie, administrative engineer, reviewed with the Board the bidding process for the purchase of road maintenance supplies and materials for the next year.

He advised that his department has begun soliciting bids for asphalt and other petroleum products, culvert pipe, limestone, tires and sand.

Two Get 10-Year Sentences On Arson, Breaking

Two persons received 10-year sentences for arson and breaking and entering as pronounced by Judge Fred A. Thayer last Thursday.

Alvin Timothy Schrock, RD 3, Oakland, and Joseph E. Sidebottom, RD 2, Oakland, both pleaded guilty to arson and breaking and entering the dwelling of Roy Gregory on Bei DeWitt Road last June. They were sentenced to ten years on each count to run concurrently but to run consecutively with three-year terms now being served. The three-year terms were passed last October for daytime housebreaking and possession of marijuana. Another charge of arson and one each of burglary and larceny against each were dismissed.

Clarence Wilburn Friend, RD 1, Friendsville, pleaded guilty of driving or attempting to drive a motor vehicle while intoxicated, at a trial last Wednesday. He was sentenced to one year to the Commissioner of Correction. This sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for one year and to have his drinking problem investigated by the probation department.

Adam David Wegman, Rt. 135, Mt. Lake Park, pleaded not guilty at a jury trial recently of five counts of motor vehicle violations. He was found guilty of four. For operating on suspended or revoked license, he was fined $250; for failing to present identification, $250; another, the same as the first noted, $250 and failing to keep to the right side of the road, $50. On the fifth count, operating an uninsured motor vehicle, his plea was sustained. The incidents occurred on Rt. 38 and 135. Fines are to be paid within 60 days or he is to be incarcerated in the county jail for 80 days.

Arson Ruled Out As Cause of Mt. Storm Lodge Fire

Arson has been ruled out as the cause of a seven-alarm blaze which caused $75,000 damage to the Mt. Storm Lodge early Sunday morning.

E. L. Roash, Martinsburg, from the West Virginia fire marshal's office, has determined that the fire was caused by a short in the electrical wiring to a large cooler in the rear storage area. The rear of the building and second-story storage areas sustained the most damage, while the kitchen had smoke and water damage.

Ernest Fisher, Mt. Storm fire chief, reported that his company was alerted about 12:30 a.m. after a cook at the Lodge, Mrs. Nellie Conner, had spotted the flames coming from the rear of the building. She alerted her son-in-law, who turned in the alarm.

Volunteer firemen from Mt. Storm, Elk Garden and Bayard, W. Va. and Gorman, Deer Park and Kitzmiller responded to the scene. One truck from Deer Park also stood by at the Gorman station, while Oakland volunteers stood by at Bayard.

Fisher noted that 34 men and ten pieces of equipment were used in fighting the blaze.

The two-story building, built in the 1930s, was in use as a restaurant and bus depot. Present owners are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Rohrbaugh, Keyser. Mr. Rohrbaugh has indicated he plans to renovate the building as soon as insurance matters are settled.

The building is located one mile east of Mt. Storm on U. S. Route 50.

The Mt. Storm fire chief reported that firefighters had the blaze under control between 3:30 and 4 a.m., but Mt. Storm remained on the scene until after 7 a.m. The rear of the structure was involved in flames when firefighters arrived on the scene.

IAC Agrees To Provide $83,000 For Local Schools

The Maryland Interagency Committee for Public School Construction has agreed to provide another $83,000 to provide features deemed important for the new Grantsville Elementary School and the renovation and expansion of the Dennett Road Elementary School.

Attending the IAC meeting in Baltimore February 16 to seek the additional funding were Herbert Harman, school board chairman; Clarence Stem and Troy Geegy, board members; Dr. William Buser, superintendent of schools; Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, assistant superintendent, administrative services; Clark Sharpless, principal of Dennett Road School; the Rev. Manning Smith, representing the Dennett Road PTA; Matthew Steringer, principal of Grantsville Elementary School; and Mrs. Sue Beachy, Grantsville PTA representative.

The county was seeking $116,000 for the two schools and all but $33,200 of the request was agreed to by the IAC. The county commissioners agreed to provide the remaining $33,200 when Dr. Buser and Dr. Ryscavage approached the commissioners Monday.

The IAC agreed to include funds at Dennett Road for installation of two adult restrooms, a new public address-television communication system, improvements to interior painting, installation of a paved play area and parking spaces, fluorescent lighting, lowering of ceilings in existing buildings and modification of windows.

For the Grantsville School, the IAC agreed to pay $40,000 of $61,000 necessary for site work, including a rear playground and construction of a kindergarten play area. The agency also approved funds for stage curtains in the cafetorium.

The county commissioners will provide $12,500 for additional improvements in lighting at Dennett Road and $16,500 for additional site preparation work for the Grantsville playground and tot lot.

Westmoreland Construction Company, Greensburg, Pa., had the base bid contract for $1,926,000 for the Grantsville school. The additional site improvement work paid for by local funds will now push the project cost above $2 million.

The contract for Dennett Road School has been awarded to Fairchance Lumber Co., Fairchance, Pa., at a base bid of $716,800. Dennett Road work is scheduled for completion by December of this year.

The Grantsville school will require 450 calendar days and should be completed by the spring of 1980.

Registration For Preschoolers To Be Held Again

The Garrett County Board of Education announces that the comprehensive preschool registration program which began two years ago as a joint venture with the Garrett County Health Department will be held again this year. This program is for all children entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time in September, 1979.

This registration program, which will be held in all elementary schools during March, April and May, has been developed to help identify strengths and needs of children and to identify early any problems that may interfere with a successful start in school, according to a news release from the Board.

Parents must register any child who will be six years old before January 1, 1980, and may register any child who will be five years old before January 1, 1980. All parents registering children for school will receive a letter notifying them of the date, time, and place of their appointment for the preschool registration program.

Parents are requested to bring their child's immunization record and to provide important information for the school's records during the registration. In addition, each child registering for school will be screened in the areas of vision, hearing and motor development. Additional services will include height, weight and health appraisal.

CONVERSATIONS ON CARPETING

Brought to you by

Carolyn & Butch Helbig

who say "A floor without a rug is like a kiss without a hug."

CLEANING YOUR CARPET (Part 1)

After a time, an accumulation of soil not readily removed by vacuuming will cause your carpet to dull. When this occurs, home cleaning will brighten the carpet and greatly improve its appearance. Home cleaning methods, however, are not a substitute for professional cleaning. We suggest cleaning by a professional every two to three years. Although, the vacuum cleaner you select, has a great deal to do with the necessity for cleaning your carpets. Adequate suction power prevents buildup of fine sandy soils making you less cleaning.

First, let's discuss the "wet" method of cleaning your carpet. This is suitable for almost every type of carpeting. When using this method, it's best to remove all furniture from the room. If that's impossible, place aluminum foil, plastic film, or cardboard squares under chair legs and table.

Use a solution of two heaping tablespoons of very mild detergent to a gallon of water, or use a commercial rug shampoo. Don't use soap. Apply the solution with a sponge, brush, or carpet shampoo machine. Wet only the surface of the carpet, not the backing. Dry the carpet as quickly as possible with forced air from a fan or vacuum cleaner attachment. When its thoroughly dry, brush pile gently all in one direction. Since this method may leave a residue which will hasten resoiling, avoid frequent cleanings. Next time we'll discuss the dry method of home cleaning. In the meantime, if you're looking for carpeting, you'll find an excellent selection at Rodericks.

See Part 2 next week.

Swelling Ohio River Forces Hundreds To Evacuate Homes

By United Press International

The rain-and snow-bloated Ohio River and its tributaries rose well above flood stage today, forcing the evacuation of hundreds of residents, and a new winter storm menaced the slowly thawing Midwest.

Pomeroy, on the banks of the Ohio River in the southeastern part of the state, was awash with 4-to 5-feet of water in its downtown. Stoic Ohioans merely picked up and moved out of their homes and businesses in low-lying areas Tuesday.

"People down here have a lot of patience," said Pomeroy Mayor Fred Andrews. "They just move out, wait for the water to move in, then wait for the water to move out again and they move back in.

"The merchants moved everything out of their stores. There is about 4 or 5 feet of water in the stores. But everything should be back to normal in about a week."

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered about 100 National Guard troops into Meigs, Gallia, Washington, Clermont and Scioto counties. Evacuations were reported in the Marietta, New Richmond and Portsmouth areas.

New Richmond Police Chief Harold Kennedy said the Ohio River in the area was still rising.

"We sort of plan for this every year," Kennedy said. "And when it happens we just put our plan e than 5 feet of water.

The National Weather Service said a new winter storm that gained strength in the Rockies was spreading snow onto the Plains and was headed for the upper Midwest, where temperatures reaching into the 40s helped melt mounds of snow left from previous storms.

Thawing and a plea to motorists to return to their stranded vehicles Tuesday helped workers clear southern Illinois roads covered by up to 20 inches of snow during a weekend storm.

Carl DeWitt of the state Transportation Department office in Carbondale said tow trucks made "really excellent progress" pulling the cars off on the roads.

A 60-mile stretch of Interstate 57 from Benton to Cairo and parts of Interstate 24, closed during the weekend, were reopened late Tuesday.

Opening Of Bids For Federal Leases Of Oil, Gas Held In New York Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — Representatives of the nation's biggest oil companies were called to Madison Square Garden today for the billion-dollar sale of oil and gas leases in the Atlantic Coast's Baltimore Canyon.

It is the second government sale of oil and natural gas leases in the potentially rich trough stretching from New York to North Carolina.

Although experts estimate that the area holds significant amounts of natural gas and crude oil, 7 of 16 wells sunk by offshore explorers in tracts bought in the first sale have come up dry.

More than 800 industry executives were expected at the sale. Each submitted sealed bids that were to be opened by Frank Basile, manager of the Interior Department's Outer Continental Shelf office.

Up for grabs were 109 tracts on 650,000 acres, which will bring the Interior Department royalties starting at about 16 percent.

The tracts placed on the block are located from 50 to 83 miles ofishore in depths ranging from 177 to 2,461 feet.

While only one firm, Texaco, has made any significant discoveries in the area, the Interior Department estimates the outer continental shelf in the area holds more than 307 million barrels of crude oil and 4.3 trillion cubic feet of natural gas — with a total value of $6.7 billion.

Texaco and the U.S. Geological Survey each have found significant traces of natural gas in the canyon. But one of the "dry holes" was a Mobil well right on top of the Baltimore Dome, the deepest and potentially richest lode in the trough.

In August 1976, the first sale of drilling rights brought the government nearly $1.13 billion for about 93 tracts in the ocean.

Despite high drilling costs, the industry remembers that it took nearly 50 test wells before oil was found in the North Sea.

Even with the opening of the bids, the process is far from over.

It will take up to 60 days to determine just who won today's oil-lease bidding. The Justice Department has 30 days to review bids for antitrust purposes and Interior has 30 days to compare bids with the U.S. Geological Survey's estimates of each tract's value.

China, U.S.S.R. To Be Considered For Most Favored Trade Status

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Congress consents, President Carter says he hopes to extend most-favored-nation trade status to both the Soviet Union and China within the next few months.

Carter's remarks came in an unusual toast at a White House dinner honoring the nation's governors Tuesday night.

The president reviewed all of his major foreign policy goals and revealed he had met for an hour earlier in the day with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to discuss the strategic arms negotiations and "the difffences between us."

"I've just spent an hour with the ambassador of the Soviet Union, talking about the differences we have with the Soviet Union, and talking about the cooperation we have with the Soviet Union," Carter told the governors.

He said they also spoke of possible relaxation of trade restrictions with the U.S.S.R.

"I would guess the Soviet Union is upgrading immigration to the point where it would qualify for most-favored-nation status," Carter said, referring to the normal trading pattern in which any U.S. trading partner is guaranteed the same concessions as those received by the "most favored nation."

Carter told the governors that Russia has boosted its "out-migration" of Jews up to 40,000 a year, its highest in history, and said:

"I would hope in the next few months we would have most-favored-nation status granted to both China and the Soviet Union." He added that such a move would be subject to congressional approval.

The Soviet Union has been relaxing its restrictions gradually, without fanfare, and Chinese emigration policies are not believed to pose a problem.

Fire Destroys R.R. Terminal In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A five-alarm blaze destroyed a former Pennsylvania Railroad terminal in East Baltimore, fire officials said.

The fire at the Pennsylvania Railroad President Street Station could be seen for miles after it was reported at 10:52 p.m. Tuesday. The blaze was under control by 12:18 a.m., officials said.

Loud Boom Returns Hearing To Deaf Man

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Bobby Jimenez, 30, who was left totally deaf by spinal meningitis just before his third birthday, said he was driving home about midnight Monday when he saw a bright orange flash in the sky followed by a loud boom. But no one else in the vicinity had heard the sound of any explosion.

Jimenez was scared so badly he drove straight to the Tulare County Sheriff's Office. After it dawned on him he could hear, Jimenez was taken to a hospital where he broke into a broad smile and gleefully repeated his own name when interviewed by Barbara Dotson, who works with deaf people and had treated Jimenez in the past. Jimenez' mother said she would inquire through a hearing specialist why her son's deafness ended so abruptly.

Comprehensive Calendar of Proposed Federal Regulations Published Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A council of representatives from 35 federal regulatory agencies today published what it described as the first comprehensive calendar of proposed major regulations.

The calendar was developed by the fledgling Regulatory Council, created by President Carter last fall to help avoid inconsistency and duplication in rule-making and keep closer tabs on costs and benefits of new regulations.

Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Douglas Costle, who heads the council, said the new publication would be "the single most important tool we have as regulators to carry out the assignment President Carter gave the council last October."

The first edition of the calendar, which will be updated every six months, contained summaries of 109 regulations proposed by 20 agencies in five general areas: health and safety, human resources, natural resources, trade and commerce, and transportation and communications.

Other information included timetables for the various steps in rule-making, possible alternatives to the proposal, its expected benefits, what groups would be affected, and, in about 30 percent of the cases, the estimated cost.

The agencies were asked to submit regulations that would have an impact of $100 million a year or more on the economy, or those that would have an impact of $50 million or more on a particular industry.

The proposals were solicited from 35 agencies with major regulatory responsibilities, ranging from the Agriculture Department to the Postal Rate Commission.

At least one independent, the Securities and Exchange Commission, declined to participate. In a letter to Costle, SEC Chairman Harold Williams explained, "We do not feel that it would be consistent with our congressionally mandated status as an independent regulatory agency to participate directly in the council's work."

Costle conceded participation by independent agencies is voluntary, but noted many such agencies submitted information even though they are not under control of the executive branch. Several others explained they were not planning to issue any rules in the next few months but promised cooperation.

He said the first calendar was put together in about six weeks as more of a prototype and several refinements were expected. Next time, he said, agencies will be urged to submit more information on the costs and benefits of proposed regulations.

Although he was not specific, he said he believed some of the agencies "could have been more forthcoming" with information about their proposals.

"Disaster" Status Doubtful For Flooded Town

FEDERALSBURG, Md. (UPI) — Officials in this Eastern Shore town have asked Gov. Harry Hughes to declare the city a disaster area because of flooding that began Sunday night, but a Hughes spokesman said it is doubtful the governor will grant the request.

The residents of at least 18 homes along the east side of the town's main street were evacuated late Sunday when the waters of Arshyhope Creek filled cellars and rose as high as first floor windows. Some of the homes were still surrounded by water Tuesday.

High water also caused the closing of the Caroline County health center.

Mayor Albert Gerardi said several businessmen told him they do not have flood insurance.

Gerardi asked Hughes to seek federal disaster status for the town and asked Sens. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., and Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., whether federal aid such as small business loans is available to the town.

An aide to Hughes said it is unlikely disaster status will be granted to the town of about 2,000 residents.

Carter's Proposed Overhaul To Ease Backlog In Federal Court System

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter is proposing a broad overhaul and streamlining of the federal court system to ease case backlogs and take "a major step forward" toward providing equal justice to rich and poor.

In announcing the six bills he was submitting to Congress Tuesday, Carter said they constitute "a major step forward in the administration of justice."

"My proposals are intended to increase the efficiency, cut the cost and maintain the integrity of our federal courts," Carter said.

He warned the courts cannot perform "if they are required to operate with inadequate resources, saddled with outmoded procedures and burdened with more business than they can fairly dispose of within a reasonable time.

"This is not just a problem for judges and lawyers, or Congress members and attorneys general and presidents," he said. "It's a problem for all Americans, and particularly those who are not wealthy and who have to deal with the court, which is quite often a mystery to them, where delays are so costly that justice cannot be realized."

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass, and Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., chairmen of the Senate and House Judiciary committees, stood with Carter to endorse the plan.

Kennedy, asked by Carter about the chances of success, replied: "I think they are good." Five of the bills were offered Congress last year but not approved.

Attorney General Griffin Bell said the proposals were not "glamorous" but were needed to make the overall system more workable.

The proposals would:

—Permit district courts to adopt a plan for arbitrating civil cases involving financial claims of $100,000 or less.

—Expand the jurisdiction of magistrates so misdemeanor and uncomplicated civil cases could be handled entirely by magistrates, if the parties involved agree.

—Ease the burden on the Supreme Court by giving it more control over its own docket.

—Eliminate from district courts the burden of hearing cases involving the citizens of different states. Nearly 25 percent of the civil caseload of federal courts involves such cases.

—Offer federal assistance to states and localities to encourage the use of small claims courts and neighborhood justice centers in minor disputes.

—Combine the Court of Claims and the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals into a new U.S. Court of Appeals for the federal circuit. The new court would set up a panel to advise it on operating procedures and practices.

—Improve judicial administration through such means as setting 5-year terms for chief judges, clarifying the makeup of appellate panels and making it easier to transfer cases from one court to another.

Army Decision On Virginia Oil Refinery Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for the Army C[illegible] says a long-awaited final decision on the proposed Portsmouth, Va., oil refinery has been delayed until March 5.

Morris tentatively recommended approval of the project last fall and if he remains in favor, the final decision on the project will be made by Army Secretary Clifford Alexander because of opposition by the Interior Department.

Morris could kill the project by reversing his previously announced position and refusing to issue a needed dredging permit.

During the last several weeks, Morris has met with representatives of federal environmental agencies who have recommended rejection of the permit because of potential oil spills.

The Hampton Roads Energy Co. wants to build a $620 million refinery along a 612-acre tract of the Elizabeth river, a tributary of the seafood-rich Chesapeake Bay.

House Takes On National Debt Ceiling Today

By DON PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In some circles it might be called closing the barn door after the horse is out. Others might say it's the closest Congress comes to Alice in Wonderland.

However it is characterized, the House today was taking up the national debt ceiling and beginning a game that has become as traditional as it is meaningless.

The scenario goes like this:

—Congress passes spending measures that cost more than the government brings in, necessitating the borrowing of money and increasing the national debt.

—But Congress also has placed a dollar limit on the national debt. So once it agrees on a spending level it also must increase the national debt ceiling to pay for its past actions. It has no choice.

—However, beginning several years ago, Republicans began voting against the debt bill as a protest of federal spending, although they acknowledged it must pass eventually.

—Many Democrats, fearful the GOP would use their "yes" vote against them in the next election, also voted "no," thereby killing the bill overwhelmingly.

—The debt ceiling expires and the government is unable to borrow money to pay its bills or its workers' salaries.

—Faced with a crisis, Congress passes a debt bill.

"You know the history," sighed House Speaker Thomas O'Neill as he indicated to reporters Tuesday the same game was about to be played again this year.

O'Neill and other House leaders formed a task force this year to lobby hard for Democratic votes on the debt bill, but their success seemed in doubt.

House Republican Leader John Rhodes confirmed GOP strategy Monday when he told reporters he would vote against the bill.

"If I felt they (Democrats) were really serious about balancing the budget, I'd vote for the debt bill because we have to pay our debts," said Rhodes.

But he added, "Maybe we'll let them provide the votes for it."

Almost lost in the political shuffle are details of the bill. It would increase the current debt ceiling of $798 billion to $836 billion through Sept. 30.

The current ceiling expires April 1, but the Treasury estimates that its need to borrow money will bump against the ceiling sooner, perhaps by March 9.

Busing May End In Prince George's County Schools

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI) — The Prince George's County school board and the county chapter of the NAACP have apparently reached an agreement that could end the busing of school children who live in integrated neighborhoods.

The agreement, which was signed Tuesday by board chairman Norman H. Saunders and NAACP head William R. Martin, has yet to be formally approved by the school board or the county NAACP.

The agreement marks the first time since the county began busing school children in 1973 that the NAACP has dropped its opposition to any changes in the busing plan.

Under the current plan children from predominantly white neighborhoods are bused to predominantly black schools and vice versa.

But because of an increase in the number of county black families since 1973, many black children now are being bused to schools that have become mostly black.

The agreement said the busing of children from integrated neighborhoods for the purpose of integrating public schools is "impractical and counter-productive."

The county NAACP may face some obstacles from the group's national organization over the proposed change. Althea Simmons of the national NAACP in Washington said the county chapter had no authority to negotiate the agreement without first receiving approval from the national organization.

Twelve Firefighters Hurt In Baltimore Scrapyard Blaze

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A stray spark from a workman's torch touched off a fire and set off a series of explosions at a southeast Baltimore scrapyard that sent 12 firefighters to the hospital.

Fire department investigators said a workman was burning holes in a large metal container at the Cambridge Iron and Metal Scrapyard when he accidentally set fire to a container of magnesium shavings.

The flames spread through the scrapyard, as firefighters tried to avoid hosing down the burning magnesium, which explodes if it comes in contact with water.

But a gust of wind carried spray from the hoses to the magnesium, setting off a series of minor explosions. The minor explosions ended in one powerful blast that blew the windows out of nearby office buildings, and hurled a molten fireball high into the air.

Firemen were sprayed with the molten metal, and the force of the explosion shattered windows in nearby buildings, said Captain Patrick Flynn.

A resident near the yard, Dora Netzer, 59, of Fountain Street, said she was watching the fire from her second story window when the magnesium exploded.

She said "it sounded like the whole yard exploded. Then there was this billow of fire and a blast of heat. My bedroom window broke and I decided to get out fast."

Flynn said six firemen were taken to Mercy Hospital and another six to Baltimore City Hospital. Flynn said four of the firemen were treated for burns and smoke inhalation. But the rest were treated and released, he said.

The blaze was quickly contained but was not declared under control until 3:46 p.m., about two hours after the alarm was set off Flynn said.

A second blaze late Tuesday destroyed a downtown Baltimore warehouse.

The five-alarm fire took several hours to bring under control.

The cause has not yet been determined.

Jane Byrne Upsets Political Machine In Chicago Primary

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Democratic machine the late Mayor Richard J. Daley built and Chicago politics were turned upside down Tuesday by Jane Byrne, a small Irish woman who beat Mayor Michael A. Bilandic in a Democratic mayoral primary usually considered tantamount to election. If she makes it in April, Mrs. Byrne will be the first elected woman mayor of one of the nation's great cities.

With 96 percent of the vote counted, Mrs. Byrne skimmed through by an eyelash with 398,742 votes (50.9 percent) to Bilandic's 383,715 (49.03 percent). A stony-faced Bilandic appeared before the party faithful Tuesday night and said, "If the trend continues, it appears that Jane Byrne will be the Democratic nominee. We send her our congratulations."

Taiwan Ambassadors' Residence Given Away To Interest Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 26-room Victorian clapboard mansion that has housed nine ambassadors of the Republic of China since 1937 is nearly empty today, and Vice Minister H.K. Yang, the last high Nationalist Chinese official to use the 1890s residence, is on his way back to Taipei.

The residence and Taiwan's downtown chancery were given away by Taiwan at the end of December to a tax-exempt corporation called the Friends of Free China, which has put them beyond the immediate reach of Peking, as it was designed to do. Tuesday, the House Foreign Affairs committee voted 14-7 to safeguard the buildings for Taiwan. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, however, voted to regard them as probably belonging to Peking.

Dear Sir:

If the Bypass would mean a shopping mall and a shopping mall would mean a movie theatre for the young people of Garrett County, I'm for a shopping mall, a movie theatre and the bypass.

I've lived in the community for ten years and for ten years I've heard a movie theatre would be built, my children are grown now and still no theatre. I've heard the Brownings are going to put one up but just wanted to leave the building to the operator, and therefore could not make a deal.

If the merchants want to keep business down town and in the area, why haven't they gone together and put one up?

I for one always planned my shopping in Cumberland while the kids or the whole family took in a movie and ate out.

Isn't it a shame we must risk the lives of our children on bad roads so they may relieve some winter boredom by driving so far to see a movie.

If Westernport and Grantsville can do it, why, oh why can't we?

Are you listening downtown merchants? I doubt it, some people never learn.

I'm one of thousands that signed my name on a paper at Brownings Foodland saying I'd patronize a movie theatre in Oakland about five years ago.

Wouldn't you rather see the teenagers going to the movies than to the watering holes on Deep Creek , if you don't think sixteen and seventeen year olds are out there drinking, drop in some evening, maybe if we gave them an alternative in entertainment we would be doing us all a big favor.

A Parent

The following is a letter directed to the county commissioners, however, it was requested that it also be used as a Letter to the Editor.

Gentlemen:

At our regular monthly meeting yesterday, the Planning Commission adopted the enclosed Resolution Number 18, re-affirming our support for the Oakland Bypass and respectfully urging that you do likewise.

Although our vote was unanimous, it should not be thought that the decision was lightly taken or easily reached. At three of our meetings, we invited the public to participate in the discussion of this vital issue, and we are genuinely thankful that so many were willing to stand up and voice their opinion either for or against the Bypass. We also appreciate the many letters we have received, copies of which are enclosed.

As much as we might like to have arrived at a compromise that would partially have satisfied both sides on this issue, no middle position is defensible. The question is very simple: should there be a Bypass or not? Public opinion, as expressed in letters and verbal statements, very clearly is divided, with the supporters somewhat outnumbering the opponents.

In the end, the Commission members concluded that the logic of the arguments for the Bypass was more persuasive, as a whole, than the weight of the arguments against. By agreeing with the portion of the public that favors the Bypass, we unavoidably have disagreed with the equally vocal opponents. We hope the latter will understand that our disagreement is not a rejection of the sincerity of their views, or the seriousness of the objections they have raised.

We hope you will agree with our conclusion that, even though the Bypass unquestionably will have adverse short-term impacts on some Garrett Countians, the long-term benefit to the great majority of Garrett Countians, present and future, justifies continued support for the project.

Sincerely,
Garrett County
Planning Commission
Charles C. Bender
Chairman

Dear Don:

Having worked month-by-month with the County Planning Commission since 1971, I cannot remain silent in the face of the Editorial attack on the open-mindedness of its members.

Since your editorial wrath evidently was provoked by a question from me during last week's Commission meeting, let me first clear the air: if I was wrong in perceiving that the "Acting Editor" appeared to have "stacked" the previous week's Republican against the Bypass, then I apologize for having impugned his journalistic integrity.

I have great difficulty, however, understanding your conclusion that the Commission "apparently [did] not even consider" the views of "the public". Should the Commission listen only to the opposition, and ignore the even larger number of letters from citizens expressing equally-sincere, intelligent support for the Bypass? Isn't it, perhaps, "self-centered" to speculate that, by agreeing with one side of "the public", the Commission members had completely ignored the opposing side?

Your accusations might have some merit if "the public" was unanimous. Very obviously, that is not the case.

Garrett County is very fortunate in having a Planning Commission that so conscientiously fulfills its heavy legal responsibilities to listen, to think intelligently, and to exercise independent judgement. Objective observers who actually are familiar with the Commission's performance undoubtedly would agree that it consistently has been open-minded in its process, fair-minded in its decisions, and motivated solely by the almost-impossible task of finding the actions that really do serve the best interests of "the public." As an example (which, ironically, went unreported), the very next action at that same meeting responded to citizens' views regarding Paradise Point Road (and was a vote against the Director's earlier recommendation).

All things considered, I think the Commission deserves an apology.

Sincerely,
Tim Dugan

Dear Sir:

This letter is regarding the meeting at the East Preston Senior High School on February 5, 1979 with Mr. Harsh and the rest of the Preston County Board of Education.

I was quite ashamed of the citizens which were calling parents and misleading them about the meeting. I was also quite ashamed of the parents who showed much disrespect for Mr. Harsh and actually made fools of themselves.

My wife was called on Friday before the meeting and was asked to come to the Monday night meeting if my wife was against the deconsolidation. My wife explained to her that she was for the deconsolidation. The individual who called my wife said that the meeting was for all those who were against deconsolidation, and if you were for deconsolidation you didn't need to attend. So therefore, my wife and I didn't attend.

We were not the only parents contacted and mislead in this manner.

Is this right for them to do? It shows me that some of the citizens of Terra Alta cannot be trusted.

After the meeting, we learned that it was for both sides to present their opinions.

The meeting itself, involved a lot of disrespect for Mr. Harsh and the other board members. Whether certain people agreed or disagreed with the man, they should have had more respect for him. We can disagree without being disagreeable.

A certain person, whose name I'll not mention, called Mr. Harsh a "Turkey". She also stooped so low as to tell him she would hit him with her frying skillet if she could.

I hope this woman's husband is quite proud of her. Who'll she fight next? Muhammed Ali?

Oh, parents of Terra Alta, I'm greatly ashamed of your actions.

Please accept my apology, Mr. Harsh, for their actions.

Sincerely,
Concerned Citizen of Terra Alta

NOTICE
TO WATER CUSTOMERS IN OAKLAND

The Town of Oakland has approximately 850 water customers. Some have experienced frozen water lines and others have let water run to prevent freezing. Some have shared with their waterless neighbors. Neither the Town nor the customers have been at fault in the situation. In fairness to both, where there is evidence that any of the above has occurred, the March quarter water bills will be adjusted as follows:

1. The least amount a customer will pay will be the minimum quarterly charge.
2. The maximum a customer will pay will be the highest amount paid in any quarter during the past year.
3. If the amount of water consumed is less than the last quarter the customer will be billed for that amount.

ARE YOUR ROOMS COMPLETE?

A national news service recently compiled a listing of what industry officials consider the basic pieces of furniture that each room in a home should have.

Naturally, there are no hard and fast rules, and homes vary because of individual needs and tastes, but this will give you a helpful outline.

For example, for the dining room, beside the dining room table and chairs, experts recommend pieces, if possible, for storage and those that can allow for buffet serving.

For the living room, beside adequate seating, you should consider if you have enough tables to go with the seating pieces, plus tables for work and/or games; furniture to hold such things as books, stereo equipment, etc., and basic pieces from which to serve and eat snacks.

For foyers, some recommended basics are a mirror, table or chest, and chair or bench.

And for bedrooms, beside beds and dressers, experts say you should consider, if possible, a daytime area including comfortable chairs, maybe a desk, pieces to hold books and possibly a TV, and the right occasional tables and night tables.

For any or all of your furniture, stop in here.

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.

THE ARTS

by jim willis

Art Exhibit

Local artist, Sophia McDonald, of Oakland, will exhibit art works at the Garrett Community College library, McHenry, from March 5th through the 15th. The exhibit will include a variety of realistic oil paintings, pen and inks, and water colors. A portion of the art will be available for purchasing.

Sophia was born and raised in Maryland and became interested in art at the early age of eight. She is a graduate of the Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore, where she obtained a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

She has traveled extensively throughout the United States, living in California, Maine, and Florida, where she exhibited and sold her work.

Sophia, her husband, John, and their daughter, Kristen, moved to Oakland two years ago, after living in a remote area of West Virginia.

She is involved in community affairs and is a member of the board of directors of the Garrett County Arts Council, Inc.

Impressed with the area, one of her main goals is to capture local landscapes and people on canvas.

Sophia's other interests include skiing, hiking, vegetarian cooking, Frisbe, and tennis.

Quilt Festival

The age-old art of quilting is coming into its own this summer at Penn Alps, Grantsville, with the initiation of a Quilt Festival. The Spruce Forest and the two log cabins on the Demonstration Grounds will become a quilt-lover's mecca, with the quilting lore of the area on display Friday and Saturday, June 22-23, from 10 a.m. through 5 p.m. each day.

The idea of a Quilt Festival was conceived last year when the first Penn Alps Summerfest coincided with an important quilter's convention on the Eastern seaboard, thus taking out-of-state, some of Penn Alps' key quilting personnel.

To insure success of this new venture, a wide variety of area quilts are encouraged to be made available for display, whether on loan or for sale. It is expected that these will cover the history of quilting in the area, from early pioneer times to the present.

Area quilters should address inquiries to: Quilt Festival, Penn Alps, Inc., Grantsville, MD 21536, or phone 895-5985.

A committee of judges will evaluate the quilts in order to rule out inferior design and workmanship.

Photo Display

Garrett Community College will host the photography exhibit of Clifford Sandsmark from Friday, February 16, through Thursday, March 1. The display will be housed in the library of the McHenry campus.

Sandsmark studied photography at the Brooklyn Museum Art School and the Maryland Institute, College of Art, and is currently employed at GCC under the Humanities Division as an adjunct Art Instructor.

The exhibit will consist of color prints taken within the Coney Island Amusement area in New York City during the winter of 1973-74. It is a personal exploration of a place where Sandsmark spent many childhood summers during the years he was growing up in Brooklyn. The essay reflects the gradual decay of a once popular area that was filled with lights, color, excitement, and joyous sounds; but photographed with a mature eye with a desire to record what is left today, and of what was.

The public is cordially invited to view the exhibit.

Art Show Slated

The fourth annual Blue Pine Springs 4-H Club's Youth and Adult Art Show and Exhibit will be held Saturday, March 10, at the Garrett Community College library, McHenry. Exhibits will be accepted on that day from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The Art Show is open to all persons, and entries will be divided into a youth category, age 18 and under; and adult division.

The exhibits will be on display in the library until Saturday, March 17.

Each person may enter one art object in each of the eleven classes. An entry fee of 50 cents for youth, and $1 for adult exhibits will be charged.

For further information, contact Greg Dishong, show manager, at 689-5770, or at the 4-H office, 334-2145.

Goldstein Says Pension Changes Are Fiscal Necessity

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein told a joint meeting of two legislative committees in Annapolis Monday that pension changes, including full advance funding of Maryland's pension systems, are a necessary part of the State's sound fiscal management and of other steps being taken to maintain Maryland's triple A bond rating.

Mr. Goldstein noted that advance funding of the State's pension systems was of concern to him as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the State Employees Retirement System and as a Board member of the State Teachers and State Police Systems. "At the December 1978 meeting of the Boards of Trustees, we passed a resolution urging adoption of advance funding legislation based on the input of all affected groups. I made a similar request at the May 1978 meeting, following the last session of the General Assembly," he said.

Comptroller Goldstein told legislators that Maryland had retained her triple A general obligation bond rating, the best available, only through a great deal of work. He said that if the pension issue is not addressed during the current session of the General Assembly, the bond rating could be affected.

"We have taken steps to reassure the investment and financial community of Maryland's sound fiscal management. We have a well-regarded bond statement. We have recommended to you that a portion of the State's anticipated surplus be used to pay for capital projects on a current basis, eliminating the need to sell general obligation bonds until May or June of this year. We have also instituted a pioneering program in cooperation with the national accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand to help establish the generally accepted accounting principles which will apply to financial reporting, not only here in Maryland, but also to State and municipal governments throughout the nation. Providing for full advance funding of all of Maryland's retirement systems is another of those steps which are needed to maintain Maryland's leadership in financial management, and to protect our State's taxpayers," Mr. Goldstein said.

SOUTHERN'S DAVE HERSHMAN (32) rebounds the ball during the thriller basketball game between Northern and Southern last Friday night. The teams kept the score evenly matched throughout the game and went into the last 30 seconds with a 60-60 score and Southern in possession. In the last three seconds of the game and as a record breaking crowd in the Southern High gym looked on, Todd Liller sank two points for the Rams with a 20-foot jump shot, boosting the score to 62-60. Other players pictured above, left to right, are Tony Doerr (45), Northern; Billy Bender (51), Northern; Jeff Ryscavage (40), Southern; and Phil Workman (25), Northern.

Liller Shot Wins Game For Rams Over Northern

Todd Liller became a hero for Southern last Friday night when his 20-foot jump shot in the last three seconds of the game took the Rams over the edge of a tie with the visiting Northern Huskies, making the final score 62-60.

The Rams gained possession in the last 30 seconds of the basketball game giving them one final chance to break the 60 even score. As the largest crowd in the history of the Southern High gym looked on, Liller, who ended the game with a 16-point record, jumped and sunk in the game winning shot.

Jeff Ryscavage gave the Rams the competitive edge in the second half of the game by scoring 18 of his 26 points. Brad Bittinger helped the Rams along with his ten point tally.

The lead of the game was never quite certain as first one team then the other moved ahead. The first quarter ended with the Rams ahead 19-14 but by half time the Huskies had 34-31 advantage. Southern was in the lead when the final eight minute countdown began, 48-46.

Tony Doerr and Billy Bender scored 24 and 20 respectively, for the Huskies who ended their season 12-10.

Southern Peels Applemen 97-57 In Final Game

Southern High School concluded its 1978-79 basketball season with a four-game winning streak, winding up with a decisive 97-57 Potomac Valley Conference victory over Musselman Tuesday night in Garrett County.

Jeff Ryscavage, who established a new Southern High single-season scoring record for a sophomore, and teammate Todd Liller both turned in 28-point performances, and Brad Bittinger tipped in 12 points.

Ryscavage ended his sophomore year with a 276-point total, two points better than Terry Colaw scored for Southern in 1958.

The Rams led their foe at the quarters by scores of 25-11, 49-27, and 72-36, with the final outcome never in doubt. Southern outgunned the Applemen from the floor by a 40-22 margin and the Southern players converted 17 to 24 attempts from the foul line compared to a 13-for-24 effort by the visitors.

Bob Riner was the only Musselman player to reach double figures, scoring 23 points.

The Rams wrapped up their season with a 9-13 ledger.

Earlier in the evening, Southern jayvees beat their Musselman counterparts 45-32. A jayvee tournament is being planned for Southern March 5 and 6 involving the Rams, Petersburg, Bishop Walsh and Tucker County.

Southern Girls Victorious Over Northern, 46-29

Bonnie Earley's 13, of her total 19, points scored in the first half gave the Southern girls' basketball team an early lead unchallenged throughout the game by visiting Northern last Wednesday night. Southern finished the game 46-29.

Teammates Lois Filemyr and Lisa Stark added 8 points each to the Southern score.

Northern's Sandi Sisler was far ahead of her team with a valiant 14 points. Carol Wengerd and Donna Ringer contributed 4 apiece.

The game started off with Northern and Southern abreast of each other finishing the first quarter with a 7-7 tie. By half time Southern had moved ahead 19-14.

Southern made its major move in the third quarter by tallying a 33-21 score.

The fourth quarter was riddled with fouls and foul shots. Two players from each team fouled out in the game. Of the 13 points Southern added to its score, 9 were from foul shots.

From Politics to Poultry—From Assignations to Assassinations,

Harold Weisberg—The Undisputed Authority On Assassination Facts, Not Fables

Editor's note: The following interview by Jim Willis is not meant to sensationalize or dramatize the story of the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Mr. Willis was merely provided with a rather unique opportunity to speak with an extremely interesting individual who has done an incredible amount of investigative work on a significant happening in America's history. We are pleased that Harold Weisburg has offered to share his findings with us.

By Jim Willis

Harold Weisberg is comfortably seated in a black vinyl recliner with his feet propped up — a necessity due to a circulatory problem. His home in Frederick, Maryland is enhanced by a stone fireplace, large windows, and an abundance of green plants. An exercise "bicycle" sits in the corner, a wire basket on the handlebars overflowing with a tape recorder and cassette tapes.

The sounds of typing, and the racket of a duplicating machine project from the small office off the living area, where his wife, Lillian works to the strains of an opera.

For all intents and purposes, the atmosphere is what one would expect of a typical, 66 year-old, childless couple. However, Harold and Lillian depart from the typical by leaps and bounds.

Weisberg is hailed as the world's most precise authority on the John F. Kennedy Assassination, and at least, one of the foremost researchers into the similar tragic endings of Robert Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Some may brand him a fanatic or a crusader, of which he is neither by his own admission. What he is, is an extremely zealous investigator whose super-human efforts at obtaining previously secret documents, and cataloging of such, have earned him a world-wide reputation of being the only un-refuted voice of authority.

Above all, Weisberg is not an assassination theorist. Nothing he does borders on sensationalism or commercialization. He's never been guilty of the corner-cutting work done by his competitors, who thrill their American readership with stories of who killed John Kennedy and why. Weisberg and his vocation are probably even more widely ignored than recognized. He's relatively happy with that outcome. It merely enforces his credibility.

The author of eight books, most of them self-published, he has fought insurmountable odds. Abandoned by his original literary agent who, in effect, warned him against bucking "official" accounts of the JFK assassination, he has progressed to the million-seller category of authors.

His books are painstakingly typed, proof-read, and indexed by his wife. Other than the actual mechanical printing process, every other facet of the publishing procedure is done at his home.

His work is of the highest caliber, and his home overflows with the hundreds of thousands of documents required by his research. Many of the documents were obtained through litigation in which he has challenged those pillars of American intelligence operations, the FBI and the CIA. Weisberg doesn't believe that just because he's shaking those pillars that the entire structure will come crashing down around his ears.

Although harrassed by the intelligence agencies, it has only succeeded in tempering his steel-like fortitude. Weisberg has obtained a majority of his archives, which will be donated to the University of Wisconsin, through lawsuits filed under the Freedom of Information Act — first in principle, before its passage, and later, after its enactment.

Weisberg, like many journalists, progressed through the ranks as a newspaper and magazine writer, and later went on to become a Senate investigator, and an intelligence and political analyst for the Office of Strategic Service, OSS, the forerunner of the CIA.

He met his wife while both were employees of the Senate in 1936. His earlier specialities included cartels and economic and political warfare. During the early days of World War II, his personal investigations and writings were widely credited with laying the foundation for the taking over of enemy property and foreign funds controls. His work was of value to the Justice and Treasury Departments, which used the proofs he developed in legal and other actions against Nazis and Nazi fronts. He has been consulted by Congressional committees, including the War Preparedness Committee headed by then Senator Harry Truman. Prior to U. S. entry into the war, he also delivered his data to agents of the British Ministry of Economic Warfare.

These earlier writings won the admiration and praise of correspondents, Congressmen, cabinet officers and the White House. Whatever he did, he did well. He attempted to ease out from under the lime-light and, as he puts it, "I became the soldier who solidifies his dream of living in peace and quiet out in the country and becoming a farmer. I became a farmer."

He certainly did. From his farm in Hyattstown, Maryland, he became the country's best chicken farmer, elected during the only "dressed" poultry competition ever held. The year was 1957 and Lillian, his wife, became the National Chicken Cooking Champion. In 1959 he was the National Barbeque King and the originator of marinate as a barbeque sauce. Rounding out his career as the paragon of poultry, Weisberg was named the Maryland Chicken Cooking Champion.

When low-flying military helicopters virtually destroyed his farm, it was liquidated. Weisberg's brief repast was interrupted by the JFK assassination. His keen eyes noted blatent discrepencies in the official account of the crime, and he dusted off his armor and prepared for battle.

Harold Weisberg will admit he hasn't won the "war" yet. But, if the total number of battles to his credit are any indication, one might be tempted to place a wager on the outcome.

The following interview was conducted last Saturday at the Weisberg home in Frederick. The interview, is, by necessity, long, and therefore will be continued in The Republican. On the other hand, it only scratches the surface of Harold Weisberg.

WILLIS — What is the nature of the FBI's intrusion into your personal life?

WEISBERG — That breaks down into two parts; what I can prove, and what I can't prove. Some of it is pretty wild. What I was telling you about was (the FBI) preparing four lawyers through a TV station with information that they call "public domain" material to tear me up in front of the audience of this TV show; that was in New York. I just learned by accident . . . that they had an FBI informer call in on the show, to red-bait me. The moderator of the show was a decent, principled former report. He wouldn't have such a thing on his show, and I'm the one who protested . . . and I said I wouldn't think of such a thing — not being faced. It grew into a fairly dramatic confrontation, and as a result, the one platform appearance I had — had standing room only.

On another occasion, when entirely by accident, I learned of what we later came to know as the FBI's COINTELPRO operations . . .

WILLIS — Was it mail interception or . . .

WEISBERG — No, this had to do with an effort to use FBI informants to entice an FBI target, J. B. Stoner, a racist of the National States Rights Party . . . into racial violence. Stoner told me about this . . . when Stoner was in Baltimore he called me at Friendship Airport and told me. I was asked by the Department of Justice, Criminal Division, to go to the Internal Security Division for an entirely different reason . . . they had just endicted some American mercenaries who were in constant violation of the Neutrality Act. I had interviews with some.

In the course of this, I told the Internal Securities Division, "by the way you might want to know what some FBI informers reportedly are up to doing, because it could make a lot of trouble." Then I told them this story that Stoner had told me.

Well, of course the Internal Security Division took this up with the FBI . . . that didn't suit the FBI at all. It (the FBI) then evolved and circulated a report in which it said it was obvious that I was conspiring with this notorious anti-Semite, Stoner, to besmirch the fair and clean name of the FBI. And these are only some of the indications of their intrusions into my private life and affairs.

WILLIS — In the introduction to your first published book, "Photographic Whitewash," you stated that due to a broken contract with a publisher, you sent manuscripts of your first complete book, "Oswald in New Orleans," to more than a hundred publishers all over the world . . . and that strange things happened to the manuscripts, etc. Could you elaborate on that?

WEISBERG — Oh, you mean the manuscript that was intercepted. That was of "Oswald in New Orleans, . . . that's the only reason "Photographic Whitewash" appeared first — because I had completed "Oswald" and put it in the mail, as I remember on April 17, and I don't think I began "Photographic" until in May. In any event, it wasn't until after this manuscript disappeared . . . it disappeared once on the way to New York, and then on the way to Washington. It didn't surface in NY until I got a carbon copy there by other means . . . the carbon copy cost me Italian publication, and the copy that never reached Washington was supposed to go to a friend of mine on the Times of London.

Six weeks after it was mailed in NY, I received it where we then lived in Hyattstown, in a postoffice wrapper without a single edge, (referring to the written copy), or a piece of paper being marred in any way . . . and a little note saying "this package was found without its wrapper in the Washington Post Office, and we are sending it to an address which we find on the inside. Well, my name was on the inside, but the address they used was not on the inside.

WILLIS — On March 1, 1967, the then District Attorney of New Orleans, Jim Garrison, made worldwide headlines by announcing the arrest there of Clay Shaw, a wealthy New Orleans businessman and real estate developer, and also the founder and director of the International Trade Mart in New Orleans. Garrison's office charged Shaw with conspiracy involving the assissination of JFK. What, if any, was your involvement with Garrison?

WEISBERG — I didn't really have an involvement with Garrison. I first went down there when he asked me to testify before the Grand Jury. I declined to go until after I had completed "Oswald in New Orleans," and had the manuscript in the mail . . . I think April 18 was when I went down there. I went down again in November and at that point I began to wonder what was going on. By February, when I was down there again, I was certain that these people were not preceding as I would, and the rifts between us began to widen. I maintained a good relationship with some of Garrison's staff . . . but as I made stronger and stronger, and less diplomatic efforts to restrain some of Garrison's greater excesses, I became more and more, persona non gratia.

WILLIS — Do you personally believe that Garrison was on the right track up to a certain point?

WEISBERG — I think he was right in believing that there should have been an investigation in New Orleans and that there was criminal activity in New Orleans relevant to the John Kennedy assassination. I never had any interest in Shaw — never cast Shaw in the role in which Garrison did — never investigated Shaw. All of my work in New Orleans centered around Oswald. My interest was Oswald.

WILLIS — The day following the arrest of Clay Shaw, Garrison's office announced that Shaw was none other than Clem Bertrand, who according to attorney Dean Andrews' testimony before the Warren Commission, called him the day after the assassination and asked him to go to Dallas to defend Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin of President Kennedy. Do you believe that Clay Shaw was in fact, Clem Bertrand?

"I would say that John Kennedy was killed as a result of a conspiracy in which Oswald may not have fired a shot . . ."

WEISBERG — Shaw may have very well have been Clem Bertrand.

WILLIS — It has been alleged that Clay Shaw was a practicing homosexual. Do you feel that if Clay Shaw was in fact "Clem Bertrand," that he merely used this alias in an attempt to cover up his homosexuality or do you believe that this alias was used in connection with intelligence work, with perhaps the CIA?

WEISBERG — I think that it's inevitable that Shaw had, at the very least, an innocent and proper intelligence connection . . . the CIA has since admitted that much. It would have been impossible for a man in his position . . . not to have been a source for both the FBI and the CIA. It would have been entirely proper, in the case of the FBI in particular, quite necessary. There were people like the Nicaraguan dictator who came to New Orleans. Now anyone of these visits could have been the occassion of an assassination. So I think that it was only right and proper that the FBI know about these things . . . we live in a world in which intelligence agencies are necessary, and I see nothing wrong at all . . . with that part of Shaw's function. I have in "Oswald in New Orleans," by direct quotation, what appeared first in Europe in which it was alleged that Shaw did have other functions.

WILLIS — According to Garrison's investigation, in mid-September of 1963, Perry Raymond Russo, a 25 year old insurance salesman, testified that he attended a meeting at the apartment of his former roommate, David Ferrie. Russo claimed that (in addition to himself), Clay Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald, and David Ferrie, discussed assassinating President Kennedy in a "triangulation of cross-fire." Have any of the documents you've obtained, established any connection between Ferrie and Oswald?

WEISBERG — Yes and no. I think it's inevitable that they were in the Civil Air Patrol together.

WILLIS — Ferrie was a flight instructor, is that right?

WEISBERG — Ferrie then was officially not a member, but unofficially was active. He'd been involved in a number of problems and as a result, he had withdrawn from official leadership. However, he was a participant.

WILLIS — Is it correct that an eyewitness testified that he saw Clay Shaw and David Ferrie together at a local airport one day when he took his son there for flight instruction. Which would be same airport where Ferrie was active in the Civil Air Patrol.

WEISBERG — Yes, that was an eye-witness who didn't show up until the very end of the presentation of the state's case . . . the prosecution case.

WILLIS — What about the death of David Ferrie?

WEISBERG — I have no personal knowledge of that . . . I can give you two accounts. Garrison says that Ferrie could have committed suicide by taking Preludin, which is for thyroid problems. Ferrie used to get all sorts of medicines without a doctor's prescription. Ferrie had a history of weak blood vessels and one at the base of his skull ruptured. Garrison thinks that the Preludin could have caused that. I have no way of knowing.

WILLIS — What about Perry Russo?

WEISBERG — I think that he is a non-stop liar. I tried to interest Garrison in that, and I couldn't.

WILLIS — Russo was quite obviously Garrison's "key witness," and he didn't have much of a case against Shaw without this testimony . . . is that correct?

WEISBERG — Right. He could have had other things, but he didn't. But I think that the basic weakness with Garrison's case, was that Shaw was not guilty of the charge. On the other hand, I think that when Garrison had his own "Rush to Judgment," (referring to a book by Mark Lane), and charged Shaw with the perjury on issues that had been adjudicated. He made a serious mistake. On the other hand, I think Shaw did commit perjury in two areas where Garrison didn't charge him. And I find myself wondering why Shaw would have committed perjury. They had to do with his alibi. There was a well-known allegation made by a number of people that they had seen Shaw and Oswald together at Clinton, Louisianna during the time of a voter registration campaign.

WILLIS — That was where they were identified in a limousine?

WEISBERG — Yes.

WILLIS — There were several eye-witness testimonies to that weren't there?

WEISBERG — They (the witnesses) were the most unlikely people, and they were very impressive people. They were credible people. I don't know what the truth of it is, but those were the kind of people that if I were on a jury, I would believe as close to completely as possible.

WILLIS — I know that you are not an assassination "theorist," but has your research and the manuscripts you've obtained, borne out any one assassination theory, more than another?

WEISBERG — No. There is no basis on which they can, and I am not a conspiracy theorist. I regard conspiracy as a question of legal fact . . . conspiracy under the law, is the combination to do wrong, plus an overt step to get it out of the area of free speech. If the crime, and this applies to both cases, was beyond the capacity of any one person, on that basis alone, you have proof of a conspiracy. This does not tell you who the conspirators were. The only way in which you can decide for yourself on a reasonable basis, who the conspirators were, or may have been, is to work backward from the corpus delecti evidence. That is, from what we know to be with some certainty, basic facts of the case in the John Kennedy assassination. This is such things as the medical and ballistics evidence.

WILLIS — You filed suit for the spectographic evidence from ballistics analysis, didn't you?

WEISBERG — That's the case that turned the law around. That's the case that is before the Court of Appeals now. Identified as #230170, it's the first case filed anywhere under the Amendment Act, and there it is #75226.

WILLIS — On November 9, 1963, the intelligence division of the Miami Police Department taped a conversation between a man identified as Joseph A. Milteer, who as an organizer for the "States Rights Party," a "right-wing" organization. Milteer conversed with an FBI informant. The tape recording revealed the discussion of plans to assassinate President Kennedy. Since the introduction of this document in your book "Oswald in New Orleans," have you discovered any additional evidence relating to what is now referred to as the "Milteer Documents?"

WEISBERG — Yes and no . . . the FBI is "stone-walling" me on that, so a friend of mine, and a writer in Miami, Dan Christianson, filed a separate report, and he got a stack of records about four, five, six inches high. I did obtain that withheld page of CD-1347, and it says exactly what I said it says in my book "Frame-up." It relates to the meaning of the plan and the attack on the 16th Street Church (a racially volatile incident that occurred in Birmingham, Alabama).

(In the) Hoch, Stetler, and Peter Dale Scott Anthology, I gave my permission for them to use my work without paying attention to what they were using. When I saw that they were taking that, I asked that it be withdrawn for two different reasons.

First, it is anything but a fair sample of my work; and second of all, I knew very well that they were not using it in context. My point was, how in the world can we have this kind of information and not have it investigated . . . and I didn't go any further than that. The man, Milteer, was a member of Stoner's party and was also interested in starting a competitive party.

WILLIS — Was the direct threat revealed by the "Milteer Documents," ignored, or did the authorities assume that, if the assassination attempt did take place, it would do so in Miami only?

WEISBERG — It was not ignored, and it was ignored. It was not ignored in that it is the factor, or one of the factors, that caused the cancellation of the President's motorcade in Miami, on I think, November 19 (when he appeared before the Inter-American Press Association Convention.) It was ignored by the FBI and the Secret Service, and the Warren Commission to the degree that the Warren Commission was never given either a copy of the tape or a transcript of it—both of which were given to both the FBI and the Secret Service by the Miami Police. I print the transcript in "Frame-up," my book on the King assassination.

WILLIS — Is the transcript, as it appears in the book "The Assassinations—Dallas and Beyond," edited by Peter Dale Scott, Paul L. Hoch, and Russell Stetler (Vintage Books, 1976) complete in text?

WEISBERG — No.

"The number of plots are legion . . . the number of schemes to kill John Kennedy can't begin to be counted of those that are known."

WILLIS — Was the transcript complete when you submitted it to them?

WEISBERG — It was complete in so far as the Miami Police made it available—that is mostly, but not entirely, complete. As I remember it, it was about six pages.

WILLIS — The conversation in the transcript is very hard to follow.

WEISBERG — Yes, it is hard to follow. They jumped around, in part, because Somerset, the FBI informer, who was then working for the Miami authorities, was trying to direct it the way he wanted it to go. The tape does not include what, I'm told, was the purposes of arranging for their conversation to be taped. That is, that Milteer was suspected of preparing for a racial incident during. . . what was planned to be a peaceful demonstration on Flagler Street.

So you see my work differs from that of others, first, I'm not a conspiracy theorist; second, I'm doing exactly the kind of work I did professionally as a young man as a Senate investigator and as an Intelligence analyst. I deal with evidence, and my ways of attaining the evidence are not nearly as unorthodox as they seem to be.

It's just that they require more work than most people are willing to invest. For example, in these Freedom of Information cases, they take an enormous amount of work, because there is no case in which the FBI doesn't resist in every way they can. They are immune to almost anything. The question I've asked over and over again, is, who prosecutes the prosecutor?

The FBI's counsel is the Department of Justice, commonly the United States attorney in the jurisdiction. What's he going to prosecute—his client? Of course he's not. And who would dream of prosecuting the FBI?

So they can get away with all kinds of things, including perjury, which is a not uncommon FBI practice. That's what makes these cases so difficult and costly . . . torturous.

WILLIS — Surely, in your own mind, from the evidence you have reviewed you have formulated some conjecture as to what elements were responsible for the assassination of President Kennedy.

WEISBERG — I would say that John Kennedy was killed as a result of a conspiracy in which Oswald may not have fired a shot—and that those who were parties to the conspiracy had to be in a position to either involve Oswald, or to have been able to have set Oswald up as a patsy.

WILLIS — Would it be a reasonable guess to assume that those persons who were responsible for "setting up" Oswald, could have been intelligence personnel, or persons with a previous intelligence background?

WEISBERG — I think that's a reasonable guess. I try to avoid these things, but I think that of all the possibilities, I would have to agree with you that you have one of the more likely ones.

WILLIS — There are a number of theorists who have pointed fingers at the CIA, the Mafia . . .

WEISBERG — I think it's impossible. I think it is totally impossible that the CIA, on an organizational top-level, was involved. I think it is totally impossible.

I think it is not impossible for free-lancers, who are not unknown in any intelligence agency, to have had an involvement, and to have considered it the height of patriotism. And the way that kind of thing would work out would be, and I don't mean to be making accusations and using illustrations, if the Vietnamese haunchos did the job, they would make it look like the Cubans did. The Cubans of the CIA.

If the Cubans of the CIA did it, they would tend to make it look like the Vietnamese did it.

This is a Byzantine world.

QUESTIONS RAISED — Following the shooting of JFK, the Warren Commission concluded that only three shots were fired, and that they came from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas. However, evidence which should have been vital to the Commission's conclusion was either suppressed or largely ignored. Pictured above is a section of the curb from the street on which the President was killed. It bears the identation of a bullet, or bullet fragment. A fragment of that bullet struck a bystander, James Tague, in the face. In his second book, "Whitewash II," Harold Weisberg discloses evidence of a second apparent bullet mark on the sidewalk. The FBI investigated and concluded, ". . . it could not have come from the direction of the window" of the Book Depository. How many shots were fired on November 22, 1963? From where were they fired—and most importantly, who fired them?

composed of people who, for the most part, were recruited on the basis of political preconceptions that were congenial to those who wanted them to work for them . . . almost exclusively it meant, those who are virtually pathologically anti-Soviet. And people of this kind, could very well have considered the President a traitor . . . and been genuine in the belief.

WILLIS — Do you give any credibility at all to Fidel Castro's involvement?

WEISBERG — Totally impossible. Of all the impossibilities, that is perhaps the most completely impossible. And I'll tell you why. If you stop and think about the solution to the Cuban Missile Crisis, it wound up with John Kennedy guaranteeing the territorial integrity of Cuba. Do you think Castro would kill the only real defense he had?

The Russians can't defend Castro or Cuba under their mutual defense treaty. But if the United States ever decided to do something to Cuba, there would never be an opportunity for the Soviet Union to defend Cuba. So in realistic terms, Kennedy was the only real protection Fidel Castro had. There is no possibility that Castro would have undertaken to eliminate his only insurance. Especially not when he knew that Lyndon Johnson would be the next man.

WILLIS — What about a possible Mafia connection to the assassination. Particularly through Johnny Roselli, a noted crime figure whose decomposed and dismembered body was found floating off of Miami in a 55-gallon drum on August 7, 1976. The conjecture of the Committee to Invesitgate Assassinations, under the direction of Bernard Fensterwald, Jr., (a part-time resident of Deep Creek Lake) is that this gangland-style execution was carried out in revenge for Roselli having secretly informed the government that he believed some of his former associates had gone on to murder President Kennedy . . . possibly with the help of Castro? Do you suspect such a connection?

WEISBERG — It just doesn't exist. This isn't even good romanticizing. The number of plots are legion . . . the number of schemes to kill John Kennedy can't begin to be counted of those that are known. How many there were that were not known, we will never be able to even guess.

There is no connection between a plot against Castro and the killing of Kennedy. This theory was launched by a former top Department of Justice character who leaked it originally to Drew Pearson, at a time when it could do what it succeeded in doing—confuse Garrison. There's no basis for it.

WILLIS — What about the Committee to Investigate Assassinations' reports that Sam Giancana, the reputed Chicago Mafia leader whose death (he was found shot to death in his home on June 19, 1975) may have been due to some connection with the assassination of Kennedy. They also stated that he was the coordinator of the anti-Castro CIA-Mafia assassination conspiracies. Do you see his death as being attributed to any visible connection with the Kennedy assassination?

WEISBERG — Both of them (Giancana and Roselli) had already talked. I think they were killed simply because they talked—not because of what they said. Certainly not because of what they said about the John Kennedy assassination. It was not material to anything. But, the Mafia does not permit talking.

Giancana had been before the Grand Jury; I'm not certain, but I think Roselli had been. And don't forget they had talked to their lawyer who "leaked." There was no need for them to tell their lawyer that . . . they weren't under such charges.

But why would the Mafia want to kill John Kennedy? To get at Bobby (Kennedy, who as U.S. Attorney General, launched a major crack-down on organized crime)? The way you get at Bobby, is by killing Bobby.

WILLIS — So it was also thought that the Mafia had planned attempts on the life of Robert Kennedy. Is this true?

WEISBERG — Well, you can hear all kinds of things—especially if you read the works of theorists. I know of no factual basis to credit any of these things.

The Mafia is one of the country's most successful industries. Why in the world would they jeopardize anything they have? It doesn't make a damn bit of difference who is President . . . they still got the same good thing going for them.

Now there can be a variation in degree of the intensity of prosecutions. But that's a normal business risk for them. In any event, killing John Kennedy had no effect on that, one way or the other.

WILLIS — Then there are those who theorize about the assassination involving the oil people in Texas; the loss of gambling interests in Cuba by organized crime; and the retaliation of the CIA for the lack of air support during the Bay of Pigs invasion.

WEISBERG — Yes. They're all theories. And for some of them, you can make up a case. I don't really think that you can make out a case that a rational oil millionaire would do this because he expected John Kennedy to be responsible for the reduction of their very unfair, and unjust depletion allowance.

For example—why, if it was fair for them, why wouldn't it be fair for coal operators? Every ton of coal they take out of the ground is that much of a depletion. I don't think it's reasonable.

But where you run into a problem is where you deal with people who don't have to be reasonable. Still, it has to be someone in the position, either to have used Oswald, or to have set him up. And I don't know of any oil man who fits that pre-requisite.

WILLIS — What about Oswald's military background—particularly as a radar operator at the Atsugi Naval Station in Japan? What is known about his functions as a radar operator there?

WEISBERG — Oswald was a radar operator, but he was not a "normal" radar operator. Oswald had at least a Secret security clearance . . . I am sure, at least a Top Secret clearance . . . and I am also sure a Crypto clearance. When I learned of that, I didn't know there was such a thing as Crypto clearance. I learned about it on a talk show in December, 1966, when a man who represented himself as a former associate of Oswald's in the Marines.

When I checked out other parts of that man's story, every bit checked. So I think the man was telling the truth. I found confirmation buried in the Warren Commission records that he (Oswald) was at least of Secret clearance—and believe it or not, there's no record of this in any of Oswald's military records . . . there's only a record of his having a Confidential clearance. In addition to that, the records of his advanced training at Keesler Field (Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Mississippi) had disappeared . . . which appears to me as being rather strange.

WILLIS — You've referred to "Crypto" clearance . . . what is that?

WEISBERG — . . . Crypto has to do with your need to have clearance for cryptographic handling (knowledge of specialized systems for translating codes) . . . I don't believe that in itself it is a separate kind of clearance. I think that other clearances are pre-requisite to it. I have since, in my own way, and in a way I'm not prepared to go public with, obtained official confirmation that Oswald . . . in fact, did have Top Secret clearance.

WILLIS — Did Oswald actually possess a working knowledge of the U-2 Reconnaissance planes and their surveillance flights over the Soviet Union as conjectured by some theorists?

WEISBERG — I have no reason to believe he did—this is all conjecture. His work had to do with height-seeking radar. Oswald was one of the five men in his unit who had the higher clearance and the knowledge of this, then, to a degree unknown, radar capability. It turned out later that it was not unknown and had been published prior to the time of Oswald's defect . . . so-called defection.

WILLIS — Taking into consideration, among other things, Oswald's ability to fluently speak Russian, wouldn't you say he had a relatively high Intelligence Quotient?

WEISBERG — That's hard to evaluate, because I think he was a strange person. I think he was of higher than average intelligence, but I wouldn't know how to evaluate this in the terms of an IQ rating . . . he clearly was of superior intelligence.

WILLIS — It is my understanding that Oswald's Russian wife, Marina, whom he met and married while in Russia, was the niece of a Russian KGB colonel. Some say the colonel was an intelligence agent. Is this true, or is it something that was used only as sensationalism by critics and theorists?

WEISBERG — . . . First of all, you have to understand what the KGB is. The KGB is the Russian Ministry of Interior. One of its functions is intelligence, but it has other functions. Marina's uncle was a colonel in the KGB in Minsk. I have no reason to believe that he had an intelligence function.

WILLIS — There is quite a bit of emphasis placed on Oswald's ability to obtain a passport after 24 hours of his application . . . is this true?

WEISBERG — It is. I reprint the proof in facsimile in my first book. (This is true,) even though there would have been, for three different reasons, a look-out card filed against him in the State Department, if he applied for a passport again. Within 24 hours of his application for a passport in New Orleans, he had it.

WILLIS — Was it under the name of Lee Harvey Oswald?

WEISBERG — Correct.

WILLIS — Was it standard procedure that enabled Oswald to obtain his passport so quickly.

WEISBERG — Well, other people who applied at the same time, didn't (receive their passports within 24 hours). It took them a lot longer.

WILLIS — Did Oswald defect to Russia?

WEISBERG — First of all, I think you should put "defect" in quotes, because when it came time to actually . . . renouncing his American citizenship, he did not do it. So there's a real question as to whether or not it was a defection. That is one of the reasons, however, that there should have been a "flag" to at least delay his getting a passport.

Now in those days, passports were being denied right and left for people who had much less ostensible connections with the Soviet Union. That made his getting a passport, in itself, unusual.

Then he had to borrow money . . . to come back to the United States. The State Department wasn't looking to invest in his return again. It was quite unusual in all respects.

WILLIS — Why was Oswald not prosecuted upon his return to this country, for divulging military secrets pertaining to our radar operations?

WEISBERG — I think that's a good question. I raised that question in my first book. In fact, they (the U. S. Government and Oswald) made a deal. He insisted he would not come back until they guaranteed he would not be prosecuted. And he wasn't.

WILLIS — And the U. S. made all of those concessions simply because they wanted him back that badly?

WEISBERG — I think they wanted him back, and the Russians wanted to get rid of him for reasons we have to conjecture . . . for one reason, the Russians suspected he was an American "sleeper" agent.

For another reason, even if he didn't serve an American intelligence agency (and the State Department knew damn well nobody would tell them the truth), he presented a real problem to the U. S. in Russia. They wanted to get him back.

What Oswald should have been prosecuted for had nothing to do with giving away military secrets. First, it had to be proven that they were secrets. Second, it had to be proven that they had been given away, and I don't think that either one of these things could have met the reasonable doubt standard of American justice.

However, he did get a fraudulent discharge, and on that there was an open and shut case.

WILLIS — That was a hardhip discharge, was it not?

WEISBERG — Sure. Three days later he was on his way to Russia.

WILLIS — Is that considered a short period of time for a discharge ot be processed?

WEISBERG — Well no, it took about six weeks for the discharge to come through. But he spent three days after he reached his mother, panhandled $25 for her, and was off.

WILLIS — Many theorists seem to place a high regard on discrepencies contained in Oswald's military records pertaining to his height and weight.

WEISBERG — I don't think that they're that abnormal. I have a share of responsibility for all the mythologies that have been woven around that because that work was originally done for me by a woman in Missouri named Shirley Orr. I made the mistake of giving it (the information) to Garrison and he gave it to everybody . . . it's been embroidered upon no end.

From Politics to Poultry—From Assignations to Assassinations,

Harold Weisberg—The Undisputed Authority On Assassination Facts, Not Fables

Editor's note: The following interview by Jim Willis is not meant to sensationalize or dramatize the story of the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Mr. Willis was merely provided with a rather unique opportunity to speak with an extremely interesting individual who has done an incredible amount of investigative work on a significant happening in America's history. We are pleased that Harold Weisburg has offered to share his findings with us.

By Jim Willis

Harold Weisberg is comfortably seated in a black vinyl recliner with his feet propped up — a necessity due to a circulatory problem. His home in Frederick, Maryland is enhanced by a stone fireplace, large windows, and an abundance of green plants. An exercise "bicycle" sits in the corner, a wire basket on the handlebars overflowing with a tape recorder and cassette tapes.

The sounds of typing, and the racket of a duplicating machine project from the small office off the living area, where his wife, Lillian works to the strains of an opera.

For all intents and purposes, the atmosphere is what one would expect of a typical, 66 year-old, childless couple. However, Harold and Lillian depart from the typical by leaps and bounds.

Weisberg is hailed as the world's most precise authority on the John F. Kennedy Assassination, and at least, one of the foremost researchers into the similar tragic endings of Robert Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Some may brand him a fanatic or a crusader, of which he is neither by his own admission. What he is, is an extremely zealous investigator whose super-human efforts at obtaining previously secret documents, and cataloging of such, have earned him a world-wide reputation of being the only un-refuted voice of authority.

Above all, Weisberg is not an assassination theorist. Nothing he does borders on sensationalism or commercialization. He's never been guilty of the corner-cutting work done by his competitors, who thrill their American readership with stories of who killed John Kennedy and why. Weisberg and his vocation are probably even more widely ignored than recognized. He's relatively happy with that outcome. It merely enforces his credibility.

The author of eight books, most of them self-published, he has fought insurmountable odds. Abandoned by his original literary agent who, in effect, warned him against bucking "official" accounts of the JFK assassination, he has progressed to the million-seller category of authors.

His books are painstakingly typed, proof-read, and indexed by his wife. Other than the actual mechanical printing process, every other facet of the publishing procedure is done at his home.

His work is of the highest caliber, and his home overflows with the hundreds of thousands of documents required by his research. Many of the documents were obtained through litigation in which he has challenged those pillars of American intelligence operations, the FBI and the CIA. Weisberg doesn't believe that just because he's shaking those pillars that the entire structure will come crashing down around his ears.

Although harrassed by the intelligence agencies, it has only succeeded in tempering his steel-like fortitude. Weisberg has obtained a majority of his archives, which will be donated to the University of Wisconsin, through lawsuits filed under the Freedom of Information Act — first in principle, before its passage, and later, after its enactment.

Weisberg, like many journalists, progressed through the ranks as a newspaper and magazine writer, and later went on to become a Senate investigator, and an intelligence and political analyst for the Office of Strategic Service, OSS, the forerunner of the CIA.

He met his wife while both were employees of the Senate in 1936. His earlier specialities included cartels and economic and political warfare. During the early days of World War II, his personal investigations and writings were widely credited with laying the foundation for the taking over of enemy property and foreign funds controls. His work was of value to the Justice and Treasury Departments, which used the proofs he developed in legal and other actions against Nazis and Nazi fronts. He has been consulted by Congressional committees, including the War Preparedness Committee headed by then Senator Harry Truman. Prior to U. S. entry into the war, he also delivered his data to agents of the British Ministry of Economic Warfare.

These earlier writings won the admiration and praise of correspondents, Congressmen, cabinet officers and the White House. Whatever he did, he did well. He attempted to ease out from under the lime-light and, as he puts it, "I became the soldier who solidifies his dream of living in peace and quiet out in the country and becoming a farmer. I became a farmer."

He certainly did. From his farm in Hyattstown, Maryland, he became the country's best chicken farmer, elected during the only "dressed" poultry competition ever held. The year was 1957 and Lillian, his wife, became the National Chicken Cooking Champion. In 1959 he was the National Barbeque King and the originator of marinate as a barbeque sauce. Rounding out his career as the paragon of poultry, Weisberg was named the Maryland Chicken Cooking Champion.

When low-flying military helicopters virtually destroyed his farm, it was liquidated. Weisberg's brief repast was interrupted by the JFK assassination. His keen eyes noted blatent discrepencies in the official account of the crime, and he dusted off his armor and prepared for battle.

Harold Weisberg will admit he hasn't won the "war" yet. But, if the total number of battles to his credit are any indication, one might be tempted to place a wager on the outcome.

The following interview was conducted last Saturday at the Weisberg home in Frederick. The interview, is, by necessity, long, and therefore will be continued in The Republican. On the other hand, it only scratches the surface of Harold Weisberg.

WILLIS — What is the nature of the FBI's intrusion into your personal life?

WEISBERG — That breaks down into two parts; what I can prove, and what I can't prove. Some of it is pretty wild. What I was telling you about was (the FBI) preparing four lawyers through a TV station with information that they call "public domain" material to tear me up in front of the audience of this TV show; that was in New York. I just learned by accident . . . that they had an FBI informer call in on the show, to red-bait me. The moderator of the show was a decent, principled former report. He wouldn't have such a thing on his show, and I'm the one who protested . . . and I said I wouldn't think of such a thing — not being faced. It grew into a fairly dramatic confrontation, and as a result, the one platform appearance I had — had standing room only

On another occasion, when entirely by accident, I learned of what we later came to know as the FBI's COINTELPRO operations . . .

WILLIS — Was it mail interception or . . .

WEISBERG — No, this had to do with an effort to use FBI informants to entice an FBI target, J. B. Stoner, a racist of the National States Rights Party . . . into racial violence. Stoner told me about this . . . when Stoner was in Baltimore he called me at Friendship Airport and told me. I was asked by the Department of Justice, Criminal Division, to go to the Internal Security Division for an entirely different reason . . . they had just endicted some American mercenaries who were in constant violation of the Neutrality Act. I had interviews with some.

In the course of this, I told the Internal Securities Division, "by the way you might want to know what some FBI informers reportedly are up to doing, because it could make a lot of trouble." Then I told them this story that Stoner had told me.

Well, of course the Internal Security Division took this up with the FBI . . . that didn't suit the FBI at all. It (the FBI) then evolved and circulated a report in which it said it was obvious that I was conspiring with this notorious anti-Semite, Stoner, to besmirch the fair and clean name of the FBI. And these are only some of the indications of their intrusions into my private life and affairs.

WILLIS — In the introduction to your first published book, "Photographic Whitewash," you stated that due to a broken contract with a publisher, you sent manuscripts of your first complete book, "Oswald in New Orleans," to more than a hundred publishers all over the world . . . and that strange things happened to the manuscripts, etc. Could you elaborate on that?

WEISBERG — Oh, you mean the manuscript that was intercepted. That was of "Oswald in New Orleans, . . . that's the only reason "Photographic Whitewash" appeared first — because I had completed "Oswald" and put it in the mail, as I remember on April 17, and I don't think I began "Photographic" until in May. In any event, it wasn't until after this manuscript disappeared . . . it disappeared once on the way to New York, and then on the way to Washington. It didn't surface in NY until I got a carbon copy there by other means . . . the carbon copy cost me Italian publication, and the copy that never reached Washington was supposed to go to a friend of mine on the Times of London.

Six weeks after it was mailed in NY, I received it where we then lived in Hyattstown, in a postoffice wrapper without a single edge, (referring to the written copy), or a piece of paper being marred in any way . . . and a little note saying "this package was found without its wrapper in the Washington Post Office, and we are sending it to an address which we find on the inside. Well, my name was on the inside, but the address they used was not on the inside.

WILLIS — On March 1, 1967, the then District Attorney of New Orleans, Jim Garrison, made worldwide headlines by announcing the arrest there of Clay Shaw, a wealthy New Orleans businessman and real estate developer, and also the founder and director of the International Trade Mart in New Orleans. Garrison's office charged Shaw with conspiracy involving the assissination of JFK. What, if any, was your involvement with Garrison?

WEISBERG — I didn't really have an involvement with Garrison. I first went down there when he asked me to testify before the Grand Jury. I declined to go until after I had completed "Oswald in New Orleans," and had the manuscript in the mail . . . I think April 18 was when I went down there. I went down again in November and at that point I began to wonder what was going on. By February, when I was down there again, I was certain that these people were not preceding as I would, and the rifts between us began to widen. I maintained a good relationship with some of Garrison's staff . . . but as I made stronger and stronger, and less diplomatic efforts to restrain some of Garrison's greater excesses, I became more and more, persona non gratia.

WILLIS — Do you personally believe that Garrison was on the right track up to a certain point?

WEISBERG — I think he was right in believing that there should have been an investigation in New Orleans and that there was criminal activity in New Orleans relevant to the John Kennedy assassination. I never had any interest in Shaw — never cast Shaw in the role in which Garrison did — never investigated Shaw. All of my work in New Orleans centered around Oswald. My interest was Oswald.

WILLIS — The day following the arrest of Clay Shaw, Garrison's office announced that Shaw was none other than Clem Bertrand, who according to attorney Dean Andrews' testimony before the Warren Commission, called him the day after the assassination and asked him to go to Dallas to defend Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin of President Kennedy. Do you believe that Clay Shaw was in fact, Clem Bertrand?

"I would say that John Kennedy was killed as a result of a conspiracy in which Oswald may not have fired a shot . . ."

WEISBERG — Shaw may have very well have been Clem Bertrand.

WILLIS — It has been alleged that Clay Shaw was a practicing homosexual. Do you feel that if Clay Shaw was in fact "Clem Bertrand," that he merely used this alias in an attempt to cover up his homosexuality or do you believe that this alias was used in connection with intelligence work, with perhaps the CIA?

WEISBERG — I think that it's inevitable that Shaw had, at the very least, an innocent and proper intelligence connection . . . the CIA has since admitted that much. It would have been impossible for a man in his position . . . not to have been a source for both the FBI and the CIA. It would have been entirely proper, in the case of the FBI in particular, quite necessary. There were people like the Nicaraguan dictator who came to New Orleans. Now anyone of these visits could have been the occassion of an assassination. So I think that it was only right and proper that the FBI know about these things . . . we live in a world in which intelligence agencies are necessary, and I see nothing wrong at all . . . with that part of Shaw's function. I have in "Oswald in New Orleans," by direct quotation, what appeared first in Europe in which it was alleged that Shaw did have other functions.

WILLIS — According to Garrison's investigation, in mid-September of 1963, Perry Raymond Russo, a 25 year old insurance salesman, testified that he attended a meeting at the apartment of his former roommate, David Ferrie. Russo claimed that (in addition to himself), Clay Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald, and David Ferrie, discussed assassinating President Kennedy in a "triangulation of cross-fire." Have any of the documents you've obtained, established any connection between Ferrie and Oswald?

WEISBERG — Yes and no. I think it's inevitable that they were in the Civil Air Patrol together.

WILLIS — Ferrie was a flight instructor, is that right?

WEISBERG — Ferrie then was officially not a member, but unofficially was active. He'd been involved in a number of problems and as a result, he had withdrawn from official leadership. However, he was a participant.

WILLIS — Is it correct that an eyewitness testified that he saw Clay Shaw and David Ferrie together at a local airport one day when he took his son there for flight instruction. Which would be same airport where Ferrie was active in the Civil Air Patrol.

WEISBERG — Yes, that was an eye-witness who didn't show up until the very end of the presentation of the state's case . . . the prosecution case.

WILLIS — What about the death of David Ferrie?

WEISBERG — I have no personal knowledge of that . . . I can give you two accounts. Garrison says that Ferrie could have committed suicide by taking Preludin, which is for thyroid problems. Ferrie used to get all sorts of medicines without a doctor's prescription. Ferrie had a history of weak blood vessels and one at the base of his skull ruptured. Garrison thinks that the Preludin could have caused that. I have no way of knowing.

WILLIS — What about Perry Russo?

WEISBERG — I think that he is a non-stop liar. I tried to interest Garrison in that, and I couldn't.

WILLIS — Russo was quite obviously Garrison's "key witness," and he didn't have much of a case against Shaw without this testimony . . . is that correct?

WEISBERG — Right. He could have had other things, but he didn't. But I think that the basic weakness with Garrison's case, was that Shaw was not guilty of the charge. On the other hand, I think that when Garrison had his own "Rush to Judgment," (referring to a book by Mark Lane), and charged Shaw with the perjury on issues that had been adjudicated. He made a serious mistake. On the other hand, I think Shaw did commit perjury in two areas where Garrison didn't charge him. And I find myself wondering why Shaw would have committed perjury. They had to do with his alibi. There was a well-known allegation made by a number of people that they had seen Shaw and Oswald together at Clinton, Louisianna during the time of a voter registration campaign.

WILLIS — That was where they were identified in a limousine?

WEISBERG — Yes.

WILLIS — There were several eye-witness testimonies to that weren't there?

WEISBERG — They (the witnesses) were the most unlikely people, and they were very impressive people. They were credible people. I don't know what the truth of it is, but those were the kind of people that if I were on a jury, I would believe as close to completely as possible.

WILLIS — I know that you are not an assassination "theorist," but has your research and the manuscripts you've obtained, borne out any one assassination theory, more than another?

WEISBERG — No. There is no basis on which they can, and I am not a conspiracy theorist. I regard conspiracy as a question of legal fact . . . conspiracy under the law, is the combination to do wrong, plus an overt step to get it out of the area of free speech. If the crime, and this applies to both cases, was beyond the capacity of any one person, on that basis alone, you have proof of a conspiracy. This does not tell you who the conspirators were. The only way in which you can decide for yourself on a reasonable basis, who the conspirators were, or may have been, is to work backward from the corpus delecti evidence. That is, from what we know to be with some certainty, basic facts of the case in the John Kennedy assassination. This is such things as the medical and ballistics evidence.

WILLIS — You filed suit for the spectographic evidence from ballistics analysis, didn't you?

WEISBERG — That's the case that turned the law around. That's the case that is before the Court of Appeals now. Identified as #230170, it's the first case filed anywhere under the Amendment Act, and there it is #75226.

WILLIS — On November 9, 1963, the intelligence division of the Miami Police Department taped a conversation between a man identified as Joseph A. Milteer, who as an organizer for the "States Rights Party," a "right-wing" organization. Milteer conversed with an FBI informant. The tape recording revealed the discussion of plans to assassinate President Kennedy. Since the introduction of this document in your book "Oswald in New Orleans," have you discovered any additional evidence relating to what is now referred to as the "Milteer Documents?"

WEISBERG — Yes and no . . . the FBI is "stone-walling" me on that, so a friend of mine, and a writer in Miami, Dan Christianson, filed a separate report, and he got a stack of records about four, five, six inches high. I did obtain that withheld page of CD-1347, and it says exactly what I said it says in my book "Frame-up." It relates to the meaning of the plan and the attack on the 16th Street Church (a racially volatile incident that occurred in Birmingham, Alabama).

(In the) Hoch, Stetler, and Peter Dale Scott Anthology, I gave my permission for them to use my work without paying attention to what they were using. When I saw that they were taking that, I asked that it be withdrawn for two different reasons.

First, it is anything but a fair sample of my work; and second of all, I knew very well that they were not using it in context. My point was, how in the world can we have this kind of information and not have it investigated . . . and I didn't go any further than that. The man, Milteer, was a member of Stoner's party and was also interested in starting a competitive party.

WILLIS — Was the direct threat revealed by the "Milteer Documents," ignored, or did the authorities assume that, if the assassination attempt did take place, it would do so in Miami only?

WEISBERG — It was not ignored, and it was ignored. It was not ignored in that it is the factor, or one of the factors, that caused the cancellation of the President's motorcade in Miami, on I think, November 19 (when he appeared before the Inter-American Press Association Convention.) It was ignored by the FBI and the Secret Service, and the Warren Commission to the degree that the Warren Commission was never given either a copy of the tape or a transcript of it—both of which were given to both the FBI and the Secret Service by the Miami Police. I print the transcript in "Frame-up," my book on the King assassination.

WILLIS — Is the transcript, as it appears in the book "The Assassinations—Dallas and Beyond," edited by Peter Dale Scott, Paul L. Hoch, and Russell Stetler (Vintage Books, 1976) complete in text?

WEISBERG — No.

"The number of plots are legion . . . the number of schemes to kill John Kennedy can't begin to be counted of those that are known."

WILLIS — Was the transcript complete when you submitted it to them?

WEISBERG — It was complete in so far as the Miami Police made it available—that is mostly, but not entirely, complete. As I remember it, it was about six pages.

WILLIS — The conversation in the transcript is very hard to follow.

WEISBERG — Yes, it is hard to follow. They jumped around, in part, because Somerset, the FBI informer, who was then working for the Miami authorities, was trying to direct it the way he wanted it to go. The tape does not include what, I'm told, was the purposes of arranging for their conversation to be taped. That is, that Milteer was suspected of preparing for a racial incident during. . . what was planned to be a peaceful demonstration on Flagler Street.

So you see my work differs from that of others, first, I'm not a conspiracy theorist; second, I'm doing exactly the kind of work I did professionally as a young man as a Senate investigator and as an Intelligence analyst. I deal with evidence, and my ways of attaining the evidence are not nearly as unorthodox as they seem to be.

It's just that they require more work than most people are willing to invest. For example, in these Freedom of Information cases, they take an enormous amount of work, because there is no case in which the FBI doesn't resist in every way they can. They are immune to almost anything. The question I've asked over and over again, is, who prosecutes the prosecutor?

The FBI's counsel is the Department of Justice, commonly the United States attorney in the jurisdiction. What's he going to prosecute—his client? Of course he's not. And who would dream of prosecuting the FBI?

So they can get away with all kinds of things, including perjury, which is a not uncommon FBI practice. That's what makes these cases so difficult and costly . . . torturous.

WILLIS — Surely, in your own mind, from the evidence you have reviewed you have formulated some conjecture as to what elements were responsible for the assassination of President Kennedy.

WEISBERG — I would say that John Kennedy was killed as a result of a conspiracy in which Oswald may not have fired a shot—and that those who were parties to the conspiracy had to be in a position to either involve Oswald, or to have been able to have set Oswald up as a patsy.

WILLIS — Would it be a reasonable guess to assume that those persons who were responsible for "setting up" Oswald, could have been intelligence personnel, or persons with a previous intelligence background?

WEISBERG — I think that's a reasonable guess. I try to avoid these things, but I think that of all the possibilities, I would have to agree with you that you have one of the more likely ones.

WILLIS — There are a number of theorists who have pointed fingers at the CIA, the Mafia . . .

WEISBERG — I think it's impossible. I think it is totally impossible that the CIA, on an organizational top-level, was involved. I think it is totally impossible.

I think it is not impossible for free-lancers, who are not unknown in any intelligence agency, to have had an involvement, and to have considered it the height of patriotism. And the way that kind of thing would work out would be, and I don't mean to be making accusations and using illustrations, if the Vietnamese haunchos did the job, they would make it look like the Cubans did. The Cubans of the CIA.

If the Cubans of the CIA did it, they would tend to make it look like the Vietnamese did it.

This is a Byzantine world,

QUESTIONS RAISED — Following the shooting of JFK, the Warren Commission concluded that only three shots were fired, and that they came from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas. However, evidence which should have been vital to the Commission's conclusion was either suppressed or largely ignored. Pictured above is a section of the curb from the street on which the President was killed. It bears the identation of a bullet, or bullet fragment. A fragment of that bullet struck a bystander, James Tague, in the face. In his second book, "Whitewash II," Harold Weisberg discloses evidence of a second apparent bullet mark on the sidewalk. The FBI investigated and concluded, ". . . it could not have come from the direction of the window" of the Book Depository. How many shots were fired on November 22, 1963? From where were they fired—and most importantly, who fired them?

composed of people who, for the most part, were recruited on the basis of political preconceptions that were congenial to those who wanted them to work for them . . . almost exclusively it meant, those who are virtually pathologically anti-Soviet. And people of this kind, could very well have considered the President a traitor . . . and been genuine in the belief.

WILLIS — Do you give any credibility at all to Fidel Castro's involvement?

WEISBERG — Totally impossible. Of all the impossibilities, that is perhaps the most completely impossible. And I'll tell you why. If you stop and think about the solution to the Cuban Missile Crisis, it wound up with John Kennedy guaranteeing the territorial integrity of Cuba. Do you think Castro would kill the only real defense he had?

The Russians can't defend Castro or Cuba under their mutual defense treaty. But if the United States ever decided to do something to Cuba, there would never be an opportunity for the Soviet Union to defend Cuba. So in realistic terms, Kennedy was the only real protection Fidel Castro had. There is no possibility that Castro would have undertaken to eliminate his only insurance. Especially not when he knew that Lyndon Johnson would be the next man.

WILLIS — What about a possible Mafia connection to the assassination. Particularly through Johnny Roselli, a noted crime figure whose decomposed and dismembered body was found floating off of Miami in a 55-gallon drum on August 7, 1976. The conjecture of the Committee to Invesitgate Assassinations, under the direction of Bernard Fensterwald, Jr., (a part-time resident of Deep Creek Lake) is that this gangland-style execution was carried out in revenge for Roselli having secretly informed the government that he believed some of his former associates had gone on to murder President Kennedy . . . possibly with the help of Castro? Do you suspect such a connection?

WEISBERG — It just doesn't exist. This isn't even good romanticizing. The number of plots are legion . . . the number of schemes to kill John Kennedy can't begin to be counted of those that are known. How many there were that were not known, we will never be able to even guess.

There is no connection between a plot against Castro and the killing of Kennedy. This theory was launched by a former top Department of Justice character who leaked it originally to Drew Pearson, at a time when it could do what it succeeded in doing—confuse Garrison. There's no basis for it.

WILLIS — What about the Committee to Investigate Assassinations' reports that Sam Giancana, the reputed Chicago Mafia leader whose death (he was found shot to death in his home on June 19, 1975) may have been due to some connection with the assassination of Kennedy. They also stated that he was the coordinator of the anti-Castro CIA-Mafia assassination conspiracies. Do you see his death as being attributed to any visible connection with the Kennedy assassination?

WEISBERG — Both of them (Giancana and Roselli) had already talked. I think they were killed simply because they talked—not because of what they said. Certainly not because of what they said about the John Kennedy assassination. It was not material to anything. But, the Mafia does not permit talking.

Giancana had been before the Grand Jury; I'm not certain, but I think Roselli had been. And don't forget they had talked to their lawyer who "leaked." There was no need for them to tell their lawyer that . . . they weren't under such charges.

But why would the Mafia want to kill John Kennedy? To get at Bobby (Kennedy, who as U.S. Attorney General, launched a major crack-down on organized crime)? The way you get at Bobby, is by killing Bobby.

WILLIS — So it was also thought that the Mafia had planned attempts on the life of Robert Kennedy. Is this true?

WEISBERG — Well, you can hear all kinds of things—especially if you read the works of theorists. I know of no factual basis to credit any of these things.

The Mafia is one of the country's most successful industries. Why in the world would they jeopardize anything they have? It doesn't make a damn bit of difference who is President . . . they still got the same good thing going for them.

Now there can be a variation in degree of the intensity of prosecutions. But that's a normal business risk for them. In any event, killing John Kennedy had no effect on that, one way or the other.

WILLIS — Then there are those who theorize about the assassination involving the oil people in Texas; the loss of gambling interests in Cuba by organized crime; and the retaliation of the CIA for the lack of air support during the Bay of Pigs invasion.

WEISBERG — Yes. They're all theories. And for some of them, you can make up a case. I don't really think that you can make out a case that a rational oil millionaire would do this because he expected John Kennedy to be responsible for the reduction of their very unfair, and unjust depletion allowance.

For example—why, if it was fair for them, why wouldn't it be fair for coal operators? Every ton of coal they take out of the ground is that much of a depletion. I don't think it's reasonable.

But where you run into a problem is where you deal with people who don't have to be reasonable. Still, it has to be someone in the position, either to have used Oswald, or to have set him up. And I don't know of any oil man who fits that pre-requisite.

WILLIS — What about Oswald's military background—particularly as a radar operator at the Atsugi Naval Station in Japan? What is known about his functions as a radar operator there?

WEISBERG — Oswald was a radar operator, but he was not a "normal" radar operator. Oswald had at least a Secret security clearance . . . I am sure, at least a Top Secret clearance . . . and I am also sure a Crypto clearance. When I learned of that, I didn't know there was such a thing as Crypto clearance. I learned about it on a talk show in December, 1966, when a man who represented himself as a former associate of Oswald's in the Marines.

When I checked out other parts of that man's story, every bit checked. So I think the man was telling the truth. I found confirmation buried in the Warren Commission records that he (Oswald) was at least of Secret clearance—and believe it or not, there's no record of this in any of Oswald's military records . . . there's only a record of his having a Confidential clearance. In addition to that, the records of his advanced training at Keesler Field (Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Mississippi) had disappeared . . . which appears to me as being rather strange.

WILLIS — You've referred to "Crypto" clearance . . . what is that?

WEISBERG — . . . Crypto has to do with your need to have clearance for cryptographic handling (knowledge of specialized systems for translating codes) . . . I don't believe that in itself it is a separate kind of clearance. I think that other clearances are pre-requisite to it. I have since, in my own way, and in a way I'm not prepared to go public with, obtained official confirmation that Oswald . . . in fact, did have Top Secret clearance.

WILLIS — Did Oswald actually possess a working knowledge of the U-2 Reconnaissance planes and their surveillance flights over the Soviet Union as conjectured by some theorists?

WEISBERG — I have no reason to believe he did—this is all conjecture. His work had to do with height-seeking radar. Oswald was one of the five men in his unit who had the higher clearance and the knowledge of this, then, to a degree unknown, radar capability. It turned out later that it was not unknown and had been published prior to the time of Oswald's defect . . . so-called defection.

WILLIS — Taking into consideration, among other things, Oswald's ability to fluently speak Russian, wouldn't you say he had a relatively high Intelligence Quotient?

WEISBERG — That's hard to evaluate, because I think he was a strange person. I think he was of higher than average intelligence, but I wouldn't know how to evaluate this in the terms of an IQ rating . . . he clearly was of superior intelligence.

WILLIS — It is my understanding that Oswald's Russian wife, Marina, whom he met and married while in Russia, was the niece of a Russian KGB colonel. Some say the colonel was an intelligence agent. Is this true, or is it something that was used only as sensationalism by critics and theorists?

WEISBERG — . . . First of all, you have to understand what the KGB is. The KGB is the Russian Ministry of Interior. One of its functions is intelligence, but it has other functions. Marina's uncle was a colonel in the KGB in Minsk. I have no reason to believe that he had an intelligence function.

WILLIS — There is quite a bit of emphasis placed on Oswald's ability to obtain a passport after 24 hours of his application . . . is this true?

WEISBERG — It is. I reprint the proof in facsimile in my first book. (This is true,) even though there would have been, for three different reasons, a look-out card filed against him in the State Department, if he applied for a passport again. Within 24 hours of his application for a passport in New Orleans, he had it.

WILLIS — Was it under the name of Lee Harvey Oswald?

WEISBERG — Correct.

WILLIS — Was it standard procedure that enabled Oswald to obtain his passport so quickly.

WEISBERG — Well, other people who applied at the same time, didn't (receive their passports within 24 hours). It took them a lot longer.

WILLIS — Did Oswald defect to Russia?

WEISBERG — First of all, I think you should put "defect" in quotes, because when it came time to actually . . . renouncing his American citizenship, he did not do it. So there's a real question as to whether or not it was a defection. That is one of the reasons, however, that there should have been a "flag" to at least delay his getting a passport.

Now in those days, passports were being denied right and left for people who had much less ostensible connections with the Soviet Union. That made his getting a passport, in itself, unusual.

Then he had to borrow money . . . to come back to the United States. The State Department wasn't looking to invest in his return again. It was quite unusual in all respects.

WILLIS — Why was Oswald not prosecuted upon his return to this country, for divulging military secrets pertaining to our radar operations?

WEISBERG — I think that's a good question. I raised that question in my first book. In fact, they (the U. S. Government and Oswald) made a deal. He insisted he would not come back until they guaranteed he would not be prosecuted. And he wasn't.

WILLIS — And the U. S. made all of those concessions simply because they wanted him back that badly?

WEISBERG — I think they wanted him back, and the Russians wanted to get rid of him for reasons we have to conjecture . . . for one reason, the Russians suspected he was an American "sleeper" agent.

For another reason, even if he didn't serve an American intelligence agency (and the State Department knew damn well nobody would tell them the truth), he presented a real problem to the U. S. in Russia. They wanted to get him back.

What Oswald should have been prosecuted for had nothing to do with giving away military secrets. First, it had to be proven that they were secrets. Second, it had to be proven that they had been given away, and I don't think that either one of these things could have met the reasonable doubt standard of American justice.

However, he did get a fraudulent discharge, and on that there was an open and shut case.

WILLIS — That was a hardhip discharge, was it not?

WEISBERG — Sure. Three days later he was on his way to Russia.

WILLIS — Is that considered a short period of time for a discharge ot be processed?

WEISBERG — Well no, it took about six weeks for the discharge to come through. But he spent three days after he reached his mother, panhandled $25 for her, and was off.

WILLIS — Many theorists seem to place a high regard on discrepencies contained in Oswald's military records pertaining to his height and weight.

WEISBERG — I don't think that they're that abnormal. I have a share of responsibility for all the mythologies that have been woven around that because that work was originally done for me by a woman in Missouri named Shirley Orr. I made the mistake of giving it (the information) to Garrison and he gave it to everybody . . . it's been embroidered upon no end.

Lakers Stopped In Second Round Of JUCO Tourney

The Lakers ended their quest in the Maryland JUCO Tournament last Saturday night when top seeded Community College of Baltimore squeezed by with a 64-60 victory.

The Lakers were in their second round in tournament play after defeating Catonsville Community College 90-77 Wednesday night on the Dundalk C. C. courts. Leading the Lakers in this game were Ken Niner and Steve Liller who scored 28 and 20 points, respectively. Rick Phillips added 14 to the Laker's score while Keith Hill and Bill Bloodsworth contributed 12 apiece.

In the game against Baltimore, the Lakers never took over the lead but closed in to within one point on three occasions in the final two minutes.

Mike Lyles, whose 25 points for Baltimore was a decisive factor in the game, finished the last seven seconds of play from the line after a foul and a technical.

The Lakers trailed by 37-26 by half time but were revived by Bloodsworth and Rick Phillips, who tallied 22 and 13 in the game respectively. Steve Liller added his share with 13 points.

Warsaw-Kitzmiller Vows Heard

The Maple Grove Assembly of God in Horse Shoe Run was the setting for the wedding of Cindy Kitzmiller and Bruce Alan Warsaw. The Rev. Richard Kerfoot performed the double-ring ceremony on the evening of October 14th.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Evans, Eglon. She is a graduate of Aurora High School.

The groom is the son of Boyd Warsaw, Red Oak, and the late Lucy Warsaw. He is a graduate of Southern High School and is self employed.

The bride wore a gown of Quiana nylon trimmed in lace. The dress was designed with scoop-neckline, empire waist and long sleeves, with a train attached at the waist-line. The head piece was an elbow-length veil edged with lace matching the gown.

The bride carried a bouquet of yellow and gold mums, daisies and baby's breath.

Prior to and during the ceremony Beverly Kerfoot played the organ. "We've Only Just Begun" was played as the couple left the church.

Mrs. Charlotte Lewis served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a mint green gown of polyester crepe, trimmed with eyelet lace.

Bridesmaids were Tracey Arnold, Aurora WV, Patti Roggie, Boonville, NY, and Orpha Schrock, Scottsdale, PA, who were dressed in emerald green gowns. Their dresses were identical to the maid of honor's.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried bouquets matching the bride's bouquet.

Serving as best man was Roy Gregory. Ushers were Gayle and Rick Bachtel, nephews of the groom, and Kenneth Cummings.

The mother of the bride wore a blue and gold dress and a corsage of large yellow and gold mums.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony at the Aurora Fire Hall. Mrs. Harold Bachtel, sister of the groom, served the cake. Mrs. William Kitzmiller, sister in-law of the bride, served the punch. Mrs. Wayne Watts, sister in-law of the bride, took care of the guest book.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's sister at her home near Red House.

Bloomington Water Topic Of Meetings

Bloomington's dwindling water supply was a topic of discussion at the Thursday meeting of the Westernport town council. Claude Lipscomb, president of the Bloomington Improvement Association, was a guest speaker, and inquired about the water situation in Westernport.

Although Bloomington, an unincorporated town, receives its water from the main line from Savage River Dam, Westernport, as an incorporated town, is responsible for the system.

Recently the Improvement Association had accepted the formerly privately-owned water system, and is presently seeking a Farmers Home Administration loan to put in a new system.

Engineers from Oakland, Westernport, the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Thomas Brurne Company, Inc., Beltsville, have been surveying the area to help determine costs of a new system.

A meeting has been arranged with the town of Westernport, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers and the State Department of Water Resources to determine what can be done to alleviate the present situation, which is leaving many Bloomington homes without water.

Miss Koch Plans July Wedding To John Williams

The Saxons had a word for Spring. It was Lencten, shortened, in time, to Lent.

So the name Lent was given to that springtime period of 40 fast days from Ash Wednesday until Easter.

Lent came to mean a time of penitence. And it is. But it is also a time of preparation, and of promise. For because Lent means Spring, it heralds good things to come. It forecasts the glorious message of Easter. It is the dawn of the most beautiful season of the year.

The bare branches of these trees will burst into bud and leaf with the touch of Spring. Our thoughts during Lent, our personal preparations, also will reach fruition when the 40 days are through.

Lent is the time for prayer and self-examination. Make this Lenten season really mean something by seeking help and guidance at your church services.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

OF PAIN AND LOVE

Lesson for March 4, 1979

Background Scripture:
1 Corinthians 1:1-9;
2 Corinthians 1:21 through 2:4; 13.
Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 1:4-9.

Paul had every right to be upset with those ingrates at Corinth! He had spent eighteen months laboring in their midst without pay — longer than he had stayed in most areas — so that they might know the good news of Jesus Christ. He had written one of his finest letters to them — the letter we know as 1 Corinthians — to strike at some troubling problems that had come to his attention from Corinth. And instead of responding favorably to his efforts in their behalf, many of them had become resistent to his authority as an apostle. Some even dared him to return to Corinth.

Rev. Althouse

A Severe Letter

What would you have done if you had been Paul? Many of us, I suspect, would have washed our hands of these people. "Who needs it?" we'd say in disgust and despair. Why not devote ourselves to those who love and understand us, to those who accept our authority and are receptive to our efforts? Why bother with a bunch of quarrelsome ingrates?

Paul could have crossed the Corinthians off his list, but he didn't. Instead, he took a risk and wrote a severe letter in which he poured out his love and sorrow for them. (We do not have this letter today, but Paul speaks of it in 2 Corinthians 2:4) Undergirding this letter with fervent prayers, he sent it to them and waited for the results. How would they react to it, he must have wondered? The chances were that he was leaving himself open to even more pain and humiliation. (Paul, Paul! Why stick your neck out like that? They're not worth it, are they?)

But the news that came back from Corinth via Titus, his associate, was even better than he might have expected. Somehow, whether because of his letter or his prayers or both, a change had taken place in the Corinthian church and Paul was overjoyed at this news. His heart overflowing in joy, he writes a third letter — the one we know as 2 Corinthians — and it is apparent to us that here we see reflected the fiber of true Christian love: the love that is able to endure both pain and humiliation for the sake of the joy that is always possible when love perseveres.

Abundant Love

When we think of the early Christian church we are likely to assume a state of perfection and bliss that never really existed. We tend to forget that those early congregations were not all that unlike those we see about us today: likely to encounter both the heights and depths of human personality.

Paul's relationships with the Corinthians are a dramatic reminder to all of us that the power of Christian love is meant to be experienced, not with cardboard saints, but real people. As Paul discovered, we must hang in there and persevere through the pain of love if we are ever to know its joys.

FAMILY CORNER

"Happiness is like jam — you can't spread even a little without getting some on yourself."

When I was looking for a subject for my article this week, I found an interesting topic in the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service Farm and Home Safety Newsletter on jumper cables. Many of us carry jumper cables in our cars and should be aware of safety precautions to take with them. For instance, did you know that using jumper cables to start a car with a dead battery can be a serious threat to eyesight? The hydrogen gas given off could be ignited by a spark or a cigarette and result in a violent explosion.

The following procedure is recommended when using jumper cables.

—Make sure you need a jump start. Many seemingly dead batteries are suffering from loose or corroded connections, so check them out first and make sure the battery fluid level is okay (if yours is not the sealed variety).

—Park the live vehicle so that no part of it is touching the dead vehicle and take care that the clips on the cable won't make accidental contact with any part of the vehicle.

—Put out that cigarette, pipe or cigar.

—Switch off accessories in both cars (Lights may be left on if needed).

—Remove caps from both batteries to allow the hydrogen gas to escape.

—Connect the red clamp of the jumper cable to the positive pole of the dead battery.

—Connect the other end of the same cable to the positive pole of the booster battery.

—Connect the second cable to the negative pole of the booster battery.

—Connect the other end of the second cable to the engine block of the disabled vehicle as far away from its battery as possible. Keep your face away from the proximity of the battery when you do this.

—After starting the disabled vehicle, first remove the cable from the engine block, then its other end from the booster battery. Disconnect the red cable first from the recharging battery, and then from the booster battery.

The above procedures are for vehicles with negative grounds which applies to cars made in America and Canada. Many European and Japanese cars have positive grounds. With these cars the positive battery cable is the one connected to the engine block.

Take care with those Jumper Cables!

FOOD NOTES

A recipe that is a favorite in the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program is Master Mix, which can be used in any recipe that calls for Bisquick except it is much more economical. We have a printed sheet available with quite a few recipes on it using the Master Mix. If you are interested in obtaining this information, please contact the Extension Office at 334-2145 or stop by the office in the Courthouse Annex.

Here is the Master Mix recipe.

Master Mix
(for 13 cups)

9 cups sifted all-purpose flour or
10 cups sifted soft wheat or cake flour
1 cup dry milk
⅓ cup double-acting baking powder
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup sugar
2 cups shortening which does not require refrigeration

Stir baking powder, salt, and sugar into flour. Sift together three times into a large mixing bowl or onto a large square of plain paper. Cut in shortening until Mix is consistency of cornmeal. Store in covered containers at room temperature. To measure the Master Mix, pile it lightly into cup and level off with a spatula.

Containers which are convenient for storing Master Mix are two-quart fruit jars, cottage cheese cartons, lard or potato chip cans and canisters. One user wrote that when making the mix she stored it in measure portions, two cups in pint jars and three cups in quart jars, to save herself several measurings later.

Business Film Festival Slated At Oakland Center

The Institute for Small Business of Frostburg State College, in cooperation with Garrett Community College's Oakland Center and the U. S. Small Business Administration, will present a business management film festival Thursday, March 1, at the Oakland Center at 104 E. Center Street.

Films will be shown throughout the day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with a break for lunch from noon to 1 p.m. Management counselors will be available to answer questions, according to Dave Berry, of the Institute for Small Business at Frostburg State College.

Eight areas will be covered by the films, general management, financial management, personnel management, customer relations, merchandise control, marketing management, the right location, security measures, and the Small Business Administration and its services available to owners of businesses.

There is no registration fee for the film festival and the public is invited to attend any or all of the films.

Further information concerning the Small Business Management Film Festival may be obtained by calling 334-8266.

Maryland Students Holding Their Own In Basic Skills

Last year's statewide average in student performance on the Iowa Test of Basic Skills showed Maryland students either holding their own or posting modest gains.

In reading comprehension, third and fifth graders showed one month gains to 3.9 and 5.5 and seventh graders held steady at 6.9. National norms for the three grades are 3.7, 5.7 and 7.7. The gap between performance and grade equivalence at the seventh grade may be explained, state school officials say, by the fact that the tests in Maryland are given early in the spring of the school year.

In language total the two grades tested, fifth and seventh, each showed one-month gains, to 5.9 and 7.2 respectively.

In the mathematics total fifth graders held at 5.6 and seventh graders moved up a month to 7.2.

Statewide averages on the annual basic skills tests were released this week. Most local school systems already have their own test averages for 1978 and some have released them to the public. Still to be compiled are school-by-school results, slated for release next month.

Ninth graders had been included in earlier statewide basic skills testing programs, but were left out last year to make time for the Maryland Functional Reading Test, which they must pass before they graduate. Some local school systems still continue testing ninth graders in the Iowa tests.

GCC Students Awarded Jackson Memorial Scholarships

The Stewart Jackson Memorial Scholarship was awarded the three students at Garrett Community College, based upon their involvement in community service activities, academic record, and future educational plans. The award was presented by Mrs. Janis Jackson, wife of the late Mr. Jackson, and consisted of the cost of tuition and fees for the semester.

The award recipients are Judy Custer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Custer of Deer Park; Kathy Nice, daughter of the late Maxie Nice and Evelyn Wildeson and the step-daughter of Herb Wildeson of Oakland; and Jack Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Riley of Oakland.

The scholarship, established by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, was co-sponsored this year by the friends and family of Mr. Jackson through contributions made in lieu of flowers.

Five County Landowners Sign Up For Rural Abandoned Mine Program

Five Garrett County landowners have signed up for the new Rural Abandoned Mine Program so far, according to John Reckner, district conservationist for the USDA, Soil Conservation Service.

The response has been slower than hoped for because of bad weather conditions, Reckner says. So the application period for the new program has been extended to March 16.

RAMP provides up to 100 percent cost sharing for owners of abandoned strip and deep mines to reclaim the damaged land. The cost sharing rate depends on several factors, including the type of severity of problem, the area involved, and what the owner plans to do with the land.

One landowner who has applied for RAMP is William Merrill, a dairy farmer who lives near Grantsville. Merrill wants to reclaim a 10-acre strip mine and convert it to pasture for his cows.

The mine, abandoned since the late 1960's, is now just an open pit that impounds water. Across the street is a commercial recreation area.

"Some neighbors have expressed amazement that someone hasn't fallen into it before now," says Reckner.

Merrill's application will probably be assigned a high priority because it poses a safety hazard as well as a public eyesore. If his request is approved and funded, the area will be backfilled, leveled, and seeded.

Another farmer who'd like to reclaim an orphaned mine for pasture is J. P. Hoffman. A combination strip mine and deep mine located on his property south of Route 50 at Table Rock is a continuous source of sediment and acid drainage to the nearby stream.

Other applications involve strip mines or deep mines which are posing environmental and land use problems.

Reckner says he'd like to see more people apply for RAMP. Funding in future years will be based on the number of applications received during the current sign-up period. The greater the number of applications in Maryland, the greater proportionate share of the federal funds it's likely to receive.

"We certainly have enough landowners who are eligible for the program," explains Reckner. There are about 230 individual property owners and a number of corporate and government owners of abandoned surface mines with a total of more than 4,000 acres of abandoned strip mines in Garrett County. Many abandoned deep mines in Western Maryland are also eligible for reclamation.

"RAMP is not limited to individuals," he said. "Corporations, groups, and local governments can also apply. Not eligible is land owned by the federal government or land that has been purchased or leased for mining."

RAMP is just one of several government programs that is designed to help landowners reclaim abandoned mines. The Maryland Bureau of Mines administers cost share and interest-free loan programs, that combined with RAMP, can help lessen the landowner's share of the cost.

Both SCS and the Bureau of Mines will help applicants take full advantage of all available programs.

The soil conservation districts in Garrett and Allegany counties will assign priorities to applications and notify the landowner in writing. The State RAMP coordinating committee will then rank the applications from the two-county area and recommend the funding priorities. The SCS state conservationist will decide which contracts to award.

Anyone interested in applying should contact the Garrett SCS office on Route 219 North at 334-8141 by March 16. Those who miss the deadline will have to wait until another sign-up period is announced next year.

Meeting On Mine Reclamation Is Tonight At GCC

A public meeting on the state's abandoned mine reclamation plan (RAMP) has been rescheduled for this evening at 7:30 at Garrett Community College.

Chief topic will be the need for legislation to be adopted by the General Assembly in Annapolis during the current session.

The meeting is expected to follow a pattern set by a similar meeting last Thursday night at Frostburg State College, when Anthony F. Abar, mining administrator for the State Bureau of Mines, addressed the group.

Abar told the Allegany County group of ten persons that under the present time schedule, it appears that the abandoned mine reclamation plan of the State Bureau of Mines will be completed by next fall. The legislation which has been drafted for consideration by the General Assembly is essential to continue the state eligibility to have a state program on abandoned mines. Without the legislation, the federal government would step in and assume control.

The office of Gov. Harry R. Hughes is currently reviewing the legislation.

Another topic to be discussed will be the matter of priority for projects under the abandoned mine reclamation plan. Abar said the group Thursday agreed that top priority should be given to projects which abate conditions which endanger human life. Second priority would be given projects concerned with environmental problems.

Bill Proposed To Protect Lawmakers

Alleged threats against State Senators Edward J. Mason (R-Allegany) and Edward Thomas (R-Frederick) has prompted Sen. Harry J. McGuirk (D-Baltimore) to propose a bill calling for the prosecution of those who threaten or intimidate members of the General Assembly.

McGuirk, chairman of the Economic Affairs Committee on which Thomas serves, has said he will introduce a bill to make it a specific crime to threaten or interfere with a legislator. The bill will provide for a maximum penalty of three years in prison and a $10,000 fine, according to McGuirk.

The alleged threats were said to have occurred in the downstairs bar at the Annapolis Hilton January 24, the day of the PACE reception. The threats were made over the lawmakers' support of a right-to-work bill which was later defeated by a Senate committee.

Thomas said two off-duty state troopers overheard a conversation between an Allegany County union official and another man whose identities have not been made public.

"One of them commented to somebody else that they had some concrete boots for men," related Thomas, who then complained to McGuirk.

Straight Talk About Aging

By Dr. Matthew Tayback
State Director on Aging

"JUST PEOPLE"

A woman in late middle age. Her grown children are away, starting their own households. This woman, her "career" of child-raising behind her, has embarked on a new one. She has gone back to college and is studying to be a dental hygienist.

Before she went, she had to grapple with one of the paramount uncertainties faced by most "returning students," as colleges are wont to call their older learners. She had to contend with worries about how she would be accepted by the younger students - people younger than her own children.

"Well," she said after the first few months, "the kids just opened up and took me in and there was nothing even the slightest bit condescending about it."

Fortunately, her experience is typical. It is one that should help older Marylanders who are thinking of going back to college to put aside their apprehensions.

Another worry that troubles many older would-be students is, "will I have forgotten how to study?"

The most likely answer is, "No."

We now understand that the need to learn - and the power to do so - stay with us all our lives. Furthermore, the structured setting provided by a college or university is in itself conducive to learning.

"I found it very easy to study," reports another returning student. "It was relaxing to work in a structured set-up; easier than when I was flying blind as a mother or volunteer worker."

Faculty members, too, support the idea that "it's never too late."

"As a teacher I find them much the better students," said a Connecticut University educator about the older members of her classes. "I expect more of them, and they always come through . . . they all come to school to work . . . young people don't take it as seriously. Maturity is totally in their favor."

I don't mean to suggest by all this that there is a stampede back to college on the part of older Marylanders. There isn't.

In the Baltimore area, for instance, Towson State University reports 105 women and 64 men over 50 enrolled in part-time undergraduate programs and seven men and 51 women in part-time graduate courses. Full-time students are even fewer - seven men and 30 women. Enrollments at Goucher College, the Johns Hopkins University, and Loyola College tend to correspond to the TSU figures.

The points are, though, that older Marylanders are seeking higher education, they are doing it despite age stereotypes, and they are doing it for a great variety of very serious reasons. (They are not necessarily engaged in "recreational learning" programs that are widely available.)

Some are at last free to pursue deep personal interests that were long pushed aside by the demands of family or career. Some, even at advanced ages, are pursuing programs that are 100 percent job-oriented.

For example, in several courses on gerontology, for which I have had some responsibility, students in their sixties and seventies are pursuing the economics, biology and sociology of aging with enthusiasm and with a hope of opening up careers in this rapidly evolving area.

By so fully engaging in the often rigorous academic life, these students are proving by direct example that people do not sink automatically into a no growth intellectual posture on some pre-determined birthday. On the contrary, they are demonstrating to society's younger members that people are perfectly capable of exercising their intellectual vitality even at advanced ages.

A 64-year-old New Yorker put it very well, I think.

"By being in the classroom with the young," she reflected, "we will make getting older seem less like a frightening disease or like a crime. Perhaps they will realize that we are just people, just people who have grown older."

In terms of today's life expectancy, this woman can expect to live 20 years. Why shouldn't those years be full of intellectual richness?

BUYING VS RENTING

To buy or to rent—that is the question. Both have their place. First, renting can be the answer for families who know they'll only be in the area for a short time or who prefer not to contend with maintenance. It's also the only solution for anyone with insufficient funds for the down payment on a home.

The main disadvantage of renting is a financial one. As living costs rise—so do rents. A lease may protect you temporarily, but when it expires, the landlord is free to increase the rent—even under rent control when justified. Rent payment cannot be deducted from income tax as the homeowner can deduct real estate taxes and interest on the mortgage payments.

Your best buffer against inflation is to own your own home. You'll also be pleasantly surprised to find it also is one of the best financial investments you ever made. Your payments will remain level while your resale value - especially in this area - will continue to rise.

Oakland Man Held On $2,000 Bond

An Oakland man is being held in Allegany County jail under $2,000 bond on a charge of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (methamphetamine) with intent to distribute.

Jeffrey A. Fisher was charged after an alleged incident November 16 at McHenry. Tfc. Frank J. Rose of the State Police, Pikesville, filed the charges.

Chief Judge Harold E. Naughton of the Circuit Court presided at a bail review Friday in District Court.

Goldsborough Not Re-appointed To Education Board

Garrett County lost its member on the State Board of Education February 16 when Gov. Harry Hughes announced the appointment of an Allegany County woman.

William Goldsborough, Mt. Lake Park, had been a member of the board since his appointment in 1974. His term will expire on the first Monday in July, when he will be replaced by Mrs. Mae Boltz, Cumberland.

When the governor announced his "Green Bag" list of 268 appointed to boards and commissions throughout the state, Mr. Goldsborough had not been re-appointed.

Lt. Governor Sam Bogley, who spoke with Mr. Goldsborough February 26 in a telephone conversation, assured Mr. Goldsborough the Governor's decision had no connection with Mr. Goldsborough's record on the State Board of Education. Instead, he confirmed that the governor was following a policy which states that no one employed by the state will be appointed or re-appointed to state boards or commissions. Mr. Goldsborough is resident engineer for the State Highway Administration.

The Governor did not change his decision despite support of Mr. Goldsborough by both Senators Edward Mason and Victor Cushwa. Fourteen county boards of education including the four westernmost counties, had submitted letters of support to the Governor's office, as had several individuals.

State Board of Education members serve without salary, and Mr. Goldsborough pointed out that he attended all but three meetings during his tenure. He also noted that he took approved vacation days or personal leave time to be away from his job on state Board business.

While a state member, Mr. Goldsborough worked to establish Project Basic and staunchly upheld bus drivers in their concerns. He was instrumental in permitting children who live within two miles of schools to continue riding Garrett County school buses despite a state edict which had ordered students to walk to schools in other parts of the state.

Mr. Goldsborough also promoted career education and vocational education for local students.

The Senate must now confirm the appointments listed in Gov. Hughes "Green Bag."

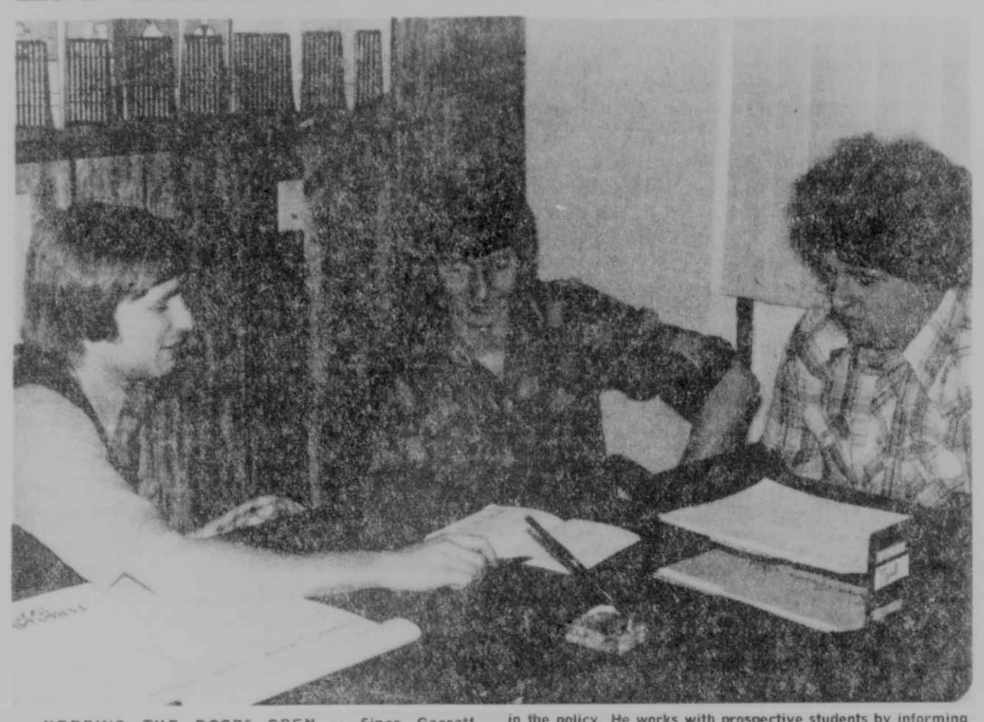
GCC Admissions Is All For Education And Believes In Education For All



KEEPING THE DOORS OPEN — Since Garrett Community College first opened its doors for classes, it has maintained an open doors policy on admissions. Bill Ewing has been Director of Admissions for one year and believes strongly in the policy. He works with prospective students by informing them of the various academic programs at GCC and by guiding them through the admissions process. Pictured above, left to right, are Bill Ewing, Clint Bradley and Rodger Bowman.

by Gary Yoder

For Bill Ewing, Director of Admissions at Garrett Community College, the question is not how many people you keep out of college, but how many you get in.

"That's what is important about my job," says Ewing, "getting people into GCC regardless of their age, sex, race, physical handicap or, for that matter, their financial handicap."

Ewing, age 27, who is finishing his first year as Director of Admissions at GCC, goes about his job as seriously as he went about his education.

He received his undergraduate degree at Frostburg State Teachers College in 1974 in Secondary Education and was awarded a Graduate Fellowship to help coordinate the field experience for student teachers.

In 1975 he received his Masters degree, becoming one of the youngest recipients in the history of Frostburg State.

"Every day," Ewing went on, "I listen to poor excuses ranging from 'I can't afford it' to 'I did poorly in high school so how am I going to succeed in college?' We have an entire staff which is trained to deal with just these kinds of problems."

The "open door" policy at GCC reflects Ewing's sentiments. For instance, students entering GCC are not required to complete the grueling and often intimidating American College or Scholastic Aptitude battery of tests required by most colleges.

All potential students have to do to enroll at GCC is fill out an application. Within two weeks they are notified of their acceptance.

Full-time students (those taking 12 or more credits) are assigned an advisor who is a faculty member. The student works very closely with his advisor to plan the most appropriate program in an effort to meet the specific needs of that student.

Although part-time students are not required to have an advisor they are encouraged to do so.

"The beauty of having an advisor" according to Ewing, "is that you are given virtually unlimited access to a professional educator — someone who has been through it and understands the whole myriad of questions and concerns facing students. The personal attention given each advisee is one of GCC's greatest assets."

But advisement isn't the only effort GCC makes to prepare students for college. An orientation program is held three times in the summer for students. The purpose of orientation is to acquaint new students with the school, faculty, programs, advisory system and student life at GCC.

A series of placement tests are given to assist advisors in planning the proper program of study.

Various social activities help students become acquainted with other new students at GCC.

According to Ewing, one of the greatest assets of GCC is the diversity of the student body.

"We have students who range in age from 17 to 70 and from all sorts of socio-economic backgrounds and locations. This diversity is what makes the classroom an exciting place, one in which students give as much to a course as they take from it."

The fall enrollment at GCC showed a total of 565 students taking credit classes. Of these 269 were full-time students and 151 were full-time freshmen. Seventy of the new freshmen were from Garrett County and the remainder from various parts of Maryland and the Tri-State area.

As part of GCC's outreach program, Ewing has participated in college fairs, high school visits and career days, in addition to sponsoring open houses at the college.

Since September, GCC has been represented at college fairs in Baltimore, Cumberland, Kingwood and Annapolis, with additional visits to more than 50 high schools.

The greatest effort, however, is made right here in Garrett County.

"During the course of this year, I will, or already have, visited every high school, junior and senior. The area high schools have been absolutely super in their cooperation and encouragement" Ewing said.

"Visiting the high school students is probably the singular most important thing I do all year," Ewing went on, "They represent the future of not only the college, but the county as well. GCC must continue to adapt to their needs."

As for the calibre of students in Garrett County schools, Ewing doesn't hesitate to offer his candid assessment. "They'll stack up against any student in the country, both academically and personally."

Southern States Membership Day Set For March 10

Report of elections of local Board of Directors, Farm Home Advisory Committee members and operations reports will highlight the Southern States Cooperative's membership day for SS Oakland Cooperative on March 10. The event will be held at the store and will begin at 10 a.m. The business session is slated to start at 2:30 p.m.

"The Membership Day," according to manager Charles T. Shafer, "will give patrons and members the opportunity to become better acquainted with our facilities, products and services. The local election is being held prior to the meeting with members voting by mail ballots. Members who have not marked their mail ballot should do so and deposit it in the ballot box prior to the beginning of the meeting, so their vote will be counted. All stockholder members are particularly urged to attend the business session."

W. Brooks Hamilton, Oakland, will serve as chairman

Wayne Harman, Clarksburg, a member of Southern States Cooperative's regional staff, will report on the over-all Southern States operations.

Theme of the meeting will be, "Cooperatives—Key to Economic Security."

There will be special recognition for local board and Farm Home Advisory Committee members who retire this year.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club held its postponed meeting on February 20 in the Eglon Memorial Building. The meeting was called to order by president Arlene Roth and devotions were led by Willie Lantz using Psalm 23.

New business discussed was that of a money making project and it was decided that nothing would be done at the present time. A letter from Conrad Arnold, 4-H Extension Agent, offered a year of 4-H activities' insurance which will be taken home to be approved by parents. The club has been asked to collect for the Heart Fund and this they will do individually at various times between now and March 9, the time of the next meeting.

The program was on Snowmobile Safety and was presented by Willie Lantz, Todd Weimer, and Danny Gnegy using cartoon illustrations for their safety demonstration.

Talks were given as follows: Rabbit Raising by Danny Roth; Exhibiting Canned Fruit by Charlotte Roth; Making a Chocolate Cake by Patricia Slaubaugh; the Four Basic Food Groups by Roxanne Evans; A Guide for Every Day by Joyce Delaney; Hog Care by Crystal Weimer; Career Exploration by Sheila Delaney; and an illustrated talk, Over and Under Exposure in Developing Pictures by Arlene Roth.

A get-well card was signed by all and sent to Clifton Bachtel. The Lantz and Weimer families served refreshments to the above and to Kim, Faith and Cherri Minnig, Jackie Lantz, Brent Hauser, guests Danny and Tina Jackson, and Linda Lewis, Elaine Roth, and Frances Lantz.

The local Girl Scout troop will be selling cookies door-to-door beginning March 2.

On March 5 Calvin Wotring will observe his 82nd birthday. He has been ill for a good portion of the winter and it is felt that a card shower will help to cheer him. He is staying with his son and may be addressed c/o Harold F. Wotring, P.O. Box 393, Fort Ashby, W.Va. 26719.

Mrs. Pearl Stemple was hostess to the February 20 meeting of the Aurora Homemakers at 1:00 p.m. She also presented the devotions on the theme, Love, and presented a reading.

Mrs. Opal Myers presented the lesson on Staying Healthy. She was assisted by Mrs. Shirley Parsons who demonstrated exercises for lazy people. Maxine Hauser read "The Story Our Shoes Tell Us."

As special features, Mrs. Myers showed a lone star quilt and Mrs. Stemple showed a flower garden quilt and also a wastebasket which she had made from paper rolls. Each member had brought a picture of herself when a child and these were displayed in a lace-trimmed heart and all were asked to guess the names. Mrs. Mary Wotring was honored with a Life Membership card from the West Virginia Extension Homemakers Council.

The March meeting will be the 19th in the home of Opal Myers. Each member is asked to bring some seeds to exchange at the 1:00 p.m. meeting.

Refreshments were served from the table decorated in the Valentine theme to the thirteen members attending and two guests, Hans Berns of Germany, and Fred Stemple of Aurora. Mr. Berns had been a guest of the Stemples and attended Aurora High and wished to meet his old friends. This meeting was also the date of Mrs. Mary Wotring's 79th birthday and the group sang "Happy Birthday" to her.

"To Russia With Love," a film and program about underground evangelism in Russia, will be presented March 11, at 7:30 p.m., in the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren. The public is invited. There will be a free will offering.

World Day of Prayer will be celebrated in Union District March 2, at 1:30 p.m., in the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren. The theme is Spiritual Growth and it is urged that everyone attend.

The deadline for stories to be submitted for the Preston County History book has been extended to April 20. If there are families who have not written the story of their immediate family, they may do so and submit it to the Preston County Historical Society for publication along with a black and white picture. Those of you in Union District who would desire further information or assistance may contact Mrs. Florence Minnig at 735-3641. Stories may be given to her or to J. Roy Lipscomb, or may be sent to Summers D. McCrum in Kingwood. They should be limited to 500 words and to the immediate household. There is no charge for this publication but if you wish to purchase one of the books, order blanks are available in your papers or you may send $25 plus 75 cents tax to the Preston County History Book, Kingwood, WV 26537. If you wish the book mailed, there is an additional charge of $1.75.

Snow Cover May Cause Fish Kill In Area Ponds

Pond owners may experience a loss of fish during the winter months, especially after February's unusually heavy snowfalls and cold temperatures. However, ponds freezing over is not the main cause of fish kills.

According to Robert G. Morris, biologist for the USDA, Soil Conservation Service, snow cover on the top of ice may cause fish to die due to lack of oxygen.

"One inch of snow on top of ice reduces light penetration by 80 to 90 percent," says Morris. "This reduction in light slows down photosynthesis which reduces the amount of oxygen being added to the water. When the oxygen is reduced to a critical point, fish suffocate."

John Reckner, SCS district conservationist at Oakland, suggests clearing areas of the pond of snow if the ice is thick enough to hold your weight. Chopping holes in the ice will accomplish the same thing but is more strenuous. Snow cover for two or three days will not be a problem, he says, but if snow is present for four or more days, a fish kill may occur.

Additional information on pond maintenance may be obtained by contacting Reckner at the SCS office located on Route 219, North of Oakland, or by telephoning 334-8141 or 359-9111.

4-H Photography Classes Rescheduled

Jim Crabtree of Crabtree Photography Studios will teach a four week series of basic photography lessons designed to improve the skills of the beginning picture taker. The classes will be held in the Conference Room of the Extension Office in the Court House Annex on the Thursday dates of March 8, 15, 22 and 29 from 7-9 p.m.

The four weekly meetings were originally scheduled for January but were cancelled due to inclement weather.

Jim Crabtree will work with the beginning students to help them understand how to use fixed lens or adjustable cameras which may have simple controls to change the lens opening, or shutter speed. Jim will explain the care needed for cameras and film. Young people will learn how to mount prints and properly store negatives. As a result of their participation, students will understand the techniques of proper composition and lighting and will be able to diagnose the common picture taking errors they may initially experience.

In a similar manner, Dave Green of Artistic Creations, will host the more experienced students who may use an automatic camera. Dave will present a similar series of instruction at his studio at 208 N. Second Street in Oakland on the same Thursday night schedule of instruction.

Dave Green will help students learn how to choose the proper film and understand the concepts of composition and lighting, as well as depth of field and the proper use of filters. Dave will also demonstrate how to process film, make contact prints, and use the photo enlarger. The series will climax with the students learning how to prepare a finished slide show or print exhibit.

In recognition of their newly acquired picture taking skills, graduates of the 4-H Photography Series will receive a Course Completion Certificate, signed by their instructor which is suitable for framing and display.

The graduates will also have an opportunity to exhibit their best pictures in the fourth annual "Blue Pine Springs 4-H and Open Art Show," scheduled for Saturday, March 10, at Garrett Community College. For more information about the Art show, contact Greg Dishong at 689-3147.

Aspiring photographers are encouraged to pre-register for the 4-H Photography Workshop. The series is offered free of charge to all Garrett youth and adults.

For more information contact Jim Crabtree or Dave Green, or call the Extension Office at 334-2145.

Proposed Hunting Regulations To Be Topic of Hearings

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Wildlife Administration, will hold three public hearings to discuss proposed regulations, including seasons, bag limits and other proposals, for the 1979-80 hunting season.

The hearing closest to Garrett County is set for March 7 at Allegany Community College, Cumberland at 6:30 p.m.

Most noteworthy of the proposed regulations is the proposed opening of antlerless deer hunting in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll Counties. The DNR states that it is important that antlerless deer hunting be instituted in these Western Maryland counties so that the deer population may be maintained at a level which the habitat can support. Harvesting of antlerless deer would be regulated by a permit system which has proved successful in other counties in Maryland, according to the DNR.

The proposed hunting and trapping seasons for the 1979-80 seasons are as follows (listed in order by species, season dates, bag limit and possession limit):

Bureau Urges Farmers To Be Included In Count

Farm or ranch operators who have not been counted yet in the 1978 Census of Agriculture still have an opportunity to be included, according to the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Uncounted operators are urged to write for a farm census report form to (WYC), Bureau of the Census, 1201 East 10th Street, Jeffersonville, Ind. 47132. The census has been underway since January 1, 1979.

Bureau officials remind farmers and ranchers that the census will include producers of many commodities not often thought of as agricultural. Among these are rabbits, goats, honey, honey bees, fish in captivity, worms, and ducks, pheasants, quail, and pigeons or squab. Greenhouse and such nursery products as sod, mushrooms, greenhouse vegetables, cut flowers, and bulbs are also on the list as farm and ranch products. Any commercial producer of these commodities should fill out a census report form. Bureau officials also remind farm operators that the quicker report forms are returned to the Bureau the less it will cost in follow-up work to complete collection of census data.

ASC Urges Farm Pollution Checks

"Now is the time for farmers to take a good look at their farmland and determine conservation needs," Claude W. Wagner, Jr., Chairman of the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation (ASC) Committee, said this week. The 1979 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) provides solutions to conservation and pollution problems on farms.

According to Mr. Wagner the county ACP development has identified overall conservation needs and has assigned priorities to these needs.

Solutions to high priority problems can be cost-shared up to 80 percent. "Farmers should see if they have any of these problems which need solving to conserve soil and water," he said.

ACP cost-sharing funds are used to correct pollution and Conservation problems on a farm, beyond that which would be accomplished with the farmers' own resources. "The program provides both technical and financial assistance to farmers whose land is the source of agricultural pollution or affected by wind or water erosion," Mr. Wagner said. The maximum cost-share that a person can earn for conservation practice is $3,500.

Farmers are encouraged to check their farms, identify conservation problems and discuss them with the ASC Committee. Persons should come in or call, 334-8141.

U. S. farm output increased three percent in 1977.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. I have received my new assessment notice and would like an explanation. If the law limits the assessment increase to 15%, how can the assessors increase it by 21%, as in my case?

A. Your assessment notice is an official notification telling you that your property has been reappraised and, as a result, a value has been placed upon it which will hold for the coming year.

The figure shown is tentative and does not become permanent until you have had a chance to offer your own view as to what you believe the true value of your property to be. Your opinion is important and often necessary in arriving at an accurate assessment.

Your property, as dictated by the law, is assessed at full cash value, defined to mean its current value, less an allowance for inflation which is currently 50%. An additional special allowance of 5% is applied to all owner-occupied dwellings but not to rental, business, or income-producing property.

The assessment notice, as a simple statement of the value of your property, is innocent enough, but you, the property owner, know the story does not stop there. Later, your county or city government — in some places both — sets a tax rate which leads to the ultimate tax bill and which is never lowered enough to offset the increase in the assessment. The 15% limit mitigates this to some extent. It does not control the assessment itself, but it does control the tax that is based on it. It applies only to owner-occupied dwellings and works in the form of an automatic credit if these conditions prevailed during the previous calendar year:

- no change in ownership
- no change in zoning
- no substantial change in use
- no extensive improvements
- no gross error in the previous assessment.

The home must be your principal residence in which you reside for more than six months of the year, including July 1, unless you are sick or in need of special care. You do not have to apply for this credit.

So, even if your assessment, meaning the value of your property, skyrockets, the tax that you will pay on it will stop at the first 15% of the increase. This may not be enough, but it is better than nothing.

Q. My question concerns a definition of "owner-occupied" homes.

Does the 45% assessment basis qualify for an owner-occupied home, such as, living in a home in Carroll County and having a waterfront home in Harford County where you spend the summer and numerous weekends in the winter? Would the second home in Harford qualify for a 45% assessment instead of 50%? I feel this home is owner-occupied.

Also, would this second home qualify for a tax rebate above the 15% higher assessment?

A. The 45% assessment basis applies to property which is classified as homestead property. "Homestead" means a single-family or two-family, owner-occupied, residential dwelling. The term includes the dwelling and the land upon which the dwelling is situated. "Dwelling" means, in this context, the dwelling house of one or more homeowners and the lot or curtilage where it is erected, which is used as the principal residence of the homeowner or homeowners. The dwelling can include a condominium occupied by its owner. It can also include an apartment in a cooperative apartment corporation occupied by the person having a legal ownership. It can even include a portion of real property used other than primarily for residential purposes, such as, a home above a bakery or a restaurant.

The key to the exclusion of a second home from qualifying is in the restriction in the definition of the term dwelling, stipulating that it must be used as the principal residence of the homeowner. The inference is that a homeowner can have only one principal residence at a time.

The conditions outlined for the 15% property tax credit express a clear residential requirement of more than six months of the year. By extension and following the intent of the legislature, the special, additional 5% allowance for owner-occupied homes which reduces the assessment ratio from 50% to 45% is limited to property classified as homestead property. The term homestead property has been interpreted to mean the same in each of the separate programs designed to give relief to the burden of the property tax on the individual homeowner.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to Assessment Answers—James Burley in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

Recycled Paper Program Gaining Some Momentum

The State of Maryland, the first state to successfully implement legislation requiring the purchase of recycled paper, has just purchased 80,000 reams of recycled bond paper for state agency use, according to a release from the State Energy Policy Office. This brings the total for fiscal 1979 to 123,200 reams or 54% of the total bond paper purchased. The cost of the recycled paper was $1.72 per ream or 10 cents/ream less than the cost of #1 bond.

The 80,000 ream purchase will save approximately 3,280,000,000 BTU's of energy, or the equivalent of 23,429 gallons of home heating oil, enough to heat about 28 homes for a year, the release said.

In addition to the state program, local governments in Maryland are also participating in the recycled paper purchasing program. During fiscal 1979 Howard County has purchased 2,000 reams from the state warehouse, Prince George's County has purchased 400 reams, and Anne Arundel County has currently purchased 1,200 reams. Finally, the town of St. Michaels and the city of Annapolis have each purchased 2 reams of recycled paper to initiate their programs, the release concluded.

VENUSIAN WINDS

Photographs of the atmosphere of Venus taken in ultraviolet light by the NASA Mariner spacecraft showed that the stratosphere was in continuous motion. Clouds circled the planet in about four Earth days at a rate of 360 kilometers per hour (220 miles per hour). Wind speeds, which were very slow, were reported near the surface by Soviet Venera lander spacecraft. The mechanism of change in the wind velocity of Venus' atmosphere is unknown.

MOON

A waxing moon will be in the sky this week. Monday, the moon passes through First Quarter phase at 11:23 a.m. At this position, the moon will be 90 degrees east of the Sun as viewed from Earth. Moonset will be at 8:42 p.m. this evening. Next Tuesday morning, the moon will set at 1:51 a.m.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn will be the visible planets this week. Mercury may be seen very low just south of west, right after sunset. Venus rises two hours prior to sunrise and is very bright in the predawn sky. Jupiter, among the stars of Cancer, will be halfway across the sky at about 9:30 p.m. Saturn rises near sunset with the stars of Leo and will be visible most of the night.

DAYLIGHT INCREASES

By the end of the week, there will be an additional 15 minutes more daylight. Today is the 59th day of 1979. The sun is the same altitude above the horizon today that it was about the middle of October. Sunrise was at 6:53 this morning. Sunset will be at 6:08 this evening. Southern States Has Increase In Sales Volume

Southern States Cooperative's Sales volume for the first six months of the 1978-79 fiscal year showed a 60,600,000 increase as compared with the same period last year. Of this increase, $36,800,000 was in the Grain Marketing Division, which was not included in the previous year's total.

This was reported by Ben F. Brown of the cooperative to the regional board conference of local agricultural leaders and young farmers held at McHenry recently.

A total of 19 of these meetings are being held this month by the cooperative across the states of Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Mr. Brown told the session that the cooperative's volume reached $209,600,000 for the first half of the year as compared to $149,000,000 a year ago. Net savings after income taxes and equity income totaled $1,471,000, down $478,000 or 24.5% from last year. This decline was mainly due to substantial decreases in supplier patronage refunds. Other factors contributing to the decline were continued low margins and increased operating and interest costs.

Total feed tonnage of 270,000 for the period was down 6% from last year's volume for the first half of the fiscal year; fertilizer volume was 199,000 tons, down 12,000 tons from a year ago; seed volume was $4,584,000, up slightly; farm supply volume was $30,800,000, up 11.4% over last year, while petroleum volume was 133,703,000 gallons, up 26% from a year ago.

Grain marketing volume was 11,300,000 bushels, an increase of 8% but higher prices brought about a 34% increase in dollar volume.

Also appearing on the program was Charles F. Bahen who, in commenting on the farm economy, pointed out that although farm income is up 25% over last year's depressed levels, it could improve even further if the export market remains strong. This market could go even higher once trade arrangements are set with the Peoples Republic of China. He pointed out that the production of about one out of every three acres moves to the export market. This represents 25% of farmers' gross income.

In two other areas of concern to farmers — foreign investments in agriculture in this country and the energy problem — he pointed out that surveys indicate that the number of acres controlled by foreign interests in this country should not rise above the predicted ½ of 1%. In the case of energy, it was emphasized that it was the aim of all connected with agribusiness to see that agriculture has a high enough priority on energy not only for the production of food, but so that fertilizer plants will be able to operate and supply needed plant food.

Also participating in the session were William T. Milleson, a member of the cooperative's board of directors, and A. H. Booth, the organization's regional manager.

Attending the session were: Charles T. Shafer, manager of Southern States Oakland Cooperative; and Board Members W. Brooks Hamilton, Ellwood R. Sanders, Lee E. Shillingburg, George R. Zimmerman, Richard W. Helbig and Keith Stahl; also Jesse H. Harsh, manager of Southern States Cooperative Grantsville Service; and Board members Simon Tice and Delvin Mast; also Wayne Fratz of W. H. Fratz, Inc.; and Board members Robert W. Bender and Carl Bender; and young farmer Gary Broadwater; also Ronald Bishop, manager of Eglon Farm Service; and Board members Joe Stemple, Melvin Harsh, Robert D. Harsh and Kenneth Cooper.

Area Pre-Business Workshop Slated March 22 At GCC

Area residents who are thinking about starting a small business or who have gone into business within the past six months are invited to attend a "Pre-Business Workshop" Thursday, March 22, at Garrett Community College's Oakland Center.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Institute for Small Business, Frostburg State College, and the U. S. Small Business Administration in cooperation with GCC's Oakland Center. The session is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. in the Oakland Center, 104 East Center Street.

Included in the day's topics will be Success Factors; Starting, Buying, or Franchising; Site Selection; Sole Proprietor, Partnership, Corporation; Business Insurance; Income Taxes; Image and Marketing; Sources of Capital; Loan Applications; Recordkeeping and Cash Flows; Summary and Questions.

The workshop is designed to help answer questions many people have about starting their own small business, and other questions by people who may have opened a business within the past six months.

There will be an advanced registration fee (which will include lunch). Registration at the door will be slightly higher.

Any questions concerning the workshop can be directed to Dave Berry at the Institute for Small Business, Frostburg State College, 689-4417, by calling GCC's Oakland Center at 334-8256.

The Institute for Small Business was founded as a community service of Frostburg State College's Center for Management Development in August of 1973. Since then, almost 3,000 existing or prospective small businesses have received assistance.

The Institute operates walk-in counseling centers at Frostburg State, Allegany Community College, Hagerstown Chamber of Commerce, and Garrett Community College's Oakland Center.

Each Thursday, free and confidential walk-in counseling is available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Center. Dave Berry, Management Assistance Specialist, will be on hand each week to provide this service.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

"LITTLE STROKES" ALTER PERSONALITY

An often unsuspected cause of mental and physical incapacity is a series of "little strokes."

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to a part of the brain is reduced or completely cut off. This can be caused by a blood clot or by hemorrhage — bleeding from an artery in the brain. When the nerve cells of a part of the brain are deprived of their blood supply, the part of the body controlled by these nerve centers cannot function normally.

Little strokes may start when a person is in the 30s or 40s, striking silently at night, or passing almost unnoticed as a sudden dizzy spell, a momentary blackout, or just a few moments of confusion. The stroke itself is not severe enough to compel the patient to seek medical aid, but some permanent brain damage remains just the same, the American Medical Association reminds.

A formerly kind, gentle person may become highly impatient and irritable. Judgment often is impaired. A strong man may become weak and prone to tears. Suspiciousness is common. A person with a tendency to emotional instability, held in check heretofore by will power, may suddenly develop a psychosis. Some become sloppy in dress and befuddled in thought, others lose part of their moral sense.

Sometimes the sufferer loses interest in family and friends, and lives secretively, constantly hiding things that through forgetfulness he or she cannot find later.

When the symptoms are mild, as they often are, the person may get along fairly well. The problem of small strokes is one of the most difficult ever tackled by medical science. The most hopeful research approach is that of finding ways of preventing stroke. Science seeks to learn more about how to recognize early symptoms so that treatment can be instituted promptly.

Taxpayers Are Filing Earlier

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced this week that State income taxpayers are filing earlier than ever apparently anxious to take advantage of tax law changes that should save taxpayers as much as $25 million on returns now being filed.

"At times, we have been running as much as 25% ahead of last year," Mr. Goldstein said, noting that while the blizzard of '79 has slowed operations, refund checks are still being processed at a record rate. "Refund checks are averaging about $165, that's $6.00 more than this time last year, and reflects increased refunds going to retirees, working parents who pay for child care and individuals who are itemizing deductions on their Maryland tax return, even though they weren't allowed to itemize on their Federal return."

The State Comptroller reported that State and local income tax revenues for the first six months of Fiscal Year 1979 amounted to $940,024,228, up 15.47 percent over the $727,484,867 collected for the same period of the previous year.

SERVES AS PAGE — Miss Jeanette Rudy is shown with Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden in Annapolis recently where Miss Rudy served as a page with the Maryland General Assembly. The page program is for high school seniors with exceptional scholastic ability and are chosen by their respective schools each year. Miss Rudy will return again the last week in March. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Rudy of Ninth Street, Oakland.

Goldstein Explains Changes Affecting Retired Citizens

There are changes in the Maryland income tax forms now being filed that affect about one in every five State taxpayers and will result in a total tax savings of approximately $25 million, according to a release from Louis L. Goldstein, Comptroller of the Treasury. One group that benefits this year is retired citizens. Following are tax questions received and answered by Comptroller Goldstein concerning retired citizens.

Q. I understand that Maryland's maximum retirement income exclusion has been increased this year.

A. Yes, Maryland's maximum retirement income exclusion has been increased to $5,200 for 1978, up from $3,200 for 1977. The calculation appears on the back side of Form 502 in the Maryland income tax packet and is explained on Page 18 of the instructions.

Q. How much money will this save the eligible taxpayer?

A. The estimated savings to approximately 20,000 taxpayers this year is $8 million, with a maximum savings of $150 per exclusion.

Q. Who is eligible for the retirement exclusion?

A. In order to qualify for the pension and retirement annuity exclusion, a taxpayer must fulfill the following requirements:

—they must have reached age 65 before the close of taxable year 1978 or are totally disabled,

—They must have received benefits from an employee retirement system, a pension, annuity, or endowment which was included in their Federal adjusted gross income, —and have received less than $5,200 during the taxable year under the social security act and/or railroad retirement act.

Q. Must I pay State income tax on any social security income I receive?

A. No. The income received under the social security program is not subject to the Maryland income tax and should not be included in your return. The same applies to benefits received under the railroad retirement act.

Q. How about Federal changes concerning capital gains?

A. These also apply to the 1978 Maryland return. The portion of a capital gain taxed as regular income on the Federal form has been reduced from 50% to 40%. Therefore, only 40% of the capital gain should be reported on the Maryland income tax return. There has also been a change in the federal law regarding the profit from the sale of a home being taxed as a capital gain. The new legislation provides a once-in-a-lifetime exemption of up to $100,000 on the capital gain from the sale of a residence, provided that the taxpayer is 55 years or older and that the taxpayer has owned and lived on the property during three of the last five years. The $100,000 Federal exemption is retroactive to July 26, 1978, and it is applicable to the 1978 Maryland income tax return.

Q. Hasn't there also been a State tax change concerning Marylanders, including retirees who file declarations of estimated tax?

A. Yes. You must file a declaration of estimated tax if you have taxable income of $500 or more in one year that is not subject to employer withholding. There are about 180,000 Marylanders who pay taxes this way. However, the 1978 Session of the Maryland General Assembly made a change in this law. If the amount of tax due the State is $100 or less, the taxpayer doesn't have to file the declaration.

Q. Does the new Federal deduction for businesses that redesign facilities for the handicapped also apply to the State?

A. Yes, it does. Businesses may deduct money that they have spent remodeling facilities or transportation for the handicapped or elderly up to a maximum of $25,000.

Q. Where can I get help in understanding this and other changes in the Maryland income tax laws?

A. Help with this and other items is available from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at all eleven permanent offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division. Taxpayers who want their returns filled out free of charge should bring with them their completed Federal form and all W-2 statements to one of the offices. Questions are also answered by telephone. A list of the offices is on the back of the Maryland tax packet. You can also find them in the telephone directory.

Grain Program Applications Now Being Accepted

The County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices began accepting applications on February 15 for the 1979 Wheat and Feed Grain Program, Paul Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland ASC Committee, said the program gives farmers the opportunity to adjust their grain production and increase the price they will get for it.

"The importance of farmers using the program cannot be overemphasized," Crowl said. "Strong participation is necessary to begin balancing supply with demand so that the market will pay a profitable price. Producers need to participate to reduce the ending stocks of grain and strengthen the market."

The ASCS official said, "Farmers cannot look at the program solely in terms of immediate cash. They should also take a longer-range view. This is the only way we can bring long-term adjustment in grains.

Producers who sign up agree to take out of production one acre for every ten planted in 1979 to corn and sorghum; two acres of every ten planted to wheat and barley for grain; and reduce the normal crop acreage by this set-aside amount. Crowl said the target price has been increased by 10 cents to $2.20 a bushel for corn.

Program benefits include price support loans on all eligible commodities produced, deficiency and disaster payments for barley, corn, sorghum, wheat or upland cotton on the participating farm. "The program is voluntary," Crowl said; "however, farmers must file their intentions to participate during the signup period to be eligible for program benefits." The signup period will be conducted until April 30.

Claude W. Wagner, Jr., chairperson of the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said farmers can get further information and details at the Garrett County ASCS office, U. S. Route 219 North, Oakland, MD 21550. The telephone number is 334-8141.

Disagreement Among Friends

The decision this week by the county commissioners concerning the U.S. Rt. 219 bypass and the discussions leading up to the decision have caused quite a stir in the county, especially around the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park area. There has been considerable public involvement and strong, healthy debate on this issue.

However, there has also been some rather undesirable activity, the aftermath of which could be unhealthy to our communities and county. There has been name-calling, lost tempers, rudeness and weakened friendships. Friends, or persons who are supposedly friends, are practically at each other's throats, all over an issue, an issue which is certainly not a life or death situation.

Human relationships cannot be dependent on the total harmony and unwavering agreement between the two parties. If a relationship were dependent on this, there would be no relationships. Human beings just aren't built that way. No two persons in the world agree on everything. Yet, it is not the disagreement itself that damages relationships, but the inability to cope with disagreement and see another's viewpoint. Persons should be able to disagree and yet still remain friends. Marriages, for example, are based on this ability.

Hopefully the tempers will soon cool, the selfishness and the feeling of being always right will fade away, and brotherly love will emerge. A county cannot afford to operate under a Hatfield-McCoy condition. We are all interested in progress for Garrett County. Progress can go on only if we can learn to listen better to each other, realize that we do not necessarily have all the answers and work harder at being able to disagree with each other and yet still care.

Commissioners Recommend Messenger To Tax Appeals Board

Garrett County Commissioners Truman Paugh, Ernest Gregg, Jr. and H. Lester Hunter unanimously agreed Monday to recommend to Governor Harry Hughes that Max Messenger of Oakland be appointed to the Garrett County Tax Appeals Board.

Mr. Messenger would fill the unexpired term of Jonas McKenzie, who recently resigned.

In other business matters Monday, the Board had as guests George Comp, Garrett County Civil Defense director; and James O'Brien and Robert Lilchow, State Department of Civil Defense, who provided information on instituting snow emergency plans and explained Civil Defense procedures and assistance guidelines in the event of declared disasters.

Mr. Comp also received the commissioners' approval for a test for agencies in the county responsible for public safety in emergencies.

Those present, including representatives from the county roads department, health department, social services, public safety, utility companies, and others, would be handed problems to be studied and would prepare sequences of events to be coordinated with other groups. The test will deal with problems occurring in this county following a nuclear attack.

At least 50 persons will be involved in the exercise, scheduled May 16 and 17 at the Oakland fire hall. The last test of this type conducted by Civil Defense was held in 1969.

The commissioners opened bids for a modular ambulance body to be mounted on a chassis. Eastern Rescue Equipment, Inc. submitted the only bid, $12,442.40 for the specified unit. The company also submitted a second bid, offering the specified unit mounted on a reconditioned 1977 chassis for $16,500.

The bid was sought on behalf of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, which is now evaluating the bids and will make a recommendation to the commissioners in the near future.

G. Bradford Rinard and Mrs. Vivian Tasker, representing the Title VII Hot Meals program, informed the commissioners that 30,000 meals had been served to senior citizens in a voluntary cost contribution program during the past year of operation. The Title VII representatives were also seeking freezer space in which to store a large number of frozen turkeys which will later appear on the Hot Meals centers' tables.

Ed Livengood, from Central Alarm, appeared before the Board to discuss installation of silent alarm systems in area businesses, and was authorized by the commissioners to prohibit additional silent alarm box installation at Central Alarm until all existing service lines are full.

CNB Stockholders To Meet On March 15

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett National Bank will be held at the main bank building in Oakland on Thursday, March 15, at 10 a.m. Business will include the election of a board of directors for the ensuing year.

Weisberg Interview To Continue

The Republican's exclusive interview with Harold Weisberg, the leading authority on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy will be concluded in next week's edition. Part 1 of the feature article appeared in last week's edition.

FROZEN WHITE WATER provided a tough course for competitors in the kayak events during Winterfest Saturday. One group followed a collision course to end in a tangle of kayaks, arms and legs at the finish line. Saturday's balmy weather helped bring one of the largest crowds of participants and spectators ever to Wisp to enjoy events such as the inner tube race, woodsmen contests, ski contests, hayrides, and many other activities. Determined winter enthusiasts turned out again on Sunday in large numbers despite rain to conclude the Winterfest with snowshoe hill climb, the annual Yakapab costume parade, and various other sporting events. The Winterfest VI was co-sponsored by the Deep Creek Lions Club and Miller Brewing Company, with proceeds donated to help finance ski trips here for students from the Maryland School for the Blind.

Route 219 Bypass Defeated By Commissioners' Final Decision

Approximately 45 people gathered in the Grand Jury room of the Garrett County Courthouse Monday as the County Commissioners reached a two-to-one decision to oppose the proposed Route 219 Bypass. The decision constituted the majority required by a new state law which allows local officials to decide on matters concerning state highway construction.

In the State Highway Administration's active planning stages for six years, the proposed Bypass recently was attacked by mounting public opposition highlighted when the Oakland Mayor and Town Council withdrew its original support for the project and opposed the proposed alignment of the limited access highway.

The meeting was opened by Commissioner Truman Paugh who asked that the opponents and proponents each appoint a speaker to present summation arguments concerning the project. Those in attendance appointed Douglas R. Bailey as spokesman for the opposition, and Paul Beitzel as spokesman for the Bypass supporters.

Bailey pointed out that the key to the Commissioners' impending decision should be the will of the people. He cited the large number of letters to the Commissioners in opposition, and the relatively few letters of support, as an indication of public sentiment.

In reviewing his statistics, Bailey stated that at his last count, letters and petitions inclusive tallied 318 signatures in opposition to the project, and only 60 signatures in support. He also quoted Senator Mason's office as having received 100 letters in opposition and 26 in support. All told, he said, the opposition totalled five-to-one over the proponents.

Other arguments in opposition concerned the demise of the two farms which stand in the way of the Bypass route; devaluation of surrounding property; and insufficient traffic studies which have not shown a clear picture of the through traffic which the Bypass is to alleviate.

Speaking for the Bypass proponents, Paul Beitzel argued that the Commissioners should look at the facts involved. He felt that high regard should be given to the recent recommendation of the Garrett County Planning Commission to approve the project. Beitzel stated that the Planning Commission was composed of persons educated in that capacity and that their judgement should be trusted.

Beitzel also felt that the opposition had "stacked the deck with letters to the local newspaper." He stated that after reviewing the signatures on letters and petitions received by the Commissioners, that the opposition was composed of "32 people and their relatives."

In regard to the heavy opposition to the project expressed by the Oakland merchants, he stated, "I do think they've been mislead when they came out in opposition to the Bypass."

Following the arguments for and against the project, Commissioner H. Lester Hunter prefaced his decision to support the Bypass by citing long term benefits of economic and industrial growth for Garrett County. He felt that timing of traffic lights and re-routing traffic to other arteries would not alleviate traffic congestion now or in the future.

Hunter qualified his "yes" vote by recommending the State Highway Administration consider further engineering studies to prevent the destruction of "so much farmland." In addition, he recommended a bridge at High Street be considered on the present alignment.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg, Jr. began by saying, "the Commissioners have the dubious honor of evaluating the arguments for and against." He felt that there were some good issues brought up in support of the project, but he personally did not want to be put in the position of telling the public what is best for them. Therefore he was siding with the Commissioners' count of a two-to-one majority in opposition. He also stated that the recent decision of the

Editor's Note

It was reported in last week's edition of The Republican that Ronald Harvey, 28, of Backbone Mountain, was charged with first degree rape following a complaint by a Garrett County woman on February 24.

Information concerning the incident was obtained from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. It should be noted that the suspect is Ronald Gene Harvey, 28, of Swanton.

We regret any embarrassment the circumstances may have caused Ronald Wayne Harvey, 31, of Kitzmiller.

Grand Jury Returns Indictments For Livengood Murder Suspects

Two suspects in the shooting death of Garrett County Deputy David Livengood were in Oakland for hearings last Thursday and Friday, and are now waiting for their attorneys to enter pleas to the charges against them.

Richard D. Tichnell, 31, Kingmont, W. Va., and Roberto O. Recek, 30, Fairmont, W. Va., were given preliminary hearings Thursday afternoon in District Court before Judge Lewis R. Jones.

Judge Jones ruled that the court does have probable cause to continue holding the two, and bound them over for action by the Grand Jury in Circuit Court.

On Friday, the suspects were brought before a closed session of the Grand Jury, and the Jury returned seven indictments against Recek and eight against Tichnell. Indictments include murder, robbery, storehouse breaking and entering, larceny, and assault. The additional charge against Tichnell is for a breaking, entering and larceny at Davidson's Army-Navy Discount in Oakland January 14, four days prior to Deputy Livengood's death.

Tichnell is being represented by Morgantown Attorney Clark Frame, with Gary Hanna as local counsel. Recek's attorney is Stanley Needleman, Baltimore.

The attorneys are expected to enter an appearance for their clients and indicate their pleas during March. After an appearance is entered, a trial date will be set.

Testifying before the Grand Jury Friday was Tfc. Charles Hunant, investigator for the Maryland State Police. As this was a closed Grand Jury session, Associate Judge Fred A. Thayer did not preside.

The two suspects have been returned to jail, Recek to Allegany County Jail, and Tichnell to the Washington County detention center.

Deputy Livengood was shot and killed during an investigation into a breaking and entering at Davidson's Army-Navy January 18, and his K-9 companion "Sarge" was stabbed to death. The suspects allegedly left the scene in Livengood's police cruiser, which was later wrecked and abandoned at the intersection of Route 135 and Boiling Spring Road near Deer Park.

The two suspects reportedly then entered a home nearby occupied by the Clifford Friend family, and later fled in a Camaro belonging to Carl Friend. They were captured by West Virginia police on Route 1 in Preston County, and both later waived extradition to Maryland. Recek and Tichnell are being held in separate detention centers for security reasons.

Local Churches Announce Special Lenten Luncheons

Several Oakland area churches are sponsoring a series of luncheons and devotions based on the theme "Temptations of Jesus," to be held every Wednesday during the Lenten season. Beginning Wednesday, March 14, and continuing every Wednesday through April 11, the luncheons and devotions will be held on the second floor in the Parish House of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, corner of Second and Liberty Streets in Oakland, at 12:00 noon.

These noontime luncheons and devotions, to be 50 minutes in length, each have been planned as an alternative to the weekly Community Lenten Services that have been held in the past years, and are open to the public. Each Wednesday one of the area clergy will lead a short devotional and worship service focusing on one of the temptations of Jesus.

The churches sponsoring the series are the Bethel United Methodist Church, Oak Park Church of the Brethren, St. John's Episcopal Church, St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, and St. John's Lutheran Church.

Bolden Reports On Legislation

Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett/Allegany) announced that he has amended Garrett County into the provisions of a bill that would require hunters to obtain written permission from land owners before hunting deer on their land.

"The need for this bill," Bolden said "was brought to my attention during the last hunting season when land owners challenged hunters' rights to be on their land and they really didn't have authority except verbal authority from some distant member of the family and this bill, of course, would require written permission."

Other legislation introduced by Delegate Bolden was House Bill No. 1748 that provides for the Clerk of the Circuit Court to collect the surcharge of 10¢ on wholesale liquor purchases from holders of Special Class "D" Licenses every quarter. "The present Special Class "D" Licenses surcharge" Delegate Bolden stated "is collected annually at the time of renewal of licenses and this would insure that the county will receive its proper revenues and would ease the burden of the licensee by not having to pay a year's license fee at one time."

Health Agency Rules More Research Needed On Hospital Expansion Plan

A letter dated February 23, 1979, to Garrett County Memorial Hospital administrator Kenneth A. Richmond from the Maryland Health Planning and Development Agency stated that the agency had decided not to grant a Certificate of Need for the Garrett Memorial expansion program as proposed. The Agency agreed that a sufficient need does exist at Garrett Memorial for a building and/or renovation project, but felt that adequate planning had not taken place which would "most reasonably address this need." Thus, the agency did grant a Certificate of Need for the purpose of engaging in more detailed planning of the project.

Mr. Richmond stated that three specific concerns were raised by the agency — the cost of the project is too high, the extent of the county Health Department involvement in the project is unclear and that possible additional sources of funding have not been adequately explored.

The projected cost of the project is approximately $8 million and the Agency believes that the county is not capable of affording such a project and has asked that all available funding mechanisms be sought out "so that a reasonable amount of debt service can be proposed."

Mr. Richmond said he considers the decision a setback and not a decision of doom for the entire project. The period of re-evaluation is expected to be about six months.

Mr. Richmond stated that a meeting of all persons concerned, such as the hospital Board of Directors, the county commissioners, Health Department and hospital personnel and others, has already been planned to immediately begin addressing the three specific concerns raised by the agency.

Ann Leighton, Paul Ammann Are In Merit Scholarship Finals

Ann Leighton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Leighton of Oakland, and Paul Ammann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ammann of Deer Park, have advanced to finalist standing in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Both are seniors at Southern High School.

Out of the 14,000 finalists, 1,000 will receive a National Merit Scholarship for $1,000. Approximately 3,000 will receive Corporate or College Scholarships varying from $250 to $1500 per year, based on need.

Ann has been accepted at Oberlin College. She is presently attending Garrett Community College on released time. She is also taking an English course on Shakespeare from Allegany Community College. In addition to working at the Ruth Enlow Library, she is an active member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church where she has served as president of the Youth Fellowship, as a member of the Administrative Board, Pastor-Parish Relations Committee, Senior Choir, and Council Ministries. At Southern she is a member of the National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll, and The Society for Distinguished American High School Students.

Paul enjoys skiing and is also a member of Quill and Scroll and The National Honor Society.

THE AGELESS DEER HUNT — The Order of The Arrow Dancers, a scout honor group in the Potomac Council, presented six dances, which were ritual dances of the Delaware Indians, during the Annual Blue and Gold Dinner of the Boy Scout Pack 31 held at the Southern High School Cafetorium Saturday, March 3. The Ahtuhquog Deer Dance was the first dance presented and was also the dance for which the Order of Arrow Lodge was named. Members of the dance group are from various scout troops within the Potomac Council. (See story and pictures of scouts who received awards on page ten.)

WOODSMEN, CUT THOSE TREES — Local lumberjacks made short work of sawing wood during Saturday's varied contests at Winterfest at Wisp. Competition was keen as the warm and sunny weather attracted one of the largest crowds in the six-year history of the celebration. Johnny Unitas was a guest of honor for many of the events, and helped this year's queen, Becky Morris, present trophies to the winners of the competitions.

DOT Announces Student Summer Job Openings

College students may apply for summer jobs with the Maryland Department of Transportation between March 15 and April 16.

Maryland State Employment Service offices throughout the state will provide applications for approximately 150 openings in highway maintenance, construction inspection, office work and drafting.

To qualify, a student must be a Maryland resident who is returning to college in the fall. High school seniors who will be starting college and graduate students who will be continuing their studies next fall also are eligible.

Most of the job openings are in Baltimore, Baltimore County and Anne Arundel County, but there are some positions available in every county. Wages for most jobs will be $2.90 an hour.

Students may apply for a job in their own county or in neighboring counties, but preference will be given to county residents for each county's jobs.

Applicants will be notified of their job status early in May, and interviewing for the various positions will begin by the middle of May.

For more information, applicants may call their local Maryland State Employment Service office, listed under Department of Human Resources in the Maryland State Government section of the telephone book.

Grants Program For New Energy Ideas Announced

A program that provides grants to encourage ideas that would result in energy conservation or the use of nonconventional energy resources was announced last week by the State of Maryland and the U. S. Department of Energy.

Known as the "Appropriate Technology Program," it provides grants up to $50,000 for development of energy-saving or new energy-producing ideas.

Eligible applicants for the grants include individuals, local nonprofit organizations and institutions, state and local agencies, Indian tribes and small businesses. Anyone living in Maryland interested in obtaining detailed information can call toll free 800-424-5141, effective February 28. Grant applications are now available with submission deadline April 27, 1979.

"We are delighted to have the support of the State of Maryland in this important program since the states will play a major role by helping screen ideas submitted for their technical feasibility," said Bernard Snyder, Acting Regional Representative for the U. S. Department of Energy (DOE), Region III. Region III consists of Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

"This program provides the citizens of Maryland the opportunity to use their ingenuity in the energy field," Snyder said. "The limitations are only those of the imagination."

The Appropriate Technology Program is not geared to the scientist or engineer, but rather to the average person who may have an innovative idea on how to save energy, increase the efficient use of energy or utilize an energy source not currently being used. Scientists and engineers, however, are not discouraged from submitting ideas.

Examples of projects funded by DOE include a grant to build a model of a new windmill; a solar device used to dry fish by-products; a system for reducing use of air conditioning by using an inexpensive dual fan cooling system; methane gas production from farm wastes; and many others.

The Death and Dying course, also part of the Lenten School, will meet at the Stewart Funeral Home this Sunday at 7:00 p.m., the regular time for all the classes.

Houseful Of Items Disappear From Sky Valley Home

A houseful of items disappeared from a Sky Valley property earlier this year, according to a report filed with the Garrett County Sheriff's office this week.

Robert Vickers, Sky Valley, told investigating officers that between January 11 and February 26, someone had broken into his home through the front door.

Items removed included a shower stall, sink, Stihl saw, 25-inch black and white portable television, a stereo and speakers, albums, bedcovers, toaster, coffeemaker, three necklaces and a turquoise and silver ring. Total loss value was estimated at $1,245.

Larceny of a ski rack and three pairs of skis was reported February 24 by Carl Ramey, St. Michaels, Md. Mr. Ramey told police he had left his car in the Will o' the Wisp parking lot the preceding night. The ski rack had been removed with the aid of a hexagonal wrench. Total loss value was $610.

William Duling, Route 2, Oakland, reported that between 11 p.m. the 26th and 2 a.m. the 27th of February, someone had forced open his truck vent window, entered the truck and removed his Midland CB and a pair of binoculars. The truck was at Joe's Place when the larceny occurred.

The missing items were valued at $250.

A breaking and entering at the home of Christina Haynes, Mt. Lake Park, was reported February 26 by Bill Clary, caretaker for Mrs. Haynes. Nothing appeared to have been removed from the home. The property had been entered earlier this year and over $1,000 worth of antiques removed.

Charles Friend reported that on February 24, someone had removed items valued at $52 from the Deer Park auction without paying for them.

Dennis Sisler, Route 1, Friendsville, reported that between January 29 and March 2, someone had removed several firearms from his residence. Missing were a double barrel shotgun, single barrel shotgun, pump-action shotgun, and a .303 British Enfield rifle. Value of the missing guns was $325.

Jay Dixon, of Argyle Street, Loch Lynn, reported March 3 that his bicycle had been removed from his yard. The bike, valued at $50, was a red and black Huffy with yellow and black stripes on the fenders and a black seat.

Deputies were called twice in the past week to Davidson's Army-Navy Discount Store after the silent alarm sounded. The alarm went off during the night of February 28 and again on March 1, but deputies found no one in the building at either time.

School Board To Rule On Budget At March 8 Session

The Garrett County Board of Education will review the annual superintendent's budget request for the coming fiscal year during its meeting March 8 at 1 p.m. at the Board office in Oakland.

Curriculum matters, including senior lunch privileges, the girls' softball schedule and possible budget funding, and a discussion of functional reading will be among the first matters discussed.

Action on the negotiated agreement with the teachers will follow, preceding review and action on the superintendent's budget proposal.

At approximately 2:20, there will be action on the school calendar adjustment, due to days missed because of snow and ice.

The school building program is next on the agenda, with discussion of acquisition of the Accident site and the Grantsville and Dennett Road projects.

The Board Attorney Ralph Burnett will be present and will bring members up to date on the Southern Middle-Broad Ford suit against contractors, subcontractors, engineers, architects, an asphalt contractor and others for deteriorating annex road conditions at the schools. The suit was instigated after the Board had to pay to have corrective work done on the roadway when it was approximately one year old.

Bids on a food service vehicle will be considered, along with bids on instructional supplies for the coming school year.

At approximately 3:50 p.m., transportation guidelines will be discussed by members. At 4:15 there are personnel matters to be discussed, first in executive session and then in public session.

A report on the kindergarten program and findings concerning the length of the school day for kindergartners will follow the personnel matters.

HOW CAN YOUR ROOMS HAVE A FRIENDLY ATMOSPHERE?

What can you do when you're furnishing a room to help it have a friendly atmosphere? Here are a few ideas.

Make sure a room is not unintentionally drab. Add color here and there where needed to help make it more cheerful.

The seating pieces—sofa and chairs—should be arranged or grouped to invite easy conversation.

Ask yourself if your lamps furnish proper lighting aside from being decorative.

Shop for chairs that look inviting to sit in.

Make sure you have some coffee and other tables that don't look too frail and un-usable.

Make sure there are table tops or other surfaces which can be used by guests without fear of causing damage.

Give your rooms a sense of friendliness with the right choices of accessories. The proper use of pictures, flowers, collections, mirrors, etc., will help.

The Maryland State Police arrested a man and two juveniles last week, being fugitives from Pennsylvania.

The three were in an alleged robbery of the Lone Star Restaurant at Markleysburg, Pa., on February 22 at 10:20 p.m. The man is James Richard Artice, 22, of near Friendsville. The two juveniles are also from the same area.

Artice is named in the string-armed robbery (no weapon) and has been returned to Pennsylvania, following his arrest last Friday. The youths were arrested on February 27th and were released to the custody of their parents pending trial in Pennsylvania. Sgt. H. A. Graham is handling the case. Artice waived extradition before Judge Fred A. Thayer the day he was arrested.

NOTICE

TO WATER CUSTOMERS IN OAKLAND

The Town of Oakland has approximately 850 water customers. Some have experienced frozen water lines and others have let water run to prevent freezing. Some have shared with their waterless neighbors. Neither the Town nor the customers have been at fault in the situation. In fairness to both, where there is evidence that any of the above has occurred, the March quarter water bills will be adjusted as follows:

1. The least amount a customer will pay will be the minimum quarterly charge.
2. The maximum a customer will pay will be the highest amount paid in any quarter during the past year.
3. If the amount of water consumed is less than the last quarter the customer will be billed for that amount.

Letters to Editor

REMINDER — Unsigned letters to the editor will NOT be printed under any circumstances. Letters exceeding 300 words will also not be printed.

Dear Editor:

It is not only sickening but obnoxious to read letters and listen to the arguments about the Bypass. I strictly object to the Bypass for many reasons.

It will take more tax dollars for maintaining these extra roads, take too much business away from downtown Oakland, ruin more beautiful scenery, take homes and land from the people. And it will cause more air pollution as well as water contamination. It will cause a burden on the merchants downtown and require more transportation for people, especially the elderly, to get to new stores. With the talk of gas and oil shortages, I am sure these roads are not necessary.

Take Freeway 48 for example. It has torn apart and mutilated so many farms and homes, divided neighbors and friends, left many homes with contaminated water, eliminated pathways to the remainder of some of these farms, and increased noise.

We have lost entirely too many beneficial trees as well as land. The government has far more than its share already. Why give them more?

Sincerely,
Bertha Oester

Dear Editor,

As our winter season draws to a close, my husband and I would very much like to express our appreciation to whomever is responsible for plowing the snow covered roads in our part of Garrett County. We live on the Westernport County Road above Westernport in Garrett County. You read so much about the people who are always complaining that something isn't being done for them or their roads concerning snow removal that I thought that they might like to hear from a satisfied customer. They have really kept the roads plowed well and we never had to wait too long for them to get out here even though we are one of the far reaching sections.

To whoever you are, THANKS!!!

Sincerely,
Walter and Pat Wassell

Dear Sir,

This letter is to back the letter from "A parent" of last week concerning a movie theatre.

Garrett County, the second largest county in the state of Maryland, has but one theatre, and it is really only convenient for half of the county.

Being a high school junior, I like to go out on the weekend — but, where to go? There is nothing to do, especially since the main spectator sports are over. When I do go out, I usually have to go to Tri-Towns, or even to Cumberland. That ends up costing a decent sum of money in gasoline.

As for you, Mr. Editor, don't you think you could publish what movies are playing at some of the Cumberland theatres? If we are going to spend the money to go all the way down there, it's nice to know what movies are playing. Many Oakland teens and adults have been known to go often to Tri-Towns Theatre, Garrett Cinema, G. Ray Light Cinema, Center Theatre, and The Palace. Why couldn't you inform us of what's playing at other movie houses instead of just Alpine? I realize that there are probably money and advertising fees involved, but don't you think that people would rather buy The Republican instead of the Cumberland News? And wouldn't this change increase your circulation?

Kelley Beard

Ms. Beard,

I have taken the liberty of asking a member of the advertising department to respond to your concerns.

Editor

Dear Kelley,

Yes, I agree with you. It would be convenient for Republican readers to be able to read movie theatre ads in the paper each week. As you may remember, we have in the past carried quite extensive advertising for area theatres. We certainly welcomed the advertising revenues involved.

Unfortunately, several problems involving our publication schedule have made it difficult for some theatre owners to have current listings ready in time for our ad deadline. For our part, we have done our best to find ways around these problems.

Your reference to our circulation prompts me to explain that it is our large circulation, 9,800 copies every week, which make The Republican a very attractive medium for reaching the Garrett County market. Mr. Advertiser, are you listening?

Harry M. Fox

Dear Editor:

I would like to commend you on a recent editorial, "Deaf Ears," it told it like it was. After attending the Planning Commission meetings, I too was amazed at the implication that only those letters stating opposition to the Bypass were printed. It does make one wonder, what is the real reason behind favoring a Bypass, when the majority of views expressed verbally or by written letter were in opposition?

Now after yesterday's County Commissioner meeting, at which time the Bypass proposal was rejected by the 2-1 vote of the Commissioners, we can be thankful there were EARS THAT LISTENED. They listened to the majority of persons who deeply felt the need to express their opinions. The Board of County Commissioners displayed sound judgment, an even temperament, and should receive all our support in this important decision.

Lois G. Bittinger

Dear Editor:

A battle for the preservation of farmland was won on Monday when the final vote on the Bypass issue came in at three opposed and two for. A lot of public input went into this project and, to the credit of the public officials involved, the majority voted according to what the majority of Garrett Countians wanted.

Terry Helbig,
Oakland

Dear Sir:

On Friday February 9th at 10:00 p.m. on my way to the Wisp Ski Area to pick up my grandchildren I had a flat tire. Deep Creek Drive is a curvey, winding road with little space to park on the berm so I headed the car toward Deep Creek Lodge where I knew I could get assistance to bring my grandchildren home.

A friend offered to drive me to the Wisp, but stated he could not change the tire as he had angina. I replied that I wouldn't ask my worst enemy to change a tire on a night like this one. It was 2° below zero.

Two young men across the bar asked me if I had a spare tire, I replied "yes." Then they offered to change the tire which they did immediately.

Too many times all we read in the papers are stories of robbery and murder committed by young people.

I want to publicise the good deed of these two GCC students who are Randy Bright of Aberdeen, Md. and Kenny Zack of Monroeville, Pa. Please general public lets hear more of the kind and thoughtful deeds of our young folks.

Henrietta Garner

To the Editor:

We have been hearing so much about where to run the new road, around or through Oakland.

I believe I have an idea that would solve that problem. While everybody is trying to make up their minds, why not take the money and put us a road from Rt. 135 to Kitzmiller.

I don't get out much, but, for what I have seen, it is the worst piece of road in Garrett Co., "or Maryland." If something isn't done pretty soon we won't be able to get to Oakland over it to pay our taxes.

If you don't think it is bad whoever has charge of the planning, come over and pay us a visit, and you will see for yourself.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Edith Evans

Letter To the Editor:

I would like to thank the Garrett County Commissioners for listening attentively to the arguments presented to them by the opponents of the proposed Oakland Bypass. I feel the decision to abandon the project was reached as a result of the majority of the people being in opposition, and that the majorities viewpoints were acted on as they should have been by publicly elected officials. Also, I would like to thank Delegate DeCorsey Bolden.

Now that this project is abandoned, it is up to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, as well as the Merchants and Businessmen's Association to formulate some plan to alleviate the existing problems in the downtown Oakland area. Plans to alleviate these problems should not only be formulated, but acted upon at the earliest possibility. The downtown merchants owe their livelihoods to the shoppers of the area and should endeavor to serve their needs and interests through competitive pricing and wide selection.

I would urge persons who are in business in the Oakland area to attend the Merchants and Businessmen's Association meetings. The next scheduled meeting is Tuesday, March 13, at 12:00 noon. The meeting will be held at the dining room at the Fireside Inn.

Once again, thanks to all who lent their time and support.

Douglas R. Railey

Dear Editor:

As a person working in downtown Oakland, I would like to comment on the parking lot located on Liberty Street. I do not feel that the town council is being fair to the working people by putting a two hour limit on parking in that lot, nor are they being fair to the people coming in town to shop by charging them. Because of the time limit and charge, there are rarely many cars parked in that lot. Why should the people park there when they can park in front of a store for the same price, or the town parking lot for free? The town council doesn't feel that people working in town should have the use of the lot, but how many businesses provide parking for their employees? Not many! We have few choices in parking. The working force comprises a large portion of the merchants sales and restaurant business. During our lunch hour and after work we shop not only for ourselves, but at the request of others because "we'll be in town anyway."

The town council and merchants are against the proposed by-pass, afraid it will affect business, but what are they really doing to help promote people coming in to town? If the merchants have the attractions, customers will come in whether there is a by-pass or not.

So town council and merchants, why not help us, the people who work and provide sales for you by letting us park in the Liberty Street lot?

Signed,
You can bank on it

Bypass Defeated

Oakland Mayor and Town Council to oppose the Bypass weighed heavily in his decision.

Commissioner Truman Paugh cast the deciding vote in opposition. He stated that he had read each letter that had been submitted and spent the previous weekend making phone calls, talking with people, and reviewing the arguments of the downtown merchants and the farmers. On that basis he voted in opposition.

The deciding vote was greeted with applause by members of the opposition in attendance.

The proponents' spokesman, Paul Beitzel, commented that he was shocked by the Commissioners' decision.

Delegate DeCorsey Bolden stated yesterday, "I think it was a good, healthy time for our citizens, because it got us involved in a decision-making process. While some lost and some won, the issue has been set aside — and now we need to look forward to the betterment of our county."

Bolden explained that a letter will be drafted from his office to the State Highway Administration to the effect that the majority of local elected officials have deleted the need for a Bypass construction program. The letter will require the signatures of the Garrett County Commissioners, Delegate Bolden, and Senator Mason. Senator Mason came out in support of the project last week stating he believed a Bypass was in the best interest of Garrett County.

In effect the proposed Rt. 219 Bypass, as originally proposed, has been defeated. County Administrator, Marshall Rickert, stated that the final decision will be a "result of an administrative decision by the State Highway Administration which stated at the most recent annual highway update meeting, that if the majority of the Commissioners and Senator Mason felt the same as Delegate Bolden (who testified at that meeting), that they would voluntarily withdraw the project."

Reportedly several proponents of the project are planning an appeal of the decision and several factions may propose additional alternatives in the near future.

DIDN'T YOU FORGET SOMETHING? — The man on the right wears an unbelieving expression as a fellow skier takes to the slopes during Winterfest without ski pants—in fact, without pants at all. Saturday's sunny, spring-like weather prompted some people to shed their jackets, but there's always one in every crowd who has to be different.

Both winners gained berths in the semifinals of the Region XX Tournament conducted at Allegany Community College.

During the Allegheny/Garrett contest, CCAC trailed 64-58 with 3:12 remaining, following a Ken Niner basket from inside. They picked up and scored the last nine points of the contest.

Neil Rice converted a pair of free throws with 2:05 left to play as Niner fouled out.

After the CCAC Cougars raced to a 12-4 lead, the Lakers assumed a 34-30 halftime lead riding on the wave of an inside play by Niner and Ric Phillips and the outside shooting of Keith Hill.

Ed Major finished with 20 points for Cougars, while Neil Rice, a former Laker, contributed 16. Wally Ziminski and Walt Milinski added ten each for the CCAC team.

Niner, ten of 16 from the floor, led Garrett with 26 followed by Steve Liller and Ric Phillips with ten each.

Rams' Jayvees Take Tournament

The all-tournament selection and Most Valuable Player, Brian Selders, chalked up 21 points to lead the Southern jayvees to a 47-40 win over Petersburg to capture the Rams Invitational last night.

Also named to the all tourney team was John Koontz who led Petersburg with 22 markers.

In the consolation round, Bishop Walsh rolled over Tucker County 59-44 behind Dave Turnbull's 12 points. Pete Michael led the losers with 22 points.

Also on the all-tournament selection were Mark Powles of Southern, Jeff Gossard of the Vikings, and the Spartans' Turnbull.

Southern High Lists Season Tallies

The Southern Rams ended their current season with a convincing 97-57 romp over Musselman to bring their season tally to 9-13. The Rams got off to a disastrous start this season, dropping their first six games. However, five of those contests were decided by a total of eight points.

The Rams caught fire near the end of the season, winning five of the last six games.

Six seniors graduate from the 1978-79 Southern team. They are Brad Bittinger, Mike Green, Gene Estill, Todd Liller, Dave Kahl, and Warren Steger. All made valuable contributions to Ram basketball this season, and Coach Tom Woods stated that they will be "sorely missed."

Three returning starters, Jeff Ryscavage, Dave Hershman, and Doug Devlin, give the Rams a solid nucleus for the 79-80 campaign. Bart Sweitzer and several talented players from the jayvee and junior high team should round out next year's varsity team.

Southern totaled 1261 points during the season for a 57.3 average. Todd Liller gleaned 296 points to place him at number 10 on the All-Time Scoring list. Brad Bittinger grabbed 222 rebounds for a 10.1 average.

The Rams were especially proud of their team defense which held the opposition to under 50 points seven times this season.

In tournament play, the Rams placed second in the Third Annual Snowball Classic and captured the Garrett County trophy by defeating Northern 62-60 in the next to the last game of the season.

Additional records were set when Todd Liller made 74 out of 89 free throws during the season for an 83.1 percentage. This broke the old mark of 83% set by Tom Panther during the 1974-75 season. Todd is the son of Jack and Betty Jean Liller, Oakland.

Jeff Ryscavage made 99 out of 157 field goals for a 63% total. This broke Tom Panther's record of 59%, also set during the 74-75 campaign.

Jeff also scored 277 points for the season and broke a 21-year-old record set by Terry Colaw in 1958. He averaged 12.3 points and nine rebounds per game in his sophomore year. Jeff is the son of Jerry and Mary Ryscavage, Oakland.

ROUNDBALL ROYALTY — Denise Grimm was recently chosen by her classmates, the senior class of Southern High School, to reign as Southern's first Basketball Homecoming Queen. Other members of her court were Gale Bosley, Susan Mason, Jackie Tasker and Carol Corliss. Miss Grimm reigned over a dance which immediately followed the Northern-Southern basketball game February 23. Brad Bittinger, Gene Estill, Mike Green, Todd Liller and Warren Steger, all senior basketball players, served as escorts for the queen and her court.

Results Of Winterfest VI Listed

By the time Tom Thayer finished speaking to the 200 people assembled at the kick-off dinner at Village Inn at the Wisp, Thursday, March 1, the Winterfest VI weekend was well underway.

The weekend activities held at the Wisp Ski Area and sponsored by the Deep Creek Lion's Club, attracted spectators and high school competitors from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio and Florida. Some of the feature attractions included the presence of Johnny Unitas during Saturday and Sunday's events and of Ken Phillips, meteorologist for Channel 11 in Pittsburgh, at the kick-off dinner.

Guest speaker for the dinner was Tom Thayer, Oakland, Rev. Fred Illick, pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church in Accident, gave the invocation; Deep Creek Lion Del Carpenter served as master of ceremonies in the absence of Bill Robeson, Deep Creek Lion president who was delayed; and Ed Scofield, chairman of the Winterfest queen contest, introduced the Winterfest VI Queen Becky Morris, of Southern High School, and her court.

As part of the evening's programs, Nancy Geisler, a teacher for blind students, described the activities sponsored by the Deep Creek Lions for the Maryland School for the Blind. Representative for the school for the Blind, Fawn Seawell, gave a speech in sign language thanking the Lions with Betsy Francis, physical education for the blind, acting as the interpretor. The service the Lions have given to blind students by providing approximately 70 to learn to ski in the past few years was noted.

Bill Robeson presented a plaque to Tom Thayer and announced that because Thayer had declined to accept a fee for his services that money normally paid to the guest speaker would be contributed to the David Livengood Trust Fund in Thayer's name.

During the weekend activities, there were 60 entries representing 11 different high schools, junior high schools, and middle schools. These students were competing for team and individual trophies.

Southern High School retained the team trophy for the third consecutive year. Northern High School came in second. The middle school trophy, offered this year for the first time, was won by Northern Middle School.

Cumiskey Seeks Coal Surcharge Tax Increase

Legislation calling for another seven cents per ton coal surcharge has been introduced by Del. Thomas B. Cumiskey, Jr. (D-Allegany). The additional funds would go directly to the two coal mining counties.

Cumiskey said he believes there is little chance the bill will be enacted this year because of its late introduction, but he said the measure will at least "create dialogue" among the counties and coal operators regarding an increase in the surcharge.

If enacted, the measure could bring as much as $140,000 additional revenue to Garrett County, and the Allegany County share could increase as much as $80,000.

The present surcharge on coal is 15 cents per ton, of which the state keeps nine cents and the counties keep the remaining six cents. Cumiskey's legislation would raise the total to 22 cents per ton, with the counties getting all of the seven-cent per ton increase, or a total of 13 cents for every ton of coal mined in the counties.

Cumiskey commented, "This bill is being put in more for dialogue than anything. We legislators have to get an expression from the county commissioners as to their attitude towards this type of tax."

He went on to note that the counties' shares of the tax are primarily for road maintenance programs to offset damage done to coal-hauling roads.

Garrett County, which averages twice as much coal production as Allegany County, received $120,000 in surcharge revenue this year because about two million tons of coal were mined in Garrett.

Cumiskey said he believes a larger tax on coal could eliminate obstacles for the counties in abolishing inventory or personal property tax. "Such taxes are a hindrance to economic development and maybe this bill would permit the counties to eliminate the taxes," he feels.

He said it is doubtful whether his legislation will even receive a committee hearing in Annapolis this year because the bill was introduced last Friday, one week after the courtesy deadline for introducing legislation.

COAL OPERATORS REBUT TAX INCREASE

Coal industry spokesmen, on the other hand, say the seven-cent increase would create another severe blow to the coal business, already struggling with market problems.

"The market is the worst I have ever seen it," George Shropshire, executive vice president of Phillips Coal Company, said. On Friday, Phillips furloughed the last of 50 operators, drivers, mechanics and other workers at its Jackson Mountain site near Moscow.

Matthew Skidmore, president of the Maryland Coal Association, said many other mining sites, such as Winner Brothers, Moran's and Seneca, also have laid off employees.

He feels that "Instead of figuring ways for extra taxation for anyone or any industry, they (lawmakers) should figure ways to cut taxes."

George C. Edwards, public relations officer for Delta Coal Sales, Inc., Grantsville, said Monday his firm is attempting to obtain a copy of Cumiskey's bill so that the legislation can be analyzed. "Maybe we can come up with some alternatives" to the seven-cent coal tax hike, he said, noting that the coal market is in a slump and can ill afford a tax increase.

Edwards also rebutted Cumiskey's proposal that revenue increases from a tax hike could be used by the counties to offset coal haul road damages.

Edwards pointed out that Garrett County was able to phase out its inventory tax by absorbing the revenue loss and he said Allegany County may be able to do the same. "Why ask one particular industry to take a higher tax so that you can eliminate the inventory tax on all industries?" Edwards queried.

Skidmore said Western Maryland coal already is heavily laden with taxes. There is a 35-cent federal tax for reclamation work; 25-cent tax for black lung benefits, the present 15-cent state tax; and a five-cent sales tax for domestic coal purchases.

"That amounts to 80 cents in taxes for every ton of coal, if we pass everything on the to the consumer," Skidmore said.

Shropshire said that Phillips Coal is negotiating to sell its entire plant, equipment and leases and the firm has one million dollars in coal on the ground at its Shaft siding without a buyer. He said if the market recovers, the stockpiled coal can be sold and furloughed employees will be called back.

Shropshire said several factors are responsible for the big stockpiles of coal throughout the Appalachian area. Bad weather and some utilities' refusal to switch from crude oil to coal because of federal Environmental Protection Agency regulations are among the reasons for stockpiled coal.

Overall, 17,000 miners are out of work in the Appalachian coal fields. When coal does begin to move, Shropshire believes the market will be flooded with coal because everyone has huge stockpiles.

Shropshire feels this will be sure to drive the market prices down. A spot market evaluation shows prices for high sulfur steam coal — which is abundant in Western Maryland — to be selling for $18 to $23 per ton.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. My property has been designated as being located in a flood plain. Despite this, the assessment on it has risen recently which means that eventually my taxes will increase. How can this happen?

A. Assessors do not have the power to designate flood hazard areas. Flood plains are delineated through other authorities, such as, the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. But, assessors are responsible for knowing whether or not a property is located within a flood plain and for determining what effect its location in the flood plain has on its resale value.

Flood hazard boundary maps, issued by the Federal Insurance Administration of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, are provided to and used by the assessment offices.

If an area is designated as a flood plain, the assessors must consider the impact of this fact upon the attitudes of potential purchasers. They must also evaluate the extent of any physical damage to the property that may have occurred from actual flooding or other reasons related to its location in the flood plain.

Often, property owners will mistakenly look for factors or allowances on their assessment worksheet when their property is located in a flood plain. Although, in some cases, this information may be shown, there is no legal requirement to do so, so long as the effect on the market value has been considered in arriving at the final assessment figure.

If the samplings of sales of properties selected for analysis are situated in a flood plain and if comparisons are made to these same properties for value indicators, it is likely that the assessors will not show any factor or allowance on the property description cards. The measurable effect will actually appear in the sale price. If, however, a comparison of a property in a flood plain has been made to sales of properties that are not in a flood plain, a proper adjustment should be made for this. Sometimes this will be included in the overall depreciation allowance and sometimes by specific factors which will show on the worksheet.

The important thing for the owner of property in a flood plain to know is that the assessment reflects the accurate value of the property, including the fact of its flood plain location on this value. The property owner has the right to know that the estimate includes comparisons of values of other properties in the flood plain, or if this is impossible, comparisons to similar properties not actually in the flood plain with adjustments being made to compensate for the loss in value to the flood plain property.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to Assessment Answers — James Burley in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

Three Major Airlines Cancel Flights Due To Fuel Shortage

United Press International• United, Eastern and Delta airlines are canceling scores of passenger flights daily because of fuel shortages caused by the three-month cutoff of Iranian oil.

The timing is ironic considering the revolution-torn country just this week resumed oil shipments. Ashland Oil Co. is scheduled to pick up the United States' first load of the black gold today, paying premium prices of $18 to $20, according to Washington sources.

Chicago-based United Airlines, the nation's largest air carrier, has canceled 429 departures, a little over 3 percent of its 12,000 departures a week, for the rest of March.

On a much smaller scale Tuesday, Eastern Airlines in Miami suspended 31 of its 1,600 daily flight "legs" and Delta Air Lines in Atlanta canceled 18 flights out of Chicago's O'Hare Airport.

All three laid the blame on the shortage resulting from the 10-week shutdown of Iranian oilfields. The flights hardest hit apparently will be those on the weekends and those flying in and out of Chicago and Eastern cities.

Both United and Delta pointed out entire flights were not being canceled, only lightly traveled flight "legs" or heavily traveled ones where other planes could pick up the load.

For instance, United's Flight 111 from Detroit to California, which usually originates in Chicago, dropped its Chicago-Detroit leg Tuesday.

"There's a lot of Chicago-Detroit flights per day and so if we drop one at noon, the passengers can pick up another one in the late morning or early afternoon," United spokesman Mark Michaelson explained.

While the airlines were notifying passengers in advance of flight cancellations, it was enough to cause a few scary moments for vacation travelers and businessmen.

"I can tell you I really sweated it," said New Yorker Peter Antoine, who plans a United flight to California with his wife Thursday.

"My whole vacation was planned and then two days beforehand, they tell me my flight is canceled. I had hotel reservations and everything set up. I would have walked to Los Angeles."

TWA canceled 23 flights earlier this week, but Braniff, American, National and Ozark said they were contemplating no cancellations. Allegheny has been notified it can expect a fuel shortfall, but has not determined if it will cancel any flights.

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger had more bad news Tuesday for those who plan to drive instead of fly this summer.

In Washington, he told a House subcommittee American motorists face the possibility of spot shortages of gasoline for the next two summers because of the Iranian shortfall.

He said oil companies would have to begin rebuilding inventories for the winter during the summer and even then, the United States may have to dip into its strategic petroleum reserve for the first time to bolster winter supplies.

In Houston, Exxon USA became the latest major oil company to announce allocations of its gasoline to dealers, restricting gas deliveries to 100 percent of the March 1978 rate.

Midwest Prepares For Spring Floods Predicted To Be Worst In Decades

United Press International

The record snowpack of winter and the approaching spring is prompting officials throughout the upper Midwest to prepare for flooding, potentially the worst in decades.

An extended forecast by the National Weather Service calls for below normal temperatures and little moisture in the region for the next 10 days, which will help stem the threat of serious flooding.

"The worst thing that could happen would be thunderstorms," said Harry Gordon of the NWS Kansas City office. "The extra rain not only would provide runoff but also would melt the snow and ice faster. But there's little likelihood of that through the 16th.

"We look for highs near 40s and lows near 20. The daytime thawing and nighttime refreezing would help the situation."

With spring's official debut only two weeks away, the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency Tuesday began distributing more than 1 million sandbags to threatened areas of the state.

Gov. James R. Thompson set up a nine-member state panel to coordinate flood-fighting efforts, established a toll-free telephone system for residents to call for flood predictions and alerted the public to information on insuring homes against flood damage.

Flooding caused by rain and melting snow forced hundreds of Illinois residents to evacuate their homes during the weekend.

Flooded basements and power and telephone outages were reported in many areas. Some roads in the Chicago area were closed early Tuesday due to flooding and more than a foot of water covered some viaducts in the western Chicago suburbs.

Along the Rock River in northeastern Illinois, officials predicted possibly the worst flooding in the state's history.

"On the Rock River, we're talking about floods of up to 5 feet higher than we've ever had before," said an Army Corps of Engineers spokesman.

The Ohio River stage Tuesday at Cairo at the extreme tip of Southern Illinois was 51.7 feet, up 1.5 feet from Monday, with a crest of 54 feet predicted by Friday. Flood stage at Cairo is 40 feet.

A dike along the Kankakee River near the northwest Indiana town of Shelby broke again late Tuesday, causing additional flooding. Up to 300 residents faced possible evacuation.

In Nebraska, National Guard officials ordered stepped-up aerial surveillance of the Platte River and its tributaries to look for ice jams that could cause a repeat of last year's flooding. Gov. Charles Thone declared a state of emergency for Nebraska's river systems, which authorizes the guard to take steps necessary to stem potential flooding.

Flooding also forced more than 300 families from their homes in upstate New York and property damage estimates rose into the millions of dollars. Dozens of roads, businesses and schools were closed throughout the state Tuesday.

About $1 million damage had been reported in Macedon, about 20 miles east of Rochester.

Engineers dynamited about 800 feet of ice in the Buffalo Creek downstream of the Buffalo River, increasing the flow of floodwaters in the Buffalo suburb of West Seneca.

Surgery On Siamese Twins Joined At Head To Be Performed Today

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Siamese twins Elisa and Lisa Hansen returned to the University of Utah Medical Center Tuesday to undergo another step in the surgical process to separate them at the head.

Medical center spokesman John Dwan said that today doctors will "tie off shared blood vessels" in the girls' heads. Dwan said the operation "is part of the continuing procedure aimed at possible surgical separation of the conjoined twins."

If the ultimate operation is successful, it would be the first separation of Siamese twins joined at the head.

The twins are the daughters of David and Patricia Hansen of Ogden, Utah. They were born in October 1977 at Ogden's McKay-Dee Hospital.

The 17-month-old Hansen twins underwent a similar tying-off operation Jan. 12 at the medical center. That operation lasted nine hours and the girls were hospitalized for 13 days to recover from surgery and for additional tests.

Earlier tests showed the girls have separate brains but shared some circulatory functions. The doctors are attempting to separate those arteries and vessels before undertaking the operation to disconnect the tissue joining their heads.

GENTLE GIANTS — Horse enthusiasts at Winterfest were drawn to a hard-working team pulling a wagon for owner Fredlock Schenk, of Western Trails. Hayrides, ski events, inner tube races, kayak races, and woodsmen contests Saturday drew many to Wisp ski area to enjoy the balmy temperatures, but on Sunday cold winds blew rain over the scheduled events to dampen the ground, if not the enthusiasm. Events were held almost as scheduled Sunday despite the rain, and those who braved the elements seemed to be having as much fun as those who turned out the preceding day.

United Steelworker Officials Urge Extension of Steel Import Restraints

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the United Steelworkers Union Tuesday warned the U.S. International Trade Commission that thousands of steelworkers could be out of work if President Carter fails to extend trade restraints on stainless and tool steel imports.

USW president Lloyd McBride and Richard P. Simmons, president of Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp. and head of an industry advisory committee, appeared before the panel on a joint industry-union petition for an extension of the import restraints that have been in effect since 1976. The restraints expire in June.

Simmons said chaos will occur for the domestic specialty steel industry and its 65,000 workers if the law is not extended.

"Thousands of tons in new capacity have been constructed abroad, almost all of which was built with the direct assistance of foreign governments," McBride said in a statement.

He said in addition to Japan and Europe, large new capabilities in specialty steel production have been developed in Korea, Taiwan, Spain, Brazil, Finland, and other countries.

McBride supported the testimony of Simmons and others, saying foreign steelmakers "stand poised to decimate our markets, sweeping away the gains we have made in the past three years and with them thousands of steelworker jobs."

He said an unemployment rate of up to 40 percent prevailed in some specialty steel industry communities before the current law, but said "the future is clouded by the threat of quota removal."

"The massive layoffs of the early 1970s are gone," McBride said. "Although we are still not operating at full capacity, we have enjoyed modest gains in employment."

Simmons said in stainless steel alone, foreign capacity has grown almost 1 million net tons between 1975 and 1977, a 20 percent increase.

Also supporting an extension was Jacob Clayman, president of the Industrial Union Department of the AFL-CIO, who stressed that "dire predictions of price gouging by U.S. companies just did not materialize" under the current restraints.

"In fact, in these times of escalating inflation, the specialty steel industry has acted with admirable restraint and responsibility in the market place," Clayman said.

Pilots Ordered To Remove Explosive Batteries From Planes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration said today it has ordered pilots to remove all lithium sulfur dioxide batteries from their planes because the batteries, used mainly to power emergency raido transmitters, may explode or cause other hazards.

The FAA said a rash of explosions, fires and lesser problems during the past six months — apparently caused by aging of the batteries — prompted it to send a mandatory "airworthiness directive" requiring the removal to all owners of U.S.-registered aircraft.

The automatic emergency transmitters, designed to lead searchers to a plane after a crash, have been required by act of Congress in all U.S. private, commercial and commuter planes since 1974. The law was passed after House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs disappeared in a 1972 crash in Alaska and his plane was never found.

Scheduled airliners are not required to carry the locators, but many do.

About two-thirds of such transmitters use alkaline or magnesium batteries that pose no problem, the FAA spokesman said. The FAA's order listed model numbers for six brands of transmitters containing lithium sulfur dioxide batteries, he said, and a seventh brand will be identified in a supplementary directive.

Pilots were given 30 days from March 28 to remove the batteries, but were advised to act "as soon as possible." The spokesman said batteries should be buried after they are removed.

WV Senate Reviews Diesel Machine Use In Underground Mines

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The Senate today was to consider for the second time a controversial bill allowing the use of diesel machinery in the state's underground coal mines.

The measure — which narrowly survived a move to kill it Saturday, then passed after heavy debate — was recalled from the House Tuesday by a vote of 18-16 on a motion by Sen. Odell Huffman, D-Mercer.

The Senate was also scheduled to vote on bills making it a felony to use minors in preparing obscene material, and outlining penalties for assaulting teachers or other school personnel.

Explosion In Texas Chemical Plant Forces Evacuation Of Town

CRYSTAL CITY, Texas (UPI) — An explosion in a chemical plant near the downtown area today triggered a fire which has forced evacuation of the city.

The police dispatcher in Crystal City said the explosion occurred at the Riverside Chemical Co., and the fire had spread through chemicals stored in a warehouse, releasing toxic fumes into the downtown area.

A spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety in San Antonio said law enforcement officials from surrounding counties and DPS officers from the region headquarters in San Antonio were heading for the city.

Crystal City has a population of 10,000, and is located near the Mexican border southwest of San Antonio.

"We have heard there is a chemical fire, but that's all we know right now," the DPS in San Antonio said.

Police radio dispatches monitored in San Antonio said the town was being evacuated.

Village Requires Visitors Permit Of Federal Agents

NEW ATHENS, Ohio (UPI) — This Harrison County village in the heart of Ohio's coal country has just about had it with federal agencies.

The village council Monday night, aware of the hassle over burning Ohio's high-sulfur coal, passed an ordinance "to prevent any state or federal agency such as the Environmental Protection Agency from meddling in the affairs of the village."

Passed as an emergency measure for the "safety of the citizens" of the village of 450, the ordinance requires such agencies to contact the mayor for a permit and to inform him why they are in the village.

Newspaper Coupons Pay Off In Savings For Family In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Mary Rarey of Columbus said her family always has clipped coupons from newspapers to save on their food bills and the savings have paid off.

And she intends to use a coupon clipped from a 1956 newspaper she recently found stuck in an old magazine.

That coupon entitled the bearer to five White Castle hamburgers for 25 cents. The fast-food chain's hamburgers 23 years ago sold for 12 cents. Now they sell for 22 cents each.

White Castle officials said they will honor Mrs. Rarey's coupon, even though it long since has expired.

Massachusetts Senate Votes 'Yes' For D.C. Representation In Congress

BOSTON (UPI) — The Massachusetts Senate has ratified the constitutional amendment to provide representation in the U.S. House and Senate for the District of Columbia.

Approval came Tuesday on a vote of 24-13 after a 1¼ hour debate which included sharp attacks on the federal bureaucracy in Washington and references to the high concentration of black residents in the nation's capital.

The measure now goes to the House.

Three states have ratified the amendment. The Maryland Legislature is due to vote on the proposal Thursday.

Sen. Alan D. Sisitsky, D-Springfield, the Senate chairman of the Legislature's Joint Committee on the Judiciary and floor manager of the proposal, said some people are against the measure for "good" reasons, but others are concerned about "the composition of the District of Columbia's population."

Sisitsky's reference to the high concentration of blacks in the nation's capital brought sharp retorts from some of his colleagues.

"I just don't like the innuendo," said Sen. Joseph B. Walsh, D-Boston. "The issue is not black, white, green or pink."

Walsh said he was against the District having two U.S. senators for the same reason he objects to small states like Vermont having the same number of senators in Washington as Massachusetts and California.

"If Vermont has two senators," Walsh said, "then California should have 22."

Sen. William Owens, D-Boston, the state's only black senator, said "one of the things most people in Washington talk about is that they feel they have been disenfranchised." While much of the opposition to the amendment came from some Boston Democrats, where busing to eliminate segregation has been an issue, a few Republicans used Washington as a symbol of big government and a "bloated bureaucracy."

Senate Minority Leader John F. Parker, R-Taunton, said Washington provides "no wealth," "no indusry," and "lives off the taxes of other people." He also said the state has the lowest per capita voting record in the nation.

Supporters of the proposed amendment, however, said seven states have fewer residents than Washington's more than 700,000 and 11 states pay less in taxes than the nation's capital.

An effort to table action on the proposal was defeated, 25-14, before the ratification vote itself was taken.

"Purely and simply," said Sen. David Locke, R-Wellesley, a conservative, "it's a question of what's fair to the American people. I cannot imagine why we should deny this (the right of representation) to the residents of Washington, D.C.

"If this means two more liberal senators in the Senate, so what? Liberals are on the run because the people in this country are having a period of lucidity."

Pet Cemetery Asks To Bury Owner With Pet

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — The Bubbling Well pet cemetery has asked for county permission to bury the cremated remains of pet owners next to their animals.

J. Calvin Harberts, cemetery president, said Tuesday more and more owners are expressing a desire to be buried with their pets.

"It's a phenomenon we weren't prepared for," Harberts said in explaining why he asked the county Planning Commission for a use permit. "For the people we're talking about, their dogs and cats are generally their families.

"They have no children. Once in a while we find people with children, but the children have let them down. The dogs and cats haven't."

He said Bubbling Well has received a dozen applications from persons wanting to be buried next to their pets on a hillside overlooking the picturesque Napa Valley.

The Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing before deciding on whether to grant Bubbling Well the permit to bury the remains of humans at its cemetery.

Carter To Try Again For Peace In Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter is being briefed by his advisers today, to prepare for his last-ditch attempt to persuade Egypt and Israel to iron out their peace negotiations. Both Egypt and Israel mobilized tens of thousands of security guards, and planned public sessions of their parliaments for the Carter, who leaves Andrews Air Force Base tonight at 6:30 p.m. and arrives in Cairo Thursday afternoon.

The mood in Egypt was strictly up-beat. Carter will be welcomed not only by President Anwar Sadat, but by a giant dummy pigeon with an olive branch in its beak, mounted on a flower-bedecked wagon. Sadat called the trip "a very daring and courageous decision."

Ronald Reagan Announces Bid For Presidency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ignoring rivals who say he is too old at 68, Ronald Reagan today was launching his third bid for the presidency as a strong frontrunner in a field of Republican newcomers.

A group of supporters of the conservative former governor of California planned to announce formation of an exploratory committee for Reagan's presidential campaign.

Reagan has nothing, really, to explore, and has assured supporters he is in the race.

He is using the committee as a legal maneuver short of a declared candidacy. It allows him to organize a campaign and raise and spend money while continuing the radio broadcasts and newspaper columns that are his main source of income.

Once Reagan becomes an official declared candidate, his political competitors could demand equal time and space in these public forums.

Laxalt managed Reagan's 1976 campaign that fell just short of besting Gerald Ford for the nomination. He is expected to disclose that an impressive team of Republican professionals has been assembled to run the 1980 campaign.

The Reagan team will include John Sears, conservative political whiz who masterminded Reagan's 1976 drive; Lyn Nofziger, executive director of Reagan's Citizens for the Republic, and Charles Black, political director of the Republican National Committee.

Poll after poll has shown Reagan the clear favorite of Republicans for the nomination — except when matched with Ford, who has said he will not run in the 1980 primaries.

But rivals have been eating away at Reagan's conservative base, particularly in key states like Iowa and New Hampshire, which hold the first delegate-selecting caucus and primary respectively.

Reagan's supporters say he will use much the same "Sun Belt" strategy he employed in 1976 when he came within 100 delegates of wresting the nomination from Ford.

Charges Dropped In Alleged Bribery Case

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Bribery charges have been dropped against George Clark, a former Anne Arundel County official who was indicted following federal and county investigations of a housing program last year.

Assistant State's Attorney Scott G. Patterson said Tuesday the charges against Clark were dropped "because we couldn't prove it."

Two contractors claimed they performed $400 worth of work on Clark's house in exchange for two county contracts worth $14,976. But Patterson said the contractor claims "could not be corroborated through any other witness or tangible evidence."

Clark's job was to assess the homes of low-income persons who had received grants under the federal Community Development Block Grant program. He evaluated the work that needed to be done and arranged for a contractor to do it.

Federal and county prosecutors began investigating the program after contractors told them about making kickbacks to officials. Clark was the only one indicted following the month-long investigation.

U. S. Cigarettes Soon To Be Sold In China's Stores

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — American-made Viceroy, Kool and Kent cigarettes soon will be sold in China.

Plans to sell the cigarettes to China were announced Tuesday by Roy E. Barrell, vice president of the Louisville-based international division of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.

B&W's parent company, B.A.T. Industries, has reached agreement to sell English and German cigarettes in China, according to Barrell.

Barrell declined to specify how many cigarettes will be sold to China under the initial agreement, but called the order "significant."

CONVERSATIONS ON CARPETING

Brought to you by
Carolyn & Butch Helbig
who say "A floor without a rug is like a kiss without a hug."

CLEANING YOUR CARPET (II)

Last time, we talked about the "wet" method of cleaning your carpet, so today, let's discuss the "dry" method. This uses an absorbent powder saturated with a solvent, detergent, or other material.

There are many powder-type cleaners on the market, and it's best to follow the manufacturer's directions carefully. Usually, these tell you to vacuum the carpet, brush it in, then vacuum again after a certain amount of time.

The "dry" method will not clean your carpet as well as will the "wet" method. It is, however, much more convenient to use since it requires less drying time. It also causes less texture distortion and better removal of greasy soil.

A discussion of home cleaning wouldn't be complete if we didn't mention a third, relatively new way to clean your carpeting—the foam spray method. First, spray a thin layer of foam, sponge it in, then vacuum when dry. There are a number of foam sprays on the market.

Proper care will insure a longer life for your carpet. Careful selection of your carpet will insure that you're getting exactly what you want. A tree silhouetted against the sky . . . clouds drifting through the air — common sights. But this tree highlighted by these clouds is dramatic.

Often it's the combination, the merging of people or things that attracts our attention and excites our imagination.

In our community there are places of worship — churches. Viewed simply as empty buildings, they can seem ordinary. And people in a crowd can often lose their individuality.

But bring together scores of people, united in a common faith, to worship God, and suddenly there's a merging of the human and the Divine that rises above the commonplace.

God and man united in purpose — this is the world's best hope!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

OF PAIN AND LOVE

Lesson for March 4, 1979

Background Scripture:
1 Corinthians 1:1-9;
2 Corinthians 1:21 through 2:4, 13.
Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 1:4-9

Paul had every right to be upset with those ingrates at Corinth! He had spent eighteen months laboring in their midst without pay — longer than he had stayed in most areas — so that they might know the good news of Jesus Christ. He had written one of his finest letters to them — the letter we know as 1 Corinthians — to strike at some troubling problems that had come to his attention from Corinth. And instead of responding favorably to his efforts in their behalf, many of them had become resistent to his authority as an apostle. Some even dared him to return to Corinth.

Rev. Althouse

A Severe Letter

What would you have done if you had been Paul? Many of us, I suspect, would have washed our hands of these people. "Who needs it?" we'd say in disgust and despair. Why not devote ourselves to those who love and understand us, to those who accept our authority and are receptive to our efforts? Why bother with a bunch of quarrelsome ingrates?

Paul could have crossed the Corinthians off his list, but he didn't. Instead, he took a risk and wrote a severe letter in which he poured out his love and sorrow for them. (We do not have this letter today, but Paul speaks of it in 2 Corinthians 2:4) Undergirding this letter with fervent prayers, he sent it to them and waited for the results. How would they react to it, he must have wondered? The chances were that he was leaving himself open to even more pain and humiliation. (Paul, Paul! Why stick your neck out like that? They're not worth it, are they?)

But the news that came back from Corinth via Titus, his associate, was even better than he might have expected. Somehow, whether because of his letter or his prayers or both, a change had taken place in the Corinthian church and Paul was overjoyed at this news. His heart overflowing in joy, he writes a third letter — the one we know as 2 Corinthians — and it is apparent to us that here we see reflected the fiber of true Christian love; the love that is able to endure both pain and humiliation for the sake of the joy that is always possible when love perseveres.

Abundant Love

When we think of the early Christian church we are likely to assume a state of perfection and bliss that never really existed. We tend to forget that those early congregations were not all that unlike those we see about us today: likely to encounter both the heights and depths of human personality.

Paul's relationships with the Corinthians are a dramatic reminder to all of us that the power of Christian love is meant to be experienced, not with cardboard saints, but real people. As Paul discovered, we must hang in there and persevere through the pain of love if we are ever to know its joys.

ONE MANS MEDICINE ANOTHER MANS POISON

March is poison prevention month and we would like to point out the dangers of a less familiar type of poisoning accident. That is taking someone else's prescription medicine because the symptoms of an illness appear to be the same as yours.

Only your physician can properly diagnose your medical problem and prescribe the specific drug to help overcome that problem. Rely on him, for todays medicines are very potent and it would be a risk to use a drug that may not be the right one for your illness. Don't take a chance — don't take any one else's medicine.

Planning Meeting For Grantsville Event Scheduled

Grantsville area civic groups and other interested persons are invited to St. John's United Church of Christ Sunday School room in Grantsville on Wednesday, March 21, at 8 p.m. to begin planning for the second annual Grantsville Days celebration.

Last year's Grantsville Days was a "tremendous success" with attendance of over 1,000 persons, according to Gerry Beachy, chairman of the Grantsville Business Association which coordinates the event. A little league baseball game, the Belles and Beaux square dancers from Cumberland, a basketball free throw contest, horseshoe pitching contest, children's games, and an adult softball contest were all part of the activities.

Highlighting the entire day was the first Grantsville Lions chicken barbeque. There were also many other food items sold as fund raisers by local organizations.

This year's event promises to be larger with more events already being planned, according to Mr. Beachy. Plans are being formulated for a parade in the morning ending at the Grantsville Park.

Any organization or person wishing to participate in Grantsville Days should attend this meeting on March 21. Persons who cannot attend this meeting should contact Gerry Beachy at Deist Pharmacy, 895-5177 or 895-5387.

Worried About How You'll Look With a Hearing Aid?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 8423, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Deer Park VFD Called To Gasoline Leak Wednesday

Deer Park firefighters proved their worth to surrounding communities when they dispelled a potentially explosive problem in Swanton last Wednesday.

The company received a call shortly after 5 p.m. reporting that gasoline vapors were seeping into a crawl space and basement of the Stewart Grocery, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Allan Stewart.

Fourteen firemen and three pieces of equipment responded. Several other firefighters stood by at their station, along with men from Oakland who had been called to stand by.

Firemen found that gasoline was leaking from lines between the gasoline storage tank next to the house, and the gasoline pumps. Some of the leakage was draining into a crawl space under an addition to the building. Gas vapors were also strong in the basement of the structure, formerly the company store.

After the source was discovered, the firemen washed down the area with water, and continued surveillance until approximately 7:30. Members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad also responded and provided an explosimeter to help determine when safe vapor levels had been reached.

MVA Says Tag Renewal Lagging

Having processed about 21,000 less tag renewal applications than at this time last year, the Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration reminded motorists again today that the deadline for displaying 1979 renewal stickers on all passenger vehicles and motorcycle tags is midnight, March 31.

"This year March 31 falls on a Saturday," noted William T. S. Bricker, MVA Acting Administrator, "but that fact in no way affects the deadline for displaying 1979 renewal stickers. In other words, the last day that Marylanders will be able to obtain stickers in person — if for some reason they fail to do so by mail — is Friday, March 30; the deadline for displaying the stickers remains midnight, Saturday, March 31.

"Motorists renewing their vehicle registration by mail," Bricker continued, "should do so no later than March 20 to allow time for the processing and delivery of the renewal stickers.

"As of March 1, motorists who have already secured their stickers may put them on their license plates. The stickers are pressure-sensitive and should not be moistened."

Vehicle owners who have not yet received their tag renewal applications should contact the MVA immediately, giving their tag number, the vehicle title and vehicle identification number (serial number), full name, and present address. This information is necessary to enable the computer-printer to print correct applications. For further information, motorists should contact the MVA branch office in their vicinity or they may call the Glen Burnie tag renewal information number — 768-1800.

Renewal stickers may also be obtained from County Treasurer's offices in Anne Arundel, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, Queen Anne's, Somerset, St. Mary's, Talbot and Worcester County.

MVA headquarters in Glen Burnie and all branch offices are open 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. weekdays. Motorists are reminded, however, that most state offices, including the MVA, will be closed in observance of Maryland Day, March 26.

Chilly, Snowy Days Are Noted In February

February was on the chilly and slightly on the wet side. The latter accounts also for the surplus of snow for the month.

A trace or more precipitation occurred on 17 days. On 13 days it fell as snow. Precipitation totaled 4.01 inches or .55 inch above normal. The wettest days were the 12th and 24th with a half inch each. The snowfall amounted to 42 inches or 8.3 inches above normal. The heaviest fall was 10 inches on the 27th. Snow is a form of precipitation and when melted down is counted in that total also. Snowfall for February was double that of the same month last year.

Temperatures average 9.1 degrees below normal for the month. This is slightly milder than last year's 13.5 below normal.

Highs averaged 30.6 degrees or 9.8 below normal. The highest was 52 degrees on the 22nd. The coldest daytime temperature was the 18th with only an 8-degree reading. It remained in the teens three days. Temperatures remained at freezing or below on 18 days in all.

Lows averaged 7.8 degrees or 10.4 below normal. The month's low was a minus 19 degrees on the 11th. It was a minus 17 degrees on the 20th. Several days registered single digit readings. The mercury dropped to freezing or below on all except three days, these being the latter part of the month.

Snowfall for the 1978-79 season is now 90 inches. This compares with 109 inches last year at this time.

Getting "Cadillac" Calves From A Limousin

Embryo Transplants — The New Breeding Procedure

By Jim Willis

Bill and Ron Slagle, owners of Windy Acres Limousin Ranch near Bruceton Mills, W. Va., hosted a scene straight from George Orwells "1984" last Friday, when several bovine embryo transplants were performed for the first time in this area on cows owned by the Slagles and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Miller of the D&W Farm.

The process was observed by area farmers, 4-H extension agents, FFA members, and students. Many will return in December to observe the fruits of the experiment, highly prized Limousin calves.

Advance preparations for the new non-surgical procedure were coordinated by Dr. Keith Inskepe of West Virginia University. Dr. Lloyd Banbury, Ontario, Canada, an embryo specialist for BHL Embryo Transplants, performed the transfers with the assistance of Sue Hutchins, clinic manager.

The prize-winning Limousin cattle at Windy Acres are valued for their high percentage of red meat which contains less fat and less waste. The two donor cows used Friday were originally imported from France and were purchased by Windy Acres in Canada about three years ago.

The donor cows were impregnated through artificial insemination by a top bull, Adam Sooner 6F, one of the most popular Limousin sires in North America.

The process used Friday increases the number of offspring per unit time from valuable cows. The non-surgical technique has been used successfully by Dr. Banbury for a number of years and was developed by Dr. Peter Elsden, a native of Australia and a staff member of Colorado State University at Fort Collins, Colorado.

The non-surgical procedure is said to be as efficient as the surgical method and does not damage the reproductive tract of the donor cow. Both superovulated cows (treated with drugs which cause several eggs to shed at one heat) and normally cycling cows (ovulating one or occasionally two eggs) can be collected by this method.

The technique for non-surgically recovering embryos consists of using a flexible Foley Catheter which has an inflatable balloon on one end. The catheter is inserted through the cervix, past the palpable division of the uterine horns into the horn adjacent to the ovary — as this is the side where the egg will be found in the case of single-egg collections. In superovulated cows, both horns are flushed.

Once the catheter has been inserted properly, the balloon is inflated, blocking the flow of fluid out of the cervical end of the horn, so that it has to return through the catheter. While the horn is blocked at the other end, by manually holding off the end of the horn closest to the ovary, the horn is flushed several times with a medium known as Dulbecco's phosphate buffered saline which provides a suitable environment for the fertilized eggs.

The fluid is collected in a flask, and the eggs are located under a microscope and may then be set in an incubator to await transfer.

With the non-surgical procedure there is no chance of adhesions or scar tissue formation and anesthesia is not necessary. In the case of single-egg collections, heifers can be collected for several cycles prior to the time they are considered of age to carry their own pregnancies. Eggs can also be collected from post-partum cows before the onset of the regular breeding season.

With the current non-surgical recovery method, on-the-farm collections are now becoming commonplace. This offers many advantages to the breeder, as it allows for a more flexible schedule, without affecting general, daily routine management. Plus, it eliminates the cost of transporting donors over long distances to an embryo transfer facility. There is also less handling of, and stress on cows.

In the non-surgical procedure, eggs are now being recovered on day 14 after estrus, instead of day six or seven. These eggs show a tremendous variation in size and length, ranging from 1/25-inch to four inches. It has been shown that the pregnancy rate increases when older embryos are transferred non-surgically, possibly because they are hardier, and possibly because the positioning of these eggs may not be as critical, thus making the transfer technique easier.

Sexing of embryos is currently being done at Colorado State University with the 14-day-old embryos. At this stage the embryos are long and one end of the embryo is cut off and allowed to develop in a special media for two to four hours. The cultured cells are stained and the chromosomes are examined to determine the sex of the embryo. It is believed that this technique does no harm to the future of the embryo.

The advantages are obvious in that the breeder could select to transfer the embryo if it was the desired sex. Twinning by transferring two embryos of the same sex into the same recipient cow would also be feasible for the purebred cattleman who would like to increase his number of heifers or bulls without producing freemartins.

In twinning, a second embryo is transferred into the horn opposite the horn which contains the cow's natural embryo, approximately six days after the cow was bred. Reliable twinning would be especially beneficial to the commercial cattleman in that he would be able to produce more pounds of beef per acre. This would be particularly beneficial in areas that cannot support a large number of cows.

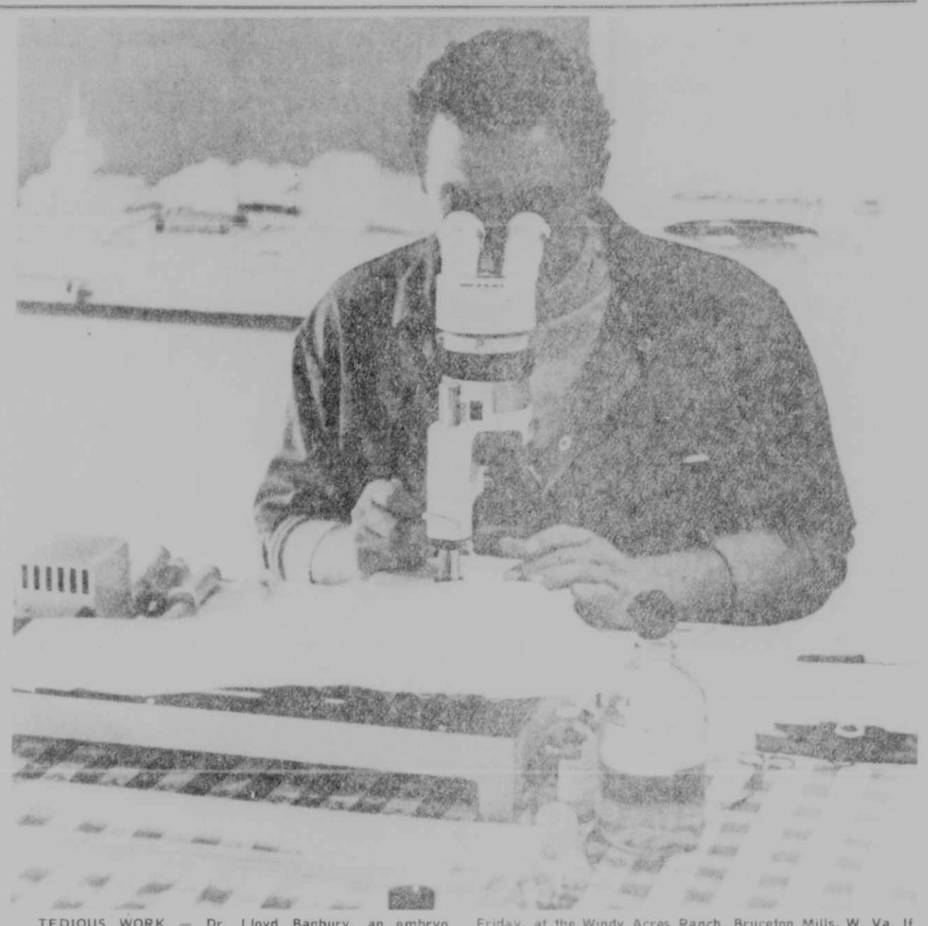
The disadvantages include increased management costs and the possibility of smaller calves at birth and weaning — but there would be an increase in the number of calves for the same amount of feed.

By using the Embryo Transplant method, a breeder can benefit in that most or all of his calves will be the result of one of the best bulls in the United States artificially inseminating a high quality female, also of his choice. The breeder could afford to invest in a more expensive cow if the end result would be 20 or 30 superior calves from her in the first year.

The dairy farmer also benefits by getting most of his calves by the utilization of his best milk producing cow — passing the characteristic on to the offspring.

The future of both dairy and beef cattle looks bright. We have watched the progress of artificial insemination and embryo transplant programs, and with continued research it is expected that frozen embryos will be carried in a semen tank, mated and matched to any individual desires. The end result of coupling the programs will mean more efficient and less costly production for the cattle breeder, and ultimately a better and more economical product for the consumer.

(Research material from International Limousin Journal).



TEDIOUS WORK — Dr. Lloyd Banbury, an embryo specialist from Ontario, Canada, uses a high-powered microscope to search for properly fertilized eggs. The eggs were extracted from the uteran horns of two donor cows, Friday, at the Windy Acres Ranch, Bruceton Mills, W. Va. If the embryo transplants performed that day are successful, purebred Limousin calves should be born in December to their surrogate mothers.

GLIMPSES OF THE FUTURE — Bill Slagle, co-owner of Windy Acres Ranch, surveys an array of trophies and ribbons awarded to his Limousin cattle. The placque in the center of the display is particularly significant. It is the coveted 1979 Purebred Livestock Farming Award. By utilizing the embryo transplant method, Windy Acres Ranch and the D & W farm, expect to further upgrade their livestock in nearly 1/10 of the time it would take by natural breeding. That should mean future awards.

To the Voters, Business People, and Residents of Oakland

Two years ago when first running for election to the Oakland Town Council, I stated the following:

- "We must exercise the same thought and care with tax dollars as we do with our own family incomes."
- "We must begin to anticipate and plan for growth to protect and preserve our good quality of life."
- "Out town's future is linked with our neighboring communities and the county, and cooperation and cost-effectiveness must be our main considerations."
- "Our future prosperity depends upon keeping and attracting clean, private business and industry."

During my past term, I have tried to live up to these beliefs, and have attempted to represent you in the business of the town.

I ask for your support and votes in the March 12 Election. I pledge to continue representing you and to continue working for our community.

Census Survey Set For Week Of March 19

The U. S. Bureau of the Census will conduct its monthly survey on employment and unemployment in this area during the week of March 19, 1979, according to Porter S. Rickley, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, the March survey will have questions on the work experience and income of household members last year and whether they have moved since March 1, 1975.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 70,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U. S. households.

The survey is conducted for the U. S. Department of Labor and provides a continuous record of activity in the labor force. The January survey indicated that of the 102.2 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 96.3 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 5.8 percent, compared to 5.9 percent in December.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

"You don't have to be a company to get Blue Cross and Blue Shield's low-cost group rates."

"The availability of group Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage is one of the advantages of being a member of our Farm Bureau."

The Worcester County Farm Bureau offers a lot of services to its members, and Secretary/Treasurer Joanne Mariner feels that Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage is one of the important ones. That's because it's not always easy, particularly in more rural areas, to get protection against the cost of hospital and medical expenses at reasonable prices.

But Blue Cross and Blue Shield provide a viable way to get that coverage, even for independent farmers and the businessmen serving them. Through the Farm Bureau, they get good protection and save money, too. More than 11,000 farmers and farm suppliers across Maryland receive Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection as members of their local farm bureaus.

"They just feel like it's an old friend."

"We have other health care coverage programs available, but most of our members choose Blue Cross and Blue Shield." In Mrs. Mariner's words, "The biggest selling point of Blue Cross and Blue Shield is the reception it gets when you enter the member hospital. You don't have hassles with records or reports. You don't have to pay the money out of your pocket. I think that's their strongest asset. We just feel like it's an old friend."

"When we began to get a feeling that our people wanted more coverage, we decided it was time to ask them."

The Worcester County Farm Bureau has kept its coverage up with the times, giving its members the additional protection of an improved basic Blue Cross and Blue Shield plan plus the option of Major Medical for catastrophic illnesses. Although the Bureau is governed by a board of 16 members, the total membership was polled prior to each major change in their coverage and near unanimous agreement was obtained. Today, their modern plan gives up-to-date security to more than 1,200 members throughout the county.

"A real plus for us in this particular area is those two employees over in Salisbury."

With six regional offices staffed by local people, Blue Cross and Blue Shield give next door neighbor service to members across the state. Fast, efficient, and dependable service by knowledgeable people means health and medical protection that's there when you need it.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield are non-profit organizations. They have no stockholders. Their only purpose is to serve their members. And year in and year out they return more money in benefits to Marylanders than anyone else.

So, whether you're a businessman looking for a better way to offer employee benefits, or an organization executive looking for a better way to serve your members, call us. Our group plans are as attractive as our group rates.

Delegate Byrnes Will Withdraw PSC Legislation

Delegate William B. Byrnes (Chairman, Allegany County Delegation) announced last week that he will withdraw House Bill 785, which provides for increasing the number of members on the Public Service Commission from five to eight — one to be appointed by the Governor from each of the state's eight congressional districts.

In making his announcement Delegate Byrnes said his main purpose in introducing HB 785 and HB 1907 last session (which provided for the eight members of the PSC to be elected, one from each of the 8 congressional districts) "was to assure the consumers of Western Maryland a direct voice on the Public Service Commission — something they have not had in the past!"

Continuing, Delegate Byrnes said, "However, after being advised by Governor Hughes of his plans to appoint Wayne Hamilton of Garrett County to the Commission, I have decided to withdraw my bill."

Delegate Byrnes said he is "delighted" with Mr. Hamilton's appointment. "The consumers of Western Maryland will now have a local person on the PSC who understands their problems and will look after their interests. This is an appointment that is long overdue."

In conclusion, Delegate Byrnes said that the appointment of Mr. Hamilton is "further evidence that Governor Hughes has not forgotten his promise to the people of Western Maryland."

Senators Introduce Redistricting Plan

Senator Edward J. Mason, Minority Leader, and Senate President James A. Clark, recently introduced legislation which would, if enacted, make sweeping changes in Maryland's 1982 redistricting of congressional and legislative seats.

The present reapportionment system requires the General Assembly to either accept a reapportionment plan submitted to them by the Governor or to enact their own reapportionment plan within the first 45 days of the 1982 Legislative Session. The last reapportionment plan adopted in 1973 not only required 45 days of costly legislative action by the General Assembly, but the end result of the plan was characterized as one designated to protect leading legislators in parts of Baltimore County from having to run against each other.

The bill sponsored by Senator Mason and Senator Clark would create a bipartisan reapportionment commission, independent of executive and legislative involvement, to draw congressional and legislative districts. In addition, the commission would be required to adhere to strict anti-gerrymandering standards which would eliminate the possibility of districts being drawn to either favor or discriminate against legislators, political parties or any other person or group.

Senator Mason stated that, "The establishment of an independent reapportionment is simply good government. The Senate has had much to say about conflict-of-interest situations. If there is a more blatant example of a conflict-of-interest situation existing in the General Assembly, it is a reapportionment process that allows legislators to draw the district lines in which they must run for re-election."

The measure will be heard in the Senate Constitutional and Public Law Committee, where a similar bill introduced by Senator Mason last year was given an unfavorable report.

Senator Mason is hopeful that the support of Senate President, Jim Clark, for reapportionment reform will add to the bill's chances for survival. This bill, if enacted by the General Assembly, would require voter approval at the 1980 general election.

Alcohol, Tobacco Tax Yield Noted

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein has reported that January 1979 Alcohol and Tobacco tax revenues totaled $7,811,678, an increase of 7.3 percent over the same month of 1978. Although tax receipts from distilled spirits and beer declined 9.8 percent and 2.51 percent respectively, wine tax revenues reflected little change and the cigarette tax of $4,960,760 exceeded the January 1978 income by $737,138, or 17.45 percent.

Distilled spirits, wine, beer and tobacco taxes produced $47,237,283 during the first seven months of Fiscal Year 1979. This total exceeds the collection for the corresponding period of 1978 by $566,628 or 1.21 percent.

Tobacco tax revenue for the seven month period totals $29,369,962, up about one-third of one percent from the same period of Fiscal Year 1978. Beer tax revenues increased by 11.2 percent to $5,782,941, and wine tax revenues are up by 3.7 percent for the seven months, totaling $1,905,385. Distilled spirits tax revenues amounted to $10,348,634.

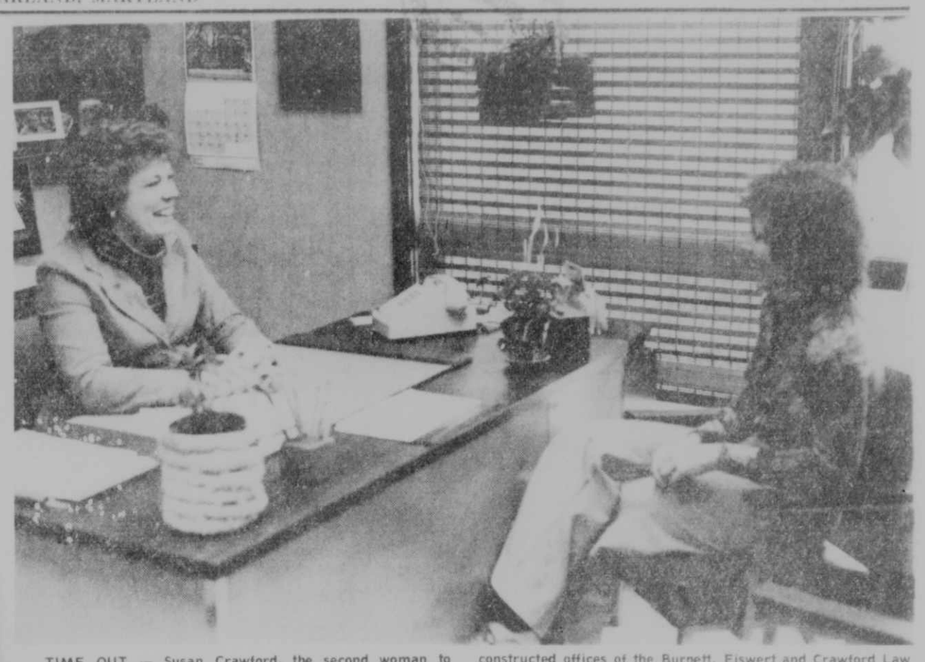
THE FEMININE TOUCH IN GARRETT COUNTY LAW

THE FIRST WOMAN LAWYER IN GARRETT COUNTY — As far back as most people can remember and according to written history, Garrett County has never had a woman lawyer, that is until Linda Sherbin came to the county. She has enjoyed her practice here since she first set out her shingle in 1975 and, according to Garrett County's second woman lawyer Susan Crawford, she has paved the way for women lawyers in this area. She now works as an associate with Dwight D. Stover, an Oakland attorney.



TIME OUT — Susan Crawford, the second woman to practice law in Garrett County history, takes a short break from her legal affairs to take part in one of her favorite pastimes—talking with people. Here in her office in the newly constructed offices of the Burnett, Eiswert and Crawford Law Firm at the Thayer Center, outside of Oakland, she talks with secretary Karen Niner.

By Beverly J. Sincell

To speak with Linda Sherbin, one would not be struck with the impression that this petite, soft-spoken woman is a trend setter, a history maker. She, herself, would not flaunt the fact, but the fact is that she is a trend setter, a history maker. She is the first woman to practice law in Garrett County.

Any who ask her how she likes practicing law in Garrett County will receive the reply, "I love it."

Her love of her work stems in part from the warm reception she has always felt from the people of Garrett County and her fellow lawyers. Actually, the warm acceptance made the first days of her practice easier than she had imagined. "I was better received than I imagined I would be," she said. "I didn't find any discrimination whatsoever."

Susan Crawford, Garrett County's second woman lawyer, gives Linda the credit for paving the way for women lawyers in Garrett County. "She made it a little easier for me to be accepted." Susan, who began practicing law with the firm of Burnett and Eiswert in the Fall of 1977 and achieved partner status January 1, 1979, had already gained acceptance in the county law system before beginning her practice, by working in Ralph Burnett's office the summer prior to her graduation from law school.

The two women lawyers have many similarities, both in their backgrounds and in their outlook on the law profession. One similarity is that neither views herself as a "woman lawyer" and neither carries a "women's lib chip" on her shoulders. As Linda Sherbin stated, "I don't see myself as a woman lawyer, I see myself as a lawyer. I am not self-conscious in my work, that is, I don't go around pointing out the fact that I am a woman. I think some people have a misconception of the lady lawyer; most seem to expect an aggressive, competitive female."

Although neither Linda nor Susan carry a "women's lib chip" on their shoulders, both believe the liberation movement made admission to law school easier. While in law school, Susan experienced a degree of resentment from her male colleagues and discovered there were times when she had to "be better to be a equal." She also stated that as far as gaining acceptance, "It was harder to go to school than to practice here."

On the other hand, Linda, who began her law classes in the night division, felt no resentment, although she was often the only woman in a class. "We were all night school students and were there to learn," she explained. "We had very little time to socialize."

Neither Linda nor Susan had Garrett County in mind as a place to practice law when they first entered law school. As a matter of fact, neither had a clear intention of attending law school when they graduated from college. Both taught school before continuing their education in law.

Linda came from a family of seven children and was raised in northern New Jersey, which at the time she grew up was very similar to Garrett County. For her, the only child in her family who attended college, to graduate from college was an accomplishment in itself. "When I graduated I didn't look to something further," she said, that is, except her marriage to Jim Sherbin, her childhood sweetheart.

Her interest in law was sparked when her husband Jim, Garrett County's new State's Attorney, began study in the University of Baltimore Law School. As her interest in her husband's courses grew, she enrolled in night classes at the University, but still, "I did not start off determined to become a lawyer."

Linda was teaching junior high school when she began her part-time study. Her teaching experience convinced her she did not want to remain a teacher and she did not take long, after a few law courses, to decide she wanted to become a lawyer.

"As I look back, I see that that was a very difficult time," Linda said. She was not only teaching class during the day and attending classes at night, but she and Jim were also beginning their family. During those years she gave birth to their two sons, Johnny, now seven years old, and Jimmy, now six.

She quit teaching and became a full-time student when Jim completed his study and began to practice law. Even at that time, the two had not considered Garrett County as a possible location to live, but it took one visit during a state's attorney convention to convince them that was to be their future home. "We had grown up in an area like this and we decided to work toward moving here."

They even found their present home, a 108-acre farm near Hoyes, during that first visit. Linda tells the story like this, "Jim likes to get lost on country roads, and one day when we had free time during the convention he went out sightseeing and did get lost. He stopped at a country store in Hoyes to get directions and while he was talking to the people in the store he asked if they knew of any farms in the area for sale. They told him about one nearby so, he went to see it and then took me to see it. We fell in love with it and bought it." They now live on that farm and commute to their law offices in Oakland.

Linda works as an associate with Dwight Stover, an Oakland attorney, but she did not begin her practice with him. She first began with her own office at Rolyans Department Store in 1975 and worked a year before moving to Stover's office, where she says she is content. "I am happy where I am," she said.

Susan Crawford, who is also content in her partnership with

I'm convinced that surprise birthday parties were designed to test the resourcefulness and deceitfulness of the host. My best friend was visiting from Philadelphia last weekend and I decided to honor him with a surprise birthday party.

I alluded to the fact that since his birthday is February 29, he wasn't due for a celebration until 1980 — and that's the reason we were cleaning the entire house Saturday morning. It always pays to be prepared.

Getting rid of Dave long enough to make any party preparations was an effort. I finally told him that he and a friend of mine were going on an afternoon excursion. After they got done cleaning out my garage they spent the afternoon at the county dump.

I was in the midst of a party tray when I heard Dave returning. I grabbed the food supplies and headed for the nearest closet. It's difficult creating an attractive assortment of snacks in the pitch black darkness.

The cats gave me away. The smell of pepperoni lured them to the doorway and they immediately set to taking the door off its hinges.

I lied my way out of that one. I explained that among my other enterprising attempts at making extra money, I'd taken up catering. He fell for it.

Next, I started making sweet and sour meatballs as hors d'oeuvres. Dave asked what I was doing.

"Oh, well, — these are for the cats. Yep, that's who they're for. They get so tired of cat food, that I like to spice up their diet every once in awhile."

"But you've got about 150 meatballs there," he pointed out.

"I do? So, I do . . . how stupid of me. Well you know how hard it is to stop making meatballs once you've started. By the way, you're looking a little pale. Shouldn't you be taking a nap, or a nice long shower — or better still, why not walk a couple of miles?"

"Are you sure? Do I really look sick?" he worried.

"Would I lie? I used to be a pre-med major, remember? I'd say that, without a doubt, you are the most likely candidate for terminal halitosis that I've seen in years!"

He took a walk, a nice long shower, and than a nap. Meanwhile, I did my whirling dervish routine, hiding the birthday cake in a neighbor's refrigerator, setting the table, rearranging the refrigerator, etc., etc. Eventually my pace began to slacken and I gulped two more multiple vitamins. They didn't help.

Dave came bouncing downstairs bubbling, "What a beautiful day. That Coast soap in the shower is a real eye-opener. Boy, do I ever feel refreshed! That walk and the nap were just what I needed."

I smiled weakly and clutched the doorway for support. There was no way a bar of Coast soap was going to do anything for me unless I ate it.

"We're still going out, aren't we, Jim?" he asked. "Good — you better get ready; we should leave in about a half hour . . . you're not looking well. That terminal halitosis stuff isn't going around, is it?"

"No, no, — just a touch of scurvy left over from my war days," I mumbled as I began to get ready to go out.

All of the surprise party guests were to arrive at the house and wait for my phone call while Dave and I were gone.

I stalled Dave at a local watering hole for about an hour and a half. I did a very good job of taking his mind off any remote possibility of a party. By the time I made my phone call, Dave wasn't sure who he was or where he was.

I slung him over my shoulder and loaded him into my car. The physical exertion was almost too much.

I started the car, fastened the seat belts, and placed an oxygen mask on my co-pilot. We drove the three blocks to my house.

As previously planned, I beeped the car horn once upon our arrival. Very suspiciously, every light in the house went out.

Dave didn't notice. His lights had gone out about a half hour before.

I guided him through the dark basement, up the cellar steps and into the dining room.

"Surprise!" everyone yelled.

Dave didn't hear us.

"Happy Birthday to . . ." everyone chorused in harmony.

One eyelid stirred.

"For he's a jolly good fellow, . . ." the guests completed their medley.

Color began to come back to his cheeks and he regained motor control.

I'd come to the end of my rope. My Geritol gave out at about the same time as my anti-perspirant. Someone told me it was a lovely party.

I think Dave had a good time. I was worried that he wouldn't notice all the work and preparation that had gone into the festivities.

His perception, however, was remarkable. The next morning he thanked both of me for the two birthday cakes; asked why I had two pianos in my dining room; and commented on the 40 guests. (There was one cake; one piano; and 20 guests).

Happy Birthday, Dave. We'll have to do this again next year.

Trout Stocking Program Begins

Trout, 276,000 of them, are beginning to be put in Maryland waters.

The Department of Natural Resources trout stocking program has begun under the direction of the Wildlife Administration.

Wildlife director B. F. Halla, said the total number of trout to be stocked is 50,000 greater than last year. In addition, he said, there will be a larger variety of trout. In past years, the program included almost exclusively rainbow trout. This year there will be substantial number of brook and brown trout in addition to rainbow.

Maryland has native trout populations, but due to their limited numbers, they do not come close to satisfying the needs of the large number of Maryland trout fishermen and the stocking of hatchery trout becomes necessary, according to the DNR.

Maryland's trout fishing areas fall into two basic categories, put-and-take fishing areas and catch-and-return trout streams. Currently listed under put-and-take areas are 36 streams and 21 ponds. These areas absorb the brunt of the fishing pressure and therefore will receive 94% of the total available adult trout.

Nearly all of the put-and-take streams are closed to all fishing for two or three brief periods to allow for the stocking and natural dispersal of hatchery trout.

The Wildlife Administration recommends trout fishermen consult the angler's guide, which accompanies their fishing license, regarding Maryland's system closures.

There are four errors in this year's guide as to stream closures. The correct listings follow:

Little Hunting Creek and Friends Creek will be closed March 18 through 31 and April 15 through 28.

"YOU'LL NEVER CATCH ANYTHING WITH THOSE MECHANICAL FISHING LURES."

Savage River will be closed April 1 through 14 and May 13 through 19.

Patuxent River will be closed March 4 through 17 and April 1 through 14.

Anglers fishing put-and-take areas are allowed to keep five trout a day and may use bait or artificial lures and flies. There is no minimum size on trout caught in put and take areas.

The second category of trout fishing areas, catch-and-return streams, is governed by a significantly different set of regulations, the DNR said. On these special area streams, of which there are five scattered across the state, all trout caught must be immediately returned to the stream with the exception of one trout a day over 15 inches in length. On Deer Creek, Morgan Run, and Patuxent River special areas tackle is restricted to artificial lures and flies. On Hunting Creek and Savage River special areas tackle is restricted to artificial flies only. On all five streams, flies and lures must be equipped with only one single pointed hook. Treble hooks are not allowed.

The only significant change in the 1979 trout regulations deals with the closure schedule for five Western Maryland streams. These streams, Bear Creek, Savage River, Wills Creek, Evetts Creek, and Fifteen Mile Creek, will not be closed for stocking during early March. In previous years, spring weather conditions made early season stocking in Western Maryland a risky venture. To avoid this problem, trout are being stocked later in the season.

In the past two years, several new waters have been added to the list of put-and-take areas. These areas include Little Gunpowder River (Baltimore/Harford Counties), Piney Creek (Carroll County), Northwest Branch (Montgomery County), Greenbriar Lake (Washington County) and Fifteen Miles Creek (Allegany County). In addition, this year there will be only one stocking of Homestead Pond (Carroll County) and Orchard Pond (Allegany County), each receiving 1,000 trout.

Fresh water anglers need a license ($4.50 for residents) and trout fishermen are required to have a trout stamp ($3.50). Residents 65 or over pay only $1 for a license and $1 for a stamp.

Rye Loan Rate Up One Cent

The loan and purchase rate for Maryland's 1979 rye crop is $1.84 per bushel, up one cent per bushel from the 1978 rate, according to Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

Commodity loans give producers an opportunity to obtain cash while holding their crop for later sale. "By holding (

INVESTIGATING VENUS

Two Pioneer spacecraft will explore Venus. One will orbit the planet to globally study the atmosphere, help calculate the planet's shape and density, and study the topography. This spacecraft will take seven months to reach Venus. The second vehicle is a multiprobe which will split into five components. Each will penetrate the Venusian atmosphere at points on the Earth facing side of the planet which are 10,000 kilometers (6,000 miles) apart. It is hoped that the findings will help scientists to better understand the atmosphere of Earth and our weather.

MOON

Tuesday, the moon will be opposite the sun as viewed from Earth. This is the Full Moon position which occurs at 4:14 p.m. A partial eclipse will occur beginning at 1:11 p.m. and ending at 7:05 p.m. Moonrise on Tuesday will be at 6:22 p.m. so that the eclipse will be barely noticeable from Garrett County. Moonrise today will be at 12:56 p.m. Next Tuesday, Moonrise will be at 6:22 p.m.

Saturday, the moon will be at the greatest distance from Earth that it will be during March. This geometric relationship causes the moon to pass through a smaller part of the earth's shadow than it otherwise might, making a partial eclipse more likely. At this apogee 405,900 kilometers (252,300 miles) separate Earth and Moon.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn are the most easily seen planets this week. Mercury sets about an hour after the sun sets. Venus rises about an hour and one-half before the sun rises. Jupiter is high in the southeast at sunset with the stars of Cancer. Saturn is among the stars of Leo. It rises at about sunset.

DAYLIGHT INCREASES

Today is the 66th day of 1979. The sun is at the same altitude above the horizon as it was at the end of the first week of October. Sunrise was at 6:43 this morning. Sunset will be at 6:15 this evening. Tuesday sunrise will be at 6:33 a.m. followed 11 hours 49 minutes later at 6:22 p.m. There will be 10 minutes more daylight at the end of the week.

Ralph Burnett, former Garrett County State's Attorney, and Leonard Eiswert, had no plans to practice law in Garrett County until her senior year in law school. She believes, though, that she has always wanted to be a lawyer, or at least she can remember wanting to be a lawyer since she was 10-12 years old. "Either that or an auto mechanic," she said.

Susan's family was originally from Pittsburgh and spent many vacations at Deep Creek Lake where her grandparents owned a piece of property. Eight years ago her family moved to Garrett County where they have remained.

Susan received her undergraduate degree in History at Bucknell University in Pennsylvania and taught for five years in a Philadelphia high school. She also coached several girls' sports teams which, she says, "kept me there."

"I knew teaching wasn't going to satisfy me," she said, "and since teachers were becoming a dime a dozen I wanted a trade or skill that would be marketable." So she settled on law school, and three years later began her practice in Garrett County.

Susan likes to recall her first case. "A man had answered a radio ad for a coon dog which was 'guaranteed to tree a coon.' So the man bought the dog. But when he took it hunting the dog wouldn't 'tree a coon.'" Susan had never heard of a coon dog but she learned fast and represented the man to help him get his money back. She won the case.

As all lawyers in Garrett County, Linda and Susan are general practitioners and handle a variety of cases, but they report they receive many domestic relations cases and real estate cases. Susan does have several courtroom cases, which is where her biggest interest lies. Linda will not handle courtroom cases as long as her husband is state's attorney. "It would be conflict of interests," she explained.

Both Linda and Susan describe their work to be rewarding, but they caution that it is not as glamorous as Perry Mason fans believe it to be. "There are some days when it is downright boring," Susan said. Overall, though she believes that "Law is fun."

Linda commented, "You really do have times when you can be a help to people. But it is a lot of hard work. It is not the glamorous job where you get all winners, by percentages you have to have a few losers."

If either were to give advice to a young person aspiring to be a lawyer they would say to plan to achieve good grades on the undergraduate level, expect a lot of work in law school, search for summer jobs which would give experience in law and to have a clear idea of a location to practice law. Where one eventually settles will determine the type of law practiced. For instance, in a rural area one must be a general practitioner whereas an urban region offers more opportunities to specialize.

Linda and Susan not only enjoy their own work in Garrett County but they also highly respect the work of their male colleagues in the county. "I think the Garrett County Bar is composed of high quality lawyers," Susan stated. She noted that many of the lawyers are not natives to Garrett County but their choice to practice in the county speaks of their uniqueness. To Susan, Garrett Countians are independent minded and hard working and says, "she sees those same qualities in the lawyers in the Garrett County Bar."

There are other qualities besides independent thinking and industry that are important to Linda and Susan.

"I appreciate fair play, honesty and doing the best job in whatever you are called to do," says Linda. Susan added patience and the ability to pinpoint a problem as important qualities.

Along with striving to cultivate these qualities, Linda and Susan are both working towards a similar goal — to learn as much as possible about their work and to become the best general practitioners they can. With these types of goals, how could they help but continue to be trend setters and history makers in Garrett County?

David Cavanaugh Named Coordinator For Catholic Charities

David Cavanaugh has been named program coordinator for Associated Catholic Charities, Inc., in Western Maryland, according to an announcement released by Harold A. Smith, director of the agency.

Mr. Cavanaugh, who holds a master's degree in Social Work (MSW) from the University of Michigan and has a broad counseling experience, will work out of the Catholic Charities office in Cumberland to serve the social ministry needs of the parishes in Allegany and Garrett Counties.

"The advisory board for Associated Catholic Charities in Western Maryland," Mr. Smith said in his announcement of the appointment, "have prioritized parish-based counseling, social ministry through the development of the parish council, and advocacy for the social needs of Western Maryland as the broad service areas mandated by the Catholic Community."

It is these areas that Mr. Cavanaugh will work, as well as in a pastoral counseling training program which is presently being developed and which it is hoped can be offered later in the year.

Gasoline Use Is Down In December

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said recently that gasoline consumption in Maryland during December 1978 actually declined from the same month of 1977, possibly reflecting the effects of the first allocation programs put into effect by oil companies as well as motorists' conservation efforts.

Gasoline consumption in Maryland during December 1978 totaled 177,809,793 gallons, down nearly one percent from the 177,944,830 gallons used in the previous December. Gasoline consumption during December 1978 appears to have been affected by the allocation programs put into effect during that month by five oil companies.

"Currently, the allocation programs in effect by gasoline suppliers in Maryland appear to be sufficiently high to prevent shortages. Spot shortages which may occur are more likely to be due to logistical problems such as transportation," Mr. Goldstein said. "The recent severe weather and frozen conditions on the Chesapeake Bay caused problems for barges as well as some tanker trucks used to haul gasoline."

The Comptroller also noted that shipping activity on the major pipelines supplying Maryland with gasoline and other petroleum products has been at a normal level.

The December 1978 gasoline consumption brought Maryland's total consumption for 1978 to around 2,044,724,086 gallons. However, this is only 1.85 percent more than the 2,007,525,986 gallons consumed during 1977, a small increase.

For the first six months of Fiscal Year 1979, motor vehicle fuel tax revenue totals $120.9 million, up four percent from the $116.2 million, collected for the same period of Fiscal Year 1978.

Farm Credit To Send Out Refunds

The Potomac Valley Federal Land Bank Association Board of Directors has approved the retirement of most capital stock and participation certificates of the Federal Land Bank in excess of 6% of the unmatured principal balance.

The Federal Land Bank is the long-term rural lending arm of the cooperative Farm Credit System.

This will mean a check to many of the farmer borrowers, who are also the owners of the Farm Credit cooperatives. Gavin T. Heare, General Manager of the Potomac Valley Federal Land Bank Association, said this week that his office hopes to have most of the checks in the mail within the next few weeks.

This action is being taken over the entire five state Farm Credit District, headquartered in Baltimore. President of the Baltimore District, Gene L. Swackhamer said, "While individual payments may not seem to be significantly large amounts, the total refund will put more than $3.4 million back into our District's agricultural sector this year alone."

The Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore serve Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Puerto Rico.

PRICING YOUR HOUSE RIGHT

The value of your house is not what you think it is—or what the buyer thinks. It is determined chiefly by the location, the neighborhood, and the current market. An overpriced house sitting on the market for months becomes almost impossible to sell. So first, you must get in line with the market. That means a realistic appraisal.

Nobody—but nobody—is more acutely aware of the current housing market than your local Realtor. A capable Realtor can bring in his own appraisal expert or even a team of salesmen who will individually price your home and then reach a fair concensus. Or you can hire a qualified independent appraiser. You may be pleasantly surprised to find out that you were intending to price your house for less than its fair market value.

If possible, your price should include curtains, draperies, refrigerator, air conditioners, dishwasher, built-ins. It's a better package deal and may hasten the sale.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

Farmers Reminded To Complete And Mail Census Forms

Maryland Agriculture Secretary Wayne A. Cawley, Jr. reminds Maryland Farmers to send in their completed Census of Agriculture forms. Actually, the deadline for the form return has come and gone but, Mr. Cawley says, "things have a way of getting mislaid and with all the terrible weather we had the past month, many farmers just may have put completion and return of the forms out of their minds for awhile.

"I hope Maryland farmers will return their forms," Mr. Cawley continued, "before they get busy with the spring planting season.

"The Census Bureau gave us all a simpler form this time and we farmers should meet them halfway at least by returning the forms quickly. Besides, it will save all of us taxpayers money if we do because the Census Bureau won't have to send the tardy farmers follow up letters.

"Another thing to note is the fact that the Census Bureau won't begin processing the information until it has almost complete returns from a given state. We Marylanders can help speed up the reporting back to us of our information if we make our reports quickly," Secretary Cawley concluded.

Byrnes Testifies On Assessment Freezing Bill

Delegate William B. Byrnes (Chairman, Allegany-Garrett County Delegation) testified Thursday on House Bill 871, which provides for property assessments to be "frozen" at the July 1, 1978 level, and further that the property may not be reassessed unless it is substantially improved upon, transferred or sold.

In commenting on the legislation, Delegate Byrnes said several bills dealing with assessments have been introduced during this session of the legislature. "I am very optimistic that some type of assessment reform will emerge from these various pieces of legislation, and I will certainly support any bill which will give the property owners of the state the relief they are seeking," he said.

Continuing, the Delegate said, "However, until the Federal, State and County Governments and the municipalities curtail spending, we can expect little relief from these burdensome taxes. Therefore, the taxpayers must reconcile themselves to the fact that with tax cuts come cuts in services. My question to them is 'just what services do you want cut?'"

PUBLIC NOTICES

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear brother, Walter W. Sines, who was tragically killed in a car-truck crash one year ago, March 1, 1978:

Now that you are up above we hope that you can feel our love, for it has never ceased to die, you'll never know how much we cry. Everyone knows that you were great, that's why your loss was such a heavy weight. You've gone with God to take a rest, remember us who loved you best.

Sadly missed by brother-in-law, sister, nieces and nephews, Doug and Frances King and family.

—Adv. 1-1t.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to my many friends and neighbors for their kindness and their prayers, cards and flowers during my stay in the hospital.

Evelyn Doerr

—Adv. 1-1t.

CARD OF THANKS

The family extends its sincere thanks to all its friends, neighbors and relatives for their expressions of sympathy and also to those that helped in any way following the tragic death of our loved one, Cpl. Randy Allan Welch. We extend a special thanks to the Marine Detachment from Connellsville, Pa., 2nd. Captain Birch; also a special thanks to Rev. Gail Hixon, Rev. Jack Jones and Rev. James F. Remley for their help and words of comfort and also the John O. Durst Funeral home. He was loved by all and is very sadly missed.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our loved one, Pearl McLean, who passed away a year ago, March 12, 1978.

She had a smile, a pleasant way, a helpful hand to all she knew; she was so kind, so generous and true, and loved us all in her own way, that made each a perfect day. But God took her home, it was His will, and in our hearts we love her still. Her memory is so dear today as in the hour God called her away. We often sit and think of her when we are all alone, for memory is the only friend that grief can call its own. A million times we've missed her, a million times we've cried; as time goes by we miss her more, her loving laughter, her gentle face, no one will ever fill her vacant space.

Sadly missed by Cunninghams, Glotfeltys
and Waltons

Goldstein Answers More Questions About Tax Forms

There are changes in the Maryland Income Tax forms now being filed that affect about one in every five State taxpayers and will result in a total tax savings of approximately $25 million. People who can't itemize on their Federal returns are one group that can benefit by the changes, and following are questions and answers concerning their tax situation. These questions were received and are answered by Maryland Comptroller of the Treasury, Louis L. Goldstein.

Q. Exactly what is the change in the Maryland law concerning who may itemize on their State income tax return?

A. Under emergency legislation recommended by the State Comptroller and passed during the 1978 session of the Maryland General Assembly, taxpayers may itemize deductions on their State returns, even if they were not allowed to itemize on their Federal tax returns.

Q. How do I know if I should itemize deductions on my Maryland income tax return, if I didn't itemize on my Federal?

A. If you are a single individual with deductions totaling more than $500 but less than $2,200, you may benefit by itemizing on your Maryland State income tax return. Married couples filing joint returns who both have income may want to file an itemized Maryland return if they have deductions of more than $1,000 but less than $3,200.

Q. How much money can I save?

A. This change in itemizing deductions is expected to save 220,000 Maryland taxpayers approximately $9 million, or as much as $180 per tax return.

Q. Do I need any special tax forms to file my Maryland return this way?

A. Individuals who choose to itemize on their Maryland income tax returns, but can't itemize on their Federal tax returns should complete form 502A, which lists their deductions. This new form is included in the Maryland income tax packet.

Q. Must I fill out a form 502A if I do itemize on my Federal return?

A. No, you do not need to complete form 502A if you have itemized on your Federal return — only if you have not.

Q. Where can I get help in understanding this and other changes in the Maryland income tax laws?

A. Help with this and other items is available from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at all eleven permanent offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division. Taxpayers who want their returns filled out free of charge should bring their completed Federal form and all W-2 statements to one of the offices. Questions are also answered by telephone. A list of the offices is on the back of the Maryland tax packet. You can also find them in the local telephone directory.

The evening session on Friday will begin at 7 p.m. and feature the State Overseer David Risch. Saturday sessions will be at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. The convention theme will be "Preparing for Christ's Return." The public is invited.

Bill Introduced To Permit School Calendar Revisions

Delegate Frank Robey, D-Baltimore, has introduced a bill in the General Assembly which would permit some school systems to operate for less than 180 days this year without penalty.

But Robey said he doubts the bill can be passed in time to save spring vacation, scheduled to be cancelled by many districts to make up for days lost during last week's blizzard.

The state Board of Education said it would enforce its "snow day" policy, which will force many schools to make up for days lost during the snowstorm.

The board indicated last Wednesday 180 days are needed each year and waivers will be granted only to schools that have made up at least three days during the school year and have scheduled classes for at least a week beyond the original closing date.

Baltimore County has already decided to conduct classes four days during the week of April 16, originally set aside for spring vacation, to make up for days lost during the snow storm.

In other action, the state board told its staff to develop a set of social studies goals to outline what students should learn in that subject.

The model goals plan was substituted for a proposal by board president Richard Schiffer that world history be added to high school graduation requirements.

Emergency Energy Funds Available

The Office of Economic Opportunity of the Department of Human Resources reports that limited funds have been made available to certain local agencies across the state in order to provide energy funds for low-income households to meet emergency/fuel needs. These funds, which total $325,000 for the state, are the unexpended funds from last year's fuel assistance program. The funds can only be used to assist people who did not receive assistance through last year's program, which was administered during April and May, 1978.

The sponsoring agent for Garrett County is the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc.

When applying for assistance, individuals must be able to document their income and to prove that the high cost of energy/fuel obtained last winter (prior to June 30, 1978) has caused an emergency situation.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 102 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1979 | PER COPY 20¢ | NUMBER 2

In Memoriam . . .

It is only fair and right that we dedicate this corner today to the life of a man whose nearly 70 years of labor made this newspaper and publishing company a strong institution and a lasting reality. He began working with this company at the tender age of twelve years, but had printer's ink in his blood even before that time. After literally millions of impressions on a printing press and several months of failing health, his life drew to a close Friday, March 9, 1979.

While he was in fact a master printer, Donald R. (Mose) Sincell was much more than that. His ability to extend kindness and consideration to others was perhaps his finest quality. His contributions were many, to the town of Oakland, to this county, to his church and to mankind in general. His greatest gift was simply the example he set for those around him, his friends and the members of his family. Our lives were made better by him.

His extreme gentleness, his distinctive cleverness, his unwavering religious convictions, his sincere smile, his incredible wit, his love, . . . will never be forgotten by those of us who had the pleasure of knowing him.

Although he is physically gone now, his contributions to this world, just as his soul, are eternal. We heartily thank God for his life and we look ahead with great faith and hope to the day that we will be with him again.

Donald R. Sincell, Publishing Company President Dies Friday

Donald Roderick (Mose) Sincell, of 119 East Pennington Street, Oakland, who was president of the Sincell Publishing Company and managing editor of The Republican newspaper died Friday, March 9, at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He was 79.

Mr. Sincell was born in Oakland, July 3, 1899, a son of the late Benjamin H. Sincell and Lillian (Morris) Sincell.

He began working part-time at the publishing company in 1911 at the age of 12. Upon graduation from high school he attended Gettysburg College, but due to the illness of his father, he returned to Oakland in 1919 to assist with the family business.

Mr. Sincell was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, where he served in various capacities during his lifetime as a council member, superintendent of Sunday School and a member of the choir. He served with the Student Army Training Corps during World War I and was honorably discharged in December 1918. He was oldest past master of Oakland Lodge 192, AF & AM, a charter member and past adjutant of Proctor-Kildow Post 71, American Legion, a former member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, an alumnus of Gettysburg College and a layman trustee of Gettysburg Seminary from 1943-47.

Surviving are his widow, Elsie (Hansi) Sincell; a daughter, Mrs. Robert J. (Eleanor) Hesen, Timonium; a son, Robert B. Sincell, Mt. Lake Park; a sister Mrs. Robert (Adeline) Buckert, Oakland; seven grandchildren, Christiane Hesen Hooper, Arnold; Robert J. Hesen, Jr., Reisterstown; Jeffry F. Sincell, Blackwood, N. J.; Donald W. Sincell, Mt. Lake Park; Robert B. Sincell, Jr., Oakland; Kathryn L. Sincell and Mary R. Sincell, both of Mt. Lake Park, and five great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Sincell observed their 57th wedding anniversary last October 16.

Friends were received at the John O. Durst Funeral Home. A Masonic memorial service was held Saturday evening by Oakland Lodge 192. Funeral services were conducted at St. Mark's Church Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Richard A. Seaks. Interment was in Oakland Cemetery.

Pallbearers were employees of The Sincell Publishing Co. and included James Nordeck, Jack Gutfeldt, John Gustlow, John Kisner, Jerry Stewart and Gary King.

The family suggests expressions of sympathy take the form of memorials to the building fund of St. Mark's Church or to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Decisions Affect School Calendar

The Garrett County Board of Education voted last Thursday to make up 12 days of school missed this winter due to heavy snow. The missed days will be made up by scheduling classes on a few professional days, the Easter holidays, and extending the school year to June 20.

According to Dr. William H. Buser, superintendent of Garrett County public schools, the board had originally written the possibility of making up nine days into the current school year calendar.

The school year extension adds five days to the current schedule and comes on the heels of a decision by Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett/Allegany) to add his sponsorship of legislation that would expressly prohibit public school systems in the state from using holidays and Saturdays as snow make-up days.

In addition, a new State Department of Education regulation also contends with waivers for school systems adversely affected by inclement weather.

The new state regulation requires school systems to designate specific snow make up days – and if the number of days is inadequate, local school systems will be forced to extend the school calendar by at least five more days.

Dr. Buser recently stated that contracts for Garrett County teachers call for 187 working days, but teachers in the past have only been able to work 183 or 184 days due to heavy snow. As in most counties, Garrett teachers are still paid for the full number days in their contractual agreements.

Bolden explained that the bill he plans to co-sponsor along with Del. Frank Robey (D-Baltimore City) will have provisions assuring full funding to the counties even if snow days exceed the 180-day regulation.

Bolden stated his opposition to using holidays, such as Good Friday, Easter Monday, and Memorial Day, for make up days. He is of the opinion that if local school boards utilize built-in snow days in their calendar and show a "demonstrated effort" to meet the 180-day school requirement, the school calendar could be reduced at the end of the year even though the 180 days are not fulfilled.

Local Woman Held For Murder

The 19 year-old wife of a 44 year-old Garrett County man is being held in the Allegany County Jail under a $100,000 bond after being charged with the murder of her husband last Friday evening near Oakland.

Mrs. Martha Lynn Knox appeared before William Martin, Grantsville, Commissioner for Garrett County District Court, Saturday and bond was set on a charge of murdering Lonnie Lee Knox.

Maryland State Police and deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department were summoned to the Knox residence off the Chisholm Road at 8:30 p.m. Friday evening.

First Sergeant Paul R. Sanders, head of the Garrett County State Police Detachment, said that Knox had died of multiple gunshot wounds. A .22 caliber rifle was recovered at the scene.

Dr. James Feaster, deputy Garrett County medical examiner, participated in the investigation.

Mrs. Knox is confined to the Allegany County Jail where Garrett County prisoners are being held during completion of the new jail.

Lonnie Lee Knox was born November 8, 1934, a son of Mrs. Mary E. Knox Tusing, Oakland.

In addition to his mother and his widow, he is survived by two sons, Lonnie L. Knox, Jr., and Sylvester Knox, both of Baltimore; four half sisters, Mrs. Betty King, Olsburg, Kansas; Mrs. Dorothy Bachtel, and Mrs. Alice Hauser, both of Oakland; and Mrs. Carolyn Tusing, Mountain Lake Park; two half-brothers, Charles E. Tusing, Jr., at home, and Robert Tusing, Crellin.

Services for the deceased were conducted yesterday at the Glendale Assembly of God Church by the Rev. Gail Hixon with interment following in the Glendale Cemetery.

Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, conducted graveside military rites.

The Stewart Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Incumbents Win Town Election

Nearly half of Oakland's eligible voters went to the voting booths Monday to elect three incumbent Town Council members and a town-treasurer for two-year terms. After totalling the official count, it was reported that 126 women and 113 men, composed the 47.7 percent turnout from Oakland's 501 registered voters.

Re-elected to the Town Council were Von Johnson, with a majority vote of 215; James R. Stanton, with 172 votes, and J. Haig Jackson, with 147 votes.

Mrs. Helen Baumgartner was unsuccessful in her bid for a council seat with 73 votes, while Terry R. Helbig, of Oakland, received six write-in votes.

Berkshire F. Stanton was re-elected to the treasurer's position with a vote of 166, defeating Verna J. Harvey who received 62 votes.

The re-elected councilmen will continue serving with Mayor H. D. Swartzentruber, Paul DeWitt, Frances Riley, and George Stewart whose terms will expire next year.

Town council members serve two-year terms and an election for mayoral candidates and three councilmen will be conducted in 1980.

Promotion Council Awarded Tourism Grant Of $3700

The Tourism Department of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development recently awarded the Deep Creek Lake - Garrett County Promotion Council $3700 in matching fund grant money which will be matched on a dollar for dollar basis by the Garrett County Commissioners, according to Cindy Hanks, executive director of the Promotion Council.

A total of $41,000 was allocated to the state of Maryland for the purpose of promoting tourism in the state. All organizations applying for the grant received the same amount, Ms. Hanks said.

She stated that Garrett County's share of the funds will be spent on the construction of a travel display which will be used at several Travel Shows the Council attends. Garrett County has been represented at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and the director has scheduled additional shows in Hagerstown, Washington, D.C., and Pittsburgh. This display will be set up throughout the county after April so that area residents and tourists may view it.

The remainder of the monies received by the State will be spent on advertising, printing and photography.

The grant from the State is made available each year to tourism promoting agencies such as the Promotion Council. This is a small part of the overall budget with other funding for the Promotion Council coming from the Garrett County Commissioners and the private sector, Ms. Hanks concluded.

Wayne Hamilton Gets Confirmation

The Maryland Senate's Executive Nominations Committee has approved the appointment of former Garrett County Commissioner, Wayne B. Hamilton as a member of the Public Service Commission. Hamilton, who will serve in a part-time capacity, must now meet the confirmation of the full Senate.

The approval of Hamilton's appointment to the PSC, the statewide regulatory agency which controls public utility costs, was announced during Monday's meeting.

Other confirmations were issued on appointments to the University of Maryland Board of Regents, State District Court judgeships and State secretary nominees.

The committee delayed action until next week on former acting Governor Blair Lee III's reappointment of Henry T. Arrington as head of the Maryland Office for Minority Business Enterprise.

Water Resources To Hold Hearing

The Water Resources Administration of the Department of Natural Resources is holding an adjudicatory hearing at Garrett Community College auditorium at 10 a.m. on Thursday, March 15. The purpose of the hearing is to determine if a point of discharge permit should be issued to the Garrett County Sanitary Commission to discharge treated wastewater effluent from the proposed Deep Creek sewerage treatment plant, according to Dr. William Pope, Deputy State Health Officer and Edgar H. Harman, Director/Environmental Health.

Trout Unlimited has requested the hearing in an effort to prevent the issuance of the permit. That organization along with the Maryland Cold Water Coalition is attempting to prevent the discharge of treated sewage effluent on the basis that chlorine used to disinfect the effluent will have a detrimental effect on fish life in the Youghiogheny River.

The permit limits the amount of chlorine to be discharged in the effluent at a level of only .02 p.p.m. which is the lowest level of detection with analytical field equipment. At this level it will be necessary to dechlorinate the effluent to remove detectable chlorine before discharging.

A Garrett County Health Department release states that Deep Creek area residents and businesses, the Sanitary Commission, County Commissioners and various county agencies feel that this project is vital for the economy and protection of Deep Creek Lake.

Reportedly, the creation of new government agencies and implementation of new regulations have caused substantial delays in the project and Trout Unlimited's objections alone have delayed the project for nearly two years.

Area residents and concerned citizens are urged to attend the hearing.

SUSPICIOUS SKULDUGGERY — What appeared to be either an archeological expedition or a bit of grave robbery in the middle of Second Street, Oakland, last week was actually some harmless maintenance work being performed by two employees of the Oakland Water Department. That is, we assume the excavation was harmless—but if anyone hores up missing, we'll know where to look. Pictured above, left to right, are Ross Johnson and Joe Everd.

Education Board Approves Budget

Following the approval by the Garrett County Board of Education of the Comprehensive Agreement between the Board of Education and the Garrett County Teachers Association, the school board recently approved the Proposed Current Expense Budget for Fiscal Year 1980.

The grand total of estimated receipts in the budget request is $10,483,861. Of that amount $4,647,799 will be sought from local sources such as the levy appropriation, revenue sharing, and Open Space funds. The state funding from various sources is estimated to be $4,224,984; from federal sources $1,150,104; and inter-coming transfers from the school breakfast and lunch programs $460,974.

Dr. William Buser, Superintendent of Schools, indicated the major expense categories in the budget are: instructional salaries $4,384,499; pupil transportation $1,602,344; and the operation of school plants $977,365.

Completed copies of the proposed school board budget will be made available to the public through the local schools, PTA's, and the public libraries of the county.

In other action, the Board approved a tentative high school girls' softball schedule for this spring. Also, bids were awarded for a foods service vehicle and instructional supplies for the 1979-80 school year.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education on March 8, action was taken to meet the Maryland State Board of Education by-law requiring 180 days of school by approving April 9, 10, 11, 12, 17, 18, May 4, and June 14, 15, 18, 19, and 20 as student days to complete the school calendar for students. The school day will end for students at 1:00 p.m. on June 20. The Board also took action authorizing the superintendent to request the Maryland State Department of Education waive any additional days lost this school year as the result of inclement weather.

In other business, the Board received a report on functional reading as it relates to the competency-based reading program in the high schools from Robert Rodeheaver, Supervisor of High Schools. He indicated to the Board members that the program planning and curriculum development taking place help insure that all students are as successful as possible in taking the functional reading test.

Ralph Burnett, the Board's attorney, reported on the meetings held to date as a result of the suit by the Board to recover funds spent to repair the Southern Middle School-Broad Ford Elementary School Driveways. He indicated that negotiations between the attorneys for the parties concerned had not brought the hoped-for results and that the matter was going to the American Arbitration Association for its action.

The superintendent indicated to the Board that he would bring to them at the regular Board meeting in April a report and recommendations on the kindergarten program which they had requested at an earlier meeting.

FNB Stockholders To Meet March 20

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Oakland will be held in the Community Room of the main bank building in Oakland on Tuesday, March 20, at 10 a.m. Business will include the election of a Board of Directors for the ensuing year and the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

Commissioners To Enforce State Law

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners met Monday to stress the enforcement of a state law in reference to the transporting of garbage to the county landfill located near Oakland. Reportedly, debris has been falling from vehicles en route to the dumping area.

The decision will enforce a state regulation that requires that garbage and trash in transit be covered securely to prevent it from falling out onto local streets.

The commissioners met with John Nelson, county zoning administrator and the county enforcement officer for the recently adopted junkyard ordinance.

Nelson submitted applications from seven junkyard dealers which were reviewed by the commissioners and approved. All were found to be in compliance with the new ordinance.

The commissioners, in their Health Board capacity, met with Dr. William Pope, James R. Stanton, Mrs. Shelby Paugh of the Garrett County Health Department and with Tom Dugan, planning director for the county. Architectural and funding alternatives for additional space required by the county health department were reviewed but no decision was reached.

Representatives of the Maryland Department of Economics and Community Development met with the commissioners and briefed them on the functions of the department.

The commissioners received a copy of the proposed County School budget. Last week the Garrett County Board of Education approved a $10,483,861 budget for fiscal year 1980. The budget represents a $1 million increase over the present budget and allows for local funding of $4,646,000.

Also Monday afternoon, the commissioners appeared for their bi-annual meeting with the Grand Jury, which investigates the conduct of county business.

Woman Injured In Trailer Fire Early Saturday

A 29-year-old Loch Lynn woman is listed in "satisfactory" condition today at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital after receiving burns and lacerations in a fire that gutted her trailer early Saturday morning on Shenandoah Avenue.

Shirley Yvonne Foglepole was transported to the hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad after narrowly escaping from the fire through a bedroom window. She suffered second degree burns of the back and neck, cuts of the hands from breaking out the window. She was the only one in the trailer at the time of the fire. Her young daughter was at the home of a friend.

Garrett County Central Alarm received the call at 3:34 a.m. and dispatched the Oakland Fire Department and Southern Rescue. Oakland firefighters responded with two pumpers and a tanker and found the trailer nearly engulfed in flames upon their arrival. They got control of the fire in about 20 minutes and remained on the scene until 5:44 a.m.

Firefighter Phil Rock was also transported to the hospital where he was treated for an eye injury and released.

Robert Shimer, fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett Counties, determined that the fire started from an overheated oil heater.

Some furniture and belongings were salvaged, but the trailer was declared a total loss.

Garrett County Central Alarm handled communications.

Dear Editor:

If teachers have become "a dime a dozen" as indicated by Susan Crawford (Mar. 7 — Republican), the Board of Education should have no problem in having its budget approved for the coming year.

Garrett County teacher

Dear Sir:

May I ask a question? Why is the electricity shut off on the Steyer-White Church Road so often?

I have an 85-year-old mother that depends on a light and I am angry. She could fall without that light.

I hope other people of this area will write to the power company and maybe we can cut the cost of electricity and save someone's life.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Oliver Weimer
RFD 3, Box 71
Deer Park

Dear Sir:

During the recent Winterfest at the Wisp in Garrett County a special effort was made by Keith Reed, the Chairman of this year's activities, and Bob Gornal of the Western Maryland Distributing Company to assist Long Stretch Youth Homes. Both men were very helpful in arranging a special meeting between the boys residing at Long Stretch and the guest for the event, John Unitas.

During the 45 minute meeting between the boys and Unitas, Unitas answered questions, posed for individual pictures with the boys and autographed each boy's photograph. Needless to say this was an experience the boys will not soon forget.

Long Stretch Youth Homes is a private non-profit corporation that serves as a home and long-term treatment center for boys from 12 to 18 in need of special supervision. The support of community leaders like Bob Gornal and Keith Reed is an invaluable asset to the program offered at the facility.

The boys and staff of Long Stretch sincerely appreciate these special efforts from special people.

Sincerely yours,
Allen Poland

Dear Sir:

Recently a man called my office to see about getting his high school diploma. He had taken the GED test in 1966 and wondered if any of his passing scores from the test could still be used. I phoned the Maryland State Department of Education and learned that his old scores were indeed good. In fact, he had passed the test and received a Maryland High School Diploma in the mail.

This is the result of a 1968 change in the passing scores required. Before 1968, it was necessary to score 250 points to earn a diploma. Since 1968 only 225 points are required. This means anyone who was tested before 1968 and who scored at least 225 up to 249 can now claim a diploma.

Garrett County residents might be interested in this little known opportunity and want to check into it. Members of the armed forces who may have tested in the service also have the option of converting their scores to a Maryland High School Diploma. Records go back to World War II.

For further information on unclaimed diplomas persons should call the Oakland Center at 334-8266 or write to: GED Testing Office, Maryland State Department of Education, P. O. Box 8717, BWI Airport, Baltimore, Maryland 21240. They should give their name, social security number, location and approximate date of testing, and current address.

Sincerely,
Pat Helmick

Medicaid Fraud Investigative Unit Is Established

The Maryland State Attorney General's office has received a HEW grant of $608,168 to establish an investigatory and prosecution unit to probe Medicaid providers suspected of fraudulent practices. The announcement was made today by James F. Mellody, Principal Regional Official of HEW's mid-Atlantic Region in Philadelphia. Mellody is the personal representative of HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano, Jr.

With a staff of 22, including a director, four attorneys, six investigators, five auditors, one legal assistant, an administrative officer, and four clerks, the new Baltimore-based Maryland Fraud Unit will be concerned with suspected health provider offenders, such as nursing homes, doctors, dentists, pharmacies, clinics, laboratories, and all the other health care delivery service organizations operating through Medicaid funds.

Andrew Tartaglino, recently retired from the U. S. Department of Justice's Drug Enforcement Administration, has been named director of this special unit. Prior to his appointment, Tartaglino had also served as director of the INTERPOL liaison staff, and was on loan to the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct during the recent Korean probe on corruption.

The new fraud unit expects to be operative by April 1, 1979, with offices located at 15 Charles Plaza, Suite 301, South Tower, Baltimore, MD 21201.

Region III, HEW, comprises the states of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

The first railway express was instituted between New York and Boston in March 1839.

Sportsmen And DNR Officials Discuss Hunting Regulations

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Administration officials got an earful of comments, suggestions and questions from more than 100 Garrett and Allegany county sportsmen last Wednesday night at Allegany Community College.

The game officials were in town to hold the first of three public hearings to discuss proposed regulations for the 1979-80 hunting season. These changes to the state annotated code would become effective August 1.

Changes of particular interest to local hunters included:

—Possible resumption of fall turkey season from Route 522 west for a two to six day period that would coincide with the opening of small game season.

—Opening of anterless deer hunting by permit in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties. Permits would be allocated as follows: Garrett, 600; Allegany, 800; Washington, 500; Frederick, 350; and Carroll, 140. Those amounts are up from the previous 200, 200, 140, 100 and 50 totals, respectively.

—An increase of the deer muzzle loader season from three days to eight (Dec. 15-22).

—Creation of a separate crow season.

—Removal of the Frazier property from the management hunt system.

—Removal of the C&O Canal lands leased to the Wildlife Administration from the managed hunt system except for a designated waterfowl shooting blind zone.

The format of the hearing called for a Wildlife official to briefly go over a section of proposed changes and then have members of the audience ask questions which were recorded as testimony. None of the questions were to be answered until all the proposed sections had been explained in order to give the officials time to formulate replies. Some men complained about having to use the microphone while others interrupted the proceeding by interjecting comments and questions out of turn. Those who did follow the format got their points across even though the Wildlife officials didn't always have an answer.

Charles Emerick of the Allegany-Garrett County Sportsmen's Association said a shortened fall turkey season was unfair to hunters in the western end of the state. He said the spring season usually isn't a quality hunt because the game is weakened by bitter winter weather.

Emerick is a member of a 12-man committee selected by the Wildlife Administration after the cancellation of last year's turkey season, to look into the situation. Although a formal recommendation had not been submitted, the officials indicated they would go with the limited season proposal.

Much discussion centered around the antlerless deer permits. An informal hand vote showed 55 against the proposal to 33 for. Emerick noted that in the past his organization has voted in favor of the 200 permit quotas in Garrett and Allegany Counties but overwhelmingly voted down the extension to 600 and 800 permits respectively.

John Miltenberger of the Allegany Farm Bureau, said his group was in favor of a doe season because of problems encountered with foraging deer. A hunter in the audience suggested that the problem might be eliminated if farmers would quit posting no hunting signs on their property.

According to the system in use, permits would first be available to county residents. Other state residents would be next in line with any remaining permits left for out-of state hunters.

Speaking on the muzzle loader season, Dennis Wayne of the Western Maryland Muzzle Loaders Association, proposed a two day fall season for the last week of September. He said extension of the winter season would only encourage "meat" hunters who did not bag a deer during the regular season.

Other topics brought up by local hunters included shipping of wild turkeys from this area to other parts of the state; the proportion of money spent on a small game license as opposed to how much the hunter gets out of it; a question of how much damage was caused to the winter range and problems with checking stations.

Subsequent sessions were announced for those who missed last Wednesday night's session. One was slated for Friday March 9 and the other Saturday, March 17 to begin at 9 a.m. at the Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis.

Written comments concerning these proposed actions may be submitted to the Director, Maryland Wildlife Administration, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, MD, 21401 until Friday, March 16.

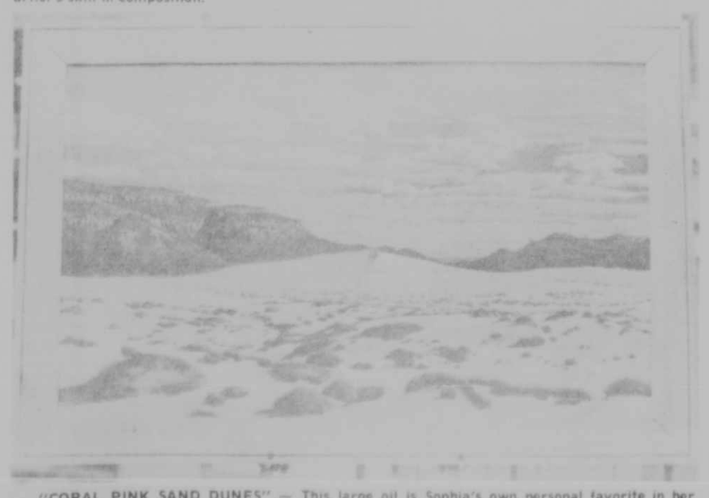
Talented Local Artist, Sophia McDonald Concludes Exhibit At GCC Library

ACCOMPLISHED ARTIST — Local artist, Sophia McDonald, Oakland, concludes her exhibit at the Garrett Community College library tomorrow. Sophia, a graduate of Maryland Institute of Art, has travelled extensively throughout the United States, living in Maine, California, and Florida. Her favorite mediums of expression are oils, and pen & inks, and she often paints from her own photographs. She is a board member of the Garrett County Arts Council, Inc., and has enjoyed capturing the local landscapes and people since she moved to Oakland two years ago with her husband, John, and daughter, Kristen. Pictured above with the artist is an oil entitled "Swan."

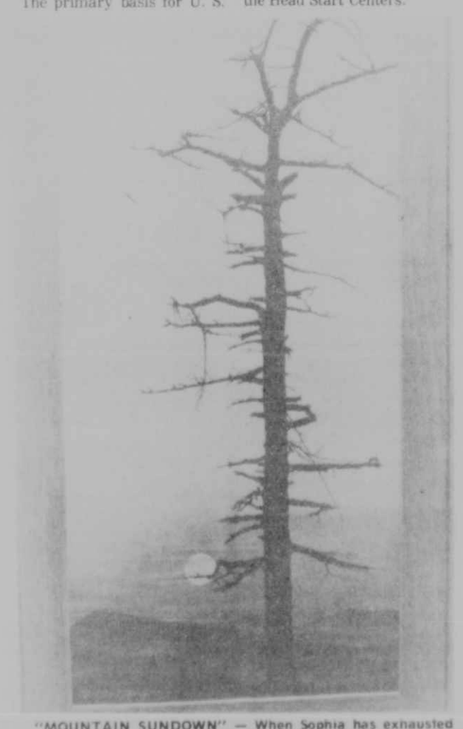
"REFLECTIONS IN MIST" — This brilliant oil painting is an example of the imaginative artist's skill in composition.



"CORAL PINK SAND DUNES" — This large oil is Sophia's own personal favorite in her current exhibit. It depicts a landscape in Utah with vivid colors, and meticulously highlights rolling hills spotted with juniper trees. The painting took 87 hours to complete.

"THE SEIB HOME" — A striking pen and ink with an ink wash, the drawing is of one of Mountain Lake Park's more interesting homes.

"THE MAILBOXES" — This study in oil is the first in a series Sophia plans on the Amish people and their way of life.



"MOUNTAIN SUNDOWN" — When Sophia has exhausted her photographic library for themes, she often turns to pure imagination, as in this colorful oil.

Byron Releases Survey Results

The need to cut government spending and balance the federal budget came through loud and clear according to survey results released by Rep. Beverly Byron.

Over 10,000 constituents responded to the Sixth District Representative's mid-January questionnaire on inflation, government spending, foreign policy and other domestic issues.

Significant majorities favored a Constitutional Amendment to balance the federal budget and supported cutting budget deficits to control inflation. Programs most mentioned for budget reduction were foreign aid, public assistance and unemployment assistance with cost trimming in the areas of energy research and law enforcement favored by few.

On the other issues, Central and Western Maryland residents supported SALT II agreements between the United States and the Soviet Union by a margin of 43 to 34 percent and also favored the Administration's move for full diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China by 65 to 24 percent. Economic relations with Cuba, however, were opposed, 48 to 37 percent.

The primary basis for U. S. foreign relations with the developing nations of Latin America, Africa and Asia should be American strategic interests and countering the spread of communist governments according to survey respondents.

Finally, on the matter of restoring the Social Security system to a basic retirement plan, a sizable 72 percent supported the idea of financing all non-pension programs out of general revenue funds.

Applications Now Available For Head Start

Applications for enrollment are now being accepted for the Garrett County Head Start Program, announced Jean Tressler, Director of the Program. The enrollment will include children who are three and four years of age.

Program officials anticipate an enrollment of 80 children when the Head Start Centers open September 1979.

Head Start Centers are located at Jennings, Deer Park, Crellin and Loch Lynn.

Further information and applications may be obtained from the Garrett County Community Action Head Start Office at 360 West Liberty Street, Oakland, or from any of the Head Start Centers.

Correction

In the story, "Cumiskey Seeks Coal Surcharge Tax Increase" in the March 7 issue of The Republican, George C. Edwards was reported to have rebutted Del. Thomas B. Cumiskey, Jr.'s (D-Allegany) proposal that "revenue increases from a tax hike could be used by the counties to offset coal haul road damages." Mr. Edwards neither rebutted nor commented on the proposal. We regret the error.

Destruction Of Property, Larceny Cases Investigated

The Garrett County Sheriff's office was plagued with calls this week, with the majority of offenses relating to larceny and destruction of property.

John Michael Downton of Swanton complained that his automobile, a 1973 Pontiac Grand Prix, was vandalized at approximately 11 p.m. on March 10. The incident occurred while the vehicle was parked in the lot of Par-Matt Lanes Bowling Alley. The left front tire had been flattened and red spray-ink was used to deface the left side of the automobile.

Larceny of a pair of skis belonging to John Latin, 806 Heritage Drive, Oakland occurred at the Village Inn, McHenry on March 3. The skis were tied down to the owners vehicle and no loss value has been determined.

Destruction of property to a mailbox belonging to Stanton Friend of Rt. 1, Friendsville, occurred March 1 on the Frazee Ridge Road. Parts of a homemade bomb used to destroy the mailbox have been recovered.

Betty Riddle of Gibsonia, PA reported destruction of property at her summer residence on Mill Run Road in Garrett County. Someone had recently entered the cabin through the north window. Loss value to the window was $15, and further property losses have yet to be determined.

Garrett Community College, McHenry, reported the theft of an IBM Selectric II typewriter from the college's Mining Building. The theft occurred between March 2 and March 5. Value of the typewriter is listed at $750.

A breaking, entering and larceny occurred at the Country Loft Antique Shop on the Hotel Road near Deer Park recently. The offense was reported by the owner, Betty J. Madigan of Rt. 4, Deer Park, and antiques valued at $1,800 were taken.

A trash bag was thrown from the roadway of Underwood Road on the night of March 5 breaking the windshield of a vehicle owned by Kenneth Cassidy of Rt. 1, Oakland. Another destruction of property complaint was filed by Victor Nazelrod of Star Route 1, Oakland, who reported that the front door of his residence had been hit by an unknown person causing the glass to break.

Another breaking, entering, and larceny was reported by John S. Patton of Lakeshore Drive, Deep Creek. Suspects jimmied a door open, cut the wires to an electric alarm system and removed a stereo and speaker, a brass bell, and a flashlight between March 5 and 10. The loss value of the stolen property is undetermined.

John Ross, Friendsville reported the theft of $64 worth of tools from the back of his vehicle. The incident occurred between February 16 and March 8. Carl Schmidt, Star Route, Friendsville, reported that tools valued at $438 were recently stolen from the rear of his pickup truck.

Destruction of property to a Morris Avenue building, owned by Richard Kibbey, Riverside Drive, Friendsville occurred on the night of March 9, when two bricks were thrown through two windows. Damage amounted to $200.

Webster Peets, Swanton, reported that a mailbox on his property was destroyed during the night of March 10. The mailbox, valued at $25, had been smashed with a club or sharp object.

Juvenile arrests were made in connection with a breaking, entering and larceny on the premises of Bob Lucas Garage, Kitzmiller during the night of March 10. The suspects entered the service station, ransacked the office and spilled files, and vandalized a Coca-Cola machine In addition, large quantities of paint were splattered about and tools, cigarettes, and a jar containing an undetermined amount of money were taken.

Jurors Named

public so that service on the Grand Jury is regarded as a high honor and a serious duty.

"There is a double duty cast upon you as Grand Jurors," he continued, "a duty to society or to the public to see that parties against whom there is just ground to charge the commission of a crime shall be held to answer that charge; also a duty to the individual to see that he or she is not subjected to prosecution upon accusations having no better foundation than public clamor or private malice."

He emphasized that it is not the function of a Grand Jury "to decide whether a person is guilty or innocent of the crime with which he is charged, but simply to determine whether or not there is sufficient evidence against him to require him to stand trial."

Judge Thayer then explained specific procedures to be carried out by the Grand Jury. Following that, he stated that it is "improper and illegal for anyone to attempt to influence any individual of your body in the performance of your duties. Should such an attempt be made, you should promptly report this to the State's Attorney or the Court." He said that the State's Attorney would be their legal advisor.

He continued by saying, "the deliberation of the Grand Jury must be secret, and neither the accused nor any member of the public should know what transpires in the jury room, except that which is shown by the records of the Court. This rule of secrecy is a most vital provision for the protection of persons accused and particularly as to those against whom no presentment is made."

Judge Thayer then acknowledged the "competent work" of Garrett County's law enforcement officials. He singled out James L. Sherbin, State's Attorney; the Maryland State Police; Sheriff John Evans and his staff, and Wayne Wilt, Juvenile Services Officer. He said, "As a result of their efforts, criminal activity has not increased to the extent it has elsewhere; there is absolutely no evidence of any organized crime.

"This moment cannot pass," he continued, "without comment on the tragic death of Deputy David Livengood. The events of his death are not yet entirely public knowledge; what is known is his devotion to duty.

"In the past we have chosen to believe that, here in Garrett County, we are, at least in part, insulated from the crime and violence associated with more urban areas. That belief has been shattered and we now realize that we are not immune from the viscissitudes of the country at large.

"If there is a lesson to be learned from the death of Dave Livengood, it is this: We must never take for granted the quality of life we enjoy in this county; we should likewise never take for granted the quality of law enforcement we enjoy in this area.

"Take for a moment to reflect: Our law enforcement officers are constantly potentially in jeopardy for our protection. A word of sincere thanks is in order."

Besides the duties as an accusatory body, Judge Thayer pointed out that the Grand Jury also has "general inquisitorial powers to inquire into abuses and evils, which may exist within the boundaries of Garrett County. You are entitled to take cognizance of public danger or abuse, to inquire into it and to make public your findings with regard to them. For this purpose, you may call before you, public officials or private citizens and obtain evidence from them on conditions which seem to you to be important enough to warrant your investigation. This is an extremely important function and should not be overlooked."

Judge Thayer then spoke of renovation of the Court House and the construction of the new county offices and jail. He invited the members of the jury to inspect the construction and renovation and review the complete plans which are in the County Commissioners' office. He said, "It is likewise the custom to inspect the county roads garage and the hospital and report on the conditions you find in each of these county buildings and make such recommendations as you deem proper. Your recommendations will be presented to the County Commissioners; they may or may not accept them, and you may not require the Commissioners to take any specific action with reference to maintenance; their discretion as elected officials is paramount in the matter of the upkeep of our public buildings."

Judge Thayer then ordered that the oath be given to the jury foreman and to the other members of the jury. He stated that the State's Attorney would be available to assist the jury in its organizations and deliberations, as would a member of the Clerk's office, the Sheriff's Office and the Maryland State Police. He said that the Bailiff, Thomas Cain, would also be at their service at all times and that the Grand Jury would be in his charge.

"I shall also be available should you have any questions for me, or should you desire any additional assistance," Judge Thayer concluded.

Gypsies Plague Area Businesses

A band of gypsies is being sought by police in connection with the theft of an estimated $1,500 from Naylor's Hardware Store in Burton's Shopping Center, LaVale, Saturday. The incident occurred around 9 p.m. when two of the men gained entrance through the back of the building, broke the lock off a drawer, and stole three bags of money while members of the group kept a store employee occupied in the front of the building.

The theft was not discovered until after the gypsies had left the store. State police were notified that the group was heading into the Cumberland area in three automobiles with Illinois registration.

A state police spokesman said road blocks were set up in the area about five minutes after the robbery was reported, but with no results.

Police believe the group is driving late model Chrysler vehicles.

Pennsylvania State Police also report an attempted robbery at the Bonanza Steak House in Breezewood at about 7 p.m., Saturday. Reportedly, ten gypsies entered the restaurant and while some created a diversion, others proceeded to the office in the rear of the building and pried open a door. The manager surprised the would-be thieves before they could remove money from a safe located in the office.

Apparently the suspects left the restaurant area on foot and a search was made of the area, but they could not be found.

Neither Maryland or Pennsylvania State Police could confirm that the two incidents were related. However, it was agreed that the time lapse between the LaVale attempt and the Breezewood attempt would make it possible.

Harold Weisberg—The Undisputed Authority On Assassination Facts, Not Fables

By Jim Willis

Editor's note: The following interview by Jim Willis is not meant to sensationalize or dramatize the story of the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Mr. Willis was merely provided with a rather unique opportunity to speak with an extremely interesting individual who has done an incredible amount of investigative work on a significant happening in America's history. We are pleased that Harold Weisberg has offered to share his findings with us.

Note: The following is the completion of a two-part interview conducted with Harold Weisberg of Frederick, MD. Part one of the article appeared in the February 28 edition of The Republican.

WILLIS — The February 21, 1964 cover of Life Magazine was a photograph of Oswald, which, according to Marina, she took in their backyard in the spring of 1963. Oswald is shown holding a Trotskyite newspaper "The Militant," in one hand, and the rifle he allegedly used to shoot Kennedy with in the other. In addition, a holstered pistol was strapped to his waist which was presumed to be the weapon he used to kill a Dallas policeman, J. D. Tippit.

Oswald claimed this photograph was a fake and that he could prove it. Do you believe it to be an altered photo?

WEISBERG — The House Committee's evidence that those are natural pictures are not persuasive to me. I believe that it is quite possible that those pictures were altered. I think it is even possible that Oswald did the alteration — I don't know.

WILLIS — He had the photographic expertise?

WEISBERG — Some. We don't know how much.

WILLIS — Didn't Marina Oswald testify that the picture was taken in March?

WEISBERG — I've forgotten, but, yes she testified to taking one picture, and now we know that there are not fewer than three . . . however, there's no question about where it was taken. The background material identifies it as the . . . address at which they lived.

WILLIS — Many questions have been raised concerning Oswald's association with George DeMorenschildt, a member of the Dallas-Ft. Worth "White Russian" community. DeMorenschildt, by his own admission, worked as an intelligence agent for the French Underground during WWII. Some theorists speculate that DeMorenschildt was "baby sitting," or guiding Oswald as part of a conspiracy. What was DeMorenschildt's association with Oswald?

WEISBERG — I think it has none of the meanings that it's attributed to. DeMorenschildt was an off-beat character.

WILLIS — Was he wealthy?

WIESBERG — No, but he wasn't poor. His wife was sometimes wealthy and Oswald was anything but the type of drab person who characterized the Ft. Worth-Dallas Russian community. DeMorenschildt found Oswald a kind of an interesting character . . . there aren't that many people who go through defection, or even try to defect to the Soviet Union. There's absolutely no reason to believe that DeMorenshcildt was anything like a "baby sitter," which is one version, or anything at all like that . . . (or that he) supervised Oswald in the assassination. It's out of character for both men.

WILLIS — Marina Oswald testified that her husband made an attempt on the life of General Edwin Walker on the night of April 10, 1963, in which he allegedly fired at Walker through the window of Walker's home while he was seated in his study. His attempt was unsuccessful.

WEISBERG — It doesn't exist.

WILLIS — There was eyewitness testimony to the effect that there were two men . . .

WEISBERG — It was fabricated in any event. The envolvement of Oswald was fabricated . . . The Dallas police records show that a 30-caliber bullet was used, and not a 6.5 Mannlicher Carcanno. The chemical analysis of the Walker bullet shows clearly that it was not the same kind of bullet that Oswald used if Oswald fired at the President.

WILLIS — Why would Marina Oswald give this type of damaging testimony concerning her husband's involvement. Was she induced to do so?

WEISBERG — She also concocted the story, with the help of her then, business agent, that Oswald was going to kill Richard M. Nixon, and that she kept him from doing it by locking him in the bathroom. Did you ever hear of a lock on that side of the bathroom door?

". . . my work focuses on the integrity of our society and the functioning, or non-functioning of basic institutions."

When this became a little too much for people to live with, it was then improvised that this relatively small woman, by the exertion of super-human effort and remarkable powers of persuasion, . . . could keep the door closed against Oswald pulling, and second, her persuasion had to do with her threats of what she would do to Oswald if he didn't agree not to do it. This story's not credible. It was fabricated by her then, business agent, John Martin, because he saw commercial possibilities in it.

And Nixon was not in Dallas at the time in any event.

WILLIS — Why would they accept Marina as a credible witness?

WEISBERG — They had nothing else. She changed her story on everything, and then they explained that away by getting her to say that, up until then she had been lying, but she wasn't under oath. Now that she was under oath, she was a completely trustworthy person, and wouldn't think of lying.

WILLIS — During the three year period following the John Kennedy assassination, some 17 witnesses involved directly, or peripherally in the original events, died. One witness was the victim of a shot in the head. An actuary who was asked to compute the life expectancy of 15 of the deceased witnesses concluded that on November 22, 1963, the odds against all 15 being dead by February 1967, were 100,000 trillion to 1, (London, Sunday Times, February 26, 1967).

Do these statistics have any real significance?

WEISBERG — It's prevocative, but immaterial. I don't know of any one of these witnesses who took a secret to the grave that he couldn't have told. And I don't know of any real connection with the crime that anyone of them had.

Most of the so-called witnesses, were not witnesses. Some had done all that could be done to destroy the Warren Report, in any event. A classic example is William Whaley. He had misidentified Oswald. He had said that Oswald was wearing two jackets, when Oswald was wearing neither. He was wrong on everything.

WILLIS — Did he testify as to the shooting?

WEISBERG — He testified in deposition.

WILLIS — He was at the scene of the shooting?

WEISBERG — He was the cab driver who supposedly took Oswald from the bus station to two different addresses — neither one of which was Oswald's. And naturally, you take a cab in order to not go all the way home. So Oswald took a cab to not go all the way home.

Oswald was in the ten hundred block of North Beckley, and in one version . . . he took him to the five hundred block . . . another one I think it was to the 700 block. There's still another version in which he took him to the intersection of two streets which don't intersect.

WILLIS — When Jack Ruby shot Lee Harvey Oswald in front of millions of television viewers, did you feel he was purely "self-motivated?"

WEISBERG — . . . I think that Ruby was one of the men who was most subject to suggestion, and that he could have been turned on without being aware of it.

WILLIS — There is a book out called "Betrayal," by a man named Robert Morrow, in which he claims to have been an intelligence agent for the CIA, and that David Ferrie, Clay Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald, et al, were working for the CIA — and in the book he outlines the entire story leading up to the assassination. What is your opinion of Morrow's book?

WEISBERG — . . . You can't even call something like that B. S. There's a practical value in B. S. — you can put it on the land and get some good out of it. I read the first two chapters, only because I was supposed to to do a talk show with him by telephone, . . . he chickened out. All I had to do was read the first two paragraphs and I knew the book was a fake.

WILLIS — How can people write books like that and not fall under heavy criticism?

WEISBERG — Criticism from whom? The government? They love it!

WILLIS — From people like yourself. . .

WEISBERG — They do. I criticize them every time I have an occasion to. I just wrote a guy who sent me a copy of a book and said he wanted to come to see me, (I told him) that I prefer he didn't. The book, I don't think it's out yet, is called the "Carlos Confessions." And all I got to do is read the blurbs on the dust jacket.

WILLIS — Sometime ago, a book called "Marina and Lee" was published. The book was written by Priscilla Johnson McMillan, with the assistance of Marina Oswald. It is the story of Marina and Lee from when they met in Russia and up until the assassination of JFK. The book is written to emphasize Oswald's involvement and guilt. It has been rumored that the publication was financed by the CIA.

WEISBERG — That wasn't necessary, and I don't believe it. The publishing house was a very wealthy publishing house. These books are worse than worthless, but I have no reason to believe that the CIA subsidized Priscilla, who is a wealthy woman. There was another, however, connection which Priscilla does have with the CIA. She translated (Svetlanna) Aleuva Stalin's (daughter of Joseph Stalin, absolute ruler of Russia from 1930 until 1953) book.

WILLIS — Did she translate the book for the U. S. government or for the publisher.

WEISBERG — Ostensibly for the publisher. But Aleuva was one of the CIA's greater coupes. She was Stalin's daughter, and she wrote an anti-Soviet book. Of course this suited Priscilla's political belief beautifully. That's a closer connection with the CIA.

WILLIS — What persuaded her to go after that particular book?

WEISBERG — Belief. Genuine belief. And besides that, — there she was, a so-called reporter who had actually interviewed Oswald. It turns out her interview was an effort to actually persuade him into a course of action.

WILLIS — She interviewed him in Russia, is that correct?

WEISBERG — That's right. She's one of the two who did. The other was a woman whose name is Aline Mosby, who when I last heard, was doing radio broadcasts from France.

WILLIS — In November, 1975, Robert Sam Anson had a book published called "They've Killed the President." Do you feel that his work is accurate?

WEISBERG — Commercializer. He credited a lot of the work of other people, and stole what he didn't . . . and the work has to be largely, not his own. His theorizing is no good. The book is a misdirection, and if it hadn't been, Bantam would never have published it.

WILLIS — One of the more dignified critics is the ex-congressman, Allar Lowenstein. What do you know about his work?

WEISBERG — I would say that what little I know about him is all good. He is a very impressive man . . . I would say that his approach, by and large, on the Robert Kennedy assassination, is quite responsible. I also believe that it's unfortunate that he got involved in it as late as he did — when it was too late for too many things to be done. But he impresses me as a man of integrity and of only good intention.

WILLIS — Do you see a connection between the John Kennedy, Robert Kennedy, and Martin Luther King assassinations?

WEISBERG — What you're really asking me is did the same people really do the jobs, and the answer is no. You can see a different kind of connection. There's a philosophical relationship. All of these things came at the same point in the careers of these men, and all served the same purpose . . . to eliminate those men at a time of major changes in their policies. Each one, at a time when he had a potential for greater leadership in the direction in which many powerful forces did not want country to go. But this is not a a factual, tangible connection between the crimes.

WILLIS — The similarity between Lee Harvey Oswald, and James Earl Ray was if they indeed were not guilty, they were made up to be patsies — perhaps not patsies, but their guilt is questionable.

WEISBERG — I think you can go so far as to say patsies, in the meaning of the law. With Ray, I have no doubt at all.

WILLIS — As to his guilt or innocence?

WEISBERG — Innocence . . . and if you're talking about who did the shooting. The case that could have been made that Oswald was the shooter was not made by the FBI, and it's not because the FBI does not understand evidence and doesn't have the capabilities of proving it scientifically. This is one of the things that persuades me that Oswald didn't fire a shot. With Ray, I have other reasons having nothing to do with the gas station. . .

WILLIS — Where Ray had a flat tire repaired, supposedly?

WEISBERG — No, it was a slow leak. And he didn't get it repaired — he couldn't get it repaired . . . but that's not the evidence I'm talking about. And at this point, I don't want to go public with the evidence I'm talking about. It's quite substantial, and entirely unknown.

WILLIS — James Earl Ray claims his movements and activities were financed by a man in Canada known as "Raoul." Do you believe "Raoul" exists.

WEISBERG — Somebody of that sort has to have been in Ray's life. I know Ray very well. I know his family very well. And there's not one of them capable of doing the kind of things Jimmy did alone.

WILLIS — What purpose would it serve anyone to finance a man like Ray . . . that is if he didn't kill Martin Luther King?

WEISBERG — I think Ray is the closest thing I have seen to a natural patsy. He doesn't ask questions. He keeps his mouth closed, and his mind works in a strange way . . . and he doesn't recognize that there is anything unusual about anyone of these things.

WILLIS — If there was a cover up, why do you think the government and the news media has gone to such lengths to cover up the truth?

WEISBERG — I think that with the news media it can have various explanations. I'll give you some of the more obvious ones. They're not about to confess that they failed, what I regard as sacred American journalistic concepts and responsibilities.

Second, they're not about to confess that they uncritically reported what amounts to official propoganda, and to a large degree, some of them don't want these kind of substantial questions raised about the government.

They'll all go for crooked dogcatcher stories, but this gets to the very heart of whether or not we have integrity in government. These are the most subversive of crimes and I don't think that the major elements of the media want the truth to come out.

WILLIS — When you started with your "crusade," did you ever expect us to know the truth?

WEISBERG — If you mean by truth, who killed John Kennedy, the answer is no. If you mean recognition of the fact that the expected job hadn't been done, and should be, I was unjustifiably optimistic. . . I don't think that a writer who meets the obligations of a writer, becomes a crusader . . . I think he's meeting his obligations.

I have my own concepts of what the responsibilities of citizenship are; what the responsibilities of the American writer are; and my own concepts of the magnitude and consequences of these crimes. I just a little while ago said I regard them as the most subversive of crimes. I think they nullify an entire system of society.

"Those who are responsible for the assassination believe it's going to be impossible to find out who did the job."

WILLIS — In the assassination of John and Robert Kennedy, Martin Luther King, and the attempt on George Wallace's life, all of the alleged assassins kept diaries of their activities. Why is that? That would seem to be a deliberate attempt to incriminate oneself, or to be a "plant" among their personal possessions by others to incriminate them.

WEISBERG — Oswald didn't, except for the Russian period. And what's called Oswald's "diary" is a lot more consistent with an intelligence report than it is with a diary. Bremmer (Arthur Bremmer, who attempted to kill George Wallace) was without a doubt, a psychopath. But again, you were asking me before about whether this can bear a relationship in terms of what it accomplished, to the other assassinations, and I said the answer is yes . . . and in this sense, the answer is yes.

WILLIS — I understand that Robert Kennedy's assassin, Sirhan Sirhan, underwent a series of hypnotic sessions in an attempt to uncover his motivations. He is reportedly highly susceptible to hypnotic suggestion. Some theorists state that Sirhan may have assassinated Senator Kennedy as the result of "post hypnotic suggestion."

WEISBERG — I think that's not an unreasonable conjecture. He apparently was highly susceptible to hypnosis.

WILLIS — Is that theory also a possibility with Oswald and Ray?

WEISBERG — No. I've no reason to believe it with either one. However, I do know that the Warren Commission was interested in whether or not Oswald could have been a "Manchurian Candidate"-type. My first lead into . . . "mind bending" was from a CIA report in the Warren Commission's files. It was only about five pages that nobody appeared to understand, in which the CIA's conclusions were that the Russians didn't have the capability by a combination of psychological and medical devices, and that we were five years ahead of them anyway. And that five years ahead of them fascinate me.

WILLIS — Did this "mind bending" involve the use of drugs?

WEISBERG — Yes.

WILLIS — Do you believe the Warren Commission knowingly covered up the truth in the beginning?

WEISBERG — Yes. It was a spontaneous conspiracy by people who talked themselves into believing the opposite. They knew better. The members of the Commission knew better, and the members of the staff knew better. There is no innocence.

I have obtained all but one of the Commission's top-secret executive sessions, . . . all the rest of them which I do have, I've sued for successfully. It leaves absolutely no doubt.

WILLIS — Do you expect that your investigation will put you in such a position that you would be a worthwhile target for someone fo "snuff" you out.

WEISBERG — No more than I am now — and it hasn't happened.

WILLIS — Does that tell you something?

WEISBERG — Sure. It tells me that those who are responsible for the assassination (of JFK) believe it's going to be impossible to find out who did the job . . . I've never been looking for them.

WILLIS — Have you ever been audited by the Internal Revenue Service?

WEISBERG — Yes. It took them a year, and they wound up with a lot of respect, and we got a sizeable refund.

God must have known we'd have frustrations. That's why He gave us the capacity to walk away from them . . . even on crutches.

Often in walking away from our frustrations we find ourselves. We discover spiritual depths we never knew we had. Finding oneself is part of the deeper quest — finding God.

We are not alone. Life is the Creator's gift. To fulfill its potentials we need His help — especially when our own hopes dissolve in disappointment.

Bring your frustrations to church. Learn how to walk away from them with courage and faith.

That man stands mighty straight who has learned to believe in himself . . . and in God.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

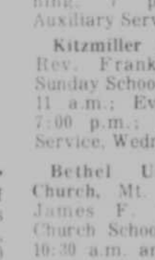
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SUBSTITUTE MESSIAHS

Lesson for March 11, 1979

Background Scripture:
1 Corinthians
1:10-25; 3:10-23.
Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 1:17-25

Just a little more than three months ago we were shocked and sickened by the electrifying news that came to us from the small jungle nation of Guyana. As TIME magazine headlined the story: "A RELIGIOUS COLONY IN GUYANA TURNS INTO A CULT OF DEATH"! For once, the news media found it difficult to overstate the enormity of the tragedy in which some 900 hundred people died in a mass murder-suicide.



Rev. Althouse

Behind this tragedy, we learned, was the mysterious power of the cult's leader, a strange combination of charismatic power and mental derangement. One grieving parent who lost two daughters and a grandchild in the tragedy lamented that his children had posited in the cult's leader a trust and authority that should never be given to any human being.

"I Belong To Apollos"

The tragedy of the People's Temple in Guyana may be one of the more dramatic illustrations in the history of Christianity, but the cult of personality has always been a consistent danger to the gospel. It was one of Paul's grave concerns at Corinth:

For it has been reported to me by Chloe's people that there is quarreling among you, my brethren. What I mean is that each one of you says, "I belong to Paul," or "I belong to Apollo," or "I belong to Cephas," or "I belong to Christ." Is Christ divided? Was Paul crucified for you? Or were you baptised in the name of Paul? (1 Cor. 1:11-13). Is Christ divided? Couldn't we update 1 Corinthians like this: What I mean is that each one of you says, "I belong to Luther," or "I belong to Calvin," or "I belong to Wesley"? Is Christ divided?

Paul asks of the Corinthians a tremendously important key question: "What then is Apollos? What is Paul?" So, too, we might ask: "What is Luther? What is Calvin? What is Wesley?" And the answer Paul gave to his own question is no less appropriate for ours: "Servants through whom you believed, as the Lord assigned to each. I planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the growth" (3:5,6).

No Other Foundation

God works through gifted personalities to reach us, but those personalities must somehow point, not to themselves, but back to God himself. These personalities are not meant to be competitors and foes — as often they are presented by their followers — but, as Paul puts it: "fellow workers for God" (3:9).

I am not arguing against denominations and varied confessions of faith, but against the cults of personality and factionalism that can result when denominationalism and confessionalism focus on the personality of the servant and forget that there can be but one foundation and one foundation alone: Jesus Christ!

DNR To Offer Shrub Packets Again This Year

Shrub packets will be available this year for Marylanders seeking to improve wildlife habitat on their property, according to Bernard F. Halla, Director of the Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Administration.

VACATION HOUSE & TAX DEFERMENT

Among the benefits of being a homeowner are the unique tax advantages available. One of them to be wary of is the provision which allows you to defer paying income tax on any profit made from the sale of your home if you buy a more expensive one within a certain amount of time. It does not apply in all cases.

For example, if you sell a vacation home at a $2,000 profit and promptly buy a much more expensive place, can you defer paying the income tax on the profit? The answer is no!

This tax break is available only when both the house sold and the house purchased serve as your principal residence. A vacation house doesn't qualify. However, if you owned the dwelling for more than the required time to allow the profit to be taxed as long term capital gains (nine months during calendar year 1977 and one year after that), the $2,000 profit would only be taxed at half the normal rate.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

Grant Provided For Improvement Of Traffic Signs

The Maryland Department of Transportation recently committed $65,700 in federal funds to improve traffic control signs on all Maryland roads which are not in the federal-aid system.

Many roads under local jurisdictions have signing which does not conform with the Maryland Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices (Maryland MUTCD). The inadequate signing appears to be contributing to traffic accidents.

Safety grant funds for the State Highway Administration (SHA) will be used to improve hazard, speed limit and direction signs on local routes. SHA will provide signs and traffic engineering services to local governments. They will also monitor local project activities.

Under the Transportation Safety Grant program, the department will commit over $3 million in federal funds for state-wide transportation safety projects during fiscal 1979.

State Board To Award Teachers Of Handicapped

The Maryland State Department of Education is looking for the first time for the best teachers of handicapped children in the state in the areas of low incidence and early childhood handicaps.

"Low incidence," explains Dr. Linda Jacobs, assistant state superintendent for special education, "is the term we use for programs for those few children with multiple handicaps for whom self care and communication are often the highest achievable educational objectives. Early childhood pretty much explains itself."

The state agency is looking for as many as six teachers in those categories to receive merit awards. The awards will be some kind of opportunity for professional development—tuition and expenses for course work, funds for a research project, or other forms of professional improvement.

"Rewarding superior teachers in this way makes sense to us as a means both of recognizing merit and improving teaching skills," Dr. Jacobs said. "If this first year's project is successful, we'll do it again each year for a different group of special education teachers."

Candidates for the award are asked to file a completed form in which they describe their responsibilities and teaching achievements and objectives, and list individuals they desire to have interviewed with respect to their qualifications. Classroom observation will also be included in final evaluations.

Application forms are available from all principals of special education centers and from the State Department of Education. Deadline for receipt of applications is April 19.

Awards will be made at a banquet ceremony on June 9 at the Belvedere Hotel, Baltimore. That function will be sponsored by the Maryland Federation of the Council for Exceptional Children.

Farmers' Income Improves In '78

Increased sales of agricultural products and higher farm prices resulted in a markedly improved income situation for farmers in 1978. Topping $28 billion, last year's net farm income was 40 percent higher than the previous year, and the second highest on record, according to Paul Crowl, Chairperson of Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

When the net farm earnings were added to the record $36 billion off-farm earnings, total income for farmers was an all-time high of $64 or $65 billion. Crowl said the gross income increased by $14 billion last year, and is expected to reach $122 billion.

"Much of this is due to another record in farm exports. We've shipped more than $27 billion worth to overseas customers last year, and this year we expect to top that by an additional $2 to $3 billion," Crowl said.

Prices for all farm products averaged about 23 percent more in 1978 than in 1977. Cattle prices were 50 percent higher and hog prices, 28 percent. Wheat prices were up 32 percent; corn 18 percent, and soybeans 21 percent.

"Our voluntary farm programs were also instrumental in improving farm prices," the ASCS official said. To avoid glutting the market, farmers placed more than one billion bushels of wheat and feed grains in the reserve, and placed large amounts of grain under loan. Grain prices remained high, even in the face of record crops.

Crowl said prospects are good for another year of record farm export sales, and the Set-aside, Grain Reserve, and Farm Facility Loan Programs are available in 1979.

CONVERSATIONS ON CARPETING

Brought to you by
Carolyn & Butch Helbig
who say "A floor without a rug is like a kiss without a hug."

YOU ASKED FOR IT

Many of you have written in asking specific questions about purchasing or caring for your carpeting. Space will not permit us to answer all of them, but we will periodically pick the most representative questions and devote a column to them.

I have new carpeting in my living room and hallways. Recently, a friend told me that some types of vacuum cleaners cause carpet damage. Is this true? Ans. Certain vacuums are better for your carpeting than others. I recommend a brush and beater type of vacuum for today's carpets. Most uprights are of this type, and some canister and tank types have attachments which use this principle. If you would like to discuss the specific type of vacuum cleaner we recommend, please call us at 334-9598, (Roderick's Carpet Branch Shoppe.)

How can I tell how much carpeting I will need for my room? Ans. Multiply the length (in feet) of the room times its width. Then divide by nine. This will give you number of square yards. However, Roderick's Certified Carpet Engineer (Butch Helbig) will be happy to measure your room or rooms for you to determine how many square yards are required to cover a particular area. Many times there is more than one way of installing a room of carpeting or cushion floor and each way requires a different amount of square yards. Butch explains each way and gives our customer their choice.

DO YOU HAVE A QUESTION? Send it along to us. Or, better still, stop in at Roderick's and talk it over with one of our carpet experts. Stop in today.

Each week we will tell you more about carpeting for your home. Watch for these columns.

For a very personalized appointment with Butch or Carolyn call today at 334-9598 who will give you the best in price, quality & service.

Educators To Study College Enrollment At RESA Workshop

Representatives of five institutions of higher education are planning to attend a workshop on a joint approach to increasing college enrollments which will be held on Monday, March 19, in the Continuing Education Building of Allegany Community College.

Eric Brown, interinstitutional planner from the New Hampshire College and University Council, will serve as consultant for the workshop.

The purpose of this initial workshop is to lay the foundations for joint actions by the member institutions of the Regional Education Service Agency of Appalachian Maryland to increase the enrollment of Maryland citizens, particularly those from Western Maryland, in postsecondary education.

George E. Allen, executive director of RESA, said the workshop is in response to the resolution adopted by the RESA Board of Directors January 25. Allen will serve as the workshop facilitator.

Dr. Donald Alexander, dean of academic affairs at ACC and chairman of RESA, will offer an introduction at 9:30 a.m. An assessment of need will be provided at 9:45 a.m. by Tom Edwards, director of institutional research at Frostburg State College. Allen then will lead a discussion of the need.

Brown will speak about success strategies between 11 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. Dr. Alexander will conclude the session with a discussion of the next step. Luncheon is scheduled from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

The specialist from New Hampshire will attend a special meeting of the RESA Board of Directors from 1:30 until 2:30 p.m.

Four of the nineteen who received invitations to attend the workshop from Garrett County are Robert Rodeheaver, supervisor of high schools; Delores Edgar, administrative registrar of Garrett Community College; Clara Kirk, of the GCC financial aid office, and Jan Janssen, GCC dean of students.

Others invited were representatives from Allegany Community College, Frostburg State College, Hagerstown Junior College, the University of Maryland, and administrators from Washington and Allegany County school systems.

AARP To Meet

The local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will hold its next meeting Wednesday, March 21, at 1:30 p.m. at the Oakland Fire Hall, it was announced by Ernest Spoerlein, president.

The guest speaker will be Sister Catherine, of St. Peter's Catholic Church. She will speak on the ministry of the House of Hope.

Refreshments will be served.

Emblem Contest Winner At Long Stretch Named

The winner of an emblem contest for Long Stretch Youth Homes was announced recently by Bill Platter, the Executive Director of Long Stretch. Ronnie Mitchell, a 15-year-old resident at Long Stretch, submitted the winning design and won a $25.00 cash prize.

The contest was initiated by Platter so that Long Stretch, a child care facility on U. S. Route 40, six miles west of Frostburg, Garrett County, would have an emblem to use on the organization's letterhead, envelopes, T-shirts, etc. "The emblem," Platter explained, "helps define our identity and lets people know who we are, our goals, and functions."

The winning design was one of nearly a dozen submitted from the boys living at Long Stretch. The winner was selected by Platter after he reviewed each submission for completeness of design, uniqueness and how well the design represented the facility. The $25.00 cash prize was donated by Platter.

Before completing the winning design, Ronnie explained that he tried three or four different ideas before he found the one he submitted for the contest. Each of the eight sections of the emblem represents a part of the programs offered at Long Stretch.

Mitchell is from the Eastern Annapolis area and has enjoyed drawing for a long time. Platter noted that the owner of the Fairfax Mirror, a newspaper in Fairfax, Virginia, saw Mitchell's design and has offered him a position as a commercial artist if he completes his studies for the General Education Development (GED) and gets additional art training.

Platter also stressed that after Mitchell heard the news of the job offer he and his instructor established certain academic goals for his studies during the next month. "He reached those goals in one week," Platter noted.

HOLY COW! — The Garrett Holstein Club will have the opportunity to visit two outstanding Holstein farms during a tour to be held Friday, March 23. One of the farms that will be visited is Coldsprings Farms, located in Carroll County. Coldsprings is owned by Marlin and Kathy Hoff and has captured the Progressive Breeder Award three times in recent years. Pictured above is one of their prize Holsteins, Coldsprings Lender Kerk, who was awarded the coveted Gold Medal Dam designation by the Holstein Fresian Association. Kerk's physical type and conformation are outstanding for a Holstein dam - and that's no bull. All persons are invited to attend the special tour, and the Hoff's herd of 400 prize-winning cattle may leave some in udder disbelief.

Garrett Holstein Club Plans Tour

Oren Bender, representing the Garrett Holstein Club, has announced the club's annual dairy tour to be held Friday, March 23. The group will visit Marlin and Kathy Hoff at Coldsprings Farm, as well as John and Sharon Rinehart at Rinehart Farms, in Carroll County.

The group plans to leave Garrett County via a car caravan at 7 a.m. on that date. They will visit Coldsprings Farm at 10:30 a.m., eat a packed lunch at noon, and visit the Rinehart Farm at 1 p.m. Plans are to complete the four hour drive back to Garrett County in time to arrive in Oakland area at approximately 7 p.m.

One of the highlights of the tour will be the Coldsprings cattle, started in 1963 when the Hoffs purchased the home farm of 475 acres. In the beginning they milked 80 cows in a 30 cow stanchion set up.

In 1966 the Hoffs built a double eight herringbone parlor with free stall housing. Since the present parlor was installed, they have added weigh jars and automatic take-off devices which remove the milkers when the milk flow from the cow ceases.

Since June, 1978, the Hoffs milk 300 registered Holstein cows at the home farm, located near New Windsor, and 100 cows at a nearby farm which has a double-four herringbone milking parlor.

The present farming operation at Coldsprings Farms includes 1450 acres. Their 400 registered Holstein cows have a DHIR rolling herd average of 18,236 pounds of milk and 621 pounds of milk fat per cow on an annual basis. This high level of milk production is sustained on home grown corn, mixed corn, and protein supplement, fed with corn silage.

The cows are divided into two milking groups according to their level of production. The herd is bred artificially, with the exception that the heifers are raised on several different farms and are bred to the Hoff's own select group of young sires.

The Coldsprings Holstein herd recently classified according to their type and physical conformation. The herd earned a Breed Average Adjusted score of 102.9, which is considerably above average for a herd of 400 registered cows.

The Coldsprings herd prefix has captured the Progressive Breeder Award at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium, three times in recent years. As a result of their conscientious program of planned matings, the Hoffs have over 25 bulls presently standing in various artificial breeding establishments throughout the United States.

To participate in the Garrett Holstein Club Tour, contact tour director, Oren Bender, or call the Extension Office at 334-2145. This educational event is co-sponsored by the Holstein Club and the Garrett County Extension Service and all persons are welcome to attend.

Cancer Crusade Chairman Named

Mrs. Pauline Parrack, Oakland, and Mrs. Violet Reichenbecher, Keysers Ridge, have been named Crusade Chairpersons of the Garrett County American Cancer Society's Units 1979 educational fund-raising Cancer Crusade, slated to begin April 1.

As ACS volunteers, Mrs. Parrack and Mrs. Reichenbecher said, "This April ACS volunteers here in Garrett County will be contacting their friends, neighbors and business associates to offer practical and helpful information about cancer. They will be part of a team of some two million ACS volunteers nationwide who will use facts about cancer to help save lives."

"The purpose of the Crusade is two-fold," Mrs. Parrack said. "Fund raising is important, but so is cancer prevention. We'll use this contact with the public to teach facts about cancer. We will distribute a brand new leaflet with the headline "You Do Make a Difference." Thirteen million copies of this leaflet will be given away this year. It tells how lifestyles and health care can influence the outcome of cancer.

"We certainly know that we could save thousands of cancer patients with the knowledge we have today — if everyone understood the importance of actually preventing some cancers, or starting treatment early when the chance of success is greatest."

The Garrett County Crusade also will raise funds needed to support the many ACS programs.

"When people think of the American Cancer Society, they think of research, the fight against cigarettes, or perhaps programs to convince women to protect themselves against breast or uterine cancer," Mrs. Reichenbecher added. "We do all of these things and more. One-quarter of our money goes to the support of cancer research."

Another area of ACS work involves hundreds of public education programs held in schools, social clubs and in industrial settings, to teach people how to safeguard their lives from cancer.

Many Hearing Problems Can Be Helped.

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 8424, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Skipper, Livingston Vows Exchanged

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Skipper, Swanton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Paula Marie Skipper, to Joe Penrod Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Livingston, Frostburg.

The double ring ceremony was performed on October 7 at 2 p.m. at the United Methodist Church in McHenry by Rev. Galen Hixon. Music was provided by Mrs. Ruth Warnick, organist, and Mrs. Shirley Fitzwater, pianist, who also sang a duet, "There Is Love."

Given in Marriage and escorted to the alter by her father, the bride wore a long sleeved white double knit gown accented with a lace cape and lace mantilla. Her only jewelry was her mother's pearl earrings. She carried a bouquet of fall flowers, pompons and daisies with baby's breath. The streamers were made of flowers.

The bride chose as her maid of honor, her cousin, Mrs. Dawna Kestner. Her gown was golden yellow with an empire waist, accented with lace at the waist and cuffs. The bridesmaids were Evelyn Livingston, sister of the groom, whose gown was rust color trimmed with lace, and Juanita Sue Skipper, sister of the bride, whose gown was coral color, accented with lace. Their head pieces consisted of bows made with ribbon to match the colors of their gowns and they wore neck bands of the same colors, accented with a butterfly. They carried nosegays of pompons and daisies with contrasting streamers.

The flower girl was Sherri Baker, niece of the groom. Her gown matched the gown of the maid of honor in color. She carried a basket of pompons and daisies.

All of the gowns were handmade by the mothers of the bride and groom and Mrs. Richard Skipper, sister-in-law of the bride.

The groom chose his brother, William Livingston, Jr., as his best man. Other attendants were John Baker, brother-in-law of the groom, and Kerry Livingston, cousin of the groom. They wore brown tuxedos with white ruffled shirts trimmed in brown.

Jay Kestner, cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer. Michael Cook and Timothy Skipper served as seating ushers.

Miss Helen Bittinger attended the guest book and helped with the gift corner.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the social hall of the church. Mrs. Ray Martin catered the event.

The couple took a short trip to Washington, D. C. They now reside in Frostburg.

Mrs. Livingston is employed at the Barton Branch of the First National Bank of Oakland. Mr. Livingston is employed by Burrough Corp.

Weisberg

WILLIS — What happens now that the Congressional Assassination Committee is done. . .

WEISBERG — They're not quite done. We don't know what they're going to publish yet. I think that the worst consequence is going to be more reason for people to be disenchanted with government. I don't think they're going to have any great degree of credibility.

WILLIS — Howard Donahue, a Baltimore gunsmith, theorizes that the fatal shot which killed JFK came from a secret service man's automatic weapon. Supposedly it may have discharged when the guard heard the first shots and stood up in one of the cars behind Kennedy, to determine where the shots came from.

WEISBERG — Yes, the "Marksman (theory)". I think it's an outrage. First of all, it's physically impossible. If the man knew anything about the undisputed facts of the crime, he'd know that that was an impossibility. Second of all, there are pictures that prove it was impossible.

WILLIS — What about theories that state there were gunmen who fired at President Kennedy from the sewers at Dealey Plaza in Dallas?

WEISBERG — There's a very strange situation on Dealey Plaza, which was originally flat as a pancake, when they created the triple underpass — the purpose of which was to eliminate an enormous grade crossing. They excavated. In the course of the excavation, which led to the triple underpass and the decline, and the two grassy knolls . . . there was still an enormous flat area of the railroad yards and of a very large parking area. And what was going to happen to all the water that fell when it rained? So you have something that I have never seen any place else . . . two sewer inlets, one of which is immediately behind the picket fence and one of which is adjacent to the railroad tracks nearby. Each one of them is 30 inches . . . more than big enough for a man to get into. The one behind the picket fence would have made an ideal place for a man to hide, or an ideal place to drop a weapon.

WILLIS — What about the fact that many witnesses testified that the shots came from the grassy knoll which would have been to the front right side of the President's limousine . . . particularly the testimony of S. M. Holland who testified that he heard shots and a "puff of smoke" come from behind a fence at the area referred to as "the grassy knoll?"

WEISBERG — Yes, the puff of smoke and things like that . . . could be innocent — and I'm aware of it. There's a steam-pipe there. When I saw the steam-pipe, it was well-wrapped with insulation, and I can't imagine any steam getting out of it. I don't know.

WILLIS — Most gunpowder is smokeless, and has been for quite awhile. . .

WEISBERG — It depends on what you use. I don't think that all powder is completely smokeless. Besides, you've got something else. What happens if you've got a well-oiled rifle? What happens to the oil? It burns.

WILLIS — I once saw a picture of some men who had been arrested on board a freight train and marched into the Dallas Police Department headquarters. According to the caption below the picture, the men were arrested, questioned, and released — but no arrest records were on file, and no one remembered them. They were referred to as the "railroad tramps," and theorists suspect a connection between them and the assassination.

WEISBERG — They were not arrested at the scene of the crime. They were not arrested — and it would have been impossible for them to shoot from where they were picked up. You have never heard anything truthful about these people if it had to do with any kind of involvement. They were taken off of a railroad car which was not in Dealey Plaza at the time of the crime. It was a freight car, behind the Central Annex Post Office, an hour and a half or so after the crime.

WILLIS — Is it on the other side of the triple underpass?

WEISBERG — No, it's on the same side of the triple underpass, but it is to the south. It is a good three blocks away from the Texas School-book Depository Building, and the scene of the crime.

WILLIS — A woman testified that on the morning of the assassination, she drove through Dealey Plaza enroute to work and that a truck stopped in front of her, before the triple underpass, and also that a man got out and walked towards the grassy knoll area. She testified the man was carrying what appeared to be a rifle in a case. She stated that she then pulled up along side of the truck and looked the driver directly in the face. She identified the driver later as being Jack Ruby and made this identification following Ruby's arrest for the killing of Oswald.

WEISBERG — I don't believe it. . . I think people car fabulate. There's a lot of that.

WILLIS — The House Assassinations Committee recently gave a tape recording of the assassination events in Dealey Plaza to acoustic experts for analysis. The recording was made by a police motorcycle patrolman's radio being left in the transmit position, and the tape was recorded at police headquarters, where all radio communications are taped. The acoustic experts testified that their tests indicated four shots had been fired, according to the analysis of that tape.

WEISBERG — That's a funny one. The House Committee had set out. . . to put down all criticism and all critics. This was to be the ultimate putdown. When they gave it to a reputable organization to check, they expected it to come back as disproof . . . they were shocked when it came back another way, and they suddenly realized this was the one thing that could save them from total bankruptcy.

WILLIS — Prior to that, I heard on the news that there was a picture of the School-book Depository Building that showed two men in the window.

WEISBERG — Absolutely true . . . I got the information on that picture in one of the lawsuits I mentioned before. There was a man named Bronson, the FBI saw his pictures and filed a report that never got to Washington, in which they said they had seen the pictures and they don't even show the building. The FBI knew about pictures that the Dallas Field Office never told Washington about. Bronson was only one such case.

WILLIS — Is there one particular document or piece of information that you consider a focal point of your work. Is there anything so surprising, that nobody else has?

WEISBERG — Well, that's been true of most of what I publish, but once I published it, it wasn't true. Take for example the official death certificate that never surfaced in the official investigation, and disproved the entire official story of the assassination.

WILLIS — You're referring to JFK's autopsy report?

WEISBERG — No, I'm talking about Admiral Burkley's certificate of death which I reproduced in facsimile in "Post Mortem."

WILLIS — He was the naval officer that oversaw the autopsy?

WEISBERG — He was the only doctor in the world who was in the Dallas Emergency Room and the Bethesda Hospital — and he placed the location at which the wound in the President's rear, the non-fatal wound, said to have been in the neck, at the level of the third thoracic vertebra.

WILLIS — That's the wound they said was an entry wound?

WEISBERG — That's right.

WILLIS — Who was Commander Humes?

WEISBERG — He was a liar.

WILLIS — Was he the one who burned the original autopsy notes, according to his testimony?

WEISBERG — He didn't burn the original autopsy notes. He burned the original draft of the autopsy. And you will read, if you read "Post Mortem," that he didn't do that until after he knew Oswald was dead. Then his handwritten version was edited at the Navy hospital, in his handwriting. When that wasn't adequate, they made other changes.

WILLIS — Why do these people who have since been proven liars, not been reprimanded or made to answer?

WEISBERG — Nobody wants to. They had Humes before the House Assassinations Committee. They knew he was a lyer, and all they did was give him a chance to make excuses. They never asked him a single question of any consequence . . . now you understand what concerns me. What this really means is that there is this invisible thread hanging over every President at any time. He may feel called upon, in the interest of the nation, to make a decision that he thinks may be unpopular among powerful forces.

WILLIS — He won't do it?

WEISBERG — He's going to think twice if he does.

WILLIS — The presidents must be aware of who these forces are, to some extent.

WEISBERG — I don't think so. I don't think anybody knows.

WILLIS — Why do so many of the assassination theorists start off responsibly and then get off the right track?

WEISBERG — Because they get lost. They get bogged down in their own theorizing. There is no way not to get lost in any of these cases if you're a theorist.

WILLIS — That is why you avoid being a theorist?

WEISBERG — Well, partly. Partly because it's not my way. But I avoid it knowingly because I know it is one way not to be responsible. Now that doesn't mean that I don't give a lot of thought to possibilities. And I do a lot of theorizing when it comes to how I'm going to get evidence, and where it's hidden. But that's a different kind of theorizing. That's really analysis.

 WILLIS — You have, for the most part, completely disproven the Warren Commission's official report. Yet they must have had a lot of confidence in themselves if they thought they could prefabricate so many lies and get away with it. . .

WEISBERG — It wasn't so much that they had confidence in themselves . . . they did whatever they could to make their preconception appear to be tenable, and one of the means by which they were able to do this was to operate entirely in secrecy.

WILLIS — What do you think will happen in the future regarding these investigations? Is there anyone who will continue doing what you are doing?

WEISBERG — I am, as long as I live . . . remember that all sorts of variants of this are possible — and remember that my work focuses on the integrity of our society and the functioning or nonfunctioning of basic institutions. I'm not pursuing a "whodunnit," and I can conceive of how that could be quite appropriate or how people might regard it as inappropriate.

Now you'll find that there is a place in "Post Mortem," where in legalistic language, the Department of Justice actually told the court that I know more about the Kennedy assassination and its investigation than anybody in the FBI. They didn't intend it as a compliment. It is the world's most unusual response to a charge that an FBI agent committed perjury. A truthful charge and an unrelieved perjury.

(Copyright James C. Willis, 1979. Research and interviewing assistance provided by Douglas R. Railey and Terry R. Helbig).

Harold Weisberg is probably, at this moment, sorting through his many thousands of documents, organizing, analyzing, and making introductory notes. It is not at all unlikely that his wife, Lillian, is equally busy typing, duplicating, and indexing. Out of this prodigous effort may come another book to add to his collection of eight published documentaries.

While others attempt to prove who killed President Kennedy, Weisberg is proving who did not. While he attacks the integrity of our institutions, he adds an assurance to his own.

His is not a happy pursuit, and many of its rewards are purely personal.

As John P. Roche, author of "Sentenced to Life," said in that book's dedication to Harold Weisberg ". . . in his distinctive fashion, taught me — in the words of The Preacher — that 'in much wisdom is much grief; and he that increaseth knowledge, increaseth sorrow.' "

Note: Harold Weisberg's books are available from the author by writing, Harold Weisberg, Route 12, Frederick, Md. 21701.

National Wildlife Week Slated For March 18-24

By Al Bourgeois
District Wildlife Manager

"Conserve Our Wildlife" is the theme of the 42nd annual National Wildlife Federation from March 18-24. This year's theme emphasizes the meaning of conservation — "planning for the future, knowing the needs of people and wildlife and working to make sure those needs are met. It means using our natural resources wisely."

Many species of wildlife have benefitted from wise conservation and wildlife management. Species such as the beaver, wild turkey, pronghorn antelope, trumpeter swan, sea otter, American alligator, and wood duck were once thought to be on the verge of extinction. However, through restrictions on hunting, establishment of refuges, reintroduction into unoccupied habitats, and numerous other wildlife management practice these species were able to recover and are now found in abundant numbers across North America.

Today, most states throughout this country boast of stable, healthy deer populations, in the face of increasing human populations and loss of habitat. In fact, there are probably more deer today than there were at the turn of the century. Sound wildlife management and increased cutting of forestlands have combined to create ideal habitat conditions for deer. Similar stories can be told for many other game and non-game wildlife species — bluebirds, ruffed grouse, and Canada geese, for example.

Observance of National Wildlife Week was begun in 1938 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt because of concern over "loss of wildlife habitat." Ironically, destruction of habitat is still the biggest problem facing our wildlife today. It is estimated that we lose five percent of our wildlife habitat every year to shopping centers, industrial parks, housing developments, etc.

This type of habitat loss is difficult to stop, but its effects can be minimized if wildlife species are considered when planning construction. Indeed, many wildlife species (deer, squirrel, rabbits, songbirds) have adapted well to man's intrusions. Wildlife managers recognize that simple management recommendations when incorporated into land development plans can benefit wildlife in the area and continue to support viable populations. For example, planting shrubs and trees that provide both food and cover as windbreaks; stabilizing roads, ditches and banks with grasses that are preferred by wildlife; or restricting mowing of idle fields or similar areas to provide nesting cover.

Everyone can have a share in conserving wildlife, whether hunters and fishermen, or just wildlife enthusiasts. Around the home, one can build birdhouses, winter feed songbirds, or set aside a little area for wildlife by planting the proper shrubs and providing water to drink. In the community, persons can voice their opinions against projects that will destroy valuable wildlife habitats and actively support sound wildlife management programs.

Modern wildlife management recognizes that man and wildlife can co-exist and thrive, if a few basic steps are followed to maintain or improve the capability of the land to support wildlife.

During National Wildlife Week the Maryland Wildlife Administration of the Department of Natural Resources will be attempting to present this message to the public. Wildlife personnel will be available anytime to talk to social, civic, sportsmen, or other interested groups on the future of wildlife and how everyone can help.

Inquiries in Garrett County should be directed to Al Bourgeois, at the Mt. Nebo office, 334-4255. In Allegany county call Tom Mathews at the Billmeyer office, 478-2525.

Small Business Workshop Slated

The Institute for Small Business at Frostburg State College and the Department of Community Services at Allegany Community College will co-sponsor a "Pre-Business Workshop" on March 30 at ACC's Continuing Education Building, Room 14.

The workshop is a one-day program for men and women who are considering starting a new business, buying an already existing business or anyone who may have done so in the past six months. The workshop has been continuing to draw large numbers of people and those who have attended found the program to be very informative. Topics to be covered at the workshop include success factors, starting, buying or franchising, site selection, business insurance, image and marketing, sources of capital, loan applications, sole proprietorship, partnership or corporation, and recordkeeping.

The registration fee will be $7.00 by March 21, and $8.00 at the door.

The Institute for Small Business was founded as a community service of Frostburg State College's Center for Management Development in August, 1973. Since then, almost 3,000 existing or prospective small businesses have received assistance.

The Institute operates walk-in counseling centers at Frostburg State, Allegany Community College, Hagerstown Chamber of Commerce, and Garrett Community College's Oakland Center.

The center at ACC represents the newest addition to the walk-in network. Service there is provided every Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The service is offered five days a week in Frostburg and on a one-day-a-week basis at the other sites.

Persons desiring additional information on the workshop or the services of the Institute should call 301-689-4417.

On this day in history:

In 1743, the first town meeting in America was held in Boston.

In 1812, the U.S. government authorized issue of the first war bonds. They were floated to buy military equipment for use against the British.

In 1947, military and naval bases in the Philippines were leased to the United States for 99 years.

In 1964, Jack Ruby was found guilty of murder in the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President John F. Kennedy. Ruby was sentenced to death but the conviction was overturned, and he died while awaiting a new trial.

A thought for the day: Scientist-Inventor Albert Einstein said, "The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mysterious. It is the source of all true art and science."

Social Security Card Applicants Require Proof

People who anticipate that they or their children will need social security numbers in the near future might well take some time to get together the evidence they will need when they apply, Frank Tomko, Asst. District Manager, social security office in Cumberland, said recently.

Everyone, no matter how young or old, must furnish evidence of age, identity, and U. S. citizenship or lawful admission status when applying for a social security number. In addition, a person 18 or older must apply in person.

It is a good idea to apply well before the number is needed, Mr. Tomko said, since it takes about 6 weeks to receive the number after the necessary evidence is submitted.

Only original or certified copies of documents should be submitted. Photocopies are not acceptable, and documents are subject to verification. A birth certificate or church record of baptism recorded before a person's fifth birthday is preferred as proof of a person's age and place of birth for people born in the U. S. Other documents can be used if these are not available.

Evidence of identity should show the person's name and signature or photograph. Naturalized U. S. citizens should show their citizenship papers. Non U. S. citizens should show their immigration papers.

Mr. Tomko said that if parents are having trouble getting evidence of identity for young children, they might consider clinic or doctor's records, vaccination certificates, day care or nursery school records, insurance policies, or church school records as possible sources.

The leaflet, "Applying for social security number," lists many different proofs that can be used. A copy of this leaflet can be obtained at the social security office at 316 Paca Street, Cumberland.

Anyone wishing to file for any other benefits, such as social security retirement, survivors or disability benefits, Medicare, Supplemental Security Income or Black Lung Benefits, or anyone wishing free information or free pamphlets on these programs, should telephone the social security office at 724-0970.

The Cumberland office is open Monday through Friday, except National Holidays, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

"Give your enthusiasm to everybody".

Sugar seems to be a current diet controversy. Evidence of this is shown in the amount of literature that I have been receiving and in the number of consumer questions asked on the topic. Therefore, I felt that my readers might be interested in some current information on sugar. Pamphlets from the Quaker Oats Company and the Cereal Institute were used as references in this article.

Believe it or not, in examining other countries around the world, it was found that many have an equivalent per capita consumption of sucrose close to that of the United States. This sugar consumption pattern is also found in the Iron Curtain Countries where there is no TV advertising for sugared products.

When we begin discussing TV advertisement, presweetened cereals quickly come to mind. Of course, with the wide concern over the nutritional safety of this product, consumers, as well as producers have been interested in discovering the facts behind this matter. Research has been done on this topic. On February 13th, results of a study done by Custom Research, Inc., a market research organization, were released. The results showed that children who have a presweetened cereal for breakfast are probably eating less sugar than those who have regular cereal to which they add sugar themselves.

This study was done with over 1,000 children across the U.S. It was found that children generally added more sugar to unsweetened cereal (which also often listed sugar as an ingredient on the label) than the amount of sugar that was added to the pre-sweetened cereals by manufacturers. Manufacturers are much more precise in the amount of sugar they add to cereal as compared to children who have the sugar bowl placed in front of them.

From this research, we see that pre-sweetened cereals are not as dangerous as previously thought. Actually only two percent of cane and beet sugar consumed in our American diet comes directly from breakfast cereals. Here's an interesting fact: of the six leading cereals consumed by children, only two are presweetened.

Although many opinions exist about sugar's place in our diet, the following facts may help you in formulating your own realistic opinion:

—Sugar is a substance found naturally in a wide variety of plant foods. The body cannot distinguish between sugar that comes from the sugar bowl and sugar as it exists naturally in fruits and vegetables.

—Sugars contain virtually no nutrient other than carbohydrate.

—Sugar's physical and chemical properties make it extremely useful in the preparation of a wide variety of foods by both the food industry and the household user.

—Sugar aids in palatability of many foods.

—The Life Sciences Research Office of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in a 1976 report to the FDA concluded that there was no evidence that sucrose was a cause of cancer, fetal abnormalities, athereosclerosis or diabetes.

This report essentially clears sucroseas a health hazard, other than in connection with dental caries, about which the report emphasized, "The magnitude of the effect is complex and depends on frequency of consumption, duration of exposure, the form in which sucrose is fed, and the nature of other materials eaten with sucrose."

FOOD NOTES:

Here is a recipe that uses MASTER MIX (from last week's article).

BANANA BREAD

2½ cups Master Mix
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoonsful lemon juice
½ cup chopped nuts
1 cup banana

Stir into Mix the sugar. Add eggs and mashed ripe bananas and lemon juice, beat until smooth. Stir in nuts, pour into a greased bread pan and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or longer. May need to be covered with foil during last minutes of baking to keep it from getting too brown. Yield: one loaf.

More Tax Questions Are Answered By Louis L. Goldstein

There are changes in the Maryland income tax forms now being filed that affect about one in every five State taxpayers and will result in a total tax savings of approximately $25 million. Working parents and others who pay for dependent care costs are one group that benefits by the changes, and following are questions and answers concerning their tax situation. The following questions were received and answered by Maryland Comptroller, Louis L. Goldstein.

Q. What exactly does Maryland's new child or dependent care costs deduction allow?

A. This year, for the first time, working parents and others can deduct actual child or dependent care costs on their Maryland return to a maximum of $2,000 for one child or $4,000 for two or more children.

Q. Does this differ in any way from the child or dependent care tax credit I claimed on my Federal return?

A. Yes, it does. This is a tax deduction, not a tax credit, as allowed on the Federal return.

Q. How do I know if I qualify for this deduction?

A. You must meet the same requirements as for the Federal child or dependent care tax credit, which are explained on Federal form 2441.

Q. How many Marylanders can benefit from this new deduction?

A. This change should save approximately $8 million for 30,000 Maryland taxpayers, with a maximum tax savings of $150 for one dependent and $300 for two or more.

Q. If I don't itemize deductions on my Maryland tax return, can I still benefit from this change in the law?

A. Yes, you can still claim this deduction even if you don't itemize on your Maryland return. It appears on Schedule D on the back of the Maryland form 502.

Q. Do I need any forms in addition to the Maryland form 502 to claim the child or dependent care deduction?

A. Yes, a completed Federal form 2441 must accompany the 502 if taxpayers wish to claim this deduction on their State return, since Maryland law uses the information on that form. The Federal form 2441 is available along with all Maryland tax forms at every Maryland State Income Tax Office.

Q. Where can I get help in understanding this and other changes in the Maryland income tax laws?

A. Help with this and other items is available from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at all eleven permanent offices of the Maryland Income Tax Diviston. Taxpayers who want their returns filled out free of charge should bring their completed Federal form and all W-2 statements to one of the offices. Questions are also answered by telephone. A list of the offices is on the back of the Maryland tax packet. You can also find them in the telephone directory.

YAF To Sponsor Film Festival

A Double-feature Film Festival to include The Eldridge Cleaver Story and The price of Peace and Freedom is scheduled for Saturday, March 17 at 7:30 p.m. at Mt. Top Christian Assembly located one mile east of Mt. Lake Park on Route 135.

The main feature of the evening will be The Eldridge Cleaver Story. Eldridge Cleaver was hoodlum who spent 15 years behind bars but it took the assassination of Martin Luther King to make him a revolutionary. Charged on six counts of assault after an April 1968 Black Panther shoot-out with the police, he jumped bail and fled the United States rather than face another possible prison term. Exile in Algeria plus visits to Cuba and other Communist countries convinced him that dictatorship, whatever the form, was wrong. Following his conversion to Christianity, Cleaver returned to the U. S. and surrendered to federal officials.

The double-feature will be sponsored by Young Americans for Freedom, the nation's largest conservative youth organization which has two chapters in Garrett County.

Delegate Byrnes Favors Repeal Of Cycle Helmet Law

Delegate William B. Byrnes (Chairman, Allegany County Delegation) said recently that he has given his support to House Bill 161 during a recent voting session in the House Judiciary Committee, of which he is a member. HB 161 provides that only persons under the age of 18 are required to wear protective headgear (helmets) while riding on or operating a motorcycle.

In making his announcement, Byrnes said, "Last year and every year that the question of the mandatory helmet law has come up, I have consistently voted against it. I have always felt that whether to wear a helmet, or not, should be left up to the discretion of the operator of the motorcycle. If an adult wishes to endanger his life by riding a motorcycle without protective headgear, that should be his business. "However," he continued, "some minors do not always use the best judgment and I would hate to see one of them injured because he was not fully protected, and that is one of the primary reasons I have favored this bill."

The Delegate went on to say that he thinks we already have too many laws and mandatory regulations on the books and "will be happy to see this one removed!"

PRECESSION

Precession is the conical motion to the axis of the rotation of the spinning earth, or of any spinning object such as a top. It occurs to earth because the earth's axis of rotation is tilted 23½ degrees relative to the perpendicular to the plane of earth's orbit around the sun. Gravitational forces of the sun and the moon on the earth's equatorial bulge cause the precession of the axis.

MOON

Moonrise will be at 7:18 this evening. No phase of the moon will occur this week. At the end of the week the moon will rise at 18 minutes after midnight on Tuesday.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn will be visible at a glance this week. Venus, rising about 1½ hours prior to the sun, is very bright in the predawn sky. Jupiter is almost half-way across the sky at sunset. It is among the stars of Cancer. Saturn rises shortly prior to sunset with the stars of Leo. It will be visible most of the night.

DAYLIGHT INCREASES

This 73rd day of the year finds the altitude of the sun about equal to that of the last week in September. By Tuesday, 15 minutes more daylight will available. Sunrise was at 6:31 this morning. Sunset will be 11 hours 51 minutes later at 6:22 p.m. At the end of the week sunrise will be at 6:22 a.m. Sunset will be at 6:28 p.m.

MV Administrator Says "Mail Early And Avoid Rush"

Adopting the postal service's perennial slogan, Motor Vehicle Administrator William T. S. Bricker today urged motorists to mail early and avoid the rush."

"It's a lot easier and considerably less taxing on the nerves and pocketbook to invest in a fifteen-cent postage stamp when applying for tag renewal stickers. Renewal stickers are returned by first class mail virtually overnight and I urge motorists to use the mails, especially this year. Mail applications should be posted no later than March 20 to assure that renewal stickers are received by the March 31 deadline," he stated.

The Administrator noted, "This year poses a particular problem because of the recent snow and a state holiday, we are behind last year's receipt of applications although the renewals are being processed on a timely basis. Perhaps more significant is the fact that parking facilities are extremely limited at some MVA locations. Subway construction is underway at our Baltimore (Mondawmin) office and a new data processing center is under construction at Glen Burnie. To further complicate matters, all state offices will be closed Monday, March 26, in observance of Maryland Day, and the last day for purchasing stickers is March 30. The legal deadline for displaying new stickers is March 31, a Saturday, and all MVA offices will be closed."

Because of Maryland Day, and in anticipation of the last minute rush, driver testing at all MVA permanent branch facilities will be suspended on March 29 and 30. Learner's permits expiring March 24, 25, and 26 will be honored on March 27, and those expiring March 29 and 30 will be accepted for testing on April 2 and 3, Mr. Bricker noted. Neither change will affect the issuance of photo-renewal driver licenses or the regular schedule of road crews.

Under Maryland law, 1979 renewal stickers must be displayed on all cars, station wagons and motorcycles by midnight, Saturday, March 31. Motorists are reminded all outstanding parking tickets and equipment repair orders that have been flagged at the request of the various cities and counties and the State Police for delinquency, must be satisfied before renewal stickers can be issued.

PUBLIC NOTICES

The Lord is my shepherd, I am at rest, there's nothing I need, I've passed the test. He maketh me to lie down in pastures so green, He leadeth me beside the still waters so clean. He restoreth my soul, I've reached my goal. I've walked through the valley of the shadow of death, and He held to my hand, I was not afraid, for I was with The Man. I'm at a banquet table, with friend on each side, my cup runneth over, joy I cannot hide. I'm happy in heaven, this city of gold, and I'm waiting for my sheep to come into the fold. So we may dwell altogether, in the house of the Lord forever.
